"I knew it," exclaimed the young man. "And some good fairy enchanted you and made you into a real little girl with a curious expression. I know all about it, because I've been looking for your expression for a long time. So I think my good fairy put you right there where you are."

Trudie, to be quite candid, did not know what he was talking about. So she looked at him, blankly, the quaint, wistful look entirely gone from her wide blue eyes.

"Now you've gone and lost it," the young man said, half impatiently. "Just when I'd found you. Now tell me, of what were you thinking when I spoke to you just now?"

"I was wishing I had a friend," said Trudie.

"Exactly. And why, pray, haven't you a friend? I suppose you havn't been a real little girl long enough to make many friends—that must be the reason."

"No, it isn't," said Trudie, eagerly. "You see, I'm the janitor's little girl and the boys and girls don't want to play with me."

"How unfortunate—for the other boys and girls. It seems to me I'd rather like to play with you."

"That's what the Duchess says," Trudie informed him, quaintly. "She says she likes to play with me a lot."

"The Duchess?" asked the young man.

"Why, that's my friend—Mrs. Tompkins, upstairs on the second floor. Only I call her the Duchess, just in a game."

"It is a nice game, I'm sure. I wonder if you'll let me have an audience with the queen mother?"

"I'll see," smiled Trudie, shyly, and disappeared down the steps to call her mother.

Mrs. Gray came out with her gingham apron tied around her waist and a bit of mending in her hand—she was always mending.

"What do you wish?" asked Mrs. Gray, for the young man stood with his hat in his hand, as if he didn't know just what to say.

"I wanted to see you," he began, lamely, "because I want to borrow your little girl sometime."

Mrs. Gray smiled wanly.

"She's borrowed most of the time now," she explained. "One of the people in the house has taken a fancy to Trudie and has her a good deal. Why do you want to borrow Trudie?"

"Well, you see, I'm an artist—a portrait painter, and I have been hunting all over for a good subject for a 'longing' I want to paint. Just as I came along the street your little girl seemed to have the exact expression I want—wistful, longing, lonely. If you would bring her to my studio a few times I think you will not be sorry."

"You want to paint Trudie?" asked Mrs. Gray in surprise. "Why on earth do you select Trudie? There are lots of other children."

"Yes," said the young man, "but other children are not like this little girl. She has—pardon me, if I seem too candid, but she has curiously fine eyes—just the color all painters love, and besides, her face is strangely expressive. It is almost as if she were listening to sweet music inside her head—or perhaps fairy stories telling themselves to her."

"[illegible] fanciful child," Mrs. [illegible], looking at Trudie, [illegible] had scarcely understood a word of what the young man had said.

"It is easy to tell that. And even though you are her mother, you can scarcely know how rare such a face is. We artists hunt for that sort, and it isn't often we are fortunate enough to find it. The professional models never have it—and that is way I have been so bold as to stop right here now that I have so perfect a face, and ask you to let me borrow her and try to put it on canvas. I will give you all sorts of references, if you wish them"—the young man smiled.

He was indeed quite a famous artist, son of a still more famous painter. He had studied in Rome and Florence and Paris, and some of his pictures hung in splendid palaces, even though he was still young. So he smiled when he thought that his name would mean nothing at all to Mrs. Gray, and that he would have to furnish a certificate of good character, like any ordinary servant. But Mrs. Gray was thinking fast.

"Good-by, fairy princess," he called after the little girl, who watched him go down the street with that curious, wistful look in her eyes. "Some day people will be wondering if there ever was a truly little girl with fairy eyes. Good-by."

Mrs. Tompkins returned in a few days afterward, and the event was celebrated by a dainty tea party in the sunny library, at which the duchess played hostess and the Princess Bee and the Queen Mother were the guests of honor. Mrs. Gray had donned her one pretty dress—a sprigged muslin which Trudie thought the most wonderful creation for a Queen Mother, and Trudie looked quite grand and fine in a new pique frock.

You may be sure it wasn't long before Mrs. Tompkins had heard all about the strange request of the strange young man to borrow the Princess Bee. Then Mrs. Gray handed over the card which the man had given her.

"'Gerald Howe,'" repeated Mrs. Tompkins. "Are you quite sure you have it right?"

Mrs. Tompkins was vastly excited.

"Why, everybody knows the Howe family—they are all painters, father and mother and son, and they are famous. Gerald Howe—do you happen to know he has been hung in the Paris Salon?"

"Mercy!" cried Mrs. Gray and Trudie's eyes filled with horror. Her nice young man hung—anywhere at all.

"Why, what's the matter? Oh, to be sure—well, if a painter gets his picture selected to hang in the Salon, you may be sure he is all right, that he has arrived, as the boys say. So Gerald Howe wants to paint my little princess girl? I wonder why?"

"He said my eyes were odd," announced Trudie.

"He said," Mrs. Gray took up the tale, "that they looked as if she was hearing music inside her head, or that fairy stories were telling themselves."

Mrs. Gray really did not know what the artist meant when he had said that. But Mrs. Tompkins did. She laughed gaily and clapped her hands.

So it was arranged, and one bright day Mrs. Tompkins ordered her automobile to come and take them away to the Howe studio. Mrs. Gray had washed Trudie's face until it shone, combed her bright curls and plastered them flat and neat, and dressed her in her stiff pique. Mrs. Tompkins had shook her head and said she was afraid their artist would not recognize the little fairy girl.

Such an afternoon! The studio was a wonderful place to the Princess Bee and her mother, and Mrs. Tompkins spent a great deal of time standing before great canvases, without frames, and talking to the young artist. He had welcomed them cheerily and had had a nice cup of tea for the ladies and a big glass of milk for the Princess, along with the most wonderful little cakes, all iced beautifully. But he shook his head over the clean dress, the neat curls and the shining face.

"I think," he said, "that I'll have to stroll down the street where the Princess lives some day when she's not receiving guests, and try to catch her with a tumbled halo of gold round her little flower face and with a dirty gingham dress on and wishing for a friend."

If it hadn't been for Mrs. Tompkins, I fancy the picture would never have been painted. But, with a great deal of arrangement and fussing and many surprises, it was finally accomplished, and when Trudie was at last allowed to look at the picture, she saw a rather untidy little maiden with rumpled hair, sitting on the sill of a little half window. She couldn't see anything odd about the eyes—they were big and blue, but when the Duchess looked at it she actually cried and by and by she said softly:

"And she's listening," said the artist, softly, "to the songs the fairy folk sing and which we never hear."

He called it "Zehnsucht" and sent it away to a great exhibition. A long time afterward there came a wonderful check, which meant a great deal of money, indeed, and which the artist said belonged to the little girl who posed for his masterpiece, and which was admired tremendously by everybody who saw it. Enclosed in the envelope with the check and the letter to Mrs. Gray, was a little note for Princess Bee:

"Please don't forget the fairy songs, for I'm coming back some day to hear them."

And so he did—but that is another story.—Newark Call.

The colored boy employed by a New York lady was named Lycurgus Jones. "Lycurgus is a rather long name," she said to him; "suppose I call you Gus for short." "Ah, doesn't like nicknames," he replied; "if you doesn't like Lycurgus, you kin call me Jonesey." She called him Lycurgus.

A good example of the extremely courteous in public correspondence was the notice sent to Charles James Fox that he was no longer a member of the government of George the Third. It read thus: "His gracious majesty has been pleased to issue a new commission, in which your name does not appear."

A distinguished bishop of the Episcopal Church arriving late at a small town one night, found the hotel closed, and hammering at the door for admission, a neighbor stuck his head out of an adjoining window with, "Say, stranger, knock like h—l!" to which the bishop replied: "I don't know how."

Dryden married Lady Elizabeth Howard, a shrew of marked ability. She complained that he showed her no attention, and wished herself a book that she might enjoy more of his society. "Wish yourself an almanac, my dear; then I could change you every year."

PLEA TO JOHNSON

Asked to Await Diplomatic Action on Land Bill

WILSON IN PERSONAL APPEAL

Telegram Signed by Secretary of State Bryan and Approved by the President Is Not Expected to Have Any Effect Upon Governor Johnson—Why It Was Sent.

Through the secretary of state, William J. Bryan, President Wilson appealed to Governor Johnson to postpone action upon the anti-alien land bill passed by the California legislature.

The president seeks delay avowedly to gain time for "diplomatic effort." If granted, he pledges himself to cooperate with California in a systematic endeavor "to discover and correct any evils that may exist in connection with land ownership by aliens."

The telegram signed by Mr. Bryan and approved by the president is not expected, even by administration officials, to have any effect upon Governor Johnson's decision to sign the bill. It was sent for the purpose of placing upon the California executive the responsibility for the unfortunate situation in the relations of the United States and Japan, which the enactment of the law will precipitate.

Avoid Reference to Treaty.

The president does not say that the bill is in contravention of the treaty existing between the United States and Japan. Indeed, he and the secretary of state ostentatiously avoid expressing any opinion on this point. They pass over it, first, because the bill is avowedly intended to conform to treaty obligations, and, second, because any conflict complained of would be a matter for the courts.

At the same time the seriousness of the Japanese protest, as well as a similar protest received from the Chinese government, forces the president to ask for time.

Text of Bryan Telegram.

Here is Secretary Bryan's telegram to Governor Johnson:

"Hon. Hiram W. Johnson,
Governor, Sacramento, Cal.

"The president directs me to express his appreciation of your courtesy in delaying action on the land bill now before you until its provisions could be communicated to the Japanese government and considered by it.

"His Excellency, Baron Chinda, on behalf of his government presented an earnest protest against the measure. As you have before you but two alternatives, viz: To approve or to veto, it will avail nothing to recall to your attention the amendments suggested to the legislature; and as the president has already laid before you his views upon the subject, it is unnecessary to reiterate them. He passes over the question affecting treaty rights for two reasons: First, because the bill passed by the legislature is avowedly intended to conform to treaty obligations, and, second, because any conflict complained of would be a matter for the courts, but the president feels justified in expressing again his desire that action on the subject be deferred for this session and he expressed the desire the more freely because the legislature can be reconvened at any time if the welfare of the state requires it. He is fully alive to the importance of removing any root of discord which may create antagonism between American citizens and the subjects of Oriental nations residing here, but he is impelled by a sense of duty to express the hope that you will see fit to allow time for diplomatic effort. The natoins as affected by the proposed law are friendly nations—nations that have shown themselves willing to co-operate in the establishment of harmonoius relations between their people and ours.

"If a postponement commends itself to your judgment, the president will be pleased to co-operate in a systematic effort to discover and correct any evils that may exist in connection with land ownership by aliens.

(Signed) "W. J. BRYAN."

SOLONS SEE RING BOUTS

All but four members of the Illinois legislature occupied ringside seats at the boxing show in Springfield. Governor Dunne could not be present. He was represented by all of his cabinet and most of the state officers Mayor Harrison and Corporation Counsel Sexton of Chicago were in the front row. Two of the missing legislators were senators and two were representatives, according to the check roll call kept.

Those who were there saw five rattling and rapid bouts. There was no bloodshed, except a nick administered by Representative George Hilton on the ear of Professor Peter Boyle. One thousand spectators cheered the show to a finish. The program was presented in behalf of the boxing bill now pending before the legislature. It was intended to show what may be expected if the bill becomes a law.

SIX DROWN AT WAUSAU

Four Men and Two Girls Victims of Hidden Pier.

The overturning of a motor boat at Wausau, Wis., late Sunday night, resulted in the death of six persons by drowning. The boat struck a "dead-head" and the rudder was broken, allowing the boat to drift helplessly against a submerged pier, which caused it to overturn.

CATTLE CREMATED

FARMERS GO TO THE RESCUE

Bellowing of the Frantic Animals Penned in the Blazing Cars Heard for Miles After the Accident Near Fort Wayne, Ind.—Brakeman Blown Off Roof of Car.

A bad wreck, in which a tank car filled with oil exploded just as a swiftly moving stock train was passing on an adjoining track, six miles east of Fort Wayne, Ind., caused a general tie-up for hours of through east and west bound traffic on the Pennsylvania lines.

Blazing Oil Fires Train.

The blazing oil fired the stock train, and before members of the car crews of both trains and firemen could extinguish the flames ten carloads of live stock had been burned to death. The bellowing of the panic stricken and frantic cattle was heard for miles and attracted many farmers, who fought the flames.

The animals plunged, gored, kicked and rushed against the side of the cars in desperate efforts to liberate themselves and escape the onrushing flames and the smoke.

Ten Cars of Stock Destroyed.

Before locomotives could be hitched to the cars to draw them away from the danger zone ten of the stock cars containing the cattle were destroyed.

Besides the brakeman who was injured in the wreck by being blown off a car, others had narrow escapes. Several car men and farmers suffered burns in attempt to extinguish the fire. A wreck train was sent from Fort Wayne, and succeeded in clearing the tracks after several hours' work. A number of trains were delayed by the wreck.

Fruit Badly Damaged.

Summarizing the fruit situation today after close examination of hundreds of orchards in the vicinity of South Haven, the best-posted men state that one half of the promised bumper crop of everything excepting late fall apples has been kiled by the freeze of Friday and Saturday. They estimate a half crop of early apples and peaches, three-fourths of later apples, full crop of fall apples. Early strawberries all gone, bumper later crop, one-third crop gooseberries and currants of later varieties. One-half to three-fourths crop late varieties pears, early gone. Higher prices are expected to make up for shortage in the crop. Smudging proved a failure in most places, the frost penetrating the orchards before they had been warmed. The wind maintained a steady north-northeast position, but went down before smudges built on the winward side of orchards had done their work. It moderated last night and small damage resulted.

Belle Barry Buried.

At the home of her half-brother, Llewellyn Howe, six miles north of Mason, the funeral of Miss Belle Barry was held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The body of the girl was brought from Detroit to the Howe home Saturday morning by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barry. Burial was in the Leeké cemetery, two miles from the home of Mr. Howe. The Rev. C. L. Beebe, pastor of the Mason M. E. church, officiated. Some uncertainty as to the time of the funeral lessened the attendance. The father returned to his home in Saginaw county Saturday night.

The roller skate "craze" is said to be on at Muskegon.

TWO STATES HEAVY LOSERS BY FROST

Maryland and Michigan Have Crops Ruined.

Reports just received in Washington from many of the large fruit and vegetable growing sections of the east, extending from Michigan to the Atlantic seaboard, indicate a widespread devastation through heavy frosts in the last few days. The latest and most unexpected news of blight from this source is from Maryland.

Reports received covering all sections of Maryland indicate that the frost of the last two nights has inflicted heavy damage to truck farmers. The tomato crop appears to be the hardest hit, although all kinds of vegetables suffered. In some of the counties the early peaches are reported killed.

From southwestern Michigan come reports that competent fruit growers declare that one-half of the promised bumper crop of everything but late fall apples was killed by the freeze of Friday and Saturday nights.

There will be no early strawberries or pears, they say, though the later varieties were less seriously affected. Smudging was resorted to in many places, but generally proved ineffectual. The damage along the Lake Michigan shore was less severe than in the interior.

Reports of lesser damage come from many other points.

COOK ASKS INVESTIGATION

Man Who Claims to Have Discovered Pole Appeals to Wilson.

Charging officials with a "propoganda of character assassination" and ridiculing the National Geographical society, Dr. Frederick A. Cook has written President Wilson, asking that a commission of polar explorers be appointed to investigate his claim and that of Admiral Peary to the discovery of the North Pole.

"The future of my children demands an exposition of the unfair methods of the armchair geographers in Washington," says Dr. Cook in a letter dated at Chicago. "However, I do not ask the administration to defend me or my posterity, but I do ask that the men who draw a salary from the national treasury he made answerable for a propaga[illegible] of character assassination.

ROLLER TOWELS AT CAPITOL

Roller Towel Will Be Abolished at Capitol Building and No More Dogs Will Be shot.

It has been a standing joke for several years that the state passed laws to protect the public health and then violated the statute by permitting the use of insanitary roller-towels right under the dome of the capitol.

Two reforms will be inaugurated by Charles S. Pearce when he assumes the office of superintendent of the capitol building Friday.

In the first place he will abolish the roller towels that have been in use since the building was erected, despite the fact that there is a state law against their use. Instead of the old-fashioned germ-spreading roller towels individual towels or patent paper toweling will be supplied.

For some time the capitol policemen have been shooting with air guns at dogs that ventured to play on the big lawn surrounding the state house. Vigorous protests have been made and threats of prosecution have been heard from owners whose dogs have been hit by the policemen. The new superintendent will abolish the air guns along with the roller towels, and as long as the dogs do not destroy the flower beds they will be allowed to play unmolested on the capitol lawn.

EXONERATION FOR BARRATT O'HARA

Investigators Not Inclined to Call More Witnesses.

Exoneration of Lieutenant Governor O'Hara of the charges made in an affidavit by Miss Maude A. Robinson of Springfield, Ill., is expected after an executive session of the Ettleson senatorial investigating committee here.

A report clearing the state official of the charges was forecast after a statement was made to that effect by a senator who has been actively engaged in the proceedings. He said just before the committee returned to Springfield that taking of testimony has been completed.

It was said that neither Thomas Vredenburgh, son of a Springfield millionaire, mentioned as a member of Miss Robinson's party, nor Samuel Davis, who was said to have instigated the affidavit, would be called. It was stated that the committee felt that enough evidence had been introduced to exonerate the lieutenant governor and that he was the only one they were interested in from an official standpoint.

SUFFRAGE BILL PASSES

Women Vote on All but Constitutional Offices.

At Springfield, Ill., the state senate passed the Magill bill for state wide suffrage for women on all except constitutional officers, by a vote of 28 to 15.

The bill appropriating $10,000 for the Butts voting machine investigation was advanced to third reading in the house.

The Gorman bill repealing the state civil service law was beaten in the house. A motion of Representative M. D. Hull of Chicago to strike ou tthe enacting clause was passed by a vote of 83 to 45.

NO WAR, SAYS BRYAN

Significant Statement by Bryan at Peace Meeting.

At Washington Secretary of State W. J. Bryan told the international gathering of Anglo-Saxon peace propagandists that there would be no war while he was secretary of state. The announcement came in the course of the after dinner speech of the secretary at the banquet in honor of the distinguished visitors.

This was the nearest reference made by the secretary to any policy of the administration and it was taken as a guarded reference to the alarmist reports in regard to Japan.

DELAYED LAWSUIT IS STARTED

After 17 years, the case of Sophia Turner against Congressman J. W. Fordney was commenced in the circuit court Monday at Saginaw.

Mrs. Turner, who resides in Marquette county, sets forth that she owned the timber on 260 acres of land in that county and that the congressman cuts the logs from it without authority. This action is claimed to have taken place in 1887. In 1896 suit was commenced in the Marquette circuit court, but service could not be made on Mr. Fordney. The suit was then transferred to this circuit.

Mrs. Turner asks $7 per thousand for the lumber. In the bill of complaint, Mrs. Turner says she owned nine-tenths of the logs as widow of Joseph Turner.

Obituary

Thomas Craig, jr., of Britton was born in Macon, Lenawee county, Mich. July 26, 1874. On May 2, 1913, he met with an accident, which immediately resulted in his death. He was aged 38 years His death came as a severe shock and a terrible blow to his dear ones and friends. His mother preceded him to the unseen shore October 10, 1910.

The bright expectations of life are so suddenly turned to sadness. He was ever ready with kind words and deeds, and never spoke wrong of anyone. But his in the truest sense was a beautiful and complete life. We can but think he has been welcomed by the Master with the "Well done, good and faithful servant," and has entered into the joy of that better world, for which we are all waiting and hoping. By his amiable, quiet, upright life he secured the esteem and confidence of all who knew him. He was an obedient son, a kind and affectionate brother, a kind friend to all, who will be sadly missed, not alone in the home, but among neighbors and friends for his many little acts of kindness. In death, like in his life, he was peaceful and beautiful. Time my heal the acute pain of parting but never the sorrow of seperation,

He leaves his father, six sisters, two brothers and a large circle of friends The funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, May 4, from the home, Rev. DeRemer officiating, and were attended by a large concourse of friends. His remains were laid to rest by the side of his mother in Evergreen cemetery, Ridgeway, amid a profusion of beautiful flowers, denoting the esteem in which he was held.

Leaves have their time to fall
And flowers to wither
At the north wind's breath.
And stars to set.
But ah, thou hast all seasons
For thine own! Oh, death

Charm in Small Courtesies.

Small kindnesses, small courtesies, small considerations, habitually practiced in our social intercouse, give a greater charm to our character than the display of great talents and accomplishments.

CHIROPRACTORS ARE FAVORED BY HOUSE

State Medical Society's Plan to Regulate Them Given a Hard Job.

LANSING, Mich., April 26.—A bill prepared under the auspices of the State Medical society, which in general terms would raise the standard for admission to practice medicine and surgery and in particular would give the state board of registration inmedicine control of those who heal by the chiropractic method, received a jolt in the house.

Some of the lawyer members of the house went after the bill with amendments when it was reached in committee of the whole. The amendments were all favorable to the chiropractors

The lawyer members insisted that the real purpose seemed to be to put the chiropractors out of busness and they urged that if they were going to be regulated they should give them a state board of their own.

Rep. Lee explained, when the amendments had been adopted and passed to third reading, that it would not only continue to leave the chiropractors outside of all state control, but would give them a legal standing which they now have not.

CONGRESSMAN YOUNG RESIGNS

House Will Decide If McDonald Is Entitled to Seat or Special Election May Result.

Congressman H. Olin Young of the Twelfth Michigan District resigned Saturday and an interesting situation now results as to who will next represent the Upper Peninsula in Congress.

Mr. Young announced his resignation at the end of a remarkable speech to the house, where he has served ten years. Rep. Mann secured unanimous consent for the address and it was dramatic. With tear-bedimmed eyes he closed: "And now, Mr. Speaker, the time has come when I must bid my friends in this house a final and affectionate adieu."

Mr. Young's seat was contested by Wm. J. MacDonald, the Progressive candidate who was refused a certificate of election because the ballot in Ontonagon county was printed inaccurately, technically deflecting 458 votes from MacDonald's total—enough to give Young the election.

The resignation of Young does not automatically give MacDonald the seat. The house will go ahead with the hearing of the contest, just as though a candidate had died or there had been no resignation.

The house can declare the seat vacant and leave a special election or regular election fill the vacancy. If the house should decide Young entitled to the seat he can withdraw his resignation.

Small boys playing with matches caused an explosion of a gasoline tank in a barn owned by Edwin Sprague of Battle Creek, destroying the barn and two houses owned by the same man. Captain N. J. Hicks of No. 1 fire station was injured when a hose slipped from the roof of the house, and the nozzle cut his face to the bone. He is now at Nichols hospital. The loss to Mr. Sprague is estimated at $3,000.

Fish of Peculiar Formation.

The New York Museum of Natural History the other day received from the remote regions of Gambia, West Africa, a living lung fish which lives underground. In a block was a small tunnel-like opening, an air cell for the dormant fish.

COMING BACK

Remarkable Success of These Talented Physicians in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases.
Offer their Services Free of Charge for the Last Time.

The United Doctors, licensed by the State of Michigan for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered, that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted, with long-standing, deep-seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter, piles, etc. By their method these diseases are treated without operation or hypodermic injection.

They were among the first in America to earn the name of "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with the knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two-ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit at this time may help you.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment, consult them upon this visit. It costs you nothing.

Remember, this last free offer is for this visit only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

KEEPS THE KIDNEYS WELL

Many Tecumseh people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers.

A. H. Forche, 136 E. Maumee St., Adrian, Mich., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a valuable remedy for kidney trouble and lame back! I used this preparation for these complaints and received satisfactory results. Since I took Doan's Kidney Pills, my kidneys have been normal and the lameness in my back has disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Every married man ought to live next door to a model husband.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain back, hips and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They are a splendid remedy for rheumatism, clearing the uric acid from the joints and system. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The village band makes sweet music, but it isn't in it with the village carpenter.

BEST MEDICINE FOR COLDS

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he is talking about. C. Lower, Druggists of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

This Interest Every Woman

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for for their kidneys and bladder, they they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine at such times. They are a tonic in action, quick in results. They will help you. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

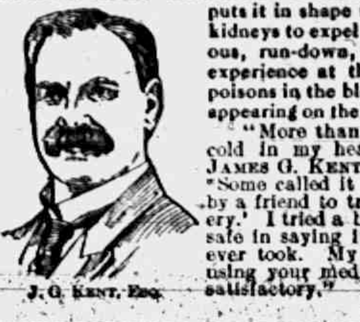
Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature' own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a hard cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin—you feel "blue."



J. G. Kent, Esq.

"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, breast, and body," writes Mr. James G. Kent, of 710 L Street, S. E., Washington, D. C. "Some called it La Grippe, some pneumonia. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before using your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Blanche Turner, sister of said deceased, praying that an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased may be duly proved and admitted to probate, and that administration of said estate may be granted to petitioner, the executrix named in said instrument, or to some other suitable person.

It is Ordered, That Monday the 9th day of June, next at nine o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition.

And it is further Ordered, That a copy of this order be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

E. I. LARWILL, Probate Register.

MACON

The Methodist Aid Society of Macon will be held Wednesday afternoon May 21, at the home of Mrs. Mary Hendershott.

Kenneth Pennington was a Detroit visitor Monday.

George McGuire and wife were in Toledo Sunday, it being the occasion of their son Philip's first communion in the Catholic church.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gatt of Raisin were guests at Ross Biddle's Sunday.

Dr. H. R. Conklin of Tecumseh was in the village Sunday having been called in consultation with Dr Morden for Ezra Betser.

All members of the Women's Cemetery Improvement Association who have not paid their dues are requested to do so this month.—By order of the Financial Secretary.

Mrs. Helen Allen is sick.

As Wm. Hendershot was returning from Saline last Saturday, his team became frightened at an auto. They ran away and Mr. Hendershot was thrown from the wagon. One leg was broken below the knee and his head and face badly bruised. Medical aid was summoned from Saline and all was done to make him as comfortable as possible. He was conscious only part of the time and Tuesday Dr. Morden was called as counsel, but to no avail as death came to his release at 11 o'clock Tuesday night. He is survived by the widow and two children, Mrs Clyde Cole of Saline, and Kilburn who lives at home. The funeral was held Friday at 10 o'clock from the home with burial at Wright's cemetery. Mr. Hendershot was 68 years old.

Mrs. Sarah Rhoades attended May Day exercises in Ypsilanti Tuesday.

FIFTY FOUR YEARS MARRIED

Fifty four years ago the 4th of May Miss Josephine Hand and Wm. Osgood were joined in marriage by Rev. Anderson, then pastor of the M. E. church at Ridgeway. The young couple remained for a time in the old home on the Ridge, later moving to Hillsdale county where they lived for a year. Here their oldest child Edward was born. Not liking it there, they moved back to Macon where Mr. Osgood bought the farm belonging to Alfred Lewis. This was their home for forty five years. As age advanced life on the farm became too hard and they sold the homestead to Percy Morgan and for the past two years have made their home in the village of Macon. Mrs. Osgood relates that of the one hundred guests who were present at the wedding but few are left, most of them having "gone on." The esteemed couple enjoy fairly good health considering their age. We offer congratulation and wish them many happy returns of the day.

SALINE FARMERS' CLUB.

The Saline Farmers' club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Koebbe last Saturday. There was a good attendance, nearly all members being present

The morning session consisted of the opening exercises and the roll call was responded to by some recipe or something which has been helpful in the past.

Dinner was then served by the host and hostess and during the hour of recess the viewing committee made the rounds of the farm.

Roland Finch read a paper on "Grain Farming vs. Stock Farming," which brought out a lively and lengthy discussion.

A question box followed which was helpful to many. After reading the program for the next meeting the club adjourned to meet with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bacon in June.

BUILT UPON SOLID SNOW.

Every summer several astronomers visit the Janssen Observatory, on the extreme summit of Mont Blanc, to take advantage of its great altitude, which favors the study of solar phenomena. At present another effort is being made there to photograph the sun's corona without an eclipse. The observatory is remarkable for having its foundation laid in hard-packed snow. The builders found it impracticable to reach the underlying rock. At a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences, in Paris, Monsieur Janssen announced that the measurements of level executed in 1904 and 1906 showed that during that interval the observatory had not appreciably shifted in position.

The total number of Catholics in the United States was estimated at 13,877,426. The clergy numbered 15,655, of whom 4,069 were religious and 11,496 were secular. The hierarchy of the church is composed of one cardinal, thirteen archbishops and ninety bishops. The cardinal presides over the Archdiocese of Baltimore. The other archdioceses are Boston, New Orleans, New York, Oregon City, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, San Francisco and Santa Fe. The number of churches in 1908 was 12,513, of which 8,408 were churches with resident priests and 4,105 missions with churches. There were 84 seminaries, with 5,609 students. Colleges for boys numbered 200, and the academies for girls 697. Under the auspices of the church are 272 orphan asylums, with a membership of 42,597. There are 1,054 charitable institutions, in which were 1,310,300 persons in 1908.

Crane Picked Up at Sea.

That land cranes sometimes take long sea trips is proved by Capt. Ginn of the four-masted schooner Lewiston, which arrived the other day from Savannah. The vessel was 60 miles off Hatteras when the lookout described what he thought was a diminutive balloon. The navigators trained glasses on the strange object, which resolved itself into a combination of flapping wings and dangling legs, with a neck and head, that reminded the Lewiston's company of a croquet mallet with a decided twist in the handle.

As the object approached within close range it was discovered to be a crane. The crane aimed to alight at the foretopmast, but fell short and crashed to the deck. Capt. Ginn had the bird removed to the engine room, and it fully recovered from the effects of its long flight.—Boston Herald.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beachcroft, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other. "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoone, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean."—M. A. P.

Had Them Tested.

The loss and recovery of a $6,500 pearl necklace recall the story of a similar experience which a New York woman had after the last Old Guard ball. She also missed her necklace when she arrived at her home, and the next day it was brought to her by a woman who had shared her carriage on her way home. Handing the necklace to her friend, the finder said: "So glad I found it. We always thought they were real."—New York Tribune.

MAKING AUTOMOBILE PARTS.

Manufacturers Abandon Other Lines to Supply New Demand.

The large number of manufacturers who have been planning to produce automobile parts promises to be materially increased by the announcement of the automobile builders that they are unable to secure enough parts to make the output planned for 1910.

To-day the movement is taking in many manufacturers whose previous training has been in other directions, and according to the Iron Age the departure may be too radical to be wise. Enthusiasm for the new product may mean the neglect and serious injury to the old.

At the present time the successful automobile parts brings the handsome profit which a specialty usually commands. But, as with every other business, the time must come when competition will get down to the normal basis, with profits reduced to the usual level.

Thousands of inventors are working on new means to accomplish the same ends and improvements are coming in quick succession.

Alexander Dumas said duty is something that we exact from others. Your duty to yourself is to take Allen's Cough Balsam when you have a deep-seated cough or cold. Nothing will give you quicker and more permanent relief. Try it. Does not contain anything harmful. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles at all dealers.

Where Tact Succeeds

This is by way of humbly attempting to illustrate the difference between the tactful and tactless wife. It is to be presumed that the tactless wife is informing her husband that her mother is soon to make them a visit. Something like the following dialogue ensues:

She—"I had a letter from mamma this morning."

He—"Did, hey? Highly unimportant, if true."

He—"Say, she's not going to——"

She—"She will spend a few days with relatives in Virginia, and then she will come and visit us in Washington for a few weeks—probably for not more than a month. Poor, dear mamma, I shall be so glad to see her!"

He—"Not more than a month with us, eh? Fine! But it's kind of a one-sided arrangement, isn't it? Who invited her?"

She—"Well, I hope things haven't come to such a pass, John Gitbizzy, that my own poor, dear mother has to receive a formal invitation to visit me."

He—"Oh, we'll tin the talk about the come-to-such-a-pass thing. Did you invite her to swoop down upon me for a month?

She—"No, I did not. I didn't consider such a thing necessary. I'd like to know if——"

He—"Well, there are a few things that I'd like to know, myself. Where do I figure in this game, anyhow? It's my plant here, isn't it? I suppose I've got just a little teenchy bit to say about what comes off under this roof, haven't I?"

She—"Oh, if you are going to throw it up to me again that you pay the rent, and that you settle the grocer's bill, and——"

He—"I'm not throwing up anything. But I want to tell you one thing, and it goes as it lays, and that is that I'm to be consulted when this inviting business is the order of the day. I'm not going to have a bunch of drifters and kickers careering down upon this plant and trying to run things to suit themselves, and bulldozing everbody around and setting to work to start something every twenty minutes or so and——"

She—"Oh, that's it, is it? Well, I suppose you consulted me when you invited your sister and her two brats to 'drift' in here, as you call it, last winter, and stay nearly six weeks, with the pair of ill-bred young ones howling all over the place day and night, and your sister sticking her nose into everything and trying to direct folks about their own business, and——"

He—"So my sister's visit sticks in your craw, does it? That's the first time you've let that crack out of your system. Well, well! And you pretending to like her so much, and to be so dead mashed on her children, and here you're calling 'em brats and——"

She—"We'll just stick to the point at issue, if you please. I didn't invite her, did I? You didn't consult with me when you invited her, did you—yes or no?"

He—"Oh, you're going to try to herd me up in a corner and pin me to the wall on that point, are you? Well, you're not, all the same, see? I decline to be pinned. But I'm telling you this; I don't have to consult you about having my own people come here to my own dump to see me. You can stick that on the end of your hat pin and toast it over a slow fire if you want to."

She—"Oh, indeed? And yet you have the nerve to sit there and say that you expect me to come to you and consult with you when I invite my own mother to——"

He—"Oho! Then you did invite her, hey?"

She—"It doesn't make a particle of difference whether I did or not; you say that you don't have to ask me about having your people come here, and yet you have the assurance to tell me that——"

She—"Oh, if you're going to get off that mean, cheap remark again about paying the household expenses—as if it wasn't your business to do that——"

He—"We'll flag that stuff about what's my business, if you please. The thing for you to do is to get it out of your head that you're going to do everything that I do, understand? There's just a little shade on the situation coming to me, I guess, as the proprietor of this shanty, and the sooner you see it the better it's going to be for you. You can't get by, you know, with that demand of yours for all of the prerogatives of a woman in addition to all the privileges of a man. Get that firmly fixed in the back of your head and you'll have learned something."

She—"Oh, hoity-toity! Indeed! You're the grand mogul, aren't you; and I'm to sit at your feet, or better, grovel at your feet, and beg you to allow me to have my poor, dear mamma——"

He—"Your poor, dear mamma, hey? You don't have to edge in any of that slow-music, sympathetic stuff about her. She can take care of herself, all right, all right. If ever there was a hatchet-faced party with a wart on the left side of her nose that could raise more different kinds of Gehenna around a peaceful home than that same poor, dear mamma of yours, I'd like to have a life-size pastel of——"

She—"How dare you talk about my mother in that manner, after all the trouble she's had——"

He—"Yeah, trouble. If there's any kind of trouble that she hasn't started around here, I'd like to have the blue prints to see what——"

She—"You shan't scandalize her that way, so there now! It's a perfect s-s-shame the w-w-way y-y-you c-c-carry on w-w-when I——"

Here the tactless wife begins to dab at her eyes with a little wad of a pocket handkerchief, and the whole situation is just the mess and the hash that the tactless wife foredoomed it to be from the minute she fired her opening gun.

The tactful wife does it quite differently. When he comes from the office he finds her seated, in an obviously distressed frame of mind, with a just-received letter in her lap. Then something like this conversation ensues:

He—"What's up? Who's the letter from?"

He—"I know, but you look kind o' blue. What's the answer?"

He—"Write who, and tell her what?"

She—"Now, my dear, I don't want to get you all disturbed, for I know how hard you're working lately. Anyhow, I've got a lovely shad for dinner, and I'll tell you after dinner what——"

He—"Oh, say, cut that—I'm more than seven years old. What's your mother got to say in the letter?"

She—"Oh, well, if you must know, she's coming to Virginia, and then—but never mind, I'll write to her and tell her that——"

He—"Oh, she's coming here, you mean?"

She—"Yes, that's what she writes, but I'm not going to have you put out, the way you feel about the poor old dear, and——"

He—"Oh, I dunno. I guess I can stand the gaff all right. How long's she going to linger?"

She—"Oh, she doesn't say, but—listen, my dear, I simply will not consent to it that you be made nervous and unhappy by mamma coming here when I know so well that you—well, that you are not particularly fond of her, and that's not to be expected, I know, for it's natural that men should have a certain feeling about their mothers-in-law, I suppose, and so I'll write to her and tell her——"

He—"Look here, I never said that I was down on your mother. Where did you ever pick up that notion? Of course, she's kind of cranky and peevish, and all that, but——"

She—"But, dear, you know what you said the last time she was here—that she got on your nerves, and all that, and my home is everything to me, and I'm not going to have your comfort disturbed in the least by——"

He—"Say, look here, don't try to toss everything on me that way. I don't believe you want her to come yourself. You seem to be trying to call her visit off mighty hard, and——"

She—"Oh, John, you know that I want her, but I was only thinking about those little cross moments that she has, and you——"

He—"Well, I know all about that, but it's natural for old folks to be a little crusty, and if you——"

She—"Well, if you aren't the old dear? Do you mean to say that I'm to write mamma that she is to come, and that everything will be lovely, and that you are just as anxious——"

He—"Sure. Tell the old girl anything you like. I've got nothing against her. Fact is, I'd kind o' like to have her around for a spell, and this is the season for her to see Washington, and I guess we won't have any kick-ups. I'll do my part and be good, anyhow. Gee! Smell that shad! I guess that's the aroma! Let's go down and get at those eats right away," etc., etc., etc.

New Clothes Brush.

The circular clothes brush is new. The only way to describe it is to say that it resembles a long bottle brush, the bristles wired and standing out all around. Then the two ends are brought together until a ring is formed. This is attached to a short wooden handle and the brush is complete. It is a great improvement over the average clothes brush in that the bristles are firmer and also that they can reach places the usual brush cannot.

The Lancaster Literary Society will meet in session extraordinary to-night to decide this question: If a man gets up in the morning in winter to start the fire, shouldn't his wife be willing to close the windows in a rainstorm at night in summer, even if she does get her bowing robes wet?

CRITICS ASSAIL BRYAN'S TALKS

Repeated Peace Utterances Displease Army and Navy.

SAY HE IS DOING MUCH HARM

Army and Navy Journal Displeased Over His Declarations for Peaceable Settlement of Questions Between Nations—Must Not Yield to a Fear of War.

Washington, May 19.—Grave criticism of Secretary of State Bryan for his repeated utterances on the lecture platform and at the banquet table at the moment when the United States is involved in such a trying situation as the Japanese issue, has been rife in Washington ever since Mr. Bryan's return from California.

This has been particularly marked in official circles and especially among the higher officers of the army and navy who would be charged with the task of safeguarding the United States should serious trouble grow out of any matter handled under the direction of the secretary of state.

Says Bryan Is Doing Harm.

Frank expression of the criticism appeared in the current issue of the Army and Navy Journal, a recognized service paper of almost semi-official character. It attracted much attention here. In its leading editorial, this publication charges that Mr. Bryan is in danger of doing the national interests much harm by his recent utterances in public. Under the heading:

"Diplomacy and oratory," the Journal says:

"It may be a serious question, whether at this time when the air is filed with grave talk of international complications over the California anti-Japanese legislation, Secretary of State Bryan is not injuring the United States by his attendance at peace meetings by his attendance at peace every question between nations should be settled in a peaceful manner.

Should Yield Nothing.

"Our own self-respect demands that we should treat Japan as well as every other foreign country with courtesy and consideration, but it equally demands that we should yield nothing to the fear of war or of the attempt to introduce into our diplomacy crank theories on the subject of peace. To do so is to make trouble for ourselves in the future as well as to humilate the American people, the vast majority of whom do not accept Mr. Bryan's theories."

POSER FOR PEASE

Must Become Reconciled to Wife or Won't Get $215,000.

Aurora, Ill., May 19. — The will of John Pease filed for probate provides that unless Edwin M. Pease is reconciled to his wife he will lose control of his father's fortune. It was probated at $215,000. Mrs. Edwin M. Pease was refused permission by her husband to place flowers on the grave of her father-in-law, John Pease.

The story of the Peases' marital difficulties was aired in much detail last year when Mrs. Pease sued Edwin for separate maintenance. Mrs. Pease was granted her decree and $75 a month alimony. Since then Mrs. Pease has been living at the Plaza hotel in Chicago.

Miss Harriet Setzer, who was the late Mr. Peases' nurse and who was his wife's nurse up until she died, is given a life annuity of $75 a month unless she marries. Miss Setzer is one of the women named by Mrs. Clara Dunlap Pease in her sensational suit against Edwin M. Pease.

ANHUT GUILTY

New York, May 19.—John Nicholson Anhut, the young lawyer charged with attempting to bribe Dr. Russell, superintendent of Matteawan, with $20,000 to release Harry K. Thaw, was found guilty.

Anhut, who appeared confident of acquittal because of the varying testimony, threw his arms around the neck of Arthur C. Palmer, his counsel, when he heard the verdict and dropped his head on the lawyer's shoulder for a moment. He gave no other sign of emotion thereafter. "It knocked my feet out from under me," he said afterwards; "I can't say a word."

He was remanded until Tuesday for sentence, which may be up to ten years, in the discretion of Justice Seabury.

RACES EQUAL ASSERT JAPS

Tokio Mass Meeting Declares for Naturalization Rights.

JINGO TALK IS CONDEMNED

"God Made White and Colored People Equal" Says Professor Nagai—Reckless Agitators Charged with Playing Game of Those Seeking Orders for Guns and Warships.

Tokio, May 19.—A massmeeting of business and educational interests, interspersed with parliamentary representatives, adopted resolutions declaring the Japanese in America must have equal rights with the white races. Such a solution to the California land bill problem, the resolutions added, would guarantee permanent peace. The granting of naturalization rights to Japanese in America was considered a practical solution of the question.

Irresponsible war talk was condemned by most of the speakers at the massmeting.

It was declared, however, that the time had arrived when the Japanese must be given equal treatment with other peoples.

Cite Lynching of Negroes.

The speakers condemned the aggressions of whites against colored races, instances being given of the lynching of negroes in the southern states.

Professor Nagai of Waseda university said:

"God made the white and colored peoples equal. Unless we claim equality we shall fail to carry out God's wishes."

Representative Terutako Hinata and Kenzo Hayashi protested against the discrimination shown by the alien land bill, but assailed "reckless agitators," who were "merely playing the game of those seeking orders for guns and warships."

SUFFRAGETTES HAVE LESS VIOLENT TIME

London Mobs Hoot Them Down and They Give up.

London, May 19.—Although the suffragettes made their usual efforts to hold a meeting in Hyde Park, the proceedings were less noisy and less violen tthan on previous Sundays, when even larger forces of police were unabe to save the women from angry mobs. Women speaking on behalf of the national union of women's suffrage societies tried in vain to make themselves heard by a throng of men and boys who gathered in expectation of one of the usual exciting skirmishes. Scores of police, mounted and on foot, surrounded a wagon from which the speeches were delivered and prevented the men from getting close to it. Seeing that it was impossible to speak above the storm of hooting and jeers, the women gave up the attempt and were escorted safely from the park by the police.

Women representing the Women's Social and Political union fared worse. Several of them appeared bearing flags, but each time a speech was attempted and a flag was waved, the crowd seized the banner and bore it off in triumps while the police prevented the suffragettes from addressing the throng. They protected the women, however, and stood between them and the mob.

VICE PROBLEM IN NEW YORK

Bureau of Social Hygiene Reports Its Findings.

COMMERCIALIZED VICE IS HIT

Few Driven to It by Reason of Poverty—Owners of Real Estate Who Lease Property for Immoral Purposes Scored—Earnings of Resorts Staggering.

New York, May 19.—The bureau of social hygiene, of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is chairman, has made public its first report on vice conditions in New York. The report based on the work of George J. Kneeland, a special investigator, and is based upon ten months' of work in studying commercialized vice in all sections of Manhattan.

Mr. Kneeland later will make a report in which he will suggest remedies, and possibly fix the responsibility for the existing conditions. The purpose of the present report is only to point out the true facts, according to the investigator.

15,000 Girls Victims.

Mr. Kneeland expresses the opinion that the girls—and he estimates that there are 15,000 of them in Manhattan alone—are very seldom driven into the life because of poverty. Most of the girls are victims of agents of commercialized vice, he says:

Mr. Kneeland censures severely owners of real estate which is used for vice purposes.

The report says it is impossible to estimate the earnings of the resorts, but that the sums are so large as to be staggering. Report discusses the dance hall evil at length.

Fifteen Men Control Many Resorts.

The traffickers in women are able to evade the law usually by shrewdness and the use of money, the report states. It says that thirty houses in the tenderloin were operated as a combination for a long time under fifteen men, most of whom have spent most of their lives in exploiting women.

The report is quite lengthy.

PIONEER ILLINOISAN CALLED

Johnson W. Wright, Former Stock Breeder of Logan County, Dead.

Chicago, May 19. — Johnson W. Wright, seventy-two years old, died at his home, 6931 Constance avenue. He was born in Logan county July 11, 1841, where he was a pioneer breeder of shorthorn cattle until 1893, moving to Chicago. He leaves surviving him his widow, Margaret J. and four sons—Edwin J., L. L., and H. L., all of Chicago, and Charles A., a resident of Des Moines, Ia.

Services were held at his late home. Burial is at Lincoln, Ill., Monday, May 19, under the auspices of Leo Myer post, G. A. R., 182 of Lincoln.

AVIATOR FLIES OVER SEA

Rosillo Accomplishes Feat from Florida to Cuba.

Key West, Fla., May 19.—The Cuban aviator, Dominga Rosillo, left from the Florida East Coast railroad terminal at 5:35 in the morning in a Molsant aeroplane in his attempt to fly from Key West to Havana in competition for a $10,000 prize offered by the City of Havana.

A report received here at 7:47 o'clock stated that Rosillo was flying over Havana at 7:30. This is the first time an aviator has achieved the feat of flying from the United States to Cuba.

CHINESE MESSAGES PRAISED BY BRYAN

Have a Place in School Books of Two Countries.

Washington, May 19.—Further evidence of what manner of things in foreign relations appeal to the mind of William J. Bryan as secretary of state was furnished here in the current issue of his paper, the Commoner, which still appears under Mr. Bryan's name. The leading article in the Commoner is devoted to most fulsome praise of the messages exchanged between President Wilson and President Yuan Shi Kai on the occasion of the formal recognition of the Chinese republic by the United States. The two messages, says Mr. Bryan in the Comomner, have "a place in the school books of both countries." Mr. Bryan says further:

"The little children of this and succeeding generations can use the letters exchanged upon this epoch making occasion as models in statemanship as well as in composition. The names of the two executives are linked together in history and each has helped to make the other's fame more enduring by the sentiments expressed and the language employed."

FOUR STUDENTS DROWN

Ithaca, N. Y., May 19.—Four Cornell students, two men and two women, all members of the sophomore class, lost their lives in Cayuga lake, according to all the evidence, when a canoe upset somewhere between Willow Point and the Renwick Pier.

The students were Miss Mary C. Mollett of Middletown, N. Y., a student in the college of arts and sciences; Miss Martha McCormick of Troy, N. Y., a student in the college of arts and sciences; Brainerd Bailey of Troy, a student in the college of law and editor of the Cornell Sun and Reinhart C. Zimmer of Rochester, a student in the college of mechanical engineering.

Motor boats and canoes are scouring the lake for miles while searching parties are moving up and down both sides of the lake. The university authorities have employed expert boatmen to begin dragging.

UNITED BRETHREN FOR UNION

General Conference Takes First Step Toward Methodist Merger.

Decatur, Ill., May 19.—The first step toward union of the United Brethren and Methodist Protestant churches by the United Brethren wing was taken, when the general conference voted favorably on the report of the commission, declaring themselves in favor of presenting it first to the church members.

The conference will vote within the next eight months and by Jan. 1, 1914, the question will be ready for submission to the church members for a vote.

Fleet Being Stripped.

Philadelphia, May 19. — All of the great battleships of the Atlantic reserve fleet stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard are being stripped and prepared for instant action. For the first time since the Spanish war all the big ships are being put in fighting trim and this very quietly and with much secrecy. Officials of the yard deny that they are taking any unusual action in preparing the fleet for sea, but private investigation proves to the contrary.

Sulzer Starts for War.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

If you can't get behind a movement for the town's good, at least don't get in front of it.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and badder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." His name is J. A. Farmer. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The queen of May may have to wear her heavies this year. This is no weather prediction, however.

A slight cold in a child or a grown person holds possibilities of a grave nature. Croup may come on suddenly, bronchitis or pneumonia may develop, severe catarrhal troubles and consumption are possible results. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound nips a cold at the outset, cures croup quickly, checks a deepseated cough, and heals inflamed membrances. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Which Was the Rich Man?

Anthony Forrest, returning to his suburban home after a long and tiring day in the city, was conscious of an unusual sense of weariness and depression. There was no particular reason for it, for though the day had been well occupied, its events had marched smoothly, and all his undertaking seemed to promise success. New contracts had been signed that very day which would bring his firm into the very front rank in their own particular line, and which would practically stamp out the slight opposition which they had been doing their best to get rid of for some time.

Curiously enough, the man who the signing of the contracts would most seriously affect, had traveled by the same train, and alighted with Forrest at Wimbledon station. Forrest lived at the farside of Wimbledon Common, in a palatial home which had little of Suburbia about it; the other man, Paul Chavasse, lived not far from the station, in one of a row of neat villas.

The reluctance was on Forrest's side, for he knew perfectly well that what had happened that day at a directors' meeting in the Cannon Street Hotel would mean the practical extinction of the smaller man.

He assumed that Chavasse was in ignorance of the prospect in front of him, otherwise his greeting would hardly have been so friendly.

The other was a tall, spare man, about forty-six, but looking older, with a face of singular refinement and delicacy, and a smile which invariably won him a place in people's hearts. Forrest, on the other hand, seldom smiled. His face was somewhat heavy and forbidding, though he had good features and a certain dignity just perhaps bordering on pomposity.

"Good evening. You are walking home, may I have the pleasure of taking the same path? I always have a good walk before dinner, and that is the advantage you have in the breadth of the common to cross."

"It is not so good on a Winter morning with the wind due northeast," observed Forrest grimly, but did not say that he would be pleased to have a companion on his walk.

Chavasse observed the lack of cordiality in Forrest's manner, but did not suffer it to damp his spirits, which were very good. Contrary to all Forrest's ideas of the man, he had very few cares, he took life simply and easily, and had not worn his powers threadbare with the strife of competition.

"It is a privilege to live out here, especially at the opening of the year," observed Chavasse, breathing the delicious airs of April with a keen enjoyment.

"It is fairly good as far as it goes, but I should like to go further out into the real country. If I could sell my house without dropping too much over it, I shouldn't hesitate a moment."

"But it is a beautiful place, and so secluded. It seems to me you could hardly do better even in the country."

Forrest shrugged his shoulders.

"After all, it is London, and when a man has been grubbing in that unholy city all day he wants to get clean away."

"I suppose you feel it so," said Chavasse with a slight wonder in his eyes. "Would you propose to retire from active city life altogether then?"

Anthony Forrest looked surprised.

"Not at all. Retirement is a fatal take for a man, almost at any age. It has shortened more lives than any known disease. No, I shall never retire from city life."

"You like it?"

Forrest shrugged his shoulders.

"It has become a second nature. What about you?"

Chavasse smiled.

"Oh, I am cast in a different mold. I am naturally attached to the country in which I was born, and if I could afford it I should live there entirely. But I like London, and city life within moderation. The strain of big responsibilities, however, is irksome, and quickly depresses me. I have just had what I consider to be a stroke of uncommonly good luck this very afternoon."

"Ah, what is that?" inquired Forrest quickly.

"I have had the offer of an excellent situation, which will give me a comfortable salary and commit me to nothing except so many hours of honest work in a day. I shall have no hand nor any stake in the enterprises which will come and go, and be settled without my knowledge or interference. I have accepted it; subject to my wife's ratification of my promise."

"May I inquire, without seeming rude, where the situation is, and what is its nature?" inquired Anthony Forrest, still with the same appearance of eager interest.

"Why, certainly. It is with Messrs. Hargreaves & Butler, in Eastcheap; you, of course, know the firm."

"I do; you surprise me very much. They are very exclusive. It is an honor to be associated with them. I saw Mr. Hargreaves this morning at a directors' meeting in the Cannon Street Hotel."

"He came to be directly from that," observed Chavasse, with a smile.

"And did he tell you what passed there relative to your own firm?"

"Oh, yes; he told me we had been practically wiped out, but I was not in the least surprised."

"Was he?"

"Hargreaves? I don't know. I did not inquire. He understood that my firm could not stand against the Syndicate, and, so far as the members of it are concerned, the dissolution will not make much difference."

"You knew this, yet you were friendly to me, Chavasse. I could have prevented what happened to-day."

"Yes, but why should you have prevented it? You pursue one policy, I another. That we see from entirely different standpoints need not make us enemies."

"You seem to know all about my policy," said Anothony Forrest drily. "Would you mind defining it?"

"You are a born financier, Mr. Forrest, and one in actual being likewise. Surely that explains everything."

"And your own policy?"

"Mine is simple, too, though to you it might seem complex, or even incomprehensible. I want peace to live. I have a soul as well as a body, and I have too much respect for my soul to throw myself absolutely into the vortex."

"But it is a man's duty to do his utmost wherever he is placed. You have a family, I understand," said Forrest quickly.

"Three, all grown up and launched, two of them married, the other going to be next month. None of them are rich, nor ever will be, but they are contented with simple things. There is only myself and my wife now to be considered, and I am certain this news I convey to her this evening will make her very happy."

"Yet you step from a responsible to a subordinate position! Will you tell me how much Hargreaves offered you? don't put these questions out of vulgar curiosity, but rather because you interest me. I have never met anyone holding quite these views. They are a little unusual."

"Not so rare as you would think," said Chavasse. "Hargreaves offered me five hundred pounds a year, without any prospect of a rise. He was perfectly clear on that point. There will be no speculation or possibility about it; that is why it recommends itself to me."

"Five hundred a year! It is not much. Can you live comfortably on that? I spend in my family not much short of five thousand, and do not"—he hesitated a moment, and then added with bitterness, "do not get very much happiness, and certainly no peace out of it."

"We shall save on five hundred, and have something to give away," replied Chavasse. "It is all a matter of individual taste, of what constitutes one's ideas of the actual necessities of life."

"To-morrow is Sunday, Chavasse; may I take the liberty of inviting myself to your house, about four o'clock in the afternoon, to a cup of tea?"

"Most certainly. It will give us the greatest pleasure, more especially as none of the children will be with us to-morrow, through an usual combination of circumstances. Sunday is their day. They come early and leave late; all of them and the 'in-laws' seem to find the old nest as acceptable as our own children. Thank God, we are all very happy together. It is my dear wife that has done that. She is the home-maker. I must go back to her now, and rejoice her soul with my news."

They stood still, neither noting that they had arrived at the moment of the imposing gateway of Tudor Lodge, the residence of Anthony Forrest.

A carriage swept through the gates in front of them, and a handsome, richly dressed woman gave a slightly supercilious bow, as both men raised their hats.

"That is my wife, Chavasse, and she is, unfortunately for me, not a homemaker. I have had many ambitions in my life, and have realized a goodly share of them, but I realize at this moment that, as far as personal happiness is concerned, the un ambitious man is miles ahead of me. I would give the half of my income now for your quiet peace of mind."

Chavasse was at a loss what to say to this strange speech. He merely looked sympathetic and shook very warmly the hand offered to him.

Then he retraced his steps somewhat slowly across the common. He was not so absorbed but that simple things on the way gave him a particular joy; a little clump of golden bloom on a sheltered breadth of gorse, the ambitious fern fronds bursting into newness of life, the unblown daffodills in a neighbor's garden—when he reached the little suburban terrace all these things were observed, and added to the sum of his content.

A sweet and still youthful face above the window blind at the sitting-room window brightened at his coming, and when she opened the door, and he closed it again quickly, he suddenly took her in his arms.

"Why, Paul, whence this—this most loverlike manner?" she asked, with a little smile of coquetry that was wholly sweet.

"Bless my Lucy," he said, in rather a full though quiet voice, and almost immediately repeated in a musing voice the words he had read that very morning at family prayers before he left the house:

"My people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places." And again, "Blesse[illegible]ve that sow beside all waters[illegible]id Lyall, in British Weekly.

Found New Eskimo Tribe.

W. J. Bower, an Arctic explorer, reports the discovery of a tribe of Eskimos who, according to his statement, live on a point of Prince Albert Land.

They call themselves Nunacaotics, are tall, and look like North American Indians. The explorer was cordially welcomed by them, and he procured many rich furs.

From the town of the Nunacaotics, Bower proceeded farther north, where he discovered immense copper deposits. On this trip he lost an eye through the bite of a spider. This was not the end of Bowers's troubles, for after the eyeball was removed by the crude surgery of an Eskimo, the schooner used by the party was wrecked and the adventurers had to walk 130 miles to Point Barrow, where they were taken on board the whaler Jeannette.

TAKE NOTICE

A synopsis of the new fish and game law. In view of the fact that many of our local sportsmen misunderstand the new licence law which has been passed recently. Ex Deputy County Warden R. V. Wilson has received the following article from the State Department. The fish law passed at the last session of the legislature will not take effect until August 15. Residents of this state will not be required to take out a license to fish any where in the State. People desiring to hunt however will be required to take out a license to hunt in any county except the one in which they live.

A LARGE SHIPMENT OF BEAVERBOARD

The cars were destined for the Pacific coast and intermediate points. This is the third trains that has been shipped by the Beaver companies within a short period to points west of Chicago. There was enough Beaverboard in this train to make a path from New York to Denver, or from St. Luis to Seattle, or there was enough for all the walls and ceilings for a good sized town. Ex. Wm. Mc Glashen brother-in-law of Raynor Brewer is closely identified with this business in Buffalo being on of the officers of the company.

TIME TO LAUNCH A LIFEBOAT.

Boat Can Be Lowered with Its Crew and Get Away in Two Minutes.

Aboard the Romantic the other day several officers were talking about the length of time required to launch and man one of the large lifeboats that swing from davits on the upper deck, a distance of perhaps sixty feet above the sea. It was agreed that a boat can be lowered with its crew and get away from the ship in two minutes in anything like decent weather.

An instance was related where a man had fallen from the Romantic while she was speeding 14 knots. The alarm was sounded, a boat lowered and the swimmer rescued after a considerable row back over the course to where he was floundering about. The crew had the rescued individual back to the ship with the boat in its chocks in just seventeen minutes, which is regarded a most creditable performance. There was no ice on the rope falls to hamper the work and everything worked smoothly or the boat would have been much longer on its mission.

A steamship of 10,000 tons when going at full speed has momentum sufficient to carry her at least two miles after the engines are stopped, providing the sea is fairly quiet. Crews of lifeboats frequently have hard work cut out for them while going to a rescue before the headway of their vessel has been stopped.—Boston Herald.

Cheap Laundering.

Laundering is cheap or expensive, all depending upon how the family has it done. Of course it is better to do it in one's own private laundry, much cheaper to send it out, and here is why: Scattered all over town are hundreds of "laundries." They send out small boys to collect up all soiled clothes in the neighborhood, but the big wholesale laundries do the washing and usually the ironing, too. There is much profit in this business provided the "laundry" works up a big trade. They charge, say ten or twelve cents apiece for sheets, three or four cents for a towel, and other work in proportion. Say one or two or three families have enough wash to send to the wholesale laundries in the first place. Now what do you think they charge for the work? Sheets, tablecloths, towels, pillow cases, they wash and iron for from sixty cents to a dollar and a quarter a hundred pieces, while towels and napkins are put through for thirty to sixty cents a hundred. A woman's time is certainly worth nothing much if she can afford to do her own washing when laundry prices are so ridiculously low.—New York Press.

Trouble Averted.

A Washington man, much given to long foot tours through Virginia, once came upon an unkempt and melancholy-looking person stretched under a tree, who, upon the approach of the pedestrian, immediately executed a "hurry touch" for a dime.

Now the Washington man had, a short distance back, been talking to a prosperous farmer, who had complained of the difficulty of obtaining labor; accordingly he said to the hobo as he handed him the coin:

"About half a mile down, my friend, there's a farmer looking for men to help him in his fields."

The melancholy-looking person bowed as politely as possible, considering his sitting posture, and replied:

"Thanks. I might er strolled down that way accidental-like."—Harper's Magazine.

Getting Around a Difficulty.

An instructor in a certain boys' school is noted among his pupils for his difficult examination questions. One of the youthful students, after struggling over a particularly strenuous list of questions in geography, came upon the following query, which completely stumped him.

"Name twelve animals of the polar regions."

"Six seals and six polar bears."

The professor was so pleased with his pupil's cleverness that he marked his paper 100 per cent.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Offer their Services Free of Charge for the Last Time

The United Doctors, licensed by the State of Michigan for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last, treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long-standing, deep-seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter, piles, etc. By their method these diseases are treated without operation or hypodermic injection.

They were among the first in America to earn the name of "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with the knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit at this time may help you.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment, consult them upon this visit. It costs you nothing.

Remember, this last free offer is for this visit only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

BISHOP DOANE IS DEAD

New York, May 19.—Bishop William Croswell Doane of Albany died in this city after a brief illness.

Bishop Doane's long services in ecclesiastical affairs have made him known as one of the leaders of the Protestant Episcopal church in this country. The bishop came to this city three days ago to attend the quarterly meeting of the board of missions of the Episcopal church. He had not been in good health of late and on his departure from Albany friends were solicitious for his welfare.

EMPLOYES CARRY BODY

Men Who Worked for A. Story Goodrich Are His Pallbearers.

Milwaukee, May 19.—Employes of the A. S. Goodrich company were the pallbearers at the funeral of A. Story Goodrich, who was killed in an automobile accident in Chicago.

The Rev. Holmes Whitmore, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiated at the services, which were held in the Goodrich residence, 149 Prospect avenue. Interment was private in Forest Home cemetery.

SUFFRAGETTES RAIDED

London Police Sieze Documents and Arrest Several Women.

At London, Eng., the headquarters of the Woman's Social and Political union, the militant suffragette society, in Kingsway, were raided by police in search of evidence against the militant leaders.

Miss Barbara Kerr, secretary of the Women's Social and Political union; Misses Lake, Lennox and Barrett and Mrs. Saunders, officials of the society, who were in charge of the offices at the time of the raid, were arrested and a large number of documents were seized.

Room for Courage.

There is no duty so small, no trial so slight, that it does not afford room for courage. It has a meaning and value for every phase of existence: for the workshop and for the battle field, for the thronged city and for the lonely desert, for the sick room and for the market place, for the study and for the counting house, for the church and for the drawing room. . . . For courage is just strength of heart, and the strong heart makes itself felt everywhere, and lifts up the whole of life, and ennobles it, and makes it move directly to its chosen aim.—Henry van Dyke.

FLAG DAY

Saturday, June. 14

In accordance with its custom for the past sixteen years, the American Flag Association reminds you that Saturday June 14, 1913, will be the the anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes, as the flag of our country. The public recognition of Flag Day as a National anniversary each year becoming more and more general, would seem to make unnecessary any reminder to secure your cooperation in securing the widest observance this year

On the 14th day of June, 1777, Congress enacted: "That the Flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." The number of the stripes having been increased by the admission of new States, the possibilities of the nation's future development dawned upon our fathers, the original thirteen stripes were unchangeably restored by act of Congress on April 4, 1818, when it was enacted: "That from and after the fourth day of July next, the Flag of the United States be thirteen horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be twenty stars, white, in a blue field, and that on the admission of a new State into the Union, one star be added to the Union of the Flag, and such additon take effect on the fourth day of July next, succeeding such admission."

Since the struggle of 1861-1865, the Flag has become the symbol of a mighty nation. It has been carried to the utmost parts of the earth, carrying liberty whereever it has been thrown to the breeze.

The stars and stripes, within the recent past, have come to possess new beauty for friendly eyes and new terror for the foes of liberty.

Studebaker

"When I invest in a wagon I buy a Studebaker, then it's a safe investment"

Of course it is! Studebaker wagons are built on honor, with sixty years of wagon-building experience—and with every wagon goes a Studebaker guarantee.

You can't afford to have a dealer sell you some other wagon represented to be "just as good."

If you want a wagon that will last, run easily and stand up to its work, there is only one wagon to buy—and that's a Studebaker.

Don't trade ten extra years of service for a few dollars difference in price.

Studebaker wagons are made to fit every requirement of business or pleasure, in city, town or country.

CORN CULTIVATORS

If you want to grow corn you must use a good cultivator. If you want to grow a crop of weeds you do not need to be particular as to cultivation. We sell the kind that keeps the weeds out and gives the corn a chance to grow. Our leader is the Oliver. Balance frame, horse lift, light draft and no neck weight and so simple a 10 year old boy can operate. We also sell the Evolution, Iron Age and American and can make you low prices on the last two kinds.

A FEW SPECIALS

We are making exceptionally low prices on Lawn Swings, Porch Swings and Lawn Mowers, to reduce stock.

The Voice a Pearl.

Elihu Burritt says of the voice: "Watch it day by day as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in the days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice in joy, like a lark's song, to a hearth at home. Train it to sweet tones now and it will keep in tune through life."

What Was Worrying Him.

A taxicab caught fire in New York. The flames reached the gasoline tank. The two passengers, who had come a long way, tumbled out. The fire department was summoned. "Play on the meter!" shrieked the distracted driver to the firemen. "Never mind the cab—play on the meter!"

Noticed Improvement.

A commercial traveler on arriving at a wayside station between Sligo and Enniskillen, remarked to the chief official: "I observe your service has improved latterly." "Can't see it," replied the stationmaster stoically. "Oh, I can," said the "commercial," "your trains are able to whistle without stopping now."

Rather Far-Fetched.

A scientist, at least he styles himself "Dr.," has been suggesting that young people and children may be cured of bad habits when in a hypnotic sleep. He has a long, long time to wait till parents, or teachers, either, will approve of hypnotic influences being used upon the young.

KEEPS THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health it Worth Saving, and Som Tecumseh People Know How to Save It

Many Tecumseh people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers.

A. H. Forche, 136 E. Maumee St., Adrian, Mich., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a valuable remedy for kidney trouble and lame back. I used this preparation for these complaints and received satisfactory results. Since I took Doan's Kidney Pills, my kidneys have been normal and the lameness in my back has disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Every married man ought to live next door to a model husband.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain back, hip and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They are a splendid remedy for rheumatism, clearing the uric acid from the joints and system. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The village band makes sweet music, but it isn't in it with the village carpenter.

BEST MEDICINE FOR COLDS

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he is talking about. C. Lower, Druggists of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

This Interest Every Woman

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for for their kidneys and bladder, they they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine at such times. They are a tonic in action, quick in results. They will help you. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

Fortifications Not Enough.

Washington, May 19.—American sea coast cities cannot rely for their safety in time of war solely upon fortifications, according to Secretary of War Garrison. The secretary made public a discussion of the coast defense system and declared that without a mobile army of adequate size, available for the defense of our coast cities, our fortifications might easily be taken by a hostile army attacking from the land side.

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Mrs. J. Imbof, of 321 S. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a well day before I took your medicines. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 135. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

A fire broke out in Dr. A. R. Lusty's drug store Thursday night about 11:30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith who live next door over their own store were the first ones who noticed it, being awakened by the intense smoke The alarm was immediately given, the church and school bells were rung and in a very short time the whole town was aroused and also the surrounding community. By quick presence of mind and the willingness of the men the fire was deadened without any other buildings being damaged. There being a double wall on each side of store, it prevented the fire from taking the stores on each side and had it not been for the heavy rain the sparks would have caught in other places Mr. Smith's house hold goods in badly damaged by smoke and water but is insured. The store was owned by Wesley Exelby and the contents by Dr. A. R. Lusty. Both were insured, The only thing rescued from the store was a desk and papers and a few books.

POLITICIAN DROPS DEAD

Secretary of Cook County, Ill., Democracy Succumbs After Banquet.

Chicago, May 19.—Edward Gleason, secretary of the Cook county Democracy, dropped dead on the fifth floor of the Hotel La Salle shortly after 1 a. m., supposedly of heart disease. He had attended a banquet of the political organization in the gold room and was preparing to go home when death occurred.

JOHN MITCHELL IN OFFICE

Accepts Recess Appointment Tendered by Governor Sulzer.

Albany, N. Y., May 19.—John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, has accepted a recess appointment as state labor commissioner. Mr. Mitchell was nominated twice by Governor Sulzer, but was rejected by the senate.

The governor holds he has the power to name Mr. Mitchell for a term to expire twenty days after the convening of the legislature next January.

Exit the Leading Lady

On the evening of his wife's debut in what, if anticipatory paragraphs were to be believed, would be, the greatest success of her career Maurice Arlington complained of having developed a raging toothache.

"It is quite impossible for me to turn out," he interjected between his spasms of pain. "I should be simply miserable if I went. But you'll get on without me all right, I know."

A shadow of disappointment crossed Eleanor Arlington's face. Against her inclination she had read her husband's mind, and this was the reading. The toothache he was suffering from was not acute, and would probably yield at once to the slightest treatment—when he was ready to adopt it. He was brooding over the pain with secret satisfaction, because it furnished an excuse for his absence this evening from the scene of her possible triumph.

When she was dressed for the theatre, Eleanor went to the chemist herself and got the toothache remedy. She could have deputed a servant, but there were still ten minutes to spare before the motor was due, and something told her that Maurice might appreciate the act more when he knew that she had gone herself.

"Nothing else that you require, Mrs. Arlington?" asked the chemist.

"No, thank you. Oh, yes, while I am here, I'd better—have you something that will poison mice efficiently and without pain? A band of them have begun to infest my dressing room at the theatre."

She left the shop with two bottles in her hand, and sought again her husband's room.

"Hello, Nell! Thought you had gone."

"Did you? and without your good wishes for the night. There, we mustn't grow sentimental. Sentimentalism's played out. Well, here's the bottle of toothache mixture. You pour a tablespoonful of it, if I remember rightly, into a similar quantity of water, and swallow it."

"Swallow it, eh? You're quite sure about that?"

"Oh, perfectly. There's a little laudanum in it—not enough to hurt you, you know—and it soothes all the nerves. There's the motor screeching. I must fly. Don't wait for me. It may be past midnight if there are many recalls."

Recalls! Her last words to him, and it rang irritably in his ears. Did not his wife live for recalls?

Of course in any other woman it would not have mattered, but Eleanor was his wife. He had married her with the intention of weaning her from the stage. Her solemn warning—given before marriage—that was impossible, he had laughingly disregarded. Let the claims of ministering to his needs, the needs of a possible heir, and of answering the calls of society to which marriage with him would introduce her, make themselves felt, and all dramatic considerations would go by the board.

She had tremendously disappointed him.

He was proud of his courage in refusing to countenance to-night's appearance by his presence. True, it might have been more courageous had he omitted all mention of toothache and assigned his indisposition to its major cause, but, as it was, he had done a brave thing in absenting himself.

The play was said, in advance paragraphs, to resemble "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and to outdo that play in sincerity and power. Personally he hated to be made to think in a theatre.

In her dressing room at the World Theatre sat Eleanor Arlington, ready to play her part. The orchestra was tuning up, in another minute the overture was timed to commence. She felt a little nervous to-night.

She turned to her dresser.

"Is there an illustrated paper about, Minnie—anything to beguile the time?"

"I don't see, madam——"

"Ah, give me that bottle! No, not the scent-bottle. The one wrapped in paper I brought in with me. It's an exterminator for mice, warranted to take instant effect."

"I'm glad of that, madam."

"Now run and get me a small chunk of bread, Minnie, no matter if it's stale as long as it's crumb. I'll set bait for these gentry whilst I'm waiting. It will save time afterwards."

The dresser went out.

Eleanor slipped off her gloves, she had to make her entry in outdoor dress. She smiled to herself as she reached for the bottle, broke the seal which the chemist had made, an began taking off the paper. On the eve of a critical moment in her career she was busying herself laying poison for mice. Yet the trivial occupation gave infinite relief, and she knew that the great ones of the earth would not have despised her for indulging in it.

Now the paper was off, and her eyes fell on the label on the bottle.

* * * * * * *

The dresser was two minutes away—no longer. She returned to find the dressing room empty. Assuming that Mrs. Arlington had gone out into the wings or been called to the stage earlier than she had expected she laid the bread on the table, and began to make the room tidy.

Then came the summons of the call boy.

The orchestra had finished the overture and were waiting to "play the opening act."

Distinguished members of the audience began to consult their watch. The management had earnestly requested them to be in their places punctually at 8.15 P. M., as the interest commenced with the rise of the curtain.

"Good heavens!" cried the manager. "What in the world are we to do?"

There was only one thing to be done, and he did it. He must go before the curtain and announce that, owing to Mrs. Arlington's sudden indisposition, the performance must be postponed. Money—where it had been paid—would be returned, or tickets allotted for another night.

"The woman has suddenly gone off her head," was the explanation he gave to himself.

The room in which Eleanor Arlington had left her husband was in [illegible]ness. It was 8.30 P. M.

Suddenly there sounded on the silent air the miniature whirlwind which a swiftly moving taxicab creates. It drew up at the house; there came the grating of the brakes, then the opening of the door, a muttered thanks from the driver and the vehicle moved away.

Unfastening the front door with her latch-key, Eleanor entered the house and passed to the still and silent room.

She crossed the room, dropped on her knees beside the couch and groped for her husband's body fearing to find that life had passed out of it.

He was breathing peacefully.

Eleanor burst into a flood of tears. They fell on the sleeping man's face, and suddenly awoke him.

"Good heavens, what is it?"

"Tell me quick, dear? Have you taken any of the bottle I left?"

"Bottle? Oh, by Jove, no! Must have dropped asleep the moment you went away, and—goodness gracious, what is the matter?"

"Oh, thank God—thank God!"

He sat up in astonishment.

"What's wrong Nell? You're unstrung. Is the play a failure?"

"No, Maurice, it's not that. Let me switch on the light. I want to see that you're all right—and I'll tell you."

Directly the electric light flashed forth his eyes fell on the clock.

"What's that? Twenty to nine. That clock must have stopped."

"Then the play can't be—Nell, have you thrown up your part?" Tell me—you've not done that, have you? I was a cursed brute to you to-day, but I never thought——"

"Oh, no, not that. I expect they'll let me play the part tomorrow. God be thanked, Maurice, something awful has just been averted. You see this bottle on the table—the one I left you to drink? It's not toothache mixture at all."

"Then what?"

"I bought two little bottles at the chemist's to-night, one with the mixture for you, the other with some poison—poison for mice that are infesting my dressing-room at the World. And then—oh, Heaven, how did I manage to do so careless a thing? I left by acident the wrong bottle for you to drink. Here's the other, you see. I opened it at the theatre just before I was going on. It was a fearful moment. I was quite alone. I flew straight back here to you without seeing or speaking to a soul! Thank Heaven I'm not too late!"

The man's face turned white as he realized the narrowness of his escape. Ah, if he had awakened and taken the deadly draught! He shivered as with cold.

Then the emotion of the moment—maybe not an emotion for that moment only—took him in its grasp. He had come face to face for the first time with the only certain thing about life—death! Never before had he prized life so much. His eyes were misty. Two things only he seemed to grasp—his marvelous escape, and the fact that Eleanor, now shedding tears of joy, had rushed back to save him, thinking of nothing else. He held out his arms and took her to his breast.

"Nell, old girl, it's good to be alive! It's good to be able to hold you close!"—Herbert Jamieson.

Not Cold Weather to Him.

One of the guests at a reception held in Washington some time ago had a poor memory for faces, and in addition was a little nearsighted. During the evening he took the host to one side, after the manner of a man who had some important secret he was about to disclose, and in a deep whisper inquired:

"You see that tall man standing by the door?"

"Yes," answered the host.

"Well, I was talking to him awhile ago about the terribly cold weather we had in Nebraska last winter, and he yawned in my face."

"Don't you know who that is?" inquired the host, trying his best to hide a smile.

"No."

"Why, that's Commander Robert E Peary."

The Captain's Repartee.

The captain of a trans-Atlantic liner, having become irritable as a result of some minor troubles in the ship's management and the unusually large number of ridiculous inquiries made by tourists, was heading for the "bridge" when a dapper young man halted him to inquire the cause of the commotion off the starboard side of the ship. Being on the port side, the captain politely replied, with some sarcasm, he was not certain, but thought it possible that a cat fish had just had kittens.—What-to-Eat.

Natural History as She Is Spoken.

Doris lived in the city, and a summer visit to grandma's farm revealed many wonders. After being treated to the farmer's luxury, cream, she was allowed to go to the barn to see the cows milked. She loked on with much interest for a while and then asked, "Grandpa, which is the little pocket she keeps the cream in?"

Dressed as Scholars.

At the wedding lately of the head master of Eastbourne college, England, the three pages in the bridal procession were garbed as scholars in black satin knee breeches, buckled shoes, scarlet silk gowns, with white shirt fronts. Each carried a mortar-board hat and a scarlet-bound prayer book.

REPUBLICANS WILL MEET AT CAPITAL

Executive Committee to Discuss Political Situation.

Washington, May 21.—James B. Reynolds, secretary of the Republican national committee, arrived in town to prepare for the meeting of the executive committee Saturday. At that time the political situation, especially with reference to the congressional campaign, will be canvassed carefully.

The Republican congressional committee, it is announced, will be organized early next month and it is expected that the two committees will work in harmony. One of the first men whom Mr. Reynolds met was "Tom" Pence, in charge of the Democratic national organization headquarters. The two are old friends, although political opponents.

"Hello," said Pence, in greeting, "where's your office?"

"Under my hat," snapped Reynolds.

It developed that the Republicans have not yet made arrangements for headquarters here.

ILLINOIS G. A. R. VETERANS

Alton, Ill., May 21.—Several thousand visitors are in Alton for the opening of the annual encampment of the Illinois G. A. R., and the annual meetings of five allied organizations, Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of the G. A. R., Woman's Relief corps, Daughters of Volunteers and Sons of Veterans.

Interest will center around the election contests of the G. A. R., and of the Woman's Relief corps. J. H. Crowder of Bethany and J. M. Schneider of Canton are active candidates for the position of department commander of the G. A. R. Mrs. Inez J. Bender of Decatur and Mrs. Edna Walker of Peoria, are campaigning for the presidency of the Woman's Relief corps.

HIGH COST OF LIVING MYTH?

Grocers' President Says Railroads Give Out Wrong Information.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—The National Retail Grocers' association convened here with several hundred delegates in attendance. President John W. Lux, in his annual address, said the high cost of living was a myth.

"We have been blamed for the high prices by the railroads and the trusts, and the public has grabbed at the bait," he said. "We should establish a press bureau to get our side of the question before the consumer."

President Lux urged an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law permitting grocers to combine to reduce prices. He also urged the repeal of the 10 cent tax on oleomargarine in order to strike the "butter trust."

LOOKS LIKE ROOSEVELT

Canadian Writes He Resembles Colonel, but Teeth Are "More Human."

Madison, Wis., May 21.—Secretary of State Donald received a letter from a man who said that he looked like Roosevelt, except that he has "more human" teeth. The letter was from Albert Monroe Graves of Alberta, Canada, who is searching for a wife. In the absence of a photograph he sent a personal description of himself.

"I look like my personal friend, Roosevelt," wrote Graves, "except that my teeth are more human. I can lick Roosevelt at anything. I never failed to carry my own precinct and I was never licked by a Democrat."

Youth Killed in Runaway.

Linton, Ind., May 21. — French Clore, seventeen years old, son of L. B. Clore, formerly editor of the Linton Daily Call, was killed in a runaway accident.

Boy Killed in Printing Press.

Jacob Dewolff, 17, an assistant pressman employed by the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Paper Co., met a horrible death Saturday when his head was caught between the carriers of a big printing press when the press was started. The paper roll had broken and the boy climbed under the machine to connect the broken parts. The pressman did not know that the boy had stopped the press or that he was in it. He started the motor and as he did so there was a scream. The boy's head had been caught between the carriers and frightfully crushed. He was instantly killed.

Engineman Nearly Killed.

As a westbound fast freight on the Michigan Central was passing through Marshall Sunday at 40 miles an hour, a steam plug of the boiler blew out. Engineer N. F. Parish and Fireman William Howe crawled out through the windows to escape the escaping steam, and Howe missed the running board and fell to the ground. His head struck on one of the rails of the eastbound track, inflicting two bad scalp wounds, and his collar bone was also broken. He was taken to a Jackson hospital.

Fine Gift to Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Pennock, two of the oldest and most prominent pioneers of Barry county, who have long been noted for their deeds of charity in the community, have given the sum of $20,000 to the city of Hastings for a memorial hospital. The sum will be presented in two installments, one-half after the death of each donor. Mrs. Pennock is in her ninety-first year, Mr. Pennock in his ninetieth. They have resided in Barry county 68 years, being among its first residents.

Made Own Coffin.

James Ellis, aged 70, a pioneer of Owosso, died Friday night and was buried Monday in a casket he made himself. Mr. Ellis was employed in a casket factory for years and he bought the necessary lumber to build his own coffin some years ago; he also dug his own grave, lining it with brick. Ellis was a prominent Mason.

J. B. Huff, convicted of an offense against his 15-year-old daughter, and who made his escape from the county jail Thursday forenoon, returned to his home at Frankfort and hanged himself in an apple tree, the body being found Saturday morning.

STRYCHNINE FOUND IN WOMAN'S BODY

Mystery Surrounds Death of a Beautiful Greek.

Milwaukee, May 21.—Enough strychnine to kill four persons was found in the stomach of Mrs. Mary Georcopoulos the beautiful Greek woman, who died under mysterious circumstances at her home, 297 Seventh street.

This fact is contained in a report made to the coroner by Dr. Wilhelm Becker, who made an examination of the woman's stomach and contents after a postmortem had failed to reveal evidence of death by natural causes.

The discovery of the large amount of poison has added to the mystery in the woman's death. Peter Fragos, her cousin, and Christa Kapoulos, who lived with her and were present at the time of her death, are still being held by the police. At first they were arrested because suspicion was aroused by stories of neighbors, in which they told of the woman's alleged bondage and threats against her life.

When the post-mortem failed to reveal the cause of death and it was decided that it lay in the stomach, the police decided to hold the two men to await developments. The finding of the poison has again complicated the case, as the presence of the strychnine can not alone decide whether or not the woman died a suicide or was murdered.

ESSAD PASHA SLAIN

Defender of Scutari Is Reported to Have Been Assassinated.

Vienna, May 21.—Essad Pasha, who commanded the Turks at Scutari throughout the siege has been murdered at Tirana, according to reports which have reached the Albanians at Triests, says a dispatch to the Reichspost from that city. Tirana is where Essad Pasha marched with many thousands of Turkish troops after the evacuation of Scutari and formed a provisional Albania government.

It is thought the murder may be the result of a blood vendetta carried out by relatives of General Hassan Riza Pasha, who preceded Essad as commandant at Scutari and whose death there was laid to Essad Pasha.

Police Start Hunt for Heiress.

Chicago, May 21.—The Chicago police have started a city-wide hunt for Margaret Hawthorne, twenty-six years old, who is heiress to a $15,000 estate, according to a telegram received by Captain John J. Halpin from W. W. Potter of the law firm of Colgrave & Potter of Hastings, Mich. The estate was left by David Shafter, who died at Vassar, Mich., in 1908.

6,000 TROOPS FOR HAWAII

Hurry Orders from War Department Increases Garrison.

Denver, Colo., May 21. — Under hurry orders direct from the war department, 190 recruits will be rushed from Fort Logan to San Francisco Wednesday morning.

The 190 men will board a transport in San Francisco and sail next Saturday morning as part of 2,600 troops for Honolulu, the transport being now fitted out and recruits from all sections of the United States are being rushed to board her.

With the 2,600 men the fighting force of the United States army in the Hawaiian Islands will be raised to 6,000 men. Union Pacific and Rio Grande railroad officials were summoned to the fort to aid in the transportation of the troops which will arrive at San Francisco Saturday morning.

FIRE DANGER IN SCHOOL HOUSES

ONLY THREE STATES CAREFUL

Remainder of the Country, According to the Bureau's Statement, Fails to Take Necessary Precautions—"Ginger Bread" School Houses a Constant Menace to Lives of Pupils.

Washington, May 21.—School houses that are fire traps continue to be erected throughout the country, despite the tragedies of the past and the United States bureau of education has just issued an appeal for better construction of buildings in which the youth is educated.

Ohio, Massachusettes and Kansas are the three states given credit for seeking safer construction and better safeguards against fire horrors in schools. The remainder of the country, in the opinion of the bureau, fails to take necessary precautions.

Oblivious of Fire Risks.

"Most communities appear still to be oblivious of the fire risk in schools," says the bureau's report. "Out of 238 school buildings noted for one month in 1913 only twenty-two are reported with fire proof specifications. Cities that have just had destructive school fires appear to be building in the same old way."

The bureau condemns emphatically what it terms "ginger bread school houses that are a constant menace to the lives of school children." It expresses astonishment that with the advancement of architecture and the increased knowledge of fire proofing such buildings should be tolerated.

More Important Than Ever.

"It is pointed out that the rapid spread of the school social center movement," the report concludes, "which involves extensive use of the school buildings by the general public outside of school hours, makes it more important than ever to insist upon adequate fire proof construction in schools."

Game Laws Misunderstood.

Game Warden Oates says that some of the sportsmen of the state are unnecessarily alarmed over the anglers' license bill passed at the last session, as they are confusing it with the hunters' license bill. The anglers' license bill provides that non-residents of Michigan must pay one dollar for catching all kinds of fish except brook trout, and where they catch game fish they must pay $3 for a license. This does not in any manner refer to Michigan fishermen. The hunters' license bill, on the other hand, compels every hunter who goes outside of his own county to take out a gun license costing him $1.

APPROPRIATION NOT ENOUGH

All Michigan Gettysburg Veterans Can't Attend Reunion—$5,000 in Addition to $20,000 Appropriated by Legislature Is Needed.

It is now up to the people of the state to raise something like $5,000 to make up a deficiency to allow all the survivors of the battle of Gettysburg who reside in the state to attend the Gettysburg reunion this simmuer. The $20,000 appropriation made by the legislature is found to be insufficient, for the reason that the railroads will not make as low a passenger fare as it was thought they would at the time the appropriation was asked for.

Gen. George Stone, of the G. A. R., says the matter is now in the hands of the people, as he has received definite word from the railroads that no better rates can be given. He declares the soldiers themselves do not feel like soliciting for funds to make up the deficiency.

The same conditions in Iowa were met by the holdover senators and representatives together with the governor executing their personal notes for the money needed, and at the next session of the state legislature the money will be appropriated and the notes taken up.

KILLS HUSBAND AND HERSELF

Harbor Springs Woman Lies in Wait With Revolver and Daughter Finds Her Parents Dead on Floor—Neighbors Hear No Shots.

In a fit of jealous rage Mrs. Alta Ferguson, wife of Orville S. Ferguson, of Harbor Springs, shot her husband and then, turning the gun on herself, committed suicide.

The Fergusons have not been happy for some time. Ferguson, who was employed in the Grand Rapids & Indiana freight office, went home and then went to the New Emmett hotel for supper, but his wife did not come to supper, though she was home when he got there from work. E. I. Ferguson, the man's father, conducts the New Emmett.

Evidently Mrs. Ferguson was waiting for her husband's return. The 14-year-old daughter was out in the yard. It is not known exactly what time the shooting occurred because people on the street heard no shots. Velma, the daughter, went into the house and found both parents dead on the floor. She rushed out and gave the alarm and the coroner was sent for at once.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Report of Village Marshal of bad sidewalks. Sidewalk on the west side Evans, bounded west by the Gratz & Son's lot, south by the D., T. & M. R. R., north by the Mrs Sam Anderson lot, east by Evans street, the land owned by the D., T. & I. R. R. Sidewalk is low and should be rebuilt and raised so that the water should not overflow it in case of heavy rains. Also the sidewalk on the north side of Pottawatamie street to be in a very bad condition and should be rebuilt at once. Property owned by Chas. Price.

Moved and supported that the report be accepted, and that sidewalk notices be served on the owners of the property. Motion carried.

The following resolution was offered:

Resolved, That the Common Council of the Village of Tecumseh does hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Maumee street in this village which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County and State of Michigan, and described as follows:

Bounded south by Pottawatamie, east by Maumee, west by the Jacob Miller house and lot, north by the Bird lot.

Said walk to be 4 feet in width, on the established grade, of Portland cement, sand and gravel.

The trench shall be excavated to a depth of 10 inches at least below the established grade, except for driveways and street crossings when the depth shall be at least 12 inches below the established grade.

The foundation shall consist of clean cinders or gravel entirely free from clay, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of at least 6 inches, except for driveways and street crossings which shall be at least 8 inches.

On the foundation shall be laid a concrete filling, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of 3 inches.

The concrete shall consist of not less than one part cement to six parts of clean, sharp sand or gravel.

On the concrete filling shall be laid a finishing layer one inch thick, consisting of one part cement and two parts of very clean, sharp sand. The said finishing layer shall in all cases be finished with a granular surface with a wooden float.

To secure a true line for the edges of the walk 2x4 strips shall be solidly staked down parallel to grade and on the true line of the walk, these strips to be removed when the walk is finished for use.

The concrete filling shall be tamped thoroughly till the water comes to the surface, then the finishing layer shall be immediately spread on in thin coats thoroughly rammed into the concrete, each coat being troweled until the water appears on the surface, the top surface being only troweled sufficiently to leave it smooth. The foundation shall be thoroughly wet while being rammed.

The joints for the blocks shall be made in the concrete and then in the finishing layer directly above those in the concrete.

Only Portland cement shall be used in the construction of walks and shall be in every respect the equal of the best grades of German Portland cement. The concrete filling shall be made from the same cement as the finishing layer.

And the owners and occupants of said lots and premises are hereby required to do the necessary grading therefor and to construct said sidewalk according to the provisions of this resolution, under the supervision of the street commissioner, said walk to be completed within 30 days from personal service, upon the owner or occupant of said described land, of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk, as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to have said walk constructed, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

Motion made and supported that the resolution be accepted and adopted.

Yeas: Moore, Daisher, Service, Elliott, Brown, Slater. Motion carried.

COMING BACK TO TECUMSEH UNITED DOCTORS SPECIALIST
WILL AGAIN BE AT THE BARRETT HOTEL, THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1913.
ONE DAY ONLY
HRS 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Offer their Services Free of Charge for the Last Time

The United Doctors, licensed by the State of Michigan for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long-standing, deep-seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter, piles, etc. By their method these diseases are treated without operation or hypodermic injection.

They were among the first in America to earn the name of "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with the knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit at this time may help you.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment, consult them upon this visit. It costs you nothing.

Remember, this last free offer is for this visit only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

DECORATION AND MEMORIAL DAY

Friday May, 30.

DECORATION and MEMORIAL DAY has come to mean more to the American people than any other day set apart for paying tribute to patriotism. It is a day that recalls sacred memories. These memories become more sacred with every added year, because the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are becoming thinner and thinner. Those who are with us now will soon join the Grand Army of the Dead. To the earlier Decoration Days have been added new memories of thousands of Spanish American War veterans who laid down their lives for a more glorious America.

Let the people of Michigan make next Decoration Day the most beautiful in all her history. This should not be a day of recreation and amusement but rather a day for consecration. Flowers for the dead betoken a kindly spirit, but flowers, for the living of the Grand Army of the Republic are an expression of love and valor.

The thirtieth of May is set apart for appropriate exercises in every school house and church in Michigan whereby our boys and girls may be encouraged to cherish an abiding love for both our heroic dead and our heroic living.

Therefore, I, Woodbridge N. Ferris, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby issue this my Proclamation and heartily urge the observance of Friday, May 30, 1913, as Decoration and Memorial Day.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this eighth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and of the Commonwealth the seventy-seventh.

Woodbridge N. Ferris,
Governor,

By the Governor:
Frederick C. Martindale
Secretary of State,

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness of our husband and father, for the many beautiful floral pieces and lovely flowers. To the pastor for his words of comfort and sympathy.

TRI COUNTY CONVENTION HELD IN TECUMSEH

Thursday, May 22.

Thursday was a gala day with the Royal Neighbors, every train bringing in a delegation from the different camps of Lenawee, Washtenaw and Monroe counties, and our streets were quite animated as the ladies marched up and down taking in the sights and decorating themselves with Tecumseh pennants.

A short business session was held in the forenoon, after which dinner was served in K. of P. dinning room.

The afternoon was given up to the regular work. A class of four, two of Tecumseh, one from Morenci and one from Adrian were initiated by the Jackson team. The Adrian lodge gave a very fine drill, this was followed by an excellent program.

The evening was spent in social visiting and dancing until the time of parting came, the guests returning to their several homes expressing themselves as well pleased with the days entertainment.

A SURPRISED REPORTER

Mrs. G. R. Gillespie was the victim of a surprise party Tuesday evening, when the force from the Adrian Daily Times came over in two autos, and dropped in upon her in a very unceremonious manner. They came laden with well filled baskets for a picnic supper, which they seemed to enjoy to the utmost. Those present were Julius Moeller Editor-in-Chief, Miss Alice Conner Society Editress, Miss Alice Todd Proof reader, A. D. Macham and daughter, Mrs. B. E. Giles, Percy Ayers and Will Reed, Clyde Smith of Jasper was also in the party.

The evening was spent in card playing and other amusements. A number of flash light pictures were taken, and a merry good time was spent until the lateness of the hour warned them that it was time to take the journey homeward.

Mrs Gillespie expressed herself as much pleased with the visitation, counting it as one of the bright spots along her pathway.

KEEPS THE KIDNEYS WELL

Many Tecumseh people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers.

A. H. Forche, 136 E. Maumee St., Adrian, Mich., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a valuable remedy for kidney trouble and lame back. I used this preparation for these complaints and received satisfactory results. Since I took Doan's Kidney Pills, my kidneys have been normal and the lameness in my back has disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Every married man ought to live next door to a model husband.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain back, hips and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They are a splendid remedy for rheumatism, clearing the uric acid from the joints and system. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The village band makes sweet music, but it isn't in it with the village carpenter.

BEST MEDICINE FOR COLDS

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he is talking about. C. Lower, Druggists of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

This Interest Every Woman

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for for their kidneys and bladder, they they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine at such times. They are a tonic in action, quick in results. They will help you. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

MRS. J. IMHOF, of 321 S. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a well day before I took your medicines. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 135. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

Good Kindler.

In some sections kindlings are very hard to secure, owing to a lack of timber of all kinds. An inexpensive kindler may be made as follows: Take to one pound of resin three ounces of tallow, and while still hot after melting mix with fine sawdust, straw or any inflammable material and mold in small pieces about one inch square. One pair will start a fire in the stove.

Capital Punishment in Germany.

Although little is heard outside Prussia of capital punishment within the kingdom, the law is by no means a dead letter. In seven years there have been 98 executions, ten of the condemned being women. Silesia heads the list with 211 executions, followed by Brandenburg, Posen and Rhineland. No executions take place in Berlin, the condemned being taken to the prison at Ploetzensee, in Brandenburg, where they have a standing guillotine.

Didn't Forget Himself.

A three-year-old waif in a deaconnesses' home offered up this prayer, says the Delineator: "Oh, God bless all in this home (mentioning each by name), "and all the sailors in the sea, that the ships won't run over them, and all the poor boys and girls that they may get bread and candy, and bless Alfred Warren Randall"—(himself)—a hesitation, then added, "the one what's got the nightgown on.

Woman's Opportunity.

Good sense is the greatest preservative of health. Never before have women had such a chance in the world as to-day and in this country. But the chance will avail them nothing unless they have the health to seize it and the vigor to hold it.

BEAVERS' HOMES.

When the beavers' dams are completed, the animals separate into small companies to build cabins or houses for themselves. These are constructed upon piles along the borders of the pond. They are of an oval shape, resembling a beehive, and they vary from five feet to ten feet in diameter, according to the number of families they are to accommodate.

These dwellings are never less than two stories high, generally three, and sometimes they contain four apartments. The walls of these are from two to three feet thick, formed of the same materials as the dams. On the inside they are made smooth, but left rough without, being rendered impenetrable to rain.

The lower story is about two feet high, the second is formed by a floor of sticks covered with mud, and the upper part terminates with an arched roof. Through each floor there is a passage, and the uppermost floor is always above the level of the water. Each of these huts has two doors, one on the land side to admit of their going out and seeking provisions that way, another under the water and below where it freezes to preserve their communication with the pond.

John McPherson of Fort Pierre, S. D., one of the two partners of Philip, who manages a real estate business at Fort Pierre in addition to raising cattle and buffalo is visiting in Des Moines.

"Philip has over 300 head of buffalo," said Mr. McPherson. "He keeps them on a ranch six miles north of Fort Pierre. Philip owns 3,000 acres of land and has an additional 5,000 acres fenced in and leased from the Government. The Government encouraged him in every way possible in keeping the buffalo species alive and he leases the entire 5,000 acres for $50 a year.

"Scotty can sell a pair of his buffalo any time he wishes for $1,000. If one of them dies he sells the hide for a goodly amount and stuffs the head, which sells for $200 to $300. At Christmas time he puts buffalo meat on the market at Fort Pierre. It brings $1 a pound.

Scotty takes the greatest delight in the animals. He can sell the entire herd for $500 apiece any time he wants to do it, but he takes pride in maintaining the herd. The native buffalo lives to be from 30 to 40 years."—Minneapolis Journal.

Never Wore a Coat.

Hall County has a rare character in Mr. Fields Martin, who is now between sixty and seventy years old and has never worn a coat or a vest or an overcoat.

Mr. Martin called on Mr. Canning while in Gainesville a few days ago. The coatless man had a light shirt; in winter he wears heavy hickory or cotton check shirts, regulating the weight by weather. He sleeps under no blankets or piles of comforts, but keeps himself warm by his own red blood. He has never had the opportunity of an education and cannot tell a $10 bill from a $1 bill. He can distinguish coins, however. He has been quite successful in life and is comparatively well off.—Gainesville (Ga.) Herald.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

The Saginaw Fair and Racing association has been incorporated at Lansing with a capitalization of $25,000.

Twelve-year-old Margaret Chandler of Saginaw is in a serious condition from being scalded. She slipped from a stepladder into a tub of hot water.

An item of $6,900 which would have given the city laborers of Saginaw their first increase in pay in 18 years was eliminated by the board of estimates.

Six horses and tons of grain and hay were burned Sunday, when fire consumed the barn of Daniel Horlocker of Gladwin, with a loss of about $10,000.

Howard Denorth, 19, riding a bicycle, was struck by a Pere Marquette freight engine at Saginaw Sunday. He suffered probably fatal internal injuries and his left leg was severed at the knee.

Charles Tubbs, 55, suffered a stroke of apoplexy on the streets of Lansing and fell, striking his head against the curb. He died within a few hours after the accident. He is survived by one son, who lives in Jackson.

Members of the Thirty-first Michigan Volunteer Infantry, veterans of the Spanish-American war, held their annual reunion at Monroe Saturday. Ann Arbor, Jackson, Detroit, Adrian and Ypsilanti were represented.

Riding into Jackson on a car Saturday night, James Bradford, a farmer of Sandstone township, fell from the platform and was run over. His left leg was crushed and had to be amputated at the knee, and his right leg was badly cut.

Rev. Frederick N. Barlow, 91, oldest Baptist minister in Michigan, died at the home of his niece, Mrs. J. J. Hotter of Alpena, last week. He was first lieutenant of Company H, One Hundred and Fifteenth New York infantry, in the civil war.

Suffering great mental anguish and bringing word that his wife is prostrated over the disappearance of their son, James McGuire, who was last seen three weeks ago, A. D. McGuire of Freeland, the father, has started a new hunt for the missing man.

Thomas Wilde, a pioneer fruit grower of Western Michigan, and the originator of several varieties of strawberries and other fruits years before Luther Burbank began experimenting, is dead at his home in Ottawa county. He was 83 years of age.

Mrs. W. N. Ferris is said to have suffered a slight relapse at her home in Big Rapids and to be growing weaker. It is impossible to obtain accurate information about her condition. Governor Ferris is there and is expected to remain during the summer.

Negotiations for the sale of the Southern Michigan Telephone company to the Michigan State Telephone company are practically completed. The arrangements have been made and all that remains is the formal transfer of the properties in Calhoun, Branch, St. Joseph and Hillsdale counties.

Herbert Baker, a former Jackson street car conductor, has been sentenced to the reformatory at Ionia for not less than six months, the court recommending that he be detained one year. Mrs. Margaret Challender, arrested with him, was sentenced to jail for 30 days. Baker's wife is Mrs. Challender's sister.

John Lane, brakeman on the Pere Marquette, died in the Detroit sanitarium Saturday of injuries suffered last December when he fell from a car and was run over at Brighton. It was necessary to amputate his leg and blood poisoning which followed caused his death. He is survived by a widow, who lives at Plymouth.

Miss Iva Ottinger of Bangor, aged 19 years, who weighed 509 pounds and believed to be the largest person in Michigan, is dead. It was necessary to have eight pallbearers to carry her body to the grave. From childhood the girl was of exceptional size. As she grew older her weight increased with remarkable rapidity. Her arms were over 28 inches in circumference and her waist line was five feet six inches.

"I'm glad Josephine is dead, and I'm glad I shot her," was the declaration of Martin Balicki, the Pole who killed his wife at Grand Rapids, on his way to Marquette to serve his life sentence. Balicki does not take his sentence seriously and jokes about the prison life to which he is to be subject. Balicki is a former resident of Emmet county, having lived at Pellston up to a short time ago. He had employment at Pellston, but two months ago he disappeared.

Emma L. McCaslin requests a decree of divorce in the circuit court at Grand Rapids because she alleges her husband, Dewitt I. McCaslin, refused to take a bath or undress when he went to bed so as not to be put to the trouble of dressing when he got up in the morning. The declaration also says that McCaslin would not wash his face and hands before sitting down to his meals, even when company was present. The McCaslins were married in Wayland, Mich., in 1887.

John Sine, an employe of an Albion plumbing firm, was badly injured when a ditch he was digging caved in on him.

There is every indication that late strawberries suffered little or no injury as a result of the freeze a week ago, and that the crop will be a good one.

The formal opening of the Muskegon Country club, which numbers among its members some 200 of the most prominent families of that city, will be held May 30.

Mrs. V. R. Wade of Petoskey sustained burns to her face and narrowly escaped losing the sight of one eye when flames enveloped her as she was shutting off an oil stove.

The Pere Marquette coal dock at Sebewaing was destroyed by fire. The locomotives are using a temporary station there or else loading at Saginaw. The loss is about $1,500.

The 9-year-old son of Fred Hurst of Big Rapids was seriously injured when kicked in the head by a horse Sunday. Several teeth were knocked out and his jaw was fractured, but he will recover.

The board of estimates of Saginaw, at its final meeting, provided $5,100 in the budget to buy Battery park, which fronts the state armory and which will give Saginaw a municipal park and dock.

Buried under 15 tons of coal, Frank Fenrek was dug out, apparently uninjured. He was unloading coal from patent cars at the Pere Marquette docks at Benton Harbor, and in some manner was drawn in ahead of a load.

Hundreds of inquiries are coming to the offices of the Pere Marquette from different section of the Thumb as to whether there will be any Sunday excursions this summer. The road declares that Sunday excursions are a thing of the past.

As a result of a family quarrel, Mrs. Alva Clark of Muskegon Heights attempted her own life Saturday by drinking part of a bottle of poison. Mrs. Clark was discovered unconscious and medical aid summoned. Physicians believe she will live.

Tonus Carpa, who is serving a 90-day sentence for carrying concealed weapons, attempted to set fire to the county jail at Grayling by lighting waste papers in his cell. The turnkey extinguished the fire. Carpa is demented, it is thought.

There were 2,500 visitors in Saginaw attending the three conventions, of the I. O. O. F., the fifty-fifth annual session of the Grand Encampment, the twenty-third of the department council, Patriarchs Militant, and the Rebekahs, held the first three days of this week.

A total of 3,514 students in the training, preparatory and college departments of the state normal college, Ypsilanti, were enrolled in the school year just concluded with Feb. 1, according to the report issued by Secretary-Registrar C. P. Steimle. This is an increase of 182 over the same time last year.

Work on the biggest government boat-contract ever landed by a Muskegon firm has been started there at the plant of the Racine Boat company. The total amount of the contract, which is for the building of two lightships, is $139,700. The company is now also figuring on two other big government jobs.

Information of great interest to Cadillac and vicinity is to the effect that the Ann Arbor railroad is considering the purchase of the R. G. Peters logging road, standard-guage, which extends from Manistee eastward 40 miles to a point in Cherry Grove township, one-half mile from the southwest shore of Lake Michigan.

Mrs. John Shelafoe, whose husband was murdered December 26 by his son, Henry, in the Chosa saloon at Keweenaw Bay, near the Assinins Indian mission and school, has brought suit in the Baraga county circuit court against the Michigan Bonding company, surety for the saloonkeeper, Joseph Chosa, and against the saloonist himself.

A great flurry of excitement has been caused at Port Huron by the discovery of a new and supposedly rich oil vein on the Boyce farm. The hole already has been bored to a distance of 100 feet and gives every indication of providing a rich and productive find. It will be necessary to drill for 600 feet before the oil is expected to gush freely.

John Kiles, former deputy sheriff of Ottawa county, convicted of manslaughter, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 or serve two to 15 years in prison. His father and Gerrit J. Diekema paid the fine. While serving as deputy sheriff about a year ago, Kiles was dispatched to arrest Ted McCarthy for a trivial offense. McCarthy broke away from the officer and while fleeing was shot and killed.

While running across the street, Thelma Meachem of Grand Rapids, 3 years old, was struck by a big automobile and run over. She was picked up and rushed to a hospital, where it was found her left leg was so badly crushed as to make immediate amputation necessary, and she died on the operating table. The police have the license number of the car, the driver having made his escape.

The village council of Homer held its regular meeting Saturday, but the wet and dry question was not mentioned. One of the members of the council, J. J. Kerr, resigned. He was elected this spring, but the dry and wet question proved too much embarrassment for him. The council at once elected A. J. Ogden to succeed him. He is a radical dry man, so the council now stands 4 dry and 2 wet.

What is the best way to dry damp shoes?

Place on their sides in a warm room in a draft of dry air if possible, but not near a fire, or heat bran and sand and with this fill two old stockings, tying the tops tightly. Put the shoes on these as on trees.

Is there an implement used by stonemasons or builders for raising blocks of stone called a "lewis," which acts on the principle of a clutch? Is it spelled lewis or louis?

A lewis is a contrivance for securing a hold on a block of stone for the purpose of raising it with a derrick.

Does the lighthouse service of the United States come under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the navy?

Is Liberia governed by the United States?

No. The United States merely assumed responsibility for the internal administration of the country after an international loan of £500,000 had been agreed upon in 1911. The receiver general is an American.

The beauty and virtue of women are superior to the virtue and beauty of men, but no one can be beautiful when in the throes of a deep-seated hacking cough or cold. Nothing will bring greater relief than Allen's Cough Balsam. Sold for over half a century. Endorsed by those who use it. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

SOUTH UNIT ON CUMMINS' PLAN

All Agree on Delegate Reduction but not on Cummins.

SAY IOWAN FAILED IN JUNE

Florida Republican and Progressive Leaders Believe That Their Parties Will Be Stronger — Progressive Leader Says Cummins' Plan Has No Moral Purpose.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 26.—Henry S. Chubb, Republican national committeeman for Florida at Gainesville, in answer to a long distance telephone inquiry as to his position on the national committee's plan to reduce the representation of the south in national conventions said:

"I believe that the call from the north and west for reduction of representation has been so general and so earnest that reduction must be granted. The best plan, and the one I shall insist on and urge with all my power, is that each state shall send four delegates-at-large and one for each 10,0000 of registered party vote and the Republican party is stronger in Florida today than ever."

Progressives Won't Follow Cummins.

H. L. Anderson, Progressive national committeeman, organizer and recognized head of the Progressive party, said:

"In justice to real Republicans the southern states should have one delegate only. There are no Progressive Republicans in Florida. There are many former Democrats who believe in local protection who voted Progressive and when Underwood finishes his job there will be more.

"Senator Cummins failed of leadership when he sat mute in the June convention and acquiesced in the frauds perpetrated by the old guard. Hill is a derelict. The whole affair lacks moral purpose. It is a reforming of the mercenaries after a disaster. From this distance it looks like a case of a blind doctor prescribing a mustard plaster for a corpse."

Axtell Acquiesces.

E. P. Axtell of Jacksonville, a leading active old line Republican, and probably the best known attorney in the state, said:

"It is too easy to get a crowd of so-called delegates to the national convention. Past conventions have shown they are too cumbersome, and I believe the party will gain strength and effectiveness by cutting down its representation to a bare working limit, based on some plan that will protect the rights of the entire state electorate."

Louisiana Agrees.

New Orleans, May 26.—Republicans of New Orleans, who expressed themselves, favored rather than objected to the proposed plan of the Republican national committee to reduce the representation from the south in the national conventions of the party. Armand Romain, an attorney prominent in Republican ranks, is among those who favor that plan of reduction.

Rene F. Clerc, appraiser of customs, said freely that he believed good would come from the proposed reduction.

"Based on relative populations in the north and south," he said, "I think it is only fair that this section's representation should be cut."

THREAT SENT PRESIDENT

Philadelphia, May 26. — Charged with sending annoying letters to President Wilson, Richard Lindsay, said to be a resident of Chicago, was arrested by secret service operatives.

The last of the letters mailed from this city to the president was as follows:

"I wrote a letter to you from 7 Chicago avenue, Chicago, Ill., dated May 9, and demanded an answer to it May 14, 1913. If I do not hear from you by May 27 I will learn you and Mr. Tumulty and also those who do not believe in a supreme being here on earth a lesson which they will not forget, and, furthermore, I demand from the United States government this time $300,000 as a remuneration. Maxwell assaulted me.

"Richard Lindsay, the Lion."

MIKADO OUT OF DANGER

Says He Feels Much Better After Crisis Is Passed.

Tokyo, May 26.—Emperor Yoshihito is considered practically out of danger, says a statement issued by Count Watanabe, imperial master of ceremonies. The emperor passed another favorable night. As the crisis was reached Friday night, it is believed only careful attention is necessary to restore his majesty to health.

The empress refuses to leave the emperor's bedside. She acts as nurse, insisting on ersonally giving the emperor his medicine and food.

"I feel much better," the emperor said at night. "Tomorrow being Sunday, I hope you will all take a rest."

Shauer not Yet a Cub.

Superior, Wis., May 26.—President Sommer of the Superior Northern League club, stated that he has not sold Pitcher "Rube" Schauer to the Chicago Nationals, after reading a dispatch saying President Murphy hinted that Schauer had been signed. Manager Unglaub of the Minneapolis Northern league has first option on Schauer.

Blows Wife's Head Off.

Clinton, Ind., May 26.—John Moore, fifty-eight years old, shot and killed his wife at their home here and then gave himself up. The shooting is attributed to jealousy. Moore first attacked his wife with a revolver. He than got a shotgun and as she lay outside the house blew off the top of her head.

LABOR SPLITS ON WEBB ACT

ISSUE ON THE REFERENDUM

One Branch Seeks Substitute by Invoking Initiative, Which Would Permit Webb Act to Go In Effect Aug. 10—Other Would Delay to November, 1914.

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—Resolutions published by two powerful San Francisco labor organizations raised doubt as to the fate of California's alien land act. They disclosed this situation:

1. That one branch of organized labor will seek a substitute measure by invoking the initiative, on the ground that the Webb act is not strong enough. Reference to the initiative will not prevent the act from going into effect Aug. 10.

2. That another section of organized labor will seek not only to invoke the initiative, but will circulate petitions for a referendum election which, if called, will prevent the Webb act from going into effect until the election is decided, which can not be until November, 1914.

Favoring the application of the referendum as well as the initiative are the Asiatic Exclusion League, Olaf Tveitmoe, president, and the San Francisco Building Trades Council.

May Prevent Referendum.

The San Francisco Labor Council, however, wants only the initiative invoked.

This split makes uncertain what will be the fate of a referendum petition. Twenty thousand signatures are needed.

Secretary Yoell of the Exclusion League said his organization had 117,000 members and he expected to get 100,000 signatures without difficulty.

BASEBALL HERO HURT

Rockford, Ill., May 26.—John Cleaver, star of the baseball game between the Rockford and Belvidere High schools at Belvidere, was injured, perhaps fatally, on the way from the park.

He was with a party that indulged in auto speeding, with the result that the touring cars of O. H. Wright and L. C. W. Willard crashed. Cleaver was thrown out and badly hurt. Fern Wixon and Maude Sullivan suffered sprained ankles.

Bull Moose Bible.

New York, May 26. — What is described by those responsible for it as "a sort of bull moose political bible" is to make its appearance presently. It is a complete edition of the platform of the Progressive party with "notes, explanations, comment and admonishments for all simon pure Progressives." In addition to this, its projectors say that "it will explain all the unexplained features of that remarkable political document that caused all the trouble last year."

STILWELL GUILTY

Jury Convicts Senator Whitewashed by Legislature.

New York, May 26.—Stephen J. Stillwell, state senator from the Bronx, recently exonerated by the New York state senate on charges of bribery, was found guilty of bribery by a jury.

The maximum penalty for the crime is ten years' imprisonment and $500 fine. He will be sentenced Wednesday.

RECRUIT IS A REAL REFORMER

Mrs. Atwater Has Joined New York's Suffragists.

FIGHTER BUT NOT A MILITANT

But She Stirred Women of Butte, Mont., and Cleaned Out School Board That Spent Millions Without Accounting—She Takes Place of Miss Elsie McKenzie.

New York, May 26. — New York's five militant suffragists, Miss Elizabeth Freeman, Miss Maude Malone, Mrs. Marcia Townsend, Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., and Miss Lavinia Dock, have found a new recruit to take the place of Miss Elsie McKenzie, who has just begun a voyage back and forth across the Atlantic between two inhospitable countries.

She is Mrs. M. W. Atwater, wife of a mining engineer of Butte, Mont., where almost single handed she threw out a board of education which had not given an accounting in sixteen years. She says she isn't a militant, though she would be if she lived in England, where conditions require it, but she is decidedly energetic.

Women Ousted Board.

"The school board of Butte was a secret society, which re-elected itself and wouldn't account for $400,000 or $500,000, which it spent every year," said Mrs. Atwater. "Nobody took the trouble to remedy this condition except our suffrage club. Coal was sold to the schools by one of the board members at a fancy price and there were other more obscure rake offs. But such a hold did the men have on the town and the newspapers that we could not even buy advertising space to publish our facts. So we determined to oust the board through the votes of the women, who have the school franchise in Montana."

THINKS FAMILY MURDERED

Marengo Man Believes Baby Found Dead to Be Daughter.

Chicago, May 26.—William Lloyd, a wealthy farmer of Marengo, Ill., told the police that he believed the baby girl found murdered in a vacant lot at 1328 West Kinzie street Thursday morning to be his six-months-old daughter.

Lloyd said his wife, Nellie, disappeared last Monday with the girl and $3,000, the proceeds of the sale of a forty-acre farm. He declared Mrs. Lloyd had been seen in the Marengo railroad station with a Chicago dry goods salesman with whom he believes she eloped.

He told Captain Healey he believed his wife and baby had been murdered for the sake of their money. Efforts to locate the salesman or his son, were fruitless. General orders were issued to institute a search.

Franco-Russian Veteran Dead.

Joliet, Ill., May 26.—Hugo Boehme, a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war, an architect, and former city engineer of Joliet, Ill., died here of paralysis, aged sixty-six years.

STEAMER HITS MINE

Sinks with Two Hundred on Board; Eighty Saved.

Smyrna, May 26.—The steamer Nevada, with 200 passengers on board, struck three mines in succession in the Gulf of Smyrna and sank.

Only eighty of the passengers and crew are reported saved.

THIRTY-FIVE KILLED AND HUNDRED HURT

Long Beach, Cal., May 26.—Thirty-five persons were killed and about 100 injured when the stage and a part of the flooring of the municipal auditorium, at the shore end of the pier, collapsed during the Empire day ceremonies, a celebration by British societies in honor of the birth anniversary of the late Queen Victoria.

A thousand or more persons had crowded into the building, close to the stage, and officers of the various celebration committees and English societies, which had participated in a parade, had just ascended the rostrum when the crash came.

Everyone on the stage went through the flooring into the sands below and according to police reports there may be more bodies in the wreckage. A panic ensued among the 7,000 or more spectators and many were injured in the rush.

Following is a list of the dead: Mrs. Frank Matthews, David Black, seven years old, Mrs. Dan Thomas, Mrs. August Bartz, Mrs. Richard George Dowle, Mrs. Chesshire, Mrs. Arthur C. Helps, Mrs. A. K. Hill, Fannie McGee, Harold Letts, Mrs. D. S. Holmes, Martha J. Bennett, Mrs. McSpears, Mrs. D. J. Lomas, Mrs. D. E. Wallace, Mrs. C. H. Lawrence, Mrs. James Wyval, Mrs. Warren C. Letts and daughter Dorothy, Mrs. E. C. Valentine, Mrs. Frank Shaw, Mrs. Emma Prigmore, Mrs. Elizabeth Hannah Richardson, Mrs. Pauline McGehee, Thomas Beck, Mrs. Lilly M. Holmes, young son of H. L. Bayles, Mrs. Ada E. Ingraham, Mrs. Anna Longfellow, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. D. McPharron, Miss Anna Stone, Mrs. Nicol.

All of the seriously injured are residents of Los Angeles and vicinity.

Motorcyclists Strike Auto.

Evansville, Ind., May 26.—In a collision between an automobile and two motorcycles here three persons were injured, one of them probably fatally. The injured are: Reuben Barry, twenty, skull fractured and both legs broken, expected to die; Joseph Kale, twenty, leg broken, and Mrs. Lovell Head, jaw broken.

CHAMP CLARK GETS DIPLOMA

Speaker Is Daughter's Substitute at Graduating Exercises.

Washington, May 24. — Speaker Champ Clark proved a very able substitute for his clever daughter Genevieve, when he took her place at the graduating exercises of Friends schools.

It was Miss Clark's class that was graduating and her diploma was handed over to her parent for her, as she is traveling in Europe with Mrs George Harvey of New York.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

If you can't get behind a movement for the town's good, at least don't get in front of it.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and badder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." His name is J. A. Farmer. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The queen of May may have to wear her heavies this year. This is no weather prediction, however.

A slight cold in a child or a grown person holds possibilities of a grave nature. Croup may come on suddenly, bronchitis or pneumonia may develop, severe catarrhal troubles and consumption are possible results. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound nips a cold at the outset, cures croup quickly, checks a deepseated cough, and heals inflamed membrances. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Well, April gave us some beautiful weather, even if some people were fooled in taking 'em off to soon.

CONSTIPATION CURED

Dr. King's New Life Pills will relieve constipation promptly and get ysur bowels in heathy condition again. John Supsic, of Sanbury, Pa., says: "They are the best pills I ever used, and I advise everyone to use them for constipation, indigestion and liver compaint." Will help you. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

May will bring the alluring apple blossoms. Even the Ben Davis blossoms are sweet and fragrant.

FOR THE WEAK AND NERVOUS

Tired-out, weak, nervous men and women would feel ambitious, energetic, full of life and always have a good appetite, if they would do the sensible thing for health—take Electric Bitters. Nothing better for the stomach, liver or kidneys. Thousands say they owe their lives to this wonderful home remedy. Mrs. O. Rhinevault, of Vestal Center, N. Y., says: "I regard Electric Bitters as one of the greatest of gifts. I can never forget what it has done for me." Get a bottle yourself and see what a difference it will make in your health. Only 50c and $1.00. Recommend by C. A. Wright & Son.

One never hears a small boy saying that he is going to be a soap manufacturer when he gets big.

The great calamity in Omaha was quickly over-shadowed by the terribly disastrous floods in Ohio. Great suffering and sickness from colds and exposure resulted. L. Poole, 2217 California St., Omaha, writes: "My daughter had a very severe cough and cold but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound knocked it out in no time." Refuse substitues. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The man who argues that it is too late for him to do much rarely does anything.

WONDERFUL SKIN SALVE

Bucklen's Arnica Salve is known everywhere as the best remedy made for all diseases of the skin, and also for burns, bruises and boils. Reduces inflammation and is soothing and healing. J. T. Sossaman, publisher of News, of Cornelius, N. C., writes that one box helped his serious skin ailment after other remedies failed. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

Foley Kidney Pills repay your confidence in their healing and curative qualities. Any kidney or bladder disease not beyond the reach of medicine will yield to their use. Mrs. Cordelia Copeland, Ardeola, Mo., says, I had kidney and bladder trouble for over a year and 5 bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me." It is the same story from every one who uses them. All say, "they cured me." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

SPURIOUS COIN IS A LURE.

Psychology of Counterfeiting Is a Puzzle to Federal Authorities.

"Like the fly which lights on paper carefully smeared with molasses for his benefit, the man who lets his thoughts dwell upon 'queer' money is caught hard and fast, unless he gets the idea out of his head as soon as it enters." That is the psychology of counterfeiting, as explained by Captain Thomas J. Porter, of the United States Secret Service.

As a further illustration of the theory, Captain Porter reverted to the case of the Rev. James R. Kaye, the Oak Park minister, convicted of making bad coin.

"Men who counterfeit want to get rich quickly," explained Captain Porter. "It is funny, though, how the game attracts a man who is otherwise honest. The man who is attracted at first by the prospect of making money easily in this way argues that he is doing no wrong.

"He simply says to himself that he will make a few thousand dollars of spurious money and then shove it out in a safe way. He argues with himself that the money will be accepted by everyone, and that it really is the same as the money stamped as legal tender by the government, and only the government will lose.

"He begins to read about counterfeiting, and the more he reads the easier the thing seems. Ten to one he has a taste for mechanics and any man with a simple knowledge of metals, if he has the proper dies, can turn out a pretty fair representation of a dollar or other silver coin.

"Most of the old time counterfeiters have gone out of business or are serving terms in penitentiaries, and many of the spurious coins made at the present time are manufactured by men who are respected in the communities in which they live.

"Counterfeiting bank notes is more difficult than making spurious coins, but after a man has been successful with silver pieces he takes up the other, and, with study and perseverance, can turn out a few bills. However, these makers of 'bad' money never last long. They are run to earth sooner or later, then comes their realization of the crime they have been involved in. The government is a relentless enemy, and the punishment for making spurious money is severe, but the wrongdoers never recall this until they are fairly caught.

"'I can do better than that fellow did, and those dub detectives could never have caught me in the trap they laid for him,' is the way the amateur counterfeiter muses. He figures it all out to his own satisfaction, but he fails to give the men in Uncle Sam's service credit for any brains or originality of thought. He thinks that they work the same way on every case, and that all he has to do is to observe the pitfalls that the other men fell into and be careful not to walk into them himself.

"This point settled, the deluded victim of the get rich quick craze has only a few more steps to take. The first thing that he does, generally, is to manufacture some home made dies of plaster of Paris. They are crude moulds of silver pieces, and so our deluded friend experiments a little by pouring pure lead into these casts, and to his surprise and delight he turns out a few pieces of metal which bear a resemblance to money."

Variety in Country Fishing.

I am sorry for the man or woman who finds difficulty in killing time in the country, says a fisherman. A week is nothing and we can accomplish nothing of importance.

The most important event is the occasional capture of an unusually large trout. There are big ones here. Be sure of that. I have reliable information of one which has its habitat not far away which is said to be full two feet long. If so, it will weigh full five pounds.

Think of that, my boy! Drop that everlasting business and come and catch (him or her). Even if you kill nothing, you will be happy, and you will be sure to catch chubs. At least, I always do, and must say that it is somewhat disappointing to find that one has a big leathermouth instead of a large golden trout.

Yet the so-called chub is something of a game fish. He rises at the fly and can put up a good fight. The largest I ever killed was eighteen inches long; but I have heard of them up to twenty-two inches, and weighing three pounds. When I cannot take trout I will catch chubs.

Fleas, Rats and Bubonic.

It has long been known that rats are an important cause of the spread of plague, but more recent researches seem to indicat that fleas serve as an intermediate link in conveying the disaese from rats to men. According to the observations and conclusions of Simond, infection of plague from one human being to another takes place, but in an insignificant number of cases compared with those where fleas carry the infection from rat to man. The recent experiments of the plague commission at Bombay have established the fact that fleas convey the plague from infected to healthy rats, and it has been shown that the species of flea concerned is always found in plague-infected houses. Medical science therefore declares war upon fleas as upon mosquitoes, and the mystery of epidemics is proportionally cleared up. Yet much remains to be learned.

Liverpool's Drunkenness.

In no centre in the Kingdom have more earnest efforts been made to fight drunkenness than in Liverpool, but the latest report of the head constable shows that no great success has attended these efforts. Indeed, the convictions under this head, which in 1903 were 7,877, and in 1907 were 8,721, were last year 3,205, although it should be stated that the head constable regards the figures as indicative of the measure of police activity rather than of the amount of drunkenness. The supervision of the public houses is very strict, and the causes of the evil appear to be an increase in drinking in the home fostered by carts going from door to door and supplying beer—if need be, on credit; the resorting to public houses of women early in to morning, and grocers' licenses. The Liverpool city justices have just been considering these matters, and have passed a series of resolutions in favor of action concerning them. Liverpool has already initiated many reforms in regard to licensing; we trust its latest efforts to further cope with a great evil may again be fruitful of results.—Westminster Gazette.

HINDOO WIDOWS WIN RIGHTS.

Those of the Highest Class Are Now Being Allowed to Marry.

From her role of half-toy, half-slave to man, penned up in the seclusion of the zenana (woman's apartments), the woman of Hindoostan is rising to equality with man. India is daily getting anxious to accord its women a humane and a just treatment. Sex-inequality had decreed that while the widow was forced to remain a widow. This injunction is no longer being faithfully observed. Widows of the highest castes are being allowed to marry. Moreover, Hindoos are making special efforts to establish homes where young and old widows are kindly treated and taught how to be nurses, doctors, teachers, and missionaries. The aim of these institutions is to inspire the widows to help toward the uplift of East Indian society and also to make them capable of supporting themselves instead of being charges on their relatives, as has been the case heretofore.

Polygamy was never very common in India, but to-day it is doomed. To-day the woman of India is leaving the privacy of her apartments, going to modern schools for education, and entering the arena of public activity, to help along the evolution of Hindoostan. Schools and colleges, especially designated for girls and neighborhood centers meant for the advancement of matured women, are coming to be pronounced features of East Indian cities.

The Burglar was Married.

"Oh, no, there ain't, my dear," replied Mr. Timmid.

"I'm sure there are."

"I'm sure there ain't."

"I tell you there are."

"I tell you there ain't."

And as he started down the steps he was heard to say to his pal: "I always believe in helping a husband out whenever I kin. I'm a married man myself." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Erect Immense Steel Shed.

It is the usual custom to build vessels under a shed, that the work may proceed without regard to weather conditions. The steel framework under which the 900-foot White Star liners are to be built has just been completed. It covers an area 300 by 850 feet.

TECUMSEH'S NEW SCHOOL

After working with architects and on school building plans for nearly an entire year the Board of Education finally adopted a plan for the proposed new high school building which it is believed will meet with the approval of the voters of the District.

The plans as drawn, criticised, and redrawn represent the latest ideas in school construction and hygienic ventilation.

Mr. Stophlet the architect is one who had his early training for his life work at Columbus University New York City under the best teachers in this country of design and architectures.

These school plans will soon be on exhibition in some prominent location for inspection and a special meeting called some time in June to vote on the proposition of bonding the District for the erection of this much needed improvement in our schools.

REUNION OF THE OLD FOURTH MICH. INFANTRY

Jackson, June 20.

The annual reunion of the "Old Fourth" Michigan Infantry will meet in Jackson June, 20. The meeting will be held at G. A. R. Hall and the W. R. C. will serve the dinner. The first meeting will be called at 10:30 a. m. After the dinner there will be speeches and a literary program.

The officers for the Regiment for '13 and '14 are Pres. L. S. Taylor, Jackson; 1st Vice Pres A Piper Kalamazoo; 2nd Vice Pres. G. W. Burnett, Jonesville; 3rd Vice Pres. H. C. Daniels, Tecumseh; Sec. and Treas. A. H. English, Battle Creek.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Union Memorial Services were held Sunday evening at the Methodist church. There was a find attendance the G. A. R. and T. B. A came in a body and were seated in the front of the church.

The Anthem by the united choir was very fine, solos were given by Ernest Church and Miss Caswell. Mrs. Kenrick sang for the closing music "Tenting to-night on the old Camp Ground," the choir joining her on the chorus. Rev. G. H. Whitney spoke in a very earnest and feeling manner, his sermon abounding in many fine passages. The services were very impressive throughout as a memorial to those who so bravely gave their all that our Union might be preserved.

COOL WEATHER

Yes, we think this cool weather for May but reports from George Hawkes are that 30 years ago the night of May 22 there was a heavy fall of snow and a drop in the Mercury to 16 above and crops were badly damaged.

28 years ago there was a heavy fall of snow on Decoration day. We may have to keep up our coal fires until the 4th of July.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Impotant Currency Legislation

Hon. Carter Glass of Va., Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency in the House of Representatives has about completed his new bill which has the approval of Leader Underwood, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and President Wilson. Heretofore National banks could only issue bank notes by depositing their full value in Government Bonds with the Treasury Department. This Bill provides that banks may deposit state, county and municipal bonds or other high class securities and secure Bank notes from the Treasury Department for circulation and Loans. This measure will enable the banks to enormously increase the volumne of circulating money when there is a demand for it, such as at "Crop moving time", or at any other periods when unusual activity of business demands a large volume of money everywhere.

At the present time National banks are forbidden to make loans on real estate security, but under the new bill this restriction will not only be removed so the banks can loan money to farmers but provision will be made whereby farmers can secure loans on their crops before they are even harvested. This plan is in operation in Germany, France and Belgium and other European countries and has added wonderfully to the prosperity of the European farmers.

A PRETTY COMPLIMENT

George Arliss, of "Disraeli" fame, is responsible for the following, which, he says, happened to a friend of his, who is a popular member of the Metropolitan Club:

"This friend of mine," says Mr. Arliss, "is noted for his pleasantries. Perhaps I should add, he is a gay old bachelor. He was in the habit of going to a certain charming young manicure who is in one of the large hotels, and one day, as she finished operations, she said to him.

"'I am getting some testimonials from my regular customers. Do you mind giving me one?

"The bachelor procured a card from his pocket, and after a moment's thought wrote upon it and handed the card to the young woman.

"Upon the card he had written the following:

"'There's adivinity that shapes our ends.'"

—June Lippincott's

THE HOME PAPER

It wants you on its reading list recorded on its books, and then you'll get it twice every week and know just how it looks.

It will tell you all about the news, in this and nearby towns, who gets married, dies, is born, and who elopes or drowns.

There isn't a thing from A to Z that tends to help the town, that that paper doesn't catch it up and quickly pass it round.

It tells the story of success, but screens the failure side, and when the facts will make a mess, it simply lets them slide.

It tells about your virtues, and over looks your sins, and put an extra emphasis upon the birth of twins.

It never designs to tell a lie except in personal praise, and then it does it clear and strong, and with its choicest phrase.

In writing up your marriage, it elaborate with care, and says the bride was beautiful and the groom was on the square.

It doesn't matter who it is that crosses Jordan's river, the paper tickets him as saint, and safely sends him thither.

And there's your daughter on the street, gadding night and day, of all the rumor slow or fleet, it wisely does not say.

It paints out every blemish or the picture of your life, and paints in every virtue of a home that has no strife.

It learns to read between the lines to find the tender spot, to blow not cold on young or old, when the blowing should be hot.

It senses all the skeletons behind the closet door and runs its big blue pencil through the lines that turn them o'er.

It knows about your weaknesses, your little streaks of yellow, just how to smother ill reports or make them smooth and mellow.

It knows what families live in peace and those most apt to jar, and whether it's just a birthmark, or a sad domestic scar.

It knows the man who pays, and the one who could but won't, and all the chronic knockers, and the one who makes the "bunt".

It knows the financial standing of every man in town, and whether its living or cheerless giving, that constantly keep him down.

SHOULD THE BIBLE BE TAUGHT IN OUR SCHOOLS

This question has been the subject of debate in our schools this week. The juniors and the freshmen taking it up for discussion Monday, the freshmen took up the subject and talked for and against in a very able manner. Those on the affirmative side were Burton Garlinghouse leader, Camilla Hayden, and Norma Moody, negative Winifred Mitchell, Ethel McIntyre, and Carlyle Kay. The sophomore class acted as judges, and declared in favor of the affirmative.

Wednesday the juniors held their debate. Affirmative Ina Binns, Seymour Orr, and Ruth Curry, negative Louis Schneider, Ruth McKinny and Mabel Skinner. Judges, Marie Bramble, Anna Carson and Frances Peters. They too decided in favor of the affirmative.

FOR GETTYSBURG

The railroads have at last reconsidered their decision in regard to the transportation of our Old Soldiers to Gettysburg, and have made it possible for all who reside in Michigan to attend this 50th Anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, without expense to themselves.

The Legislature voted $20 000 at a late session, but the railroads demanded $5000 more, which sum was refused them and it was up to the people to raise it by subscription or let our veterans forego the trip which had been planned for them.

The railroads have now capitulated and will carry the veterans for the amount appropriated, with the idea that the Legislature will make good the sum when they assemble again, and they may feel that it were better not to antagonize the people against them to too great an extent. Be this as it may, we are glad that it has been made possible for the old boys to meet again at Gettysburg.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Save Money on your Fencing by Putting up the Style Made to Meet your Requirements

It's downright foolishness to buy light chicken wire to put around your bull pasture—and you know it.

But some people do it because they don't think beyond the price-ticket on the roll of fence—at least not until they've had to patch the chicken wire a dozen times or so where that bull went through.

Then they put up a brand new stock fence.

There's no economy in that kind of fence-buying. The right fence in the first place costs less.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Every Rod Guaranteed

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Brands of Barbed Wire; Bright, Annealed & Galvanized Wire; Twisted Cable Wire; Hard Spring Coil Wire; Fence Staples; Poultry Netting Staples; Regular Wire Nails; Galvanized Wire Nails; Large Head Roofing Nails; Single Loop Bale Ties; "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fencing. COMING BACK TO TECUMSEH UNITED DOCTORS SPECIALIST

WILL AGAIN BE AT THE BARRETT HOTEL, THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1913.

ONE DAY ONLY
HRS. 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Offer their Services Free of Charge for the Last Time.

The United Doctors, licensed by the State of Michigan for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long-standing, deep-seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter, piles, etc. By their method these diseases are treated without operation or hypodermic injection.

They were among the first in America to earn the name of "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with the knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit at this time may help you.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment, consult them upon this visit. It costs you nothing.

Remember, this last free offer is for this visit only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

STUDEBAKER

Studebaker

"The wagon that stands up like the reputation of its makers"

When you buy a Studebaker wagon you buy a wagon that will last until you turn the farm over to your son and he turns it over to his son.

One of the first Studebaker wagons ever made saw constant service for thirty years, and we will gladly send you the names of farmers who have in their possession wagons that have been in constant use anywhere from 17 to 48 years—and there are thousands of them. We are building the same kind of wagons today.

A Studebaker wagon is an investment that will give you full return for your outlay. It is built on honor. Iron, steel, wood, paint and varnish used in its construction are tested and retested to make sure each is the best.

For work, business or pleasure—for town or country use—there is a Studebaker vehicle to fit your requirements.

Farm wagons, dump carts, trucks, buggies, surreys, runabouts, pony carriages, business vehicles of every description—with harness of the same high standard.

Last Friday night was one of the eventful nights in Ann Arbor when 1000 freshmen marched in line from the campus to Sleepy Hollow along a red light way with hundreds of rockets into the air. The occasion was the burning of the caps and the final appearance of the freshmen who now are the juniors of the coming year.

AT BREAKFAST

A Shakesperian May Party Given by the Seniors to the Juniors.

FRIDAY MORNING,
MAY 23, 8 O'CLOCK.

The Modest Seniors of 1913, decided to change the old time routine of entertaining the Haughty Juniors by making them arise early in the morning for a Shakespearian May Day breakfast, which was given on the morning of May 23, at 8 o'clock instead of a spread at 8 o'clock p. m, as heretofore.

The pleasant home of Miss Geneva Satterthwaite was thrown open to welcome the guests of the occasion. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers from woods and gardens. The reception rooms were further decorated with pennants and pillows of every description adding to the interest of the occasion.

The tables were laid in the front and back parlors, one across each room with a third one extending through the archway, where the toastmaster and honored members were seated. Many lovely Maybaskets of flowers were scattered through the length of these tables, which, with the hand painted menu cards of yellow jonquils painted by Fred Hendershott, a senior. with napkins to match made a most charming appearance.

The menu as given on the card was:

MENU

And first shall be the fruit to that great feast.—Hamlet.

Let the sky rain potatoes,
—Merry Wives of Windsor.

The sauce to meat is ceremony.
—Macbeth.

And I did mark how he did shake.
—Julius Cæsar.

My salad days, when I was green in judgement, cold in blood.
—Antony and Cleopatra,

—Cymbeline.

Trifles light as air.—Othello.

'Tis hot, it smokes,—King Lear.

As expressed in common language:

Pine-apple

Stuffed potatoes Veal croquettes

Egg salad Radishes

Rolls

Strawberry sherbert Marguerites

Coffee

The young girls Glee Club acted as waitresses and proved themselves very efficient and charming in that role.

Following the breakfast a very interesting program was given with Frank Hand as toast master. Elwood Comfort gave the address of Welcome which was responded to by Seymour Orr. The musical numbers were given by Leon McLacklin who gave a violin solo, Miss Lucile Kelley a vocal solo and a song by the Glee Club. The following program was given in full:

PROGRAM

Toastmaster: Mr. Frank Hand

Mr. Elwood Comfort—
At first and last a hearty welcome!
—Macbeth.

Mr. Seymour Orr—
I wish your enterprise today may thrive.—Julius Cæsar

Miss Mabel Skinner—
We sit to chat as well as eat: nothing but sit and sit and eat and eat.—Taming of the Shrew.

Mr. Leon McLachlin—
If music be the good of love, play on!—Twelfth Night.

Mr. William Comfort—

KEEPS THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health it Worth Saving, and Some Tecumseh People Know How to Save It

Many Tecumseh people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers.

A. H. Forche, 136 E. Maumee St., Adrian, Mich., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a valuable remedy for kidney trouble and lame back. I used this preparation for these complaints and received satisfactory results. Since I took Doan's Kidney Pills, my kidneys have been normal and the lameness in my back has disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Every married man ought to live next door to a model husband.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain back, hips and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They are a splendid remedy for rheumatism, clearing the uric acid from the joints and system. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The village band makes sweet music, but it isn't in it with the village carpenter.

BEST MEDICINE FOR COLDS

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he is talking about, C. Lower, Druggists of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

This Interest Every Woman

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for for their kidneys and bladder, they they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine at such times. They are a tonic in action, quick in results. They will help you. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and healing-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Mrs. J. Imbor, of 321 S. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a well day before I took your medicines. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 135. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

TO QUIT JUNE 18

Last Possible Day for Laws to Be Enacted Set.

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—June 18, the last possible date for laws to be enacted which would become effective July 1, is picked as the date for the sine die adjournment of the general assembly.

Such an arrangement gives thirteen legislative working days for the two houses to act on something in excess of 1,300 bills which are reported out of committee or will be reported out of the big clearing house the week which begins Tuesday.

On the waiting list rest practically all of the measures demanded by the new Democratic state administration.

LUTHER M'CARTY

CHAMPION M'CARTY KILLED BY A BLOW

Pelkey's Drive Over Heart Ends Mill in 10 Minutes.

Calgary, Alberta, May 26.—Within two minutes from the start of the scheduled ten-round fight for the white heavyweight honors, Champion Luther McCarty of Nebraska took the count of ten, knocked out by Arthur Pelkey's of Chicopee Falls, Mass., terrific drive just below the heart, and eight minutes later died from heart failure, superinduced by the blow.

Later a squad of the Northwest mounted police arrested Pelkey on the charge of manslaughter, but he was released a short time later on bond. Acting under the orders of Magistrate Crispin the police arrested every one connected with the fight, including Referee Ed Smith of Chicago.

There had been one or two mixups of an inconsequential nature and a clinch. Referee Smith separated the men. Both squared off in pugilistic attitude, neither seeming to be worse for the clinch.

McCarty was seen to double up in a crouching attitude. To the spectators it looked as though his position simply was a fighting pose. He dropped lower and lower, however, his eyes rolling. Then he collapsed and fell full length on the floor of the ring.

The referee becoming alarmed called for a doctor and several responded.

The mounted police were called in to clear the ring of the crowd, which had swarmed over the ropes. The physicians worked over the stricken men for eight minutes. Then they pronounced him dead, but continued efforts to resuscitate him by artificial respiration for more than an hour.

THE LITTLE MAID.

Roy Shacklethorp and I were chums at college, and I felt a certain pride in the association because he had the reputation of being the handsomest, the brightest and most popular fellow in school. His popularity was not, of course, confined to the school, for he was welcomed wherever he went, and was a great favorite with ladies, especially the younger ones. His one fault, or at least, the only one I was able to discover, was the ease with which he would allow himself to drift into the affaire du coem without any thought for what the consequences might be to the young lady. If matters began to take a serious turn he would break it off and express to me the greatest remorse, but in a week or two would commence another flirtation with a seemingly clear conscience. Though it may seem strange, I am convinced that he himself was utterly incapable of experiencing the grandest of human passions, and that may account for his actions, though it certainly does not excuse them. During the latter part of the senior year he spent several Sundays in succession in one of the little country places near K——, where the college is located. Suddenly the visits ceased, and for several days thereafter his studies were neglected and his face wore a most dejected expression. I knew pretty well what that meant and proceeded to take him to task as I always did, though it never did the least particle of good. He had refused breakfast that morning and kept his room on plea of illness. When I came in he was dressed and had his suit case packed.

"So," I began, "you are going away for a week to have a good time and forget it. I think you ought to be very much ashamed of yourself."

"See here, Colwell, if you can't be decent to a fellow who is sick," he did look bad, "you can leave the room."

"I shall stay right here till I've said all I want to say. I'm glad you're sick,"—which was a lie, "and don't think you are getting half you deserve"—which was the truth.

He was so very contrite that I felt my heart softening in spite of myself. I smiled a little grimly.

"Go on. That sounds natural."

"But it isn't natural. It's different this time"—of course!—"and it's worse—far worse."

"It's a long story."

"Not very," I suggested. "It couldn't be. Not more than five weeks long, or possibly six."

"If that were all!"

"Well, isn't it?" I asked.

"I hope so, Jack. I hope so, but I am afraid the story is only begun. She is unlike any girl I have ever seen." I waited for him to go on. "The people down there call her 'The little maid,' and everybody loves her. She is beautiful, Jack. But I don't think that is the reason. She is good, too, but it isn't altogether that." He paused for a moment.

"Oh, Roy, it's the same story!"

"I sought her society, and when—I found out—I wasn't man enough to leave her at once. If it had been any other girl it would have been easy, but she attracted me, and I imagined myself in love with her."

"Did you tell her so?"

"Roy Shacklethorp!" I exclaimed, rising to my feet and preparing to quit the room, "you are an infernal scoundrel!"

We made it up afterward, for, incredible as it may seem, I knew that he would never deliberately harm any one, and I really loved the boy.

After the course was completed we drifted apart, though we corresponded semi-occasionally, and in about a year I received an invitation to his wedding. Accompanying it was a letter in which he said:—

"Do you remember 'the little maid,' Jack? Sometimes I wish I had married her, though God know I am not worthy, for she would have helped me to make the most of myself.. As it is, my wife—that is to be—will be able to help me in another way, for she has what most people so desirously seek after—wealth."

I did not attend the wedding. Eight or ten months later I was visiting a friend of father's who lived in Boington, a quaintly pretty little village. I arrived on Saturday, and on Sunday attended church with the family, for in Boington any one who does not frequent divine service is regarded with suspicion. I tried to fix my mind on the sermon, but it was insufferably tedious and the effort proved futile. Then I found myself looking around at the many faces in the room till my eyes rested on one that held me spellbound.

Magnificent, dreamy eyes; an oval face framed with wavy brown hair that caught the sunshine; sensitive finely curved lips. Surely she was beautiful, but it was the pure soul of the girl, expressing itself in every feature, which attracted me irresistibly. After the service was over I managed to get an introduction to Miss Dorothy Rockfort—that was her name—and an invitation to call. I accepted it the very next day, and found her at home. What we said I do not know, but I do know that then and there I fell in love with the sweetest girl in the world. I called whenever I could make an excuse, and when the excuse was lacking chance favored me and I met her elsewhere.

If I hadn't been such a blind fool I must have seen that she was utterly indifferent to me, but in my folly I mistook indifference for reserve. I hadn't been there a week before I had asked her to be my wife and—she refused me kindly, of course, and with pity for my disappointment. Disappointment did I say? Good God! Is that the word to express the madness, the agony I endured? I pleaded with her. I begged of her to give me time and perhaps she would learn to love me, unless— The thought came like a sudden blow. Could it be that she had already given her love to some one more worthy than I? She did not deny it, and, perhaps because she thought it best for me to tell some one, she told me all. It was not much, but I forgot my own suffering, and the thought of the lonely years to come, in sympathy for what she endured and anger at the wretch who was the cause. Sometime before she had met a man, accomplished, fascinating, who had sought and won her affections and then left her without a word. She had never seen him since, and yet, such is the sublime faith of woman, she still believed he would return to her.

I was deeply thankful for the confidence she placed in me, and the bond of sympathy sprung up between us which I prized as some sort of compensation. One afternoon we were sitting out doors on the old fashioned, vine-covered veranda, and she was reading to me from a book of poems. She had a beautiful voice, soft and well modulated, and I was content to live in the present, and forget. She kept her eyes fixed on the book and did not see what I saw a man coming slowly up the road on a bicycle, who looked familiar. I watched him till he came opposite the house toward which he was looking, but evidently without any intention of stopping. With a start I recognized him. It was Roy Shacklethorp. I sprang to my feet and called to him "Shacklethorp!"

You ought to be ashamed.

"It is he," she whispered, "he has come back."

Then I understood—and on the instant my very soul was transformed with the blackness of hatred and rage. The revelation came like a nightmare that held me powerless, and for that I thank God, for there was murder in my heart. I struggled to speak—it was too cruel to see the look of joy that illuminated her dear face, and to know of the despair that must come afterwards. He had dismounted and was coming toward her. They did not heed me, Dorothy rose to meet him, and held out her hand with gentle dignity, not seeming to observe his embarrassment.

"You are welcome, Mr. Shacklethorp. When did you come?"

"We—we came last night."

"Oh! You have a friend!"

He straightened himself with a supreme effort at self-command, but did not meet her eyes. I felt myself choking.

"It is my wife," he said.

A Few Words about

Painkiller

The Rev. James H. Dixon, Rector St. Judes and Hon. Canon of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, writes:—"Permit me to send you a few lines to strongly recommend PERRY DAVIS' PAINKILLER. I have used it with satisfaction for thirty-five years. It is a preparation which deserves full public confidence."

Painkiller Cramps Diarrhoea Bowel Complaints

Courtship Among Tigara.

In village of Tigara, in Northwestern Alaska, says the Youth's Companion, one sees a young man beating out a piece of metal and fashioning a finger ring, it is usually intended for some young woman; but it remains for the meeting of the two mothers to arrange matters.

The two families may be living close together, yet the mother of the young man will call on her neighbor and tell her how she has intended to be more neighborly, but she has been so busy.

The neighbor will declare how delighted she is to see her.

Then mother No. 1 begins to tell what a great hunter her son is, and how good he is. Mother No. 2. remarks that her daughter is such a lovely cook. Having taken lessons, she knows how to cook everything.

Mother No. 1 declares that they are never hungry in their igloo, as son is always successful and brings lots of seals home.

It is finally decided that the young man shall enter the girl's family on a sort of trial. If the girl turns up her nose and makes faces he may as well leave, as the match will never amount to anything; but should she greet him with an occasional smile and allow him to sit by her side in the evening, it will all be clear sailing, and they will unite as husband and wife.

Misunderstood.

From a crowd of rah-rah college boys celebrating a crew victory a policeman had managed to extract two prisoners.

"What is the charge against these young men?" asked the magistrate before whom they were arraigned.

"Disturbin' the peace, yer Honor," said the policeman. "They were givin' their college yells in the street an' making trouble generally."

"What is your name?" the judge asked one of the prisoners.

"I asked for your name, sir—not the evidence."—Everybody's.

Britain's Coal Troubles.

We hear a great deal in these times of the folly and wickedness of war between civilized peoples. What, then, shall be said of industrial civil war in our midst? In every dispute there must always be a reasonable middle course. If it cannot be found that is nothing short of a disgrace to our civilization.—London Weekly Dispatch.

Exclusive.

"Where do the Hottentots live, Mary?" a public-school teacher asked one of her pupils. "I don't know, 'm," said Mary, primly. "Ma won't let me visit any of the people in this neighborhood."—Youth's Companion.

TEDDY DENIES DRUNKENNESS

Former President Never Tasted a Whisky Cocktail.

ADMITS DRINKING LIGHT WINE

On Witness Stand the Colonel Testifies in Own Behalf in Libel Suit Against Editor Newett—Dislikes the Taste of Beer and Does Not Smoke—Drank Mint Juleps.

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—Theodore Roosevelt took the witness stand in his libel suit against George A. Newett, who in an editorial charged him with drunkenness.

The former president entered a denial. He admitted using light wines with his meals, but said he never touched strong liquors except on advice of his physician or after great exposure. He said he does not smoke nor touch beer.

Colonel Roosevelt gave a brief review of his career as ranchman, traveler, hunter, soldier and statesman, in reply to questions by his attorneys. He then continued:

"I have never drank a cocktail or a highball in my life. With the exceptions hereafter noted, I never drank whisky or brandy except under the advice of a physician.

Dislikes Beer and Smoking.

"I don't care for the taste of either. I don't smoke, and I don't drink beer, because I dislike smoking and dislike the taste of beer."

"I never drank whisky or brandy evcept when the doctor prescribed it, or possibly on some occasion after great exposure when I was chilled through.

"But it has been certainly fifteen or twenty years since I have drunk it because of being chilled through. I never have drunk beer, nor do I drink red wine. The only wines that I have drunk have been only white wines, Madeira, champaign, or very occasionally, a glass of sherry.

"At home I often at dinner will drink a wine-glass or two wineglasses of Madeira. In summer, instead of the Madeira, I will often drink a tall glass of white wine and Poland water, or 'poly' water.

"At public dinners I sometimes drink a glass of champaign, or perhaps two. I think that on an average this means that I will drink champagne about once a month.

Mint Juleps Occasionally.

"The only exceptions to what I have stated about drinking whisky and brandy are as follows:

"IMnt juleps I very rarely drank. In the White House we had a mint bed, and I should think that on the average I may have drank half a dozen mint juleps a year.

"Since I left the White House four years ago, to the best of my memory, I have drunk mint juleps twice; on one occasion at the Country club at St. Louis, where I drank part of a glass of mint julep, and on another occasion at a big luncheon given me at Little Rock, Ark., where they passed round the table a loving cup with the mint julep in it, and I drank when the cup was passed to me."

Both Sides Want Closing.

Both sides are anxious to get the last crack at the jury and prepared to battle hard for the position of advantage.

Attorney James H. Pound of Detroit, representing Colonel Roosevelt, will take the position that all that is necessary to prove the preliminary case against Newett is to introduce the copy of the Ishpeming Iron Ore containing the offending article as evidence, and then take the statement of Colonel Roosevelt himself that the printed statement is totally untrue. If Mr. Pound has his way, when this much is done, it will be up to Newett to prove the charge he has made against Roosevelt, if he has the witnesses, so to do, while the Roosevelt side will hold its hot shot in the shape of character testimony from the homes of the most famous men in the world to be introduced in rebuttal.

On the other hand Mr. Belden, counsel for Newett, will insist that the entire Roosevelt case be presented at the start.

The dean replied that the university would be glad to do so.

Washington, May 26. — President Wilson's attack on the lobby maintained in Washington against the administration's tariff bill fell like a bomb among the opponents of the measure. The president's statement was immediately interpreted here as notice by him that he is ready to fight for free sugar and free wool to the finish and that he intends to go directly to the people of the country for his support.

BAPTISTS URGE SOCIAL SERVICE

Labor's Right to Organize Is Given Recognition.

REPORT MADE BY COMMISSION

Declaration of Principles Embrace Demand for a Living Wage in Every Industry, Pensions, Protection Against Unemployment, Single Standard and Conservation of Health.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—The attitude of the Northern Baptist church in matters relating to labor, the home and family and social service was set forth in the report of the social service commission, read by Rev. Samuel Zane Batten before the convention now in session here. The commission presented a declaration of principles which are to be adopted by the church as its platform in dealing with these subjects.

Right of both laborer and employers to organize is recognized. Adequate means of conciliation and arbitration urged.

A living wage as a minimum in every industry and for the highest wage that each industry can afford.

For gradual and reasonable reduction in hours of labor to the lowest practical point.

Conservation of Health.

Conservation of health and protection of the worker from dangerous machinery, occupational disease and mortality.

Suitable provision for worker in old age and for those incapacitated by injury.

For right of all men to the opportunity for self-maintenance and for protection of the worker from the hardships of enforced unemployment.

For a new emphasis upon the application of Christian principles to the acquisition and use of property and for the most equitable division of the product of industry that can be devised.

For the protection of the family by the single standard of purity, uniform divorce laws, proper regulation of marriage and proper housing.

Safeguard Workingwomen.

For such regulations of the conditions of toil for women as shall safeguard the physical and moral health of the community.

For the protection of the individual and society from the social, economic and moral waste o fthe liquor traffic.

The adoption by each church affiliated with the convention of a constructive program of social service, and to seek to enlist its members directly in some forms of practical social service.

Theological seminaries to have courses in social service that shall train pastors and workers for church leadership in community betterment.

Increase in social service commission from 15 to 18 members, the three new members to be women, and that one woman member of the commission be elected each year.

Mrs. Pankhurst Back in Jail.

London, May 28. — Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the militant suffragettes, is back in Holloway jail, from which she was released on ticket of leave on April 12 because of her enfeebled condition, resulting from a hunger strike. She has been sentenced to three years for inciting malicious damage to property.

ARENA IS IN RUINS

Flames Come As Aftermath to Prize Fight Tragedy.

M'CARTY DIED OF BROKEN NECK

At Calgary, Alberta, Tommy Burns' prize fight arena, in which Luther McCarty was killed in the fight with Arthur Pelkey, was burned to the ground during the night.

The cause of the fire has not been explained.

Four deaths were narrowly averted. Wesley Bensen, his wife and two children were asleep in one corner of the building, and they escaped just in time.

The fire was discovered at 11 o'clock, but had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building. Authorities believe it to be the work of incendiaries. An investigation is being made.

Cause of McCarty's Death.

A dislocated neck caused the death of McCarty, according to information given out following an autopsy conducted by Dr. Moshier at the request of Coroner Costello.

The heart was found to be sound. A clot of blood on the brain aided in convincing the physicians that death was not due to the blow near the heart.

Shortly after the contest began, McCarty received a sharp jab to the jaw which sent his head back quickly. It did not appear to have caused any pain and he was afterward on his feet for half a minute. The left to the jaw was followed by Pelkey with a right to the heart region, which caused the spectators to believe the latter blow had brought the knockout.

Says Prize Fighting Is Illegal.

In discussing the case the crown prosecutor stated that all prize fighting is illegal under the laws of Canada. It was intimated that in addition to the charge of manslaughter against Pelkey, other charges would be placed against Tommy Burns, as promoter, Eddie Smith of Chicago, as referee, and Billy McCarney, manager for McCarthy. These, however, are not expected for some time.

THREE SOLDIERS DIE; NINE OTHERS INJURED

Terrific Gun Explosion Occurs at Fort Moultrie.

Three soldiers were killed and nine seriously injured at Fort Moultrie when the breech blew off a three-inch gun which was being used for night target practice. Privates Baker, Christensen and Dalton were killed, the former two being cut in two and dying instantly.

Captain Hanna, who was standing with several other officers of the coast artillery,w as badly wounded in the side by a fragment from the exploded cannon. Hospital Steward Lamar was injured in the right arm and hand.

It was reported that the breach had not been properly closed after the insertion of a cartridge and that when the cap was exploded the breech was thrown back with terrific force.

THIRTY-FIVE KILLED AND HUNDRED HURT

At Long Beach, Cal., the very latest reports show that fully thirty-five persons were killed and about 100 injured when the stage and a part of the flooring of the municipal auditorium, at the shore end of the pier, collapsed during the Empire day ceremonies, a celebration by British societies in honor of the birth anniversary of the late Queen Victoria.

A thousand or more persons had crowded into the building, close to the stage, and officers of the various celebration committees and English societies, which had participated in a parade, had just ascended the rostrum when the crash came.

Everyone on the stage went through the flooring into the sands below and according to police reports there may be more bodies in the wreckage. A panic ensued among the 7,000 or more spectators and many were injured in the rush.

WILLIAMS FAVORS THE MARRIED MEN

Amendment to Income Tax Bill Will Strike at Bachelors.

Senator John S. Williams of Mississippi, who is chairman of the subcommittee of the senate finance committee, which is considering the income tax bill, has decided to urge an important amendment to that measure. Mr. Williams' amendment will be designed to favor the married man as against the bachelor in the levying of an income tax.

The bill in its present form hits bachelors and benedicts impartially and Senator Williams maintains that this is unfair and contrary to the professions of the Democrats that they are levying a tax upon the basis of a man's ability to pay.

COMPANY PAYS EXPENSE

Treasurer Says Corporation Bears for Woods' Defense.

At Boston, Mass., William H. Dwelly, treasurer and director of the American Woolen company, again took the witness stand at the trial of William W. Wood, president of the woolen company; Frederick E. Atteaux, John J. Breen and Dennis J. Collins, charged with conspiracy to "plant" dynamite in Lawrence to discredit textile strikers during the industrial troubles of 1912.

Dwelly said that both the executive committee and the board of directors of the woolen comapny voted last December that the company should defray the expenses of President Wood's defense, but no payment on that account had yet been made.

LABOR CHIEFS DEFIANT

Prepare Defense and Promise Sensation Before House.

Chicago, May 28. — Officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor who have been summoned before the bar of the house of representatives Tuesday to prove charges that William Lorimer directed the fight which kept members of the house from voting for the initiative and referendum prepared a statement which they expect to submit in their defense.

The nature of the statement was not revealed, but in labor circles it was reported that it will create a sensation when it is made public.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Albion township officials are investigating recent killings of sheep in South Albion, perpetrated it is thought, by dogs coming out from the city at night. One man lost 10 of his best wool-growers and at least 25 sheep have been killed.

Declaring that his wife could not be convinced that the grass was green, and that she had threatened her life on several occasions, William H. Lacey of Port Huron petitioned the probate court to send her to a private sanitarium at Flint.

In the preliminary hearing of his suit for divorce at Jackson Daniel Dolson testified that his wife was so quarrelsome that he slept in the barn for months to avoid her. Dolson and his wife, who were married in 1869, separated three years ago.

Bakers of Saginaw have appeared before the common council committee and objected to a proposed ordinance which would necessitate the bakers labeling their loaves as to weight and that the loaves must hold the weight for eight hours after baking.

Because he was put off a street car at Goguac lake, near Battle Creek, on May 13, Henry J. Belfast of Battle Creek has sued the Michigan United Traction company for $2,000 damages. Belfast alleges that he had paid his fare to ride to Battle Creek.

As a last resort to save or prolong the life of Mrs. Herman Fyke of Boyne Falls, her husband allowed an incision to be made in his arm and without taking an anaesthetic, lay for an hour while surgeons at Petoskey hospital transfused blood from his radical artery to a vein in the arm of his wife.

Thomas Morris, laborer, told the officers of Pontiac he had been enticed into a woods out Baldwin street by three men and tied to a tree, where he was kept 13 hours until a boy passing that way released him. Deputy Sheriff Kamp went out to investigate, and finding no evidence of any struggle, arrested Morris.

F. E. Knapp, deposed superintendent of the Ithaca public schools, has served notice on the school board that he will start suit for his salary for the next two years, for which he has a contract. The citizens have started circulating petitions asking the school board to call a special meeting of the school district so that the voters may advise the board relative to defense of the threatened suit.

On motion of Charles B. Warren of Michigan, the Republican executive committee, in session at Washington Saturday, unanimously voted to call a meeting of the national committee 60 days after the adjournment of congress to determine the advisability of calling a national convention. The passage of the resolution is regarded, in effect, as the first step toward calling the convention, which will consider ways and means of bringing the warring Republican factions together, by a reorganization of the party machinery.

Governor Ferris has issued a proclamation asking the observance of June 14 as flag day.

The first annual convention of the Catholic Church Federation will be held in Grand Rapids June 25 and 26.

Francis A. Rich, 98, the oldest resident of Grand Rapids, is dead. He had lived there since 1855, and was one of the city's first settlers.

Chester Wisner of Bay City was found guilty of misappropriating about $300 of United States Express Company funds, was placed on five years' probation by Circuit Judge C. L. Collins.

The Big Rapids broom factory will close next month indefinitely. John Otis, proprietor, declares a slump in business to be due to proposed tariff changes. At present the factory has on hand 3,000 dozen brooms.

Deputy State Highway Commissioner Rogers says that Jackson county want to build 12 miles of trunk line highway this year, and Calhoun county is making preparations to construct four and one-half miles of road.

Scalded by water from an overturned tea kettle, Norman, 3, and Charles, 5, sons of Mrs. Mae Hawley of Big Rapids, are in a serious condition. The youngsters were playing around a gasoline stove and upset the steaming kettle.

Mary Crill of Clare, who was held to the present term of circuit court in connection with the death of her husband, who was found dead in bed several weeks ago, has been discharged. The jury returned a verdict vindicating her.

When a thief entered the barn of John Maylon, Battle Creek, and stole his horse, he overlooked the harness. Maylon, reporting the horse theft to the police, couldn't help making a remark to this effect, but later the thief returned and stole the harness.

Harry Hanson, 23, a character around Saginaw, was found dead in the rear seat of an automobile in a garage. Near him was an empty bottle which had contained chloroform. The night before he had talked suicide because he had quarreled with his sweetheart.

The last request of Charles J. Potter before his death at Corunna was that the services of a minister be dispensed with at his funeral. Consequently the only service at his burial was the ritual of Corunna commandery, Knights Templar, of which Potter was a member.

Claude Bissonette, the Saginaw young man who had a wife and three children and married a young girl in Jackson and lived for three months under the name of John Berry, has been taken to Jackson prison to serve an indeterminate sentence of from one and a half to three years.

Golda Meyers, 2 years old, of Bedford, met death while buggy riding with her parents. She was playing in the buggy and slipped, her head lodging between two bows supporting the top of the buggy. In struggling to withdraw her head it became wedged tighter and she strangled to death.

When Marion L. Wright, a carpenter and contractor, went home to dinner at Owosso he found the house full of smoke and his wife was lying unconscious on the floor. Soon after the arrival of a physician the woman died, supposedly from paralysis. The smoke was caused by a cake she had left in the baking oven.

Leaping from their new automobile on a crossing of the Grand Trunk near Vicksburg, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crouch narrowly escaped death when a freight train crashed into and demolished the car a moment later. In some way Crouch stopped the machine on the crossing. The couple, bride and bridegroom of three days, were unhurt.

Suit has been started by Mrs. Anna Neff against Frank Pardon, an Ann Arbor baker, for $10,000 under the employers liability act, for the death of her husband, Joseph Neff, March 9. Neff was a driver for Pardon and the wagon was struck by a street car, so injuring Neff that he died two days later. Pardon did not have Neff insured.

The Gettysburg commission of the state of Michigan desires to impress upon every veteran who intends to attend the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, to be held July 1, 2, 3, next, the necessity of advising the commission whether he expects to be present or not, so that the authorities having in charge the preparations for the event may be notified of the number for whom they will have to provide.

Forty-two thousand one hundred and nine automobile licenses have been issued so far this year. This is more than were issued during 1912 altogether. There have been 3,467 chauffeur licenses issued, showing that there are 38,642 cars in the state without professional drivers. The secretary of state has issued 3,964 motorcycle licenses. This is also more than were issued last year.

William Ladd, 8 years old, who has given the Ypsilanti police no little trouble, was taken in charge Saturday after he had removed a pocketbook containing considerable money from a store. Last fall the police caught him taking billiard balls from the Knights of Pythias club rooms. In an effort to cure his mania for taking things, his father made a leather harness for the boy, which he compelled him to wear to school. The harness secured the boy's hands behind his back until he reached school, when the teacher would remove it. When school was dismissed the teacher would put the harness back on the boy and he would wear it home.

What is the origin of "Mind your P's and Q's?"

There are two different origins, one that it came from the custom of chalking up behind the alehouse doors the debts due from customers, in which the number of pints and quarts they owed for were made by strokes opposite the letters "P" and "Q." The second is that it came from the printing office. The "p" in "q" in small Roman type are so near alike that they are always puzzling the printer's apprentice, so "Mind your P's and Q's" was a common injunction in the printing office.

What is best to use on top of jelly glasses to keep the jelly from molding?

There is nothing better than cotton batting for preventing mold forming on the top of all kinds of preserves. Lay the batting over the mouth of the jar and tie with a strong string. Over this covering, string and all, paste a bit of white paper dipped into the beaten white of an egg. The sealing should not be delayed, as jellies exposed to the air are apt to gather damp.

Do the army engineers make the coast and geodetic surveys?

No; the department of commerce has charge of the bureau.

Yes.

How can I take rust off steel?

Kerosene is a good medium for removing rust from steel, but the article will require polishing afterward. Rusted steel should be soaked in any kind of oil for some hours or overnight if thought necessary; then it should be washed and scrubbed in hot soapsuds to remove all grease and finally be rubbed with sandpaper or finer emery to give a polish. If the rust has eaten into the steel, then there is nothing to do but to send it to be refinished.

What is the rice crop of the world?

It is impossible to give an accurate estimate, for so many countries growing rice furnish no statistics. In 1911 Egypt, Italy, Japan, Spain and the United States produced about 438,000,000 bushels.

HOW A HORSE GALLOPS.

Conventional Mode of Representation and Its Origin.

How does a horse gallop? Owing to the rapidity of action it cannot be seen by the human eye. However, just as the individual spokes of a rapidly revolving wheel can be made visible by a flash of lightning, so the action of a galloping horse can be and has been analyzed by instantaneous photography.

The statuette of Sysonby, the thoroughbred, has been made from photographs taken at the instant when all four legs are off the ground. The back is arched, the hind feet are directed forward, the fore feet backward, so that all are tucked under the animal's body.

When the limbs again touch the ground the first to do so is one of the hind feet, which is thrust far forward so as to form an acute angle with the line of the body, and thus serve the purpose of a spring in breaking the force of the impact of the hoof when the horse is going at top speed.

In the conventional mode of representing a galloping horse all four legs are off the ground at once, but the front pair are extended backward in such a way that the under surfaces of their hoofs are directed skyward, the body being at the same time brought near the ground. This conventional pose appears to have been derived from a dog running, when the front and hind pairs of legs are respectively extended forward and backward, with the soles of the hind feet turned upward.

This pose, it is thought, was adopted to represent the gallop of the horse by the goldsmiths of Mycenae, between 800 and 1000 B. C., whence it was transmitted by way of Persia and Siberia to China and Japan, to return to the eighteenth century, as the result of commercial relations, to western Europe.

THREE KINDS OF CEMENT.

Portland, the Natural and Puzzolan or Slag Cement.

There are available for construction purposes Portland, natural and puzzolan or slag cements. Only Portland cement is suitable for reinforced concrete.

Portland cement is the finely pulverized product resulting from the calcination to incipient fusion of an intimate mixture of properly proportioned varying within comparatively narrow limits.

Portland cement should be used in reinformed concrete construction and any construction that will be subject to shocks or vibrations or stresses other than direct compression.

Natural cement is the finely pulverized product resulting from the calcination of an argillaceous limestone at a temperature only sufficient to drive off the carbonic acid gas. While the limestone must have a certain composition this composition may vary in much wider limits than in the case of Portland cement. Natural cement does not develop its strength as quickly, nor is it as uniform in composition as Portland cement.

Natural cement may be used in massive masonry where weight rather than strength is the essential feature. Where economy is the governing factor a comparison may be made between the use of natural cement and a leaner mixture of Portland cement that will develop the same strength.

Puzzolan or slag cement is the finely pulverized product resulting from grinding a mechanical mixture of granulated basic blast furnace slag and hydrated lime. Puzzolan cement is not nearly so strong, uniform or reliable as Portland or natural cement, is not extensively used and never in important work; it should be used only for foundation work underground where it is not exposed to air or running water.

Why Steel Is Painted Red.

"Why is iron or steel invariably painted red?"

This question has been asked by scores of men and women recently, who have walked over Hungerford Bridge on the way to Waterloo Station from Charing Cross. Workmen have been busy for some time painting the steel work of the structure a beautiful carmine.

In America it has been noticed that most of the skyscraper steel frames are first painted red and then some other color. This is also the case with steel bridges and ironwork of all kinds.

One of the workmen on the Hungerford bridge job was asked why the bridge was being painted red.

"Oh, it's not the color that counts," he said, "but it's what the paint is composed of. This is red lead, and any steel man will tell you that red lead is the best preservative against dampness and rust. Recently a dark green lead has come into use as a first coat for iron and steel, but, after all, red lead seems to hold its own as a covering to preserve steel work. When the red lead is once on it the structure can be painted in any other color to suit the taste. The red lead lasts years."

Of all the yarns that ever came down the line regarding deep mud, the following should be entitled to the blue ribbon. It happened in the place where mud originated.

A man was walking along the roadside one summer day and noticed a fairly good looking hat out in the road. Reaching out with his cane, he gave it a cut and was startled to hear a voice exclaim: "Here, what the deuce are you doing?"

Then he made the astonishing discovery that the owner of the headpiece was under the hat, up to his ears in mud.

"Great heavens!" exclaimed the man who had hit the hat. "Is that mud as deep as that?"

An Onion Soup Cure.

The great dean of a great profession when too merry is kept in bed by his wife for two or three days and fed on onion soup. All the shutters are kept closed and the rooms darkened until perfect recovery to usual gayety and balance comes. The pair have stood many triumphs, many sorrows and many honors. It is not past belief that George D. Prentice or Tom Marshall had still lived on such good wifely devotion.

Importance of Proper Breathing.

Improper breathing is a frequent cause of consumption. A large majority of people are too lazy or too ignorant to breathe deep, and hence the lungs are developed only to part of their capacity and thus afford fertile field for the growth of the tuberculosis germ.

WESTMINISTER GUILD

The Westminister Guild of the Presbyterian church met with Miss Margeret Waldron Tuesday evening, the topic of the evening was "Mormanism as a life" which was brought out by stories told by several of the members.

A story of a Morman girl was told by Miss Anna Cutting. Mrs. Richard Molles gave a short paper on "Early Utah" followed by Miss Alice Bradley with a sketch of Utah

The program was very interesting, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at the close of the work.

U. OF M. SUFFERS FROM FIRE

Flames were discovered by the night watch of the U. of M. at 6:30 Wednesday morning in the south wing of University Hall. The fire destroyed the whole fourth floor with the apparatus on that floor and doing great damage to the second and third floors. The students were out enmass helping to fight the fire and by the united efforts of the fire department and the students the main part of the huge buliding was saved. The loss of the building can soon be made good but the loss of apparatus and specimens in the "zoo" is a total loss that will take many years to make good.

Prof. Calvin Henry Kaufman suffers more than any other in this fire, his life work the collecting and preparing notes on the Fungi of Michigan being reduced to ashes. No record of Michigan Fungi now exists, his work was derr completion and would soon have been put in book form.

Church Choir Rows.

Time and again we have, and we shall always have, churches bolted against their pastors over a choir row, for where music is there abideth also rumpus. Artistic temperament seems to bring a cross-patch disposition in which there is more counterpoint than harmony. Military bands, church choirs or grand operas are harder to manage than bags of fleas, and the poor dominies, bandmasters and impresarios are entitled to pity. If the shades of Abbey, Grau and Conried could speak as the waters do speak while they flow, they would unfold a cynic's tale to sour and sorrow the soul.

Busy English County.

The county of Lancashire, England, employs 116,300 people in its coal mines, producing 28,000,000 to 30,000,000 tons of coal yearly. In 1908 the output per person employed was 248.3 tons. The death and accident rate is high; last year 24 per cent. of the miners received injuries requiring medical attendance. Lives lost numbered 206.

Good Gunnery at Sea.

If our navy's gunners can shoot little targets so full of holes nobody is able to see the exact score they can shoot up an enemy's big battleships so thoroughly that nobobdy can tell or many care to know which guns won the victory. The target practice off the Virginia capes should make every American proud of our ships and of the men in them.

Lobsters from Canada.

The importation of lobsters into the United States in 1908 amounted to 8,212,945 pounds, valued at $1,401,499. Most of them came from Canada.

I. O. O. F. AT ONSTED

Quite a delegation of Tecumseh Lodge No. 14 I. O. O. F. went to Onsted Thursday night, where a new Lodge of the order was instituted, Adrian Lodge worked the initiatory degree, while the Tecumseh Lodge worked the second degree.

A fine banquet was served by the men of Onsted, and a good fraternal visit was enjoyed by all.

EVOLUTION OF MAN.

What a vast gulf lies between
What man is now and what he's been,
We've traced him far beyond the cave
To his inception neath the wave;
Of young earth's sun-kissed tepid sea
Where wriggling creatures were to be,
Evolved by nature's fostering care
To leave the sea and breathe the air;
Of this grand terestrial sphere
Making circuits every year,
Around its parent mother sun
Whose circuits scarcely have begun;
Around that grand magnetic force
That keeps celestials in their course,
And comets speeding space all through
Magnetic forces to renew.
But let us now return to man
Whose gulf we've tried so long to span,
From his final rest in grave
If there ever was a fall
Ignorance is to blame for all,
The folly, crime, and vice
Since he lost his paradise.
We know that man's endowed with mind
But unwittingly has gone it blind.
Blundered on from sun to sun
As unthinkers all have done.
He sows but scarcely ever reaps
While wife and helpless offspring weeps.
Vice and hunger; strife and crime
Have taken up his precious time.
Some time he will mend his ways
And emerge from night to sun-kissed days.
His ignorance vice and crime discard
And walk in life's grand boulivard
No more his precious moments waste
But sweets of life's grand cup will taste,
Adjust himself to nature's plan
Enthroned, resplendant, natural man
This fully developed natural man
Will fit snugly into nature's laws.
Tracing effects back to their cause,
Measuring all things for their worth
While building heaven on the earth,
The millenium then so long sought for
Will be enjoyed forever more.

City's Charter Centuries Old.

A 600-year old charter granted by King Edward I. to Aberystwyth, (Cardigan), Wales, has been discovered by Dr. Lewis of the University College of Wales, in a search for documents for the town council. It was granted to Llanbadarn, the name of the ancient church and parish. In consequence of the direction in the charter that markets should be held on Monday, Aberystwyth keeps bank holidays on Tuesdays.

Extravagance Wasted.

"What's doing?" asked the tall plumber. "You're all dolled up." "Had a date with my best girl," explained the short bricklayer. "But aren't you going to keep it?" "I showed up all right, but she wasn't there." "That was pretty tough." "I wouldn't care," said the short bricklayer, "only I went and had my shoes shined all for nothing."—Youngstown Telegram.

Inculcating Right Views.

Some people hold that children should hear sad things to cultivate their sympathy. Might it not be just as effective to teach them to sympathize with gladness? Is it not much easier to weep with those that weep than it is to really rejoice with those who do rejoice? It is a very hardened heart that is not softened at the sight of pain and distress, while it requires something higher and nobler to be glad when another has some pleasure or happiness greater than we possess.

Mrs. M. Smeltzer entertained fourteen of her old neighbors at her home Wednesday afternoon. A three course dinner was served at 6 o'clock. The afternoon was given to an old time social chat, and at its close the guests all voted Mrs Smeltzer a royal entertainer.

Evidently the much talked of and commented upon, and perhaps many times scored "Jup Pluv" has ceased to utter ejaculations of wet substance, as today the city takes on a very beautiful aspect. The weather is greeted with pleasure by local people and hopes are high that it will continue over the Memorial day period, as for the past few years has intertered with the day's service. Adrian Times. So hope we all of us.

KEEPS THE KIDNEYS WELL

Many Tecumseh people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers.

A. H. Forche, 136 E. Maumee St., Adrian, Mich., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a valuable remedy for kidney trouble and lame back. I used this preparation for these complaints and received satisfactory results. Since I took Doan's Kidney Pills, my kidneys have been normal and the lameness in my back has disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Every married man ought to live next door to a model husband.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain back, hip and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They are a splendid remedy for rheumatism, clearing the uric acid from the joints and system. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh

The village band makes sweet music, but it isn't in it with the village carpenter.

BEST MEDICINE FOR COLDS

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he is talking about. C. Lower, Druggists of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son.

This Interest Every Woman

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for for their kidneys and bladder, they they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine at such times. They are a tonic in action, quick in results. They will help you. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

PRINCESS LOUISE

Kaiser's Daughter Who Has Become the Bride of Prince Ernst.

BERLIN — After many weeks of hard work and feverish activity the royal wedding, which made Princess Victoria Louise the wife of Prince Ernst of Cumberland took place. Among the distinguished guests at the wedding were King George and Queen Mary of England, the Czar of Russia and a score or more of princes and high dignitaries sent as the representatives of the various other European dynasties and governments.

Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature' own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a hard cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin—you feel "blue."

"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, breast, and body," writes MR. JAMES G. KENT, of 710 L Street, S. E., Washington, D. C. "Some called it La Grippe, some pneumonia. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before using your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

O'HARA NOT GUILTY

Illinois Lieutenant Governor Exonerated in Report.

At Springfield, Ill., Barratt O'Hara, the lieutenant governor, was declared not guilty of the charges of misconduct against him by the Ettelson senate investigation committee, which submitted its report to the senate.

The O'Hara body also received a censure for its methods of inquisition, which prompted Davis to arm himself with the Robinson woman's affidavit preparatory to appearing as a witness before the commission.

LOYAL LEGION MEETS

Delegates from All Over Country Attend Congress.

At Chicago more than 500 delegates from all over the United States assembled at the twelfth quadrennial congress of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, which convened in Memorial hall.

Colonel Arnold A. Rand, U. S. V., Boston, Mass., commander-in-chief, presided and the roll was called by Brevet Lieutenant Colonel U. S. V. John P. Nicholson, recorder in chief, of Philadelphia.

The order is composed of officers and honorably discharged officers of the army, navy and marine corps. The legion is divided into twenty-one commanderies with a membership covering all the large cities of the country.

Mrs. Pankhurst Back in Jail.

At London England Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the militant suffragettes, is back in Holloway jail, from which she was released on ticket of leave on April 12 because of her enfeebled condition, resulting from a hunger strike. She has been sentenced to three years for inciting malicious damage to property.

Hot Stockings.

A certain large engineering firm lately received an order in Russian, and, although the receiver of it had a fair knowledge of the language, there were two words he was unable to translate. Somewhere in the works, however, a real Russian was employed. They brought him along, and he read the letter carefully, but was still puzzled by these two words. Literally, he explained their meaning was "hot stockings," which seemed absurd, but was presently seen to be the nearest-known Russian synonym for "fire hose."—Manchester Guardian

Easy Method of Divorce.

A wholesale grocer in Pittsburgh Fideli Isabella, hit upon an easy method of divorce and was practicing it sedulously when the law yanked him up with a sharp turn. Isabella in turn had taken three wives without the formality of legal divorces. He burned the marriage certificates of the first two, however, and convinced himself that such all that was needed to free himself from his matrimonial bonds. Now Isabella is in jail, with charges of bigamy against him.

And Yet the Dance Halls Thrive.

Young Man (approaching a girl)—"Er-er—may I have this one? Oh, you're too kind. You don't mind if I hum, do you? Do you know, I'm just dippy over this here dip. Tee-hee, joke. Floor's swell tonight, ain't it? Gee, but I like to dance with you! Tell that to every girl? Not on your life! Seems as if I must have met you somewheres before. Wish I had, though. Well, I'll be; that's all. Short and sweet, yep—just like you. Tee-hee. See you later."

Man Prayed for Associates.

In protest against the refusal of the Winchester board of guardians to deal with the case of a widow already under the care of the relieving officer, Stephen Bull, a member, twice knelt down and prayed for divine guidance for the board. When a suspension of the sitting was ordered he called the members "heathen dogs," and fell on his knees and again prayed in a loud voice as they left the room.—London Mail.

THE PHOTOGRAPHIC EYE.

Superstition That Retina Holds Last Seen Image.

The grossest superstitions die just as hard as those which have some finer points to smooth over their grip upon the human mind. In an Illinois town the authorities propose to take a picture of a murdered young woman's eye in the belief that the portrait of the murderer will be found on the retina. The age of this superstition is uncertain, but it has lived a long time. Belief in it is not so widespread, as it once was, however, but that men of supposed intelligence intend to act upon it is not a wreath upon their intellectual progress.

The picture upon the retina of a dead person's eye superstition may have come from the fact that pictures may be made employing the eye for a lens, but this is scarcely probable. To men who still believe that the picture of the last object seen by the human eye before its owner expires, the mystery of chemistry and photography is as deep to-day as before its working formulae were made known by the early investigators. It is nothing to such men as those Illinois police authorities that the eye is simply a lens itself which only transmit light. They would never dream of trying to get a picture on any other lens, one made of glass, for instance, for they know that the picture is not made upon the lens. But bowing their knees to superstition, they publicly declare they expect to find a picture of this young woman's murderer, visible upon the retina of her eyes.

It is when reading of such feats as this that one is most inclined to admit that the need of technical education is indeed great.

Lightning is Queer.

In Alnwick an old man and woman were sitting at dinner when a flash of lightning struck their house. It came through to the dining room between them, then made for a gun in the corner of the room, which it smashed to atoms, and finally went to the earth through the door. Neither of the two occupants were hurt.

In another case the lightning came down the chimney, bringing bricks and mortar on to the top of a small boy who was playing in front of the fire. It went across the room killing a dog that was under the table and out of the door. The boy was unhurt.

In appealing for help for the sufferers from the storm the Rev. A. A. Hancock, rector of Little Stughton, St. Neots, writes: "Scarcely a window pane which met the force of the storm remains unbroken. The effect of the bombardment for it was nothing less, was terrible. One end of the village presents almost the appearance of a battlefield. Crops are ruined, the wheat, barley, oats and beans, just ready to reap, were literally thrashed as they stood, scarcely an ear retaining any grain."

A Chinese Forestry School.

The almost world wide movement to protect and establish forests has reached China and the first Chinese school of forestry will shortly be opened in Moukden, according to a recent report by Consul General James W. Ragsdale, at Tien-Tsin. The Chinese Empire is sometimes pointed out as the worst example among modern nations of forest destruction. The floods which are periodically poured down from the denuded mountains are destroying beyond comparishon with those of any other country, and the want of forests is assigned the chief cause. Wood is scarcer in China than in almost any other inhabited region of the world, although the country is well adapted to the growing of trees. In the establishing of a forestry school the Chinese Government gives evidence that it realizes the need of beginning its reformation in a scientific manner.

Timid Diamonds.

The lapidary was about to cut the tail off a tadpole-shaped yellow diamond.

"The chances are," he said, "that this fellow will turn white from terror when I split him. If he does, his value will go up 200 per cent."

The lapidary set his steel knife in position he prepared to strike on the knife's back the momentous blow.

"Wish me luck," he said.

And the hammer fell, the amputated tail dropped down into the box underneath, and lo, the yellow diamond that had been split, was now quite white.

"The yellow taint," the cutter explained, "was only in the tail. Yet the taint was reflected all through the stone, and this made it seem of a uniform yellow throughout. Now the taint is gone and our yellow diamond is a pure white one.

"The miracle happens fairly often."

Rain From Father's Head.

A bright little boy of two summers was unconcernedly playing near his father, who was laboriously occupied with a difficult task which caused big beads of presperation to drop from his forehead. Presently the lad ceased his play. Looking at his parent doubtfully a moment, he ran swiftly to his mother and, assuming a pained expression, pointed to his father, saying plaintively: "Oo, mamma, see! Poor papa head rainin'."

Bokhara Sheep.

The department of agriculture is seriously considering the introduction into this country of Bokhara sheep, from which comes the fur called Persian lamb. All astrakhan fur is now raised on territory tributary to the Caspian sea. The best fur is taken from the lamb when it is only four or five days old. The Bokhara sheep also makes good mutton.

To Thine Ownself Be True.

Take it not grievously if some think ill of thee, and speak that thou wouldst not willingly bear. Thou oughtest to be the hardest judge of thyself, and to think no one weaker than thyself. If thou dost walk righteously, thou wilt not much weigh fleeting words.—Thomas A. Kempis.

Additional Comforts.

"I see your rates here are double on rainy days," said the drummer. "What is the reason for that?"

"Sir," replied Landlord Sparerib, "a careful examination of this hostelry will convince you that all our rooms are furnished with baths at that time."

A Bedside Talk With Anne

I was tired out.

I lay just on the brink of sleep—that really absorbing, refreshing slumber that only very weary know. How cosey it was to snuggle down between the sheets. I was just drifting away into a doze with the beat of dance music still in my ears when I heard the door creak softly and the "plump" of some one who felt like a large cat springing on to my bed.

"Who—why—oh, dear!" I began.

"It's Anne, Amanda!" said Anne's voice.

"What on earth, do you want to come and wake me up for—is the house on fire?"

"Not exactly," said Anne's voice.

"Well, go back to bed," I said, heartlessly; "if you aren't thoroughly worn out with dancing I am."

"You didn't dance as much as I did, either," said Anne, gently.

This was more than I could bear, "Good night," I said, shortly.

"Don't be silly, Amanda; it isn't good night, it's good morning. Do help me, I really am exceedingly unhappy"—I made no answer—"and don't be horrid to me because I may be Lady St. Maire in about five minutes, or Mrs. R. Hicks or Mrs. Graham Forbes—and I won't ask you to be my bridesmaid—or, if I do, I shall choose pink hats—and pink makes you look yellow; you know it does."

"Anne," I said, "you are sitting on my feet."

"Oh, poor dear, I am sorry. But never mind, you have waked up; that is the chief thing. I have got such heaps to tell you! I feel so excited, Amanda; Lord St. Maire has asked me to marry him!"

"I congratulate you, Anne," I said coldly.

"Why, you seem to take it for granted I jumped at him—what a horrid expression—but I didn't. I mean I stepped quietly at him, and said, 'Yes, I should love to be Lady St. Maire.' Oh, think of it! No more turned frocks, silk petticoats always, and ermines and motors and precedence." Her eyes were gib with wonder.

"Mama will be charmed," I said. "Did you think it necessary to wake her up to tell her? Also, there are heaps more people in the house—cook, for instance, and Peters and Lizzie—why not disturb their peaceful slumbers also? Really, you might have told me as we drove home, or before I settled down to sleep."

"Dear, darling Amanda, don't be cross. I couldn't talk on the way home because I was so worried."

"But why—why?"

"Mr. Hicks proposed to me, too."

"My dear Anne, you seem to have been a sort of Circe—but, at any rate, you had no need to enchant your wine; he is already rather like a pig."

"Yes, isn't he? And so businesslike. He made his proposal to me at supper, between two spoonfuls of chicken rissoles. I am not quite certain that he didn't begin 're matrimony,' but he did say that he wanted a pretty wife to help him entertain decent people at his big house near Hyde Park."

"Of course, you told him you were going to marry Lord St. Maire?" I said, reverting to the real subject. Anne has a way of rushing down a side street, metaphorically speaking, which is annoying.

Anne sighed deeply. "No, I don't" she said. "I was so delighted at the thought of being Mrs. Croesus that I—I said 'Yes' to him, too!"

"Anne!"

"Oh! I know it was thoughtless," she said softly; "very very careless of me, but I have a bad memory."

She looked very sweet, and quite pathetic as she spoke—I really think she regretted her forgetfulness, but I was unrelenting.

"I think you behaved outrageously," I said, "positively abominable!"

"Oh, wait," she cried; "don't use up all those big, horrid words till you are aware of the full extent of my crimes. Graham Forbes also asked me to marry him"—her eyes grew reminiscent. "He did it very nicely—in a balcony with a big round moon shining on us, and masses of pink and mauve hydrangeas all over the place."

"I suppose you accepted him also," I said sarcastically.

Anne nodded her fair head. "Yes, I did," she said.

"Oh! Annie," I cried, "what will you do?"

Anne stifled her laughter.

"And they are all coming to luncheon on Thursday, she said.

"Thursday is Peter's day out, and we never have a hot luncheon then. Oh, dear, what will mama say?"

"I think I shall tell them all I've got the measles," she said. "How long does it take one to recover from measles—six weeks or three weeks? Anyhow, it would give me time to think what to do, and they would all send me flowers and sweets in the mean time. But I forgot, they will ask papa's consent. What fun! Poor papa! He will be so bewildered! I can just imagine him saying, 'I have no control over Anne; ask her mother,' And mama would say, 'I can never influence my youngest daughter; you must consult her father.' How farcical! What are they all doing now, do you suppose! I can guess. Lord St. Maire is arguing with his people who think me very—well, flighty. Mr. Hicks, bless his kind heart, is deciding how much dress allowance I shall ask for, and how he will beat me down. Graham is probably writing verses."

"My dear Anne," I said wearily, "was there a single man at the dance who did not propose to you?" I meant to be sarcastic, but Anne took me quite seriously.

"There were a few," she said, "who didn't succumb to my charms. Among them"—she paused, and a little color crept into her cheeks—"among them, Billy. But of course Billy is such a dear old stupid, he would never think about girls; he is much too big and nice looking and lazy. I believe if there had been no red carpet last night he would have taken off his dress coat and put it on the pavement for us to walk on. Billy is the sort of man who likes being friends, but he's much too—too lazy to bother to make love. Anyhow, he didn't propose to me.'

"No," I said calmly, "he proposed to me."

I thought for a moment she was going to scream, her mouth formed a little round O, her eyes big round

"Amanda, you—you snake in the grass," she said with awful emphasis. "I thought you were my faithful friend! You aren't—you're horrid—horrid—horrid! Oh, I believe you knew Billy was the only man I ever loved."

"He has only six hundred a year," I said.

"Yes, but six hundred a year with a man with a nice nose is better than sixty thousand and a man with a snub. Oh, and Billy is so big and strong—I hate you; my heart is broken. I shall go into a convent this very minute, or go as a hospital nurse. You will think of me in your happiness soothing pillows and fevered brows in sickrooms."

She took no notice, but went on: "Or I shall marry some rich man and spend my spoiled life in a fever of gayety. Oh, you will see me dancing and laughing, and all the time I shall be without a heart—no, with a broken heart, I mean."

"But you were going into a convent," I hinted, "or a hospital."

"Yes; you would love to think of me having no fun, you selfish thing, but I will, I will. I'll have heaps of diamonds and cut you dead, you—and—and Billy—wherever we meet."

She was very flushed, and there were tears in her eyes; for all her nonsense and wild talking I could see she was really hurt.

"Anne," I said coaxingly.

She sprang from the bed and stamped her foot. "I do hate you, and I'll tell you frankly that Billy and I have flirted outrageously.

I smiled calmly.

"Aren't you jealous, you horrid thing?" she said. "I could shake you sitting there smiling at me like Patience on a monument, only you needn't think I'm 'Grief'—I'm not I don't care a—a—damn!"

"Anne! ! ! "

"Well, I don't."

"You said just now your heart was broken."

She laughed and began to waltz airily round and round the room, with her plaits flying out fantastically and her kimono floating behind her. "I don't care—la la la, tra la la," she sang, and then suddenly she stopped her mad dance and came up to the foot of the bed, covered her face in her hands, and began to sob. I scrambled to the bottom of the bed hastily, and put my arms around her, but she shook me off.

"Don't cry, Sissie," I said; "don't don't! I only wanted to make sure you like Billy. Oh, Anne, he's too good a sort to play with."

Her sobs ceased, but she still kept her face hidden.

"Dear, he did propose to me but it was for you."

Dead silence.

"He has loved you a very long time, Anne, and never told you so because he couldn't bear the idea of your saying 'No.' And you would have said 'No,' Anne, just to tease, wouldn't you?"

Still silence.

"And so I promised Billy last night while you were dancing with Mr. Hicks and Lord St. Maire and the other man, I promised Billy I would find out if you really and truly cared. It must be the real thing for Billy, you know"—she looked up quickly with wet eyes—"and now I know it is the real thing—you do care—you do"——

"Yes," she said. "I—I do care—honor bright."

"Billy is coming to luncheon tomorrow for his answer," I said.

Dimples appeared in her cheeks.

"Oh, Amanda, and those others!"

"My dear," I cried, "what will you do?"

She ran to the door and stood there laughing and sweet—a faint light crept through the blinds and lit up her fair hair and gray pink and silver dressing grown.

"It's morning, Amanda," she said; "look! there's the sun coming in. And I can hear Lizzie raking out the dining room fireplace."

"What are you going to do?" I asked.

"I'm going to write and tell them all I forgot I was engaged already," she said demurely.

Then she tiptoed out of the room.—The Throne and Country.

"Well, never mind, Pearl. Go on with the coffee and I'll do it," said the considerate mistress. "Where do they keep the soap?"

EDITOR ADMITS LIBELING TEDDY

COLONEL WAIVES CASH BALM

Asks Court to Instruct Jury to Assess Only "Nominal" Amount — Each Pays His Own Costs—Judge in Charge Says Colonel Proved His Own Temperance.

Marquette, Mich., June 2.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt won his libel suit against George A. Newett, who charged the colonel with drunkenness and having waived damages after the defendant had uttered a retraction, the jury awarded the nominal damages of 6 cents, provided in such cases by the law of Michigan. Each party to the suit will have to pay his own expenses.

Judge Flannigan instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which they did without leaving their seats. The colonel left for Chicago and the east less than two hours after the conclusion of the case.

The climax of the case came like the conclusion of a powerful drama. When the afternoon session began rumors were flying that the suilt would be terminated. Attorney Van Benschoten for the plaintiff resumed the reading of depositions.

Newett Takes the Stand.

"The defense will call Mr. Newett," announced Attorney Belden, and a ruddy cheeked man, whose color did not disguise the fact that he is suffering from a serious illness, took the chair. In his hand he carried a manuscript.

"It is fair to the plaintiff to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess," said the editor.

Editor Admits Mistake.

"I am forced to the conclusion that I was mistaken."

The statement admitted that a search of the country had been made to investigate stories of persons who were alleged to have knowledge that Mr. Roosevelt drank to excess, but in every case the stories flattened out to mere opinion or hearsay.

The libel was published in good faith, Newett said, in the belief that it was true and proper information for a public which was being asked to vote for Mr. Roosevelt for president. That it was true the defendant said he never questioned until the libel suit was begun, and believed the assertion until the trial opened.

No demand for a retraction ever has been made, he stated, and when the bill was filed against him, there was nothing left for him to do but seek evidence and make other preparations to contest the suit. Forty depositions were taken in various parts of the country, but to use them, or attempt to use them, would be to continue an injustice which had already become apparent to him and his attorneys.

Roosevelt Waives Damages.

Attorney Pound turned to Judge Flannigan and said:

"With the court's permission the plaintiff would like to make a brief announcement."

The judge nodded, and Mr. Roosevelt arose. Bowing to the court, the colonel said that he would waive the matter of damages save for the nominal amount provided by law, which is 6 cents. Speaking of his purpose in instituting the suit he said:

"I wished once for all during my life time to deal with those slanders so that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to repeat them."

Speaking of Colonel Roosevelt as the plaintiff, Judge Flannigan in his charge to the jury said:

"Certainly he, has convinced the court not only that he never was drunk, but that he is now and always has been a temperate and obstemious man."

At the same time the court held that Mr. Newett, in publishing the editorial was not actuated by actual ill will.

CHASE GOES TO SOX

New York, June 2.—Hal Chase has played his last game with the New York Americans. Manager Frank Chance traded Chase to the Chicago White Sox for Infielders Zeider and Borton, who will report at the Polo Grounds Tuesday. Zeider will be assigned to second or third base, while Borton, a first baseman, may finally be used in the outfield if Chance decides to play first base permanently.

Chase was notified at once to pack up his things and report to Manager Callahan in Boston Tuesday. Zeider and Borton also received orders from Chance to come here at once. In Chase's place Chance will play first base in the double header with the Boston Red Sox.

Sarnia, 11,000, Has but One Night Policeman.

Sarnia, Ont., June 2.—The fact became known that this city, with 11,000 inhabitants and many square miles of territory, has only a single policeman guarding it at night.

During the daytime one policeman is on the streets, the chief attends to his office duties and Officer Crosbie has charge of the sanitary work. At night one patrolman goes about the business district, while another officer remains on duty at the jail. A short time ago the entire force quit their jobs because of what they claimed to be poor pay.

LAUDS THE WILSON POLICIES

Says Bryan Has Developed Great Executive Ability — Secretary of Treasury Also Comes In for Commendation—Currency Reform Much Needed, He Says.

London, June 2.—Andrew Carnegie, who arrived here, consented to talk on other subjects besides his peace plan, which he is to submit to the Kaiser. Speaking of President Wilson, he said:

"President Wilson has done splendid work. He is a strong man with a strong cabinet. Bryan has improved wonderfully and he is a fine executive. His trip around the world broadened him immensely and now he is an entirely different man.

"I am glad the tariff is being revised. I told President McKinley on his way to Buffalo just before his assination that there was no need to protect American industries which already had been sufficiently developed. Our country is doing such an enormous export business that protection is certainly not necessary now."

Practically a Free Trader.

Asked if he was actually a free trader, Mr. Carnegie said:

"Practically yes, but I wouldn't definitely say so, as some new industry might need protectinb during its years of development."

"Currency reform," Mr. Carnegie continued, "is one of the most important questions in the United States, for the country will run the gravest risk of panic until a system is adopted based on the European systems with a central bank.

"If the prejudice against a national bank cannot be overcome then an association of banks for each district which would discount any sound bills receivable would answer the purpose.

"Under the present system when a panic arises the soundest banks will refuse to discount anything offered, as they are paralyzed with fear. Our banking system is in fact the worst in the world.

Praises Wilson's Reform Ideas.

"Happily President Wilson completely showed the necessity of a change and the danger of possible panics and is urging congress to hurry reform. There is a splendid man at the head of the treasury."

Mr. Carnegie will meet Ambassador Page today. Both are staying at the same hotel. The advocate of world peace paid a high compliment to the new envoy.

"It is a shame," he said, "that the United States embassies are so badly equipped. Cutting the naval appropriation by one battleship worth $15,000,000 would provide sufficient money to buy sixty embassy buildings."

Pastor Demands Clean Health.

Pontiac, Mich., June 2. — Rev. H. H. Fox, pastor of All Saints church, announced that hereafter he will perform marriage ceremonies only for such persons as can show a clean bill of health and a medical certificate that they are free from tuberculosis and venereal diseases.

Atwood Picked Up on Lake.

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—Harry N. Atwood, en route from Sandusky to Cleveland across Lake Erie in a hydro-aeroplane, was picked up off Bar point, near Amherstburg, Ont. His gasoline had given out. He is spending the night at Amherstburg.

AS A LAWYER WAS A LUXURY

Contractor Says He Hired Justice as a Grafter.

LATTER SAYS FORMER LIES

Bar Association of New York to Sift Scandal Involving Justice Cohalan —Charges That as Attorney for Boss Murphy He Accepted Graft Money from Contractor Connolly.

New York, June 2.—The Bar Association will take up this week the charges that Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan was a grafter when he was Charles F. Murphy's legal adviser in Tammany Hall.

The grievance committee of the Bar Association will be informed by District Attorney Whitman that there is little in John A. Connolly's statements so far to warrant criminal proceedings, but that here is grounds for the association to make an inquiry.

Justice Don't Invite Inquiry.

The grievance committee would be inclined to welcome a request from Justice Cohalan himself that an inquiry be made, but the justice has not seen fit to do so.

He declined to say anything more concerning the charges, save that Connolly was a liar if he said that Cohalan as a lawyer had ever done anything more for him than legal work.

Connolly says that the main use he had for Cohalan was to obtain city contracts through Cohalan's pull with city officials.

"Cohalan does not tell the truth when he says that his only relations with me were those of a lawyer to a client. I hired Cohalan as a lawyer just twice.

"I consider Cohalan too much of a luxury as a legal adviser."

HENRY L. SAYLER DEAD

Chicago Author Stricken While on Visit to Indianapolis.

Chicago, June 2.—Harry L. Sayler, general manager of the City News bureau and author of several boy's books, died at Indianapolis following a stroke of apoplexy while visiting a friend. He went to Indianapolis on Thursday to witness the automobile races and was the guest of William Fortune. He apparently was feeling well before the attack. Death followed closely upon his removal to the Methodist hospital.

Mr. Sayler was born at Little York, Montgomery county, O., fifty years ago; was graduated from De Pauw university at Greencastle, Ind., and married Miss June Elliott of Shelbyville, Ind.

Get $5,000 Each.

Washington, Ind., June 2. — An agent for the B. & O. S. W. railroad has effected a settlement with Mrs. Theodore Gharst and Mrs Reason Jackson, widows of two of the four men killed at Blue Hole March 24 when an engine went through a trestle. It is believed the settlement figure was approximately $5,000.

Elks Indorse Stewart.

Port Huron, Mich., June 2.—Shirley Stewart, assisting prosecuting attorney of St. Clair county, prominent attorney and past exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks, has been indorsed by the Port Huron lodge for president of the state association of Elks at the annual convention to be held here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

USES FOUR PENS ON AMENDMENT EDICT

Bryan Proclaims Adoption of Direct Senatorial Elections.

Washington, June 2.—In the presence of a notable company, including many legislators who had to do with its adoption, Secretary Bryan signed the formal announcement of the seventeenth amendment to the constitution, providing for the direct election of senators.

Former Representative Harry St. George Tucker of Virginia, chairman of a committee in the Fifty-Second congress having charge of the first direct election of senators resolution that passed the house; Representative Rucker of Missouri, chairman of the committee in the Sixty-Second congress which had charge of the resolution which was finally adopted, and Senator Borah, who championed the change in the senate, were present, as was Mrs. Bryan.

Secretary Bryan used four pens to sign the proclamation. The first, which he used to write "William," went to Mr. Tucker; the second, with which he wrote "Jennings," went to Rucker; the third, with which he wrote "Bryan," he kept for himself, and that with which he wrote the date he delivered to Senator Borah.

ARREST SEVEN

Six Men and Woman Held In LaSalle Mine Robebry.

LaSalle, Ill., June 2.—Six men and one woman were landed in jail as a result of the search for the robbers who held up the pay buggy of a mine company on Thursday and killed two men. Bloodhounds picked up a trail near the Vermilion river, where a boat in which the robbers escaped was found tied to a tree. The trail then led the dogs to a boarding house in Crockettville.

Miss Grace Falett was arrested. She refused to make a statement. Hidden under a barrel near the house the police found a revolver. Andrew and Frank Corti were taken from the Jonesville mine and admitted they were owners of the boat, but they told the police they rented the boat to a man known as "Jim" Wednesday night. Detectives found "Jim" had left Crockettville for LaSalle.

Hoosier Authoress Dead.

Kokomo, Ind., June 2.—Virginia Sharp Patterson, seventy years old, a magazine writer and the author of several juvenile books and plays, died at her home here. She is survived by her husband, R. F. Patterson, a daughter and a son. Mrs. Patterson had lived here twenty-five years and was prominent in the Indiana conservation movement.

Chicago Aviatrix in Mishap.

Madison, Wis., June 2.—Miss Ethel Clark Scott of Chicago fell thirty feet from a biplane at the Dane county fair grounds and escaped death by landing in a marsh. The fall dislocated her right shoulder and cut her face and head severely.

HOW'S THIS

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by this firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with any old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Those Suspicious People.

HEAT WAVE DAMAGES KANSAS WHEAT CROP

May Weather Records Broken in Sunflower State.

Kansas City, Mo., June 2.—With a third day of extreme heat that has broken all May records in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, people in parts of those states are beginning to talk of short crops. Rain is badly needed in several sections.

In southwestern and central Kansas, where dry weather recently has prevailed the probable wheat yield has, in the opinion of grain men and farmers, been cut down materially in the past three days. Every day of the present weather means a big loss they say.

Sunday over Kansas the thermometers stood above the hundred mark or scarcely below it. The heat lessened little during the night and there was discomfort in many places.

New American Ambassador Presents His Credentials.

London, June 2.—Walter Hines Page, the newly appointed United States ambassador to the court of St. James, was received by King George, to whom he presented his letters of credence.

GREAT FILIAL RECORD

Moerdyke Brothers Have Been Forty-Four Years in Ministry.

Holland, Mich., June 2.—Rev. William Moerdyke of Grandville, Mich., and Rev. Peter Moerdyke of South Bend, Ind., are celebrating the forty-fourth anniversary of their ordination as ministers of the gospel.

The two are brothers and enjoy the unique distinction of having been graduated the same year from the same college and seminary. They were members of the pioneer class of Hope college in 1866 and of the class of 1869 of the Western theological seminary.

FORMER SENATOR IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Thomas W. Palmer May Live Only a Few Hours.

Detroit, Mich., June 2.—Former United States Senator Thomas W. Palmer, who has been ill for several months, is in a critical condition. His physician, Dr. A. W. Ives, issued a bulletin saying that life might not more than a few hours.

Mr. Palmer is more than eighty years of age and his illness is due to a general breakdown.

Hugh Chalmers, president of the Chalmers Motor company, is in Harper hospital suffering from an operation for appendicitis. He went under the knife.

His physician reported his case was serious, but that he was doing well and that recovery is practically certain.

CHILD'S TERRIBLE MISHAP

Infant Tumbles Into Pot of Boiling Beans.

Pontiac, Mich., June 2.—Anna, the eleven-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Northrop, residing at Sylvan Lake, was terribly burned when she fell from her high chair into a pot of boiling beans on the kitchen stove.

The mother did not hear the child fall, but turned to see her lying with her head in the scalding liquid. An interurban car was just coming and the mother, seizing the infant in her arms, ran for the car and came here to the office of a physician, where the burns were dressed.

The physician believes the child will recover.

LAW OF THE WAREHOUSE.

One result of the fall of staple prices, such a scotton, wool and other perishables which require storage, is to increase the voulme of warehousing business. High prices and rising prices lower the stocks and reduce the demand for warehousing space.

As soon, however, as prices begin to yield the warehousing problem becomes more acute as it approaches the point at which the producers of staples or the manufacturers of staple goods feel that the market value at which they may dispose of their stocks is below what they should properly have under existing conditions of production.

The result is, as the demand for warehouse room increases and a larger quantity of goods is conserved in hope of improvement, this becomes one of the very influences to depress prices still further. For the buyer, knowing of the existence of these stocks, is just so much easier to convince that lower prices are necessary.

It is a well-known law of the warehousing business that when the sellers' estimate of the market is too much above the buyers' to effect sales, the burden of the market falls upon the warehouse. Yet the financial weight rests rather on the banker from whom advances on warehousing certificates as collateral are frequently made, sometimes with altogether too little knowledge of the actual value of things on which the loans are granted.

In accordance with this general principle warehousing is now likely to figure considerably in the wool and the cotton trade. The territorial wool growers have already arranged to warehouse large stocks at Minneapolis and St. Paul. No doubt St. Louis, another storage centre, will participate in this tendency until the wool industry reaches a more decisive status. Furthermore, the cotton warehousing movement is likely to grow in influence on prices, especially if they fall materially below that at which cotton is now held.

Maintain Invention Departments.

Every great manufacturing concern maintains under one name or another, an "invention department." Every invention made is assigned to the company "in consideration of salary and one dollar." The General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y., for example, employs about eight hundred men who devote much of their time to developing new ideas. It spends $2,500,0000 a year in the development of work. The Westinghouse Companies do the same thing. The National Cash Register Company, the Hoe Printing Press Company, the United Shoe Machinery Company, the Bell Telephone Company, and many others have each a corps of men, who have displayed the inventive faculty, at work on salary. The General Electric Company offers a typical example of the use of the inventions department. In an establishment employing 20,000 men, around $2,500,000 is spent each year in developing patentable inventions. Last year 1,412 ideas were carried to the management by 300 men as patentable inventions. Of these 797 were found to be either impracticable or not new. The remaining 615 were patented by the company.

Pleasant Outdoor Furnishings.

To furnish a veranda to the best advantage for living purposes furniture should be utilized that can withstand the weather and hard usage. Several large easy chairs, a settee furnished with crash or denim covered cushions, and hammocks are essential. Bamboo screens or awnings will add materially to the comfort of the veranda equipment; a swinging couch is a luxurious addition that will be greatly appreciated. Such a couch may be home made, only length and depth and a wealth of pillows being necessary for comfort. It may be supplied with a home made full length pad or a number of pillows. It is a fancy of the moment to have summer porch pillows filled with pine or balsam needles, hops or clover. Husks from green corn are saved, and with some lemon verbena, geranium, lavendar or other leaves to give fragrance, make particularly nice pillow fillings. Lacking better filling finely torn paper with any sweet scented leaves intermingled make acceptable filling for porch pillows.

Paris Underground.

Paris underground railways now open for traffic have a length of 32 miles, out of a total authorized of 57 miles, work being in progress on all lines which are not yet in operation. The Metropolitan scheme includes two sets of rails parallel to the Seine, and serving the traffic of the central portions of the city, a circular line surrounding the city, and situated between the central quarters and the fortifications, occupying somewhat the position of the outer boulevards; and, lastly, two transverse lines at right angles of the course of the river. The portions of this system now in operation carry an average of 350,000 passengers daily. The other concession, called the North and South Railway, crosses Paris transversely from north to south, and has a total length of about seven miles.

The best workers among the cotton spinners of Manchester, England, receive from $5 to $6 a week.

Wagner's Bickering.

Even the amazing and non-such genius of Wagner was given to the gentle art of bickering to beat the band. Spencer, Darwin, Helmholz and Nietzche had all sorts of theories and notions about music, but notions only, for they never saw music as we do in Gotham. Gee whiz! They only heard it.

Wilhelm II.'s Checkerboard.

The German Emperor owns the most valuable draughtboard in existence. The light and dark squares are made of silver and gold, and the draughts are also made of silver and gold, each having a diamond or ruby in the centre.

The Greatest Baseness.

He is great who confers the most benefits. He is base—and that is the one base thing in the universe—to receive favors and render none.—Emerson.

The Serpent's Inducement.

MEMORIAL DAY

Fittingly Observed in Tecumseh Friday May 30.

A GOOD CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

Friday dawned dark and gloomy and everybody was looking for a rainy day for Decoration Day. Plans however went steadily on, and at last there was a rift in the cloud, the sun shone forth to cheer and gladden the hearts of all, "Old Glory" was flung to the breeze from public places and from private homes, proclaming to the old veterans of our Civil war, that the hearts of all were with them in this memorial tribute paid to their dead comrades. The program as announced in Tuesday's paper was carried out with but slight varation. The march to Monument park by the G. A. R. and T. B. A. lead by the Tecumseh band being at 1:30 p. m. The monument was appropriately decorated with wreaths and flowers, and the band rendered the time honored music of America that appeals to every loyal heart.

An adjournment was made to meet at 2:30 at the opera house where the exercises were opened by the band followed by the Invocation by Rev. G. H. Whitney. The solo by Mrs. Kendrick, "There is a land mine eye hath seen," was most beautifully given. A recitation by Mrs. Jennie Collins followed, this was received with applause. The oration by Col. B. F. Graves of Adrian, was a fine effort and was highly appreciated by all present.

"Over the stars, there is rest" was charmingly sung by Mrs. R. S. Moore and Mrs. C. S. Ruthruff. A recitation by G. J. Keysor completed this part of the program—Rev B. R. Weld gave the benediction and to the music of the band the processson formed for the cemetery.

A long line of automobiles and carriages lead by the band were marshaled by F. S. Anderson and Otto Garlinghouse. Reaching the cemetery the graves of the fallen heroes were strewn with flowers by their comrades after which all gathered at the Soldiers lot where the final services of the day were held.

The day was a pleasant one and as the evening shadows fell, a sweet piece settled over the Silent city of the dead.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

A Fine Crowd in Attendance and a Good Progam Enjoyed by all

PARISH HOUSE MONDAY AFTERNOON JUNE 2

The meeting of the Civic Improvement Society was held at the Parish House Monday, with a fine attendance. A business meeting was held in the afternoon when the following officers were electep for the ensuing year:

Pres.—Mrs. H. Bredow
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. F. D. Rector
2nd " " —Mrs. J. J. Freemen
Sec.—Mrs. R. N. Lowe
Treas.—Mrs. J. J. Belcher
Delegates to County Convention—Mrs. J. D. Shull, Mrs. Eugene Harris,

At the close of the business meeting, a bountiful picnic supper was enjoyed by all present. A pioneer program was then in order.

Dr L. N. North gave a talk on, "For much shade in Tecumseh" along sanitary lines. Rev. F. Hewitt enlivened the hour with a witty talk telling many humorous stories. Henry Conkling gave a genuine pioneer talk as known and lived by himself. This was a very interesting feature of the evening, and was listened to with close attention.

REHEARING URGED

Cost of Obeying Court Is Prohibitive for Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 2.—Gardner S. Williams, of Ann Arbor, one of the leading consulting engineers in the country, held a conference here with city officials relative to the recent supreme court ruling regarding the city's sewage outlet in Grand river.

He recommended that an appeal for a rehearing be made by the municipality hoping that he court might modify its order and allow raw sewage to be deposited in the river.

Otherwise, he says, the cost of meeting the court's requirement would be prohibitive.

The Czar's Extensive Mail.

It is said that the Czar of Russia receives from his subjects through the post no fewer than 100 petitions every day of his life. The majority of these documents before reaching the monarch's hands are examined by a confidential secretary.

Hygienic Restaurants.

Some of the restaurants for workmen in Paris are conducted strictly on hygienic principles. Even the napkins are not put into rings and allowed to touch, but are put into marked pigeon holes, and each laborer gets his own on entering.

Birds Defends Their Nest.

Annoyed by swallows building over his windows, a Haywards Heath resident knocked down the nest with a prop. The birds replaced the nest, and when the man again attempted to remove it he was surrounded by a number of swallows and martins, who attempted to peck at his eyes and face.

Weak Hearts in the Army.

Nearly 500 men fall out from the ranks of the British army every year owing to weak hearts and other defects brought about by the illogical system of physical training in the army, said Sir Frederick Treves recently. This system is now under review.

Seaweed Parasols.

Seaweed parasols are the latest novelty. The real weed is used, and is skilfully applied to a background of fine biscuit or pastel-tinted gauze. An outer layer of gauze is then placed over it.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. R. J. W. Bowen had a birthday last Thursday. This is an annual occurrence, but is not always made as prominent as was this one.

Mrs. Bowen was busily engaged in her household duties when she heard the door bell ring furiously, before she could reach it the door was opened, and the members of the Ambrosia club walked in upon her in full force. Each one was laden with baskets of good things to eat and a fine pot-luck supper was one of the leading events of the occasion. A most delightful evening was spent by all, and the guests on departing wished Mrs. Bowen many happy returns of the day.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. John Austin was the victim of a surprise party Monday when a host of relatives dropped in upon her for the dinner hour, they came laden with well filled baskets of good things for dinner and a merry time was spent at the dinner hour.

Those present were Mrs. S. E. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Austin and children, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Field and children and Mrs. Rob. McCoy of Tecumseh. The out of town guests were Mrs. Elmer Camburn, Mrs. Arthur Camburn, Mrs. Baron Pennington, Mrs. Clare Camburn, Kenneth Pennington, and Marian Camburn. The afternoon was spent in social visitings and a general good time. Mrs. Austin doing the honors of the occasion gracefully.

A CENTURY OF PEACE

Peace between the British Empire and the United States for a hundred years is a world affair, and not merely a matter of mutual congratulation. It has been a great thing for the Dominion of Canada, because it has been due to this peace and nothing else that Canada has extended to the Pacific coast and has entered upon a great national life with the good will of her only neighbor and no clouds of any kind upon her horizon. But it is also true that the great South American states owe much to this hundred years of peace between England and the United States. If this peace had been broken, the Monroe Doctrine would have lost its sanction, and the South American states in their developing period would have faced the danger of European seizure and partition. Hopes and ideals in all that concerns the life of individuals and nations rest upon experience. Every time a dispute is settled, a crisis is averted, moral principles are respected, honor and truth are upheld, and good will overcomes distrust, it becomes by just so much the easier to meet the next crisis in a spirit of forbearance and to find solutions.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for June.

COMPARISON OF BRAINS.

Size of the Organ Has Little to Do With Effectiveness.

From a comparison of trustworthy statistics it appears that the brain of the average man is about one-tenth larger than that of the average woman; but on the other hand, if the ratio between the size of brain and body be taken into consideration man's brain comes out second best. Happily, however, "the lord of creation," as he is sometimes pleased to term himself, has a loop-hole of escape from the natural inference from this fact. The smaller animal, scientists tell us, always has the larger proportional brain. A cat has more brain in proportion to its size than an elephant, and a baby's brain is five times the relative size of its father's.

Woman has, however, other lines of defense. All mental activity finds its origin in the thin outer layer or cortex of the brain. On every square inch there are some ten millions of minute cells, the instruments of mental energy. Might not a more just comparison be based on a consideration of these cells? asks one authority. Perhaps it is answered, but no observer has yet shown that sex makes any difference in the number development or vital energy of these brain elements.

When all it said, if the average man prefers to regard size as the correct index of intelligence he must admit that 40 per cent of the women he meets are of larger intellect than he. This will give him food for reflection, and perhaps, after a little, he will agree with Professor Sutherland, of London, that every year seems to show with increasing conclusiveness that "there is in the great mass of cases a practical equality in male and female minds."

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

It's no trick at all to erect "Pittsburgh Perfect"—just follow the directions in our catalogue. "Pittsburgh Perfect" goes up without a hitch, over the most uneven ground as easily as on level land. The secret's in the Weld. It costs less to string "Pittsburgh Perfect" because it takes less time than any other fence.

No bagging or sagging, no slipping stays, no buckling up when stringing on account of "long" and "short" wires, because there are none. Consider building-cost when you buy fence. It is a serious problem for some, but "Pittsburgh Perfect" users smile.

STRATTON IN JAIL DELIVERY

Moline, Ill., June 2.—Clyde Stratton, the burglar who escaped from the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and was later arrested in Rock Island for the murder of J. L. Crowder of Silvis, escaped jail with two companions. He was recaptured after a short chase by a deputy sheriff. The three men had overpowered the guards and gagged them.

It is thought that the two men who helped him make his escape are part of the gang which robbed and killed the Silvis banker. Stratton's companions are still at large.

Studebaker

"That's the sixth Studebaker we've passed—the only kind to invest in"

"The only kind—because, as I always say, when a man puts money in a thing he wants to know that he's going to get the worth of it out again."

"That's plain business as I look at it."

"That's why I say the price doesn't tell you anything at all. There's only one thing that talks—except the wagon itself. That's the name of the maker."

"When you buy a Studebaker you're buying a vehicle that has behind it and in it sixty years of experience—sixty years of success—and sixty years of reputation for the square deal. That's why a Studebaker always looks good to me."

"My father used to say that Studebaker honor was as sure as a United States bank note. He was talking after having used Studebaker vehicles since he was a lad, and he told me his father before him said, 'Be safe—get a Studebaker.'"

"Vehicle builders can't hold that sort of reputation nowadays without delivering the goods. A Studebaker wagon has the best in it. That's why a man gets the most out of it—why it's always an economy."

"Dealers may say to you something else is 'just as good.' But when you buy a Studebaker, you're making a safe investment every time."

THUGS TAKE $1,100 LEGACY

Michigan Man Has Tough Experience in Chicago.

Chicago, June 2.—Charles Smith, a mine foreman of Iron River, Mich., was knocked unconscious and robbed of $1,100 early in the morning by two men in front of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad depot, at West Madison and Clinton streets.

While accompanying detectives in a search for the robbers he became so frantic and grief-stricken that he attempted to jump into an excavation to end his life.

Smith came to Chicago to visit his sister, Mrs. Veronica Baschucks, 3738 South Wood street, and the $1,100 was his share of a legacy left them which he had drawn from a Chicago bank earlier in the day.

DEERING Grain Binder

For years this machine has had a larger sale than all others. Why? Ask any farmer who has used one of the latter pattern and he will tell you, will also tell you Temple carries a big stock of repairs, in fact the largest stock in this part of state and will keep you going while others will be down and out awaiting for the arrival of repairs

Second Hand Binders

We have several on hand, just brought in, that we rebuilt and absolutely guarantee to go ahead and do good work. For a small acreage one of these machines will be just the thing.

Remember at all times when Temple guarantee a machine it will do just the work he claims, if it does not he will stay by it until it does.

These second hand machines will sell fast, if you want one come in within a week or earlier and see what bargains you can get.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kind, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The harder some men work in the field the more right they think they have to growl around the house.

No Substitute Could do This

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr. of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of head and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The children in the home should have at least as much training as the colt in the field or the vine on the trellis.

Most Children Have Worms.

Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, costiveness, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms. Peevish, ill-tempered, fretful children who toss and grind their teeth, with bad breath and collicky pains, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Hauling corn to the market is taking the profits the wrong way, and sooner or later the fields will tell you about it.

Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and all kidney and bladder ailments, use Foley Kidney Pills. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Nobody ever pulled up and went far away and made a fortune but would have done pretty well if he had put in the same amount of energy right where he originally was.

Don't be a mere imitator, but that doesn't mean that you are not to pick up good points wherever you can find them.

MISSISSIPPI HARNESSED

Mile Long Concrete Completed at Keokuk, Iowa.

Keokuk, Ia., June 2.—The great Keokuk dam across the Mississippi river has been completed and the last bucket of concrete placed in the structure amid waving of flags, shrieking of whistles, and cheers of guests and employes. For the first time the "father of waters" at a point where the river is nearly a mile wide has been harnessed to produce electric power.

The dam, built of concrete, is 4,627 feet long, 52 feet high, and 42 feet wide at the base. It required two years to build. The dam creates slack water for sixty-five miles above and a lake from one to three miles wide makes possible open navigation over the one time impassable Des Moines rapids above this city.

The harnessing of the Mississippi at this point was first suggested by Robert E. Lee, then war department engineer, and afterward the famous Confederate general, more than sixty years ago.

Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature' own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a hard cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin—you feel "blue."

"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, breast, and body," writes MR. JAMES G. KENT, of 710 L Street, S. E., Washington, D. C. "Some called it La Grippe, some pneumonia. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before using your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

BRITTON

ANNUAL ALUMNI OF THE BRITTON HIGH SCHOOL.

Saturday evening at the Maccabee hall was held the Annual Alumni of the B. H. S. this year welcoming in the eleven graduates of the class of 1913.

The hall was very prettily decorated with maple boughs, ferns, and cozy corners about the room. After all had arrived they were ushered to the dining room below which was decorated with green and white and boquets. A lovely three course supper was served by the Lady Maccabees. Coller's orchestra of Tecumseh furnished the music.

At the close of supper Miss Ida Gibson, in a very pleasing way acting as toast-mistress called on the following who responded in a very pleasing manner, Misses Myrtle McCarbery, Mabel Linton, Pearl Wood, Mildred Linton and Grover Yates and Floyd Allen, after which a short program was given.

The guests then returned to the room above to spend a short time in social converse, before returning to their various homes. The affair was very interesting to all as it brought together old class mates which brings back pleasant memories of their school days.

NATURALIZATION BILL

Representative Murdock Introduces Bill to Establish Commission.

New York, June 2.—Representative Victor Murdock, of Kansas, will introduce in congress a bill providing for the appointment of a federal naturalization commission. The drafting of this bill, according to a statement given out by Miss Frances A. Keller, chairman of the immigration committee of the progressive national service, is the result of an investigation of naturalization conditions by immigrant welfare organizations during the last two years.

Prominence is given in this statement to the fact that there are no less than 4,000,000 adult male residents of the United States who have failed to take out citizens' papers.

Search For A Celebrity

Six months on the Daily Emulator, and only small details, handed out like cold potatoes! That is hard on an ambitious young woman. My heart beat high when the managing editor called me into his private office.

"Have you much of the detective in you?" he asked, looking at me keenly.

My heart went higher still. I felt it thump my palate. I put as much effort on my reply as on a half column article. "Try me," I said, reasoning that anybody who blue pencils as he does would prefer a laconic answer.

"What clews?" I asked.

"You'll find them. You don't need to be reminded that it isn't precisely as if he were a regular criminal."

"Not exactly."

"No, but still he hasn't any right to drop out of sight this way. When a man is as noted as he is, the public expects to know everything, and yet it isn't advisable to trail him by exactly the same methods that would be used if he were an embezzler."

"I agree with you," I said, with mental reservations.

"Use your own methods, but find him. His absence is deucedly inconvenient. We want the first interview on his novel, 'Tarsus of Metatarsus.'"

Mr. Derry told me later that Elmer Mount of the Morning Imitator had been sent out after Wardham.

"He's a novelist with a soul, is Wardham," continued Derry. "Whichever of you finds him first will be treated royally, and the next will get courtesy but no story. He used to be on a newspaper himself. You've met him."

"At the Bronton reception," I returned.

"He never forgets anybody. Success to your search."

The servants at the house refused to say where Wardham was. Then I bought a steamer rug and got Derry to take it to the house and tell the maid he thought it belonged to Wardham. You see she was almost certain to reply in one or two ways. And she did:

So I returned my purchase to the store and sang, "Not gone abroad." And after that good detective work, my brother-in-law, who is with the Driver Realty Company, told me Wardham would be in town on the first and aagin on the tenth to attend to some real estate business. Then I felt sure he was in the state.

I sat down with a map, and beginning with the southern towns, put a line through every place where I thought he was not. Big hotels, the popular places, even the Imitator people might have found him there. Presently my map looked as if it were covered with a drawing of a torn mosquito-net. This was getting interesting. I appreciated the subtle compliment of the editor's detail more and more. It was possible, of course, that Wardham was in the northern Coast Range. He was not with the Sierra Club, I knew. As he is neither hunter nor horseback rider, he was probably not far from the railroad.

I had not read Chesterton's "Man Who Was Thursday" for nothing, so I looked for my man where no one would think of hiding. "I'll look for him in the village where everybody is a celebrity," I exclaimed.

Now a reporter on the Imitator would never think of looking for him at Carmel. I reasoned it out another way and got the same result; a thief hides among other thieves; when a celebrity wants to hide, why should he not mingle his fame with the celebrity glow? I bought a ticket to Carmel.

You know Carmel, a village where everybody who isn't a novelist is a painter, and everybody who isn't a painter is a poet, and every mother's son of them is an artist in the broad sense. Water and oil doesn't refer there to the People's Company or Coaling stock. Nobody eats canvasback for fear of mutilating the canvas. If you want to do anybody a kindness you offer to read proof for his next book, and expect him to mention it in the preface.

When I left the train for the stage—the celebrities seek retirement three miles from the station—there was not a celebrity aboard. Evidently I just missed one, for the stage driver put an artist's paint-box under the seat with the remark, "A painter-feller from the city told me not to forget this. Said he was going pencil-sketching around here and would come out on a later stage."

The box was initialed E. M. I could not think of any well-known artist whose name fitted. He was in a good field for sketching at any rate, for the old town has not lost its quaint Spanish air. I might make a story of that, some time.

I left the stage—as a retired actor would say—without a new fact about Carmel or its celebrities, for the driver was almost a stranger to the place. I felt that the Carmel stage people were breaking the pure food law, palming off some one "just as good," when I wanted an original package stage driver from whom to extract information.

There was not so much as a profile view of a celebrity when I first trod the sacred soil of Carmel, not even an easel under the pines. I began to wish Wardham were a painter. Writers can be more secretive. Come to think of it, authors are rather like whales that keep quiet till they are ready to spout. Resolving to be ready for emergencies, I tried to think what speech would be appropriate to any kind of celebrity. "When will your next book be out?" was too specialized. Then I decided on, "What are you working on now?" That struck me as rather neat.

In front of the postoffice I noticed a man I had often seen in the city, with no thought of his being a celebrity. I put on a tourist air and asked. "How far is it to the Mission?"

"About a mile—an easy walk."

"Thank you. What a charming place this is for sketching. What are you working on?"

"That," and he pointed off through the trees. "I'm shingling Professor White's new cottage. That's Professor White building the fence."

Professor White, whose fame is international because he came nearer to not seeing the comet than any other astronomer on the continent! If I had made one blunder, I had seen one celebrity thereby. I looked over the registers of the two hotels. Celebrities I found there, some real, some merely mercerized, but no Woodrow Wardham. The postoffice clerk knew the rules and recited. "No information may be given as to those who receive mail."

"We have neither sold nor rented to W. Wardham," said the clerk in the real estate office. To tell the truth, I did not want to find him by these every day methods. An Imitator reporter would have used such tactics. I went back to the real estate office, however, and asked, "Are not there some noted people in this town?"

The clerk spoke as one would speak of raisins at Fresno or prunes in the Santa Clara Valley: "Quantities of them. There are Lapham Wright and Mrs. Augusta Lloyd, the novelists, and Sargent West, the painter, and ever so many more."

"Is Mr. Woodrow Wardham here?"

"Very likely. I never heard of him, though."

I wandered to the beach and stared at the little lines of white that make the Bay of Monterey appear like a large blue-print. If I were not a reporter with a leaning toward detective work, I would be a painter. The beach was somewhat deserted, but sheltered by a sand-dune right in front of me sat a painter, hard at work. A battered paint-box lay at the foot of easel. It is only the novices, they say, who have new paint-boxes. Was I not quite tourist-like in pausing to look at his work?

"It's shockingly hard to get that purple light," he explained, almost as if talking to himself. "I want that reflection," and he went on with technical phrases about composition and texture.

"The sand-dunes by the sea were made for artists," I said with enthusiasm.

"Yes, this has been the ideal place to paint or to write till those scandalous newspapers dragged us into their columns. Here we are just normal people who should neither be pitied nor blamed because we write or paint. All the world are painters or poets, don't you know, only fortunately, it may be, the publishers and picture-buyers have not found it out. It's a pity that the newspapers should thrust a vulgar notoriety upon us."

Two groups of khaki-clad women passed; there was the chatter of several small girls, and a child's voice shouted joyously. I murmured a sentence of pained acquiescence to his complaint, and followed the child's voice.

"He's all in. He's all in," he cried in uproarous joy. "Watch him volleycano out." He waved his plump arms over a palpitating patch of khaki, lightly covered with sand that heaved a moment, and then with a splurge there came forth a large man with his khaki coat drawn over his head. It was like Woodrow Wardham to speak as if the Bronton reception were yesterday. He adjusted his coat as he asked: "Are you here to write or to paint—or to persecute?" and he held out his hand.

"The Emulator told me to dig up."

"And Rodney-boy dug me up for you. Have you been to the house? My wife's mother owns a cottage here, and I shall build next year if the place doesn't get too much into public notice. Raines will want to meet you—you may know his pictures." Indeed I did, though I had not recognized his half-finished work. "Raines is especially fond of reporters." A moment after he presented the artist, who came in response to his signal. And Raines is Wardham's brother-in-law; I didn't know that before.

I got a wonder of an article with snaphots of the big pine under which Wardham writes; at least he says he sometimes writes there, and it helps the story. I even got a picture of Rodney-boy's shoes and stockings strung out on the sand. Nothing associated with a celebrity is uninteresting to the public. While Mrs. Wardham served us with tea on the veranda, the Celebrity gave me inside information about how he came to write "Tarsus of Metatarsus."

"One of Raines's fraternity," observed Wardham, as a new paint-box with the initials E. M. and an unfamiliar easel, borne by a familiar figure appeared from among the pines and came toward us. Elmer Mount of the Imitator, out in the guise of a painter! While he posed, I scooped.—Laura Bell Everett.

To admire, to love, to regret, is to live, said a great writer. Do not let the regret be brought on by a cough or cold, which if treated when it first appeared would have easily been controlled. Allen's Cough Balsam brings welcomed relief in such cases. Contains no harmful ingredients. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles at all dealers.

Keep it Handy

For an emergency, when accidents or sudden sickness comes, nothing is more useful than

Painkiller (PERRY DAVIS')

Invaluable for Diarrhoea, Cramps, etc.

The Bar Habit.

The pernicious habit of drinking standing at the bar is of Puritanical New England origin, the theory being that a man would sooner get drunk and go home if standing than sitting—a whisky custom, but very bad for beer which New Englanders knew not, for to stand to the bar to drink and to keep drinking to stand there is not gentlemanly nor wholesome.

Great Friends.

"Friendship, boys and girls," said a member of a provincial educational committee, "is a thing to be cultivated and practiced by all of us. Read and ponder over the stories of the great friendships of sacred and profane history. Take them for your models—David and Jonathan, Damon and Pythias, and Scylla and Charybdis."—London Daily News.

Pretty Good.

A boy was asked to explain the difference between animal instinct and human intelligence: "If we had instinct," he said, "we should know everything we needed to know without learning it; but we've got reason, and so we have to study ourselves 'most blind or be a fool."

Virtue of White Clothes.

ROOSEVELT WINS

NOMINAL DAMAGE IS GIVEN

Theodore Roosevelt won his suit against Editor Geo. A. Newett of Ishpeming and proved to the world that he was not a heavy drinker. He has proven, so far as it is within the domain of human possibility to prove, by the testimony of intimates of many years, that he has never been in the slightest degree intoxicated; that he hates profanity and abhors obscenity.

The end came quickly when Mr. Newett went on th[illegible]d in his own defense and in a simple but direct way read his prepared statement.

He told of his support of Col. Roosevelt previous to the campaign of 1912. When Mr. Roosevelt bolted into the progressive party Mr. Newett strongly opposed him. He told how the colonel made what he considered an unwarranted attack on his friend, Congressman Young, in his speech in Marquette in October.

Mr. Newett said he had heard the reports about Roosevelt's drinking for years, and that they had come to him from so many sources that he finally believed them and that he printed the article in the Iron Ore in good faith.

He told of the starting of the suit against him. He said he did what seemed to him the only thing to do, started in to prove the statements he had made, if possible. He told of seeking out witnesses in various sections of the country, men who stated they had seen Col. Roosevelt when they thought he was intoxicated. Mr. Newett admitted he had failed to find a witness who could testify to having seen Col. Roosevelt drink liquor excessively.

Mr. Newett said he had been profoundly impressed by the evidence offered by Col. Roosevelt. He declared that it was sufficient to prove the untruth of the statement he had made in the alleged libelous article, and that he, therefore, would content himself in the suit with the position that he had printed the article absolutely without malice.

Roosevelt Speaks.

"In view of the statement made by the defendant I shall ask the court to instruct the jury that I desire only nominal (6 cents) damages," he said. "I did not go into this suit for money. I did not go into it with any vindictive purpose. I went into it and, as the court has said, made my reputation an issue because I wished, once for all, during my lifetime, to deal with these slanders fully and comprehensively so that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to repeat them. I have achieved my purpose and am content."

Brief Story of Suit.

George A. Newett, of Ishpeming, editor of the Iron Ore, during the last presidential campaign accused Theodore Roosevelt, then a candidate for the highest honor in the gift of the American people, of "getting drunk, and that not infrequently."

Colonel Roosevelt began a libel suit for $10,000, which the upper peninsula editor resolved to defend. Each side employed eminent counsel and scoured the country for witnesses, taking hundreds of depositions.

Many of the most prominent men in the country went to Marquette, where they swore that the colonel not only had never been under the influence of liquor, but was almost a total abstainer. Newett's witnesses, on the other hand, failed to put in an appearance.

Newett, taking the stand himself, declared he realized that he had done the colonel a great injury, though he had believed he was publishing the truth and was not inspired by malice. Whereupon Mr. Roosevelt asked the court to render a verdict of nominal damages, which, under the laws of Michigan, amounted to just six cents.

SCORES EKERN DECISION

Wisconsin Chief Justice Declares Ruling Is Step Backward.

Madison, Wis., June 4.—Characterizing the decision of the majority of the court in the Ekern-McGovern controversy as a step backward, Chief Justice Winslow filed his dissenting opinion, in which he said he fully agrees with Justice Barnes, who dissented. Justice Winslow says in part:

"The most serious infirmity in the decision in this case, as I regard it, is not that it refuses to follow precedent, but that it is really a step backward, a signal to retreat, rather than to advance."

He says that in the present case a very important office is at stake. If the officer can convince the court that he was acting in good faith, he can practically deny the power of his superiors to remove, and remain in office for months.

SCHOOL CHIEF FOUND GUILTY

Committee Reports in Case of Superintendent Heeter.

SUSPENSION IS RECOMMENDED

Under the Provisions of the School Code the Superintendent Will Be Given a Hearing—Charges Against Him Brought by a Domestic Resulted in a Serious Strike of Pupils.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 4.—Superintendent of Schools S. L. Heeter, into whose morality a committee of citizens went as an investigating committee appointed by the board of education, was adjudged guilty of "making improper advances and taking unwarranted liberties" with three women, in the report of the committee, made to the board.

The board received the report and ordered that a [illegible] be placed in the hands of the superintendent, that he be suspended and that, under the provisions of the school code, a hearing be accorded him.

Domestic Made Charges.

Rumors associating Mr. Heeter's name with charges brought by a domestic, who was taken from his home to a hospital in a serious condition, began eleven weeks ago. When it was thought the girl would die, the coroner was summoned, and Heeter was implicated by the girl's statement. Heeter was indicted, arrested, tried and found not guilty.

He then returned to his duties, having been given leave of absence during his trial. Then followed a demonstration or "strike" of school children, and more rumors associating Mr. Heeter's name with other unpleasant cases.

Committee Appointed.

In order to clear the situation, the board of education authorized the appointment of a committee of citizens to take testimony.

This committee was W. H. Stevenson, president of the chamber of commerce, Rabbi J. Leonard Levy, Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead of the Protestant Episcopal diocese, A. Leo Weil, president of the Voters' Civic league, Valentine Barie, a labor leader, and Rev. Mr. Bishop. Regis Canevin of the Roman Catholic diocese, declined to serve on the committee.

METCALFE GETS FAT JOB

Washington, June 4. — Richard L. Metcalfe of Nebraska, editor of Bryan's Commoner, is slated for the office of governor of the Panama canal zone. The nomination will be sent to the senate some time this week.

Mr. Metcalfe will succeed William H. Thatcher of Kentucky, who was appointed by President Taft. The place pays $14,000 a year.

TARIFF LOBBY QUIZ

Every Senator Will Be Called Before Committee.

PRESIDENT MAY BE WITNESS

Senators Will Be Called Alphabetically and Asked a Series of Questions Prepared by the Committee—Expose of Alleged Postal Inefficiency Made Under President's Direction.

Intimations at the national capital that President Wilson himself was expected to appear before the senate committee appointed to investigate the "numerous and insidious" tariff lobby, added interest to the first meeting of that body.

The investigation began at 10:30 a. m. in the big judiciary hearing room in the senate office building. Senator Overman's investigating committee planned to hear four senators an hour.

Every Senator to Be Called.

Each member of the senate will be called on to tell what he knows about a tariff lobby and professional associations that may relate to the tariff bill.

Not a week passes that President Wilson does not start something to shake up the precedents and keep congress astir. His denunciation of the tariff lobby in the week just passed marked the climax in a series of unusual executive acts and has precipitated an inquiry the like of which never has been known in legislative annals of the nation.

Senators are to be called alphabetically in blocks of four and asked a series of questions prepared by the committee. The first witnesses were Senators Ashurst, Bacon, Bankhead, and Borah.

Exposes Postal Inefficiency.

Postmaster General Burleson's exposure of what is known in postal circles as the "myth of Hitchcock" is a part of the Wilson administration to acquaint the public with all the facts in connection with the conduct of the preceding administration.

The postmaster general regretted to take any action reflecting upon the course of his predecessor. His close friends say if he could have avoided it he would have done so. But he was face to face with the prospect of reporting to congress a deficit in connection with the administration of the postoffice department as against the repeated declarations of Mr. Hitchcock that he had placed the service upon a self-sustaining basis.

Why is the handle of metal teapots usually made of wood?

Wood is a bad conductor of heat. Thus the heat of the boiling water is not conveyed directly from the kettle to the hand.

Why do boilers sometimes explode?

Steam is elastic. Its elasticity is in greater proportion than the heat which produces it. Thus unless a safety valve is provided the pressure of the steam will burst the vessel that contains it.

If a player receives too many cards in draw poker and he looks at his cards is his hand dead?

Yes.

Yes. Wilson got 312,386, Sulzer 304,000.

What is the area of the republic of Panama?

About 31,510 square miles.

BLOODHOUNDS TRAIL LA SALLE HOLD-UPS

Elmer West Dies, Making Second Victim of Attack.

A number of bloodhounds were put on the trail of the four masked bandits who held up pay rigs of the Illinois Zinc company five miles from LaSalle, Ill., killed one man and wounded three others, but failed to get $6,000 in cash which was being transported for the semi-monthly payday of the miners.

The dead: Ben Dierks, former chief of police of Peru, Ill., acting as guard for Zinc company men, instantly killed.

Elmer West, clerk of the company, shot in head, neck and chest, brought to St. Mary's hospital, LaSalle, where he died.

Four men, thought to be the fugitives, overpowered William Morris, a fisherman, and crossed the Illinois river in his boat a mile north of the scene of the shooting. Morris reported the flight of the men to Sheriff Mischke. The men, according to Morris, appeared suddenly and demanded his boat a short time after the attempted holdup.

Morris described the men as of foreign appearance, two of them about forty years old, and the others about twelve years younger. They crossed the river to Rockwell.

Shortly afterward boys searching between the river and the road found a repeating shotgun, a long-barreled revolver, a hunting coat, a short overcoat and two derby hats.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail, Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with any old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

Senator Thomas W. Palmer, Detroit's grand old man, who had been sick for a long time, is dead.

The postoffice at Pompeii was broken into. The safe was shattered and about $15 in money and stamps taken.

Frank D. Baker has been nominated by President Wilson as postmaster of Flint, thus ending a three-cornered fight.

Anna, the 11-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Northrop, residing at Sylvan Lake, was terribly burned when she fell into a pot of boiling beans.

Governor Ferris has stated that he did not believe it necessary to call a special session of the legislature because of failure to change the senatorial districts.

Caught between two freight cars on the Michigan Central railway, five miles outside of Detroit, Fred Eykema, 42 years old, of Muskegon, Mich., had both feet badly crushed.

Thomas G. Graham, 62, of Peck, prominent attorney, postmaster and for many years publisher of the Sanilac County Times, died of apoplexy. A widow and four sons survive him.

Tying his own wrists together, Cassius M. Richardson, retired farmer of Battle Creek, hanged himself Friday in the loft of his barn. He left a note to his wife briefly stating that at the age of 68 he was tired of living.

F. A. Dean, of Charlotte, has been retained to prosecute five insurance cases in Ogemaw county against a railroad company, alleging that sparks from the company's engines were responsible for the loss of property destroyed.

Rural mail carriers are on the lookout for forest fires on orders from the postal department, which issued the order at the suggestion of the secretary of agriculture. The carriers are required to immediately report any fire to the nearest fire warden.

Married when only 15 years and applying for a divorce when not yet of age, is the experience of Hazel I. Truax, of Tekonsha, who has brought suit against her husband, John E. Truax, for divorce on the grounds of desertion and extreme cruelty.

Alleging that her husband joined the Socialist party and refused to work and support her, Lillian Swartz has started suit for divorce from her husbens. They were married July 15, 1907, and separated September 13, 1911.

Mrs. Jane Kenyon, considered the oldest woman in Emmet county, is dead at her Clarion home at the age of 94. She was born in England and was once cook in the home of the duchess of Sutherland. She came to the United States 50 years ago.

The supreme court of Michigan handed down its decision refusing a rehearing of the damage case of George Sonsmith against the Pere Marquette railroad, and the road will now have to pay the Saginaw man $12,958.33 for the loss of his left leg at the hip.

The body of Joe Morris, a 12-year-old boy, who mysteriously disappeared last October, was found in a log jam in the river near Cheboygan. The Morris boy and a playmate, Joe Smith, 10 years old, disappeared at the same time. The body of the Smith lad was found two weeks later, caught in some piling.

The Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Michigan convened in fifty-seventh annual conclave in Flint on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Many notable men were present. The grand comander of Michigan, George T. Campbell, of Owosso, was succeeded by Charles E. Hiscock, of Ann Arbor.

The Michigan Potato Grading association has been organized with 50 members from Grand Rapids, Cadillac, Manton, Traverse City, Onekama, Welsworth and Elmira. L. F. Berskett, Traverse City, is president, and S. D. Lardie secretary. The object of the association is to secure a better system of grading and marketing potatoes.

Dr. Charles H. Haskins, a long-time grand master of the grand lodge of Oddfellows of Michigan, died at his home in Jackson. As a member of the committee, he was instrumental in obtaining for Jackson the state Oddfellows' home. He bore the distinction, too, of being the only man to hold the office of president of the Rebekah assembly of Michigan.

Two prisoners in the Bay City jail, Tony Marcas and Joe Metonas, the latter an Indian from Kawkawlin, made a daring attempt to cause a jail delivery when they set the window casings of their cells on fire. A woman passing by notified the police and a quick response by the fire department stopped the fire before any great damage was done. The men were nearly suffocated, however, before they were rescued.

"Brownie," the dog that waited for weeks for its missing master, H. E. Eberly, of Kalamazoo, to return, is dead. The dog was dying of starvation, and because of its frightful condition an officer shot him. For nearly four weeks the dog had waited night and day at the little shoeshop for the return of its dead master, who strangely disappeared about a month ago. Although efforts had been made to induce the dog to eat food, it had refused everything thrown to him. A few days ago a little girl in the neighborhood took the dog home and tried to care for it. The dog crawled back to the shoe shop. No trace of Eberly has been found.

The boulevard lighting system will be installed in the business section of Caro.

Mrs. Wm. Steadman and daughter, of Boyne City, had narrow escapes from being burned to death Sunday night when their home caught fire.

The 6-year-old daughter of Sidney Parkis, of Battle Creek, was badly bitten by a shepherd dog owned by James Turner. Officers killed the dog and sent the head to Ann Arbor for analysis.

Search for the heirs of the $450,000 David Shafter estate ended with the finding of Margaret Hawthorne, now Mrs. M. S. Wilson, of Louisville, Kentucky. Mrs. Wilson's mother was a daughter of Shafter.

Section men on the Pere Marquette are happy because that railroad has purchased 36 gasoline motor cars, costing $5,000 each, which will be used for section hands and replace the "pump-handle" handcars of the old days.

Shortly after midnight Sunday, dynamite placed by some person unknown under the residence of Mrs. Frances Payne, of Milan, exploded. The corner of the house was torn out and every window broken, but no one was hurt.

It is anounced that the locomotives on the Battle Creek-Goshen and Allegan-Dundee divisions of the Michigan Central will be replaced by electric motors Aug. 1, when the road will be taken over by the Michigan & Chicago Electric Railway Co.

After being knocked unconscious and robbed of $1,100 at the Northwestern station in Chicago, Charles Smith, a mine foreman of Iron River, Mich., attempted to end his life by jumping into an excavation rather than go home and face his wife.

Frank Johnson has sold the Corunna Journal which he has published there for years to L. N. Sheardy, proprietor of the Corunna Independent, also a long-established paper. Sheardy will combine the two and Corunna will have but one weekly newspaper.

Gustave Spearing, a farmer, was found drowned in a small creek half a mile from West Branch. He had started to walk home, stopped at the creek for a drink and fell on his face. The water was less than a foot deep. Spearing had $575 in his pockets.

When Vin Zull, aged 20, wanted to take his horse to go to a neighbor's to borrow a buggy in which to go to Ceresco, his father, Andrew Zull, objected, and in the quarrel that followed the father stabbed the son in the hip with a jackknife. The wound will not be serious unless blood poisoning develops.

George H. Mitchell has received information from Washington to the effect that the senate has confirmed his nomination as postmaster of Birmingham. He served as postmaster four years under Cleveland and was succeeded by Postmaster Hanna, who is still in office. Mitchell is publisher of the Birmingham Eccentric.

Martin Henry Schraich, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Schraich of Rich township, Tuscola county, met death in a peculiar accident. He went out to the barn to gather eggs, climbed up and stuck his head through a small hole in the loft floor. The platform he was standing on shifted slightly and he strangled to death before his mother arrived.

Homer Newton, residing in a summer cottage at Cass Lake, was struck by a stray bullet from a 22-caliber rifle while backing his launch out of the boat house. The bullet was imbedded in his scalp and a physician was required to remove the lead. Cott[illegible] investigated and found a small boy had been shooting promiscuously about the lake.

The Alpena chamber of commerce has completed the distribution of 150 bushels of fine seed corn among the farmers of the county. This will plant 750 acres. The seed has been distributed by co-operation with H. G. Smith, field agent of the United States department of agriculture. Smith is the first field agent to work in Michigan, although there are a number of them now. He began work last July.

Some of the railroad companies that had entered into a tentative agreement with the Gettysburg reunion committee to wait until the next session of the legislature to be reimbursed for all costs of transporting the Michigan veterans to Gettysburg in excess of $20,000 were inclined to withdraw from the proposition, but Rep. Weidenfeller of Bloomingdale agreed to be personally responsible for the extra money in case the legislature refused to act and the railroad companies will accept his terms.

If all persons who have been buried by Rev. Frederick Mueller, of Benona, a hamlet near Shelby, came back to life they could populate a city. For Mr. Mueller began his ministerial work 50 years ago this week. He is pastor of the Benona German Lutheran church, and his parishioners tendered him an aniversary jubilee on the day he left a half century of continuous work behind him. In connection with the jubilee they presented him with a purse of gold. Mr. Mueller has performed 893 marriages, has buried more than 1,000 persons, has confirmed 6,742, christened [illegible]; has delivered 10,000 sermons and probably 100,000 prayers. Bridgewater, Mich., was his birthplace, the event having occurred 69 years ago this month. Mr. Mueller and his wife have brought 12 children up to manhood and womanhood. One daughter is the wife of Rev. I. D. Ehmann, Conklin, Mich. Three sons are ministers, one in Port Huron.

How many miles of railroad are there on the isthmus of Panama?

The total mileage is 202. Fifty-one are operated by the Panama railroad and 151 by the system in the territory about Bocas del Toro.

In 1856. It will not fall on that date again during this century.

Kindly tell me the proper pronunciation of "Peary" and "Amundsen?"

Pronounced "Pee-a-ry" and "Ahmundsen," the accent in both falling on the first syllable.

Is it a fact that bricks cannot be made without straw?

The supposition that straw forms an essential part of brick seems to come from the Bible. Brickmaking was the chief occupation of the Israelites during their bondage in Egypt. The bricks they made, being undoubtedly sun dried only, required a binding material, since the mud from the banks of the Nile did not possess sufficient cohesion in itself, and so chopped straw and weeds were mixed into the clay. Machine made bricks of modern times do not contain any straw.

A good wife and health
Are man's best wealth.

May woman be our companion; may we never make her a slave.

Next to God we are indebted to woman, first for life, then for making it worth while.

Here's to God's first thought, man. Here's to God's second thought, woman. Second thoughts are always best, so here's to woman.

No. There is another system in the territory about Bocas del Toro, principally for the banana industry, with 151 miles of track.

Was Napoleon Bonaparte an agnostic and an avowed destroyer of creeds?

Napoleon was a man of action, not a philosopher, and he never managed to express adequately even his military ideas. His religious opinions we cannot state.

Directing Children Aright.
The young need to be taught that although there is sometimes a pleasure of the senses in committing sin, it is inevitably followed by remorse and punishment. Crime, remorse, punishment form an inseparable trio. On the other hand, while it is often hard to do right, the sense of satisfaction, self-respect and self-control that follows right action is worth all the effort made.

The New High School

INFORMATION OF INTEREST TO EVERY VOTER.

Nearly a year ago at the regular annual school meeting the electors of this District recognizing the growing need for a more adequate, convenient and sanitary high school building passed a resolution authorizing the Board of Education to formulate plans suggest ways and means and to employ an architect with this purpose in view.

In compliance with the wishes of that meeting the Board has spent considerable time the past few months with architects and their plans.

Mr. M. M. Stophlet of Toledo, O. the architect finally engaged has had a wide experience in school house as well as other public building construction.

Those who know Mr. Stophlet personally and are intimately acquainted with his work have spoken of him with highest praise both as an architect and a man.

In the plan finally adopted by the Board consideration has been given not only to the present but also to our future needs and probable growth in school population.

The plans for the proposed new high school will be placed on exhibition to-morrow (Saturday) morning in the windows of the Tecumseh State Savings Bank.

Every voter in the school district is urgently invited to thoroughly inspect and familiarize himself with these plans.

Trustee J. H. Smith will have the plans in charge and will be pleased to answer all questions and explain in detail the drawings.

It has been the endeavor of the Board of Education to combine in this building all the modern ideas of sanitary school construction and ventilation at the same time keeping the cost of the structure and its equipment within the bounds of reason and economy.

As it is of interest to every voter to know just what is proposed to be done a brief outline describing the building plan and its construction is [illegible]

The building as proposed is to rest on the site now occupied by the present Union School building.

The specifications for the proposed structure call for a composite type of construction with outside walls of heavy brick faced with some form of pressed brick and dressed stone trimmings. Roof to be best composition flat roof.

Corridors, stairways and auditorium to be fire proof construction.

Basement to have cement floors, ceiling ten feet in the clear plastered and finished.

First and second floors to have corridors and toilet with terrazzo floors, stairs of iron with slate treads and and either maple or composition floors in auditorium, recitation and class rooms and gymnasium. Interior finish to be flat sawed oak, plain in detail.

Equipment to be modern in every respect. The heating to be steam or furnace blast furnishing six changes of air an hour through heat and ventilating ducts built in the walls, thus preventing danger of fire and furnishing constantly changing supply of pure air for the scholars.

All exit doors to be equipped with emergency or panic bolts which open at the slightest touch.

Boiler and fuel rooms will be fire proofed. The Gymnasium to be 18 feet high, this being standard for the required equipment. Manuel training, lunch rooms etc. also are shown in basement floor plan.

First story to contain boys and girls coat rooms 7th and 8th grade rooms, physical and chemical-laboratories, also laboratory lecture room, superintendent's office, lockers, toilets and observation balcony in gymnasium.

Second story to contain high school auditorium with balcony, stage, consultation rooms, toilet, and five recitation rooms for high school pupils. A teachers' rest room with locker and toilet is also provided on this floor.

The estimated price of a school building with the above briefly stated specifications is about $45,000.00,

Allowing an additional $5,000.00 for furniture and equipment brings the cost to a total of $50,000.00 for the building complete and furnished.

This is somewhat lower figure than some of our surrounding towns have recently paid for their new high schools yet nearly every convenience and modern idea in school construction has been embodied in our plans and architect Stophlet has stated to the Board that he would stake his reputation that the building with these specifications could be build for this money.

In regard to raising money for this proposed improvement it would seem to the Board of Education that as a matter of justice it should be done, if the electors so decide, by bonding the District for the amount, thus spreading part of the tax on the coming generation who are to enjoy fully its priveleges and benefits.

The Board therefore, at its last regular meeting passed a resolution calling a special meeting of the District for Tuesday, June 24, 1913 to vote on the proposition of bonding District No. 7 for the sum of 50,000.00 for the purpose of erecting a new high school building.

The Board of Education wishes to court all publicity in regard to the proposition and will be glad to furnish any additional information or answer other questions.

Respectfully submitted
Board of Education, Dist. No. 7

ART EXHIBIT

The Art Exhibit of the 3rd and 4th Grades at the West Branch School of Tuesday, was certainly very interesting and well repaid one for going to see them. They consisted of drawings and paintings, paper cutting, original stories taken from a picture, music books, spelling books, and bird books, wall paper designs, original borders from certain given lines, in fact most every subject was represented.

A Windy Day furnished the subject for one lesson, and each one chose their own idea, the line full of the week's washing, the trees swaying in the high wind, the man chasing his hat; were all brought out in fine style.

A number of beautiful screens deserve special mention. The delivery wagons were faithfully portrayed as seen one day in the winter, some on wheels and others on runners. The silhouettes of men, of animals and birds, were all done finely, and the wonder is how the pupils have been able to do such work.

We who are older and who did not have the training, that the children of today are having, look on amazed. The teachers may well be proud of their pupils, and the pupils very grateful to their teachers, who have helped them to accomplish so much.

FLAG DAY

June, 14.

We believe that the American flag is the most beautiful and most significant of all the flags of all the nations of the earth. June 14, 1913, is the 136th birthday of our flag. The story of the stars and stripes is the story of a great and mighty people. It symbolizes "life, liberty, and the pursuit of human happiness," the fundamental elements of a great brotherhood. Let the people of Michigan on Saturday, June 14th, display this sacred emblem on all state, municipal and school buildings; let American citizens conduct such exercises as will encourage our youth to love and reverence the flag and what it symbolizes.

Therefore, I, Woodbridge N. Ferris Governor of Michigan, do issue this proclamation and enthusiastically urge the observance of Saturday, the fourteenth of June, 1913, as Flag Day.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this twenty-first day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and of the Commonwealth the Seventy-seventh.

Woodbridge N. Ferris
Governor.

Frederick C. Martindale
Secretary of State.

ENTERTAINED

Pleasant Meeting of the West Minister Guild

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 3rd.

The members of the Westminister Guild and their husbands and young gentleman friends were very pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening by the patroesses of the Guild Mrs. S. W. Anderson, Mrs. Freeman, Mrs Molles, and Mrs. C. A Slayton at the home of the latter, over forty were present and a royal good time enjoyed.

The book "Mormonism the Islom of America" by Bruce Kinney is being studied by the Guild at present and it was very appropriate that two Mormon (?) Elders should make their appearance seeking fair maidens to accompany them to Utah.

No recruits were secured however and they departed after distributing literature on their 'New Way." A vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dickenson opened the short musical program, instrumental duets by Misses Bradley and Kemp and Misses Brown and Rector and vocal solos by Miss Halliday and Elmer Slayton. A spelling match where the stunt was to spell every word wrong possible keeping the same pronunciation when the word was changed made much amusement

Mr. Weld next gave the guests their photos, taken in early life on the screen with radiopticon and all thought Lester Coller is way ahead of the old time photographer. Refreshments and a social hour closed the evening and all voted their hostesses royal entertainers.

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:
68¼ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:
67¾ Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

TO OUR READERS

The Tecumseh Herald goes on record as favoring the plan for a new high school building, in doing this we feel that it is a step in the right direction. The old building has done duty for nearly sixty years and has quite out grown its usefulness being to small and inadequate for present day need.

Clinton and other nearby towns have already erected fine buildings and Tecumseh does not wish to be left behind.

In the plan for the new building as proposed by the school board we feel they have given intelligent careful consideration of the needs of the school. They have studied every detail to make this building convenient and a credit to Tecumseh they also have planned to save the school district all unneccessary expense.

We approve of the plan of spreading the expense over a number of years, thus letting the coming generation bear its share of the expense We feel sure that our many readers and friends will agree with us and show their appreciation by their votes at the coming special election.

Your attention is called to the article submitted by the School Board published in this issue.

TECUMSEH TO THE FRONT

Improvements of every kind are going on, on Chicago street, and Tecumseh is putting on airs accordingly.

The immense plate glass front at the Candy Kitchen was placed Wednesday, taking a large force of men to get it safely in position. The Candy Kitchen is one of the most popular places in town for young or old, and will now be more attractive than ever as the window display is so much better.

The Lilley State Bank is bound to let its light shine on all, and has a new Electric sign, Lilley State Bank in white letters on a green ground. Another Electric sign crosses the street, announcing to the passer by that this is "Tecumseh." It too is in green and white, and when illuminated makes a fine appearance. This is a gift from the Commercial club.

Other changes are to be made on our street in the near future. Tecumseh is getting busy, and is hard to beat in enterprise or beauty.

A SURPRISE

The young ladies of Miss Moss' Sunday School class at the Baptist church made her a surprise visit at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hartzog, on Tuesday evening. A delightful evening was spent with games and social visiting. As Miss Moss is soon to leave for her summer vacation, the young ladies thought best to supply her with something to dry her parting tears, so each one presented her with a dainty hankerchief as a token of their appreciation for her kindness to them since she has been their teacher.

Miss Moss was out at tea with a friend, but Mrs. Hartzog charged her to be home early as it was her birthday. As she entered the door the young ladies gave her a merry greeting. Light refreshments were served and when the guests departed, it was with the wish that they might be together again in the fall.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The little Mildred and Marion, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Will French had a birthday party Wednesday, celebrating their fifth birthday. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent in games and when the supper hour came a very happy and hungry party enjoyed the feast that was spread before them. A fine birthday cake with five candles for each added to the pleasure of the little ones We hope the little folks may have many more happy birthdays together.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kinds, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Self-Confidence.

Lack of self-confidence ever makes you fall back in the ranks, weak, helpless, despairing. It shuts from you the revelation of power that is born only of action. Feel in every fiber of your being, feel with the heat and glow of conviction that you have infinite possibilities you must yourself make realities, or you will do nothing truly great.—Herbert Knowles.

However, I am unwearied in my endeavors to subdue it and have the pleasure to think I have had some success. I rise at 5, walk three miles, keep the air all day, and walk again in the afternoon."

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

MRS. J. IMHOF, of 321 S. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a well day before I took your medicines. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 135. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

TAFT JALKS OF MAINE

Expresses Conviction for First Time, Ship Was Blown Up from Outside.

In New York City the national Maine monument was unveiled and presented to the city on the afternoon of Memorial Day while citizens by thousands, some of the most distinguished in the country stood with bared heads, and while 15,000 soldiers and sailors stood at present arms.

Ahead of the distinguished guests rode Mayor Gaynor, Mrs. Gaynor and Miss Gaynor and the crowd cheered him as he jumped out and took the stand. Ex-President Taft accompanied by Mrs. Taft also were heartily cheered as they reached the stand. Other notable swere Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Governor Sulzer, Governor Haines of Maine, Rear Admiral Sigsbee and W. R. Hearst, who came in for a good share of the plaudits of the crowd. A letter of regret from President Wilson concluded: "That we must always feel that to have been one of the turning points of our consciousness of what was involved in the struggle for human liberty."

Ex-President Taft made the principal address and for the first time, it was said, expressed his conviction from the testimony as he had received it that there was no doubt the Maine had been blown up from the outside by a hostile hand.

CORRESPONDENCE

MACON

Fred Abel was a week end visitor in Leonidas, returning Monday.

Twelve members of Beers Post came down Sunday from Tecumseh to help in the observance of Memorial services

Ken Burleson has a new five passenger Ford car, and is very generous in sharing it with others, as his friends can testify

L. G. Rogers of Ann Arbor who has been visiting his sister, Mrs Peter Socks, came Monday to visit his other sister, Mrs. Frank Satterlee.

Erastus Graff is improving his village property by laying a new walk along the front of the lot

Miss Blanche Mills left Wednesday for Union City to visit relatives. Miss Mills expects to be gone three or four weeks, and will go to Galesburg and Kalamazoo to visit other friends.

Miss Rena Davenport did not receive her automobile last week, as expected. George Lancaster drove to Pontiac Wednesday with Miss Davenport and her mother to select a car.

Decoration day exercises were held last Sunday in the Macon cemetery, and the day being pleasant a good attendance enjoyed the programe. The music was given by a chorus, and the addresses which were excellent were listened to with pleasure. Mr. Howel especially urged the young people the duty of observing the day, and not forgetting the sacrifice that had been made for their country.

Jay Howel lost a horse Wednesday. Dr. Slaight said death was caused by indigestion.

STUTTERING DOCTOR CURED.

Like Learning a New Language, Says the French Patient.

The details of the case of a prominent Parisian physician who has been cured of a habit of stuttering, which seriously hindered him in his work, have just been made public, and have created a great deal of interest not only among the medical fraternity but also with the public at large. Since he was seven years old, the physician, M. Louis Renon, has been afflicted with this infirmity. For some months he followed the autophonic method under M. Colombet, fils, but without result. Although he was a brilliant pupil, he found it difficult to pass his examination which his professor required oral replies. Such a word as phenacetin was utterly beyond him. This and several other words he found himself forced to write.

Finally Dr. Renon put himself under the treatment of Dr. Chervin, one of his conferes. During the first week the patient was not permitted to speak one word except those which were given him by Dr. Chervin and which were spoken only at his house. This was the ordeal which tested the patience of Dr. Renon. He could communicate with his friends only in writing. If someone stopped him on the street and started to speak to him he drew from his pocket a card on which was written: "I am following a treatment for stuttering and I am not permitted to speak."

For two hours in the morning and two in the afternoon he practiced speaking with his medical adviser. He learned how to breathe, how to pose the voice, to emit sounds, to manage his lips, to shape his vowels and consonants, and even to say some words extremely slowly.

During the second week he spoke even more words, enunciating each syllable carefully. This second week, in which he seemed to be learning a new language, was more difficult than the first. If he failed to say a word correctly he was obliged to repeat it until he succeeded

In the third week Dr. Chervin gave his patient phrases to speak. He was also asked to read passages from the great poets and orators. Besides these exercises he practiced speaking three or four hours each day.

After this the treatment proper was completed, but for several months Dr. Renon practiced speaking for at least two hours a day. At the end of a year he continued this habit for half an hour a day.

The result of the cure was excellent. He was able to talk to his friends without stuttering. He even gave courses of lectures with success.

"I consider myself practically cured, said Dr. Renon, "but not definitely. I can speak by wishing to intensify. If I am tired or if I do not think to speak slowly, it sometimes happens that I still stutter. Dr. Chervin's method is only for people who have strong wills."

INFLUENCE OF THE MULLAHS.

No One Dares Lay Sacrilegious Finger Upon Their Persons.

Ever since the beginning of the now constant troubles in India a good deal has been heard about the mullahs.

A mullah, or as it is more properly written, mollah, is a title given in India and throughout the East generally to a religious leader of any description.

Thus the Sultan of Turkey is a mollah, because he is the supreme head of the Moshem world. The hostile Somali leader who caused us so much anxiety between 1901 and 1905, and whose name occasionally crops up even now in the daily papers was also a mollah. And there are hundreds of others.

To the most of the more conspicuous among them we prefix the adjective "mad." This, however, must not be taken to mean that they are insane, the word being used rather in its Oriental insignificance of "inspired."

The influence wielded by the mollahs who are now stirring up the border tribes of Afghanistan is enormous. Clad in their sacred robes, bearing aloft the green standard of Islam, they go up and down the valleys shrilling the Mohammedan war cry, and woe be to him who refuses to heed.

The presence of the mollah is sacred. True, the Amir the other day was reported to have ordered that any of them caught preaching the Jehad (holy war) should have their tongues torn out. But if he really issued such an edict which is extremely doubtful—it was merely meant for European ears. Not even the mighty Habibullah himself would care to lay a sacrilegious finger on one of these saintly personages. If he were to venture such an unheard of thing vengeance would surely overtake him. For it 's the cardinal principal of the Ulima—as the mollahs are collectively termed—that an injury purposely caused to one of their number can only be atoned for by the death of the individual inflicting it.

We Are Growing Younger.

We are a younger people than we were fifty years ago. The proportion of babies to the total population has increased. The proportion of mortality has increased. The proportion of old age has diminished. So says the United States census of 1900. Of the babies that are born, three now reach the age of five for every two that reached it fifty years ago. Infant mortality has diminished but old age mortality has increased. Since 1890 the increase of the death rate from 60 to 64 is 7 per cent; from 65 to 69, 6½ per cent; from 70 to 74, 16½ per cent; from 75 to 79, 7 per cent; from 80 to 84, 15 per cent; from 85 to 89, 12 per cent; from 90 to 94, 30½ per cent; from 95 up, 20½ percent. That is the record that Dr. John V. Shoemaker gleans from the census of 1890, and corrects by later information secured from Washington. So we died earlier than our grandparents did. The reason suggested for it is that a larger proportion of weaklings survive infancy and that life is more luxurious, and the nervous strain of it greater than it use to be.

A President's Baby Clothes.

In the corner of the National Museum attached to Independence Hall, and under a neat glass case there is a little suit of silk baby clothing that attracts much attention, especially from the women visitors.

It includes a tiny cap, dress, waistband and handkerchiefs, made, according to the card attached, "for the sixth President of the United States by the wife of the second," Mrs. John Adams. As her eldest son John Quincy Adams, was born in 1767, and the tiny suit was evidently worn only a few times in his earliest infancy, it is now more than 140 years old.

As evidence of maternal love and care the many delicate cross stitches in colored silk are preserved with marvellous delicacy. They are sure to attract admiring remarks when a group of matrons or stylishly dressed younger women bend over the the case.

Don't Fold Your Arms.

By folding your arms you pull the shoulders forward, flatten the chest and impair deep breathing. Folding the arms across the chest so flattens it down that it requires a constant effort to keep the chest in what should be its natural position. As soon as you forget yourself down drops the chest.

We cannot see ourselves as others see us. If we could, many of us would be ashamed of our shapes. The position you hold your body in most of the time soon becomes its natural position. Continuously folding your arms across the chest develops a flat chest and a rounded back.

Here are four other hints which should be made habits. Keep the back of the neck close to the back of the collar at all possible times. Always carry the chest farther to the front than any other part of the anterior body. Draw the abdomen in and up a hundred times a day. Take a dozen deep slow breaths a dozen times a day.

Will Open Up Vast Tract.

A great extension of the Siberian railroad is proposed along the River Amur, and as it has met with hearty approval on the part of the present ministry, it is likely to be constructed. It will open up 40,000,000 acres of corn land.

Factory Work for Infirm.

Among the many charities in London there is none more interesting to the American visitor, than the factory where girls who are blind, cripples in wheeled chairs and dwarfs, some of them only a yard high, are taught the art of making artificial flowers, and when they have mastered the rudimentary branches they are paid for their time. The factory is maintained by the Water Cress and Flower Girls' Christian Mission, which was organized forty years ago by the late Earl of Shaftesbury, and it is now under the patronage of the Queen and the Princess of Wales.

Telling the Hour.

In Singar, in the Malay archipelago, two bottles are placed neck to neck, and sand is put into one of them, which pours itself into the other every half hour, when the bottles are reversed. On a line nearby are hung twelve rods marked with notches, from one to twelve. The whole arrangement is in charge of an attendant, who sounds the hours on a gong.

Triumph Of Madam Marsky

"The whole thing is an utter fraud! I can't think how anyone can be fool enough to believe in such nonsense."

The Colonel spoke heatedly

"As for this Madame Marsky, she is merely a vulgar charlatan—a cheat! She ought to have been locked up long ago in order to protect the poor fools she fleeces so successfully. Women of that sort are an offense in any civilized community. Why no one has even come forward at some of her scandalous hypnotic seances to expose her publicly is a mystery to me."

The hostess hastily attracted the attention of the assembled ladies. They all answered to her summons with alacrity—all except one, who rose languidly from her chair, a scornful smile about her lips; her eyes were fixed on the Colonel with a curiously intent expression, as if she wished to stamp his face on her memory.

When the ladies had reached the drawing room, the hostess turned to the lady who had taken so great an interest in the Colonel.

"Dear Madame Marsky," she said, with tears of mortification in her eyes "It was all too dreadful! Please forgive me for exposing you in my house to so great an insult! It never occurred to me that Colonel Graham did not know you by sight. Any way, he must have known that you were a dear friend of mine. His behavior was atrocious, unwarrantable. Of one thing you can be quite sure—Colonel Graham shall never cross our threshold again!"

"Please do not give the incident another minute's thought," she replied. "Army men are often so bigoted and narrow-minded. A lesson that the outside world cannot be drilled and bullied with impunity, as he probably drills and bullies his poor soldiers, would do a great deal of good to our military friend. Why is he so set against hypnotism in general, and me in particular?"

"He is against everyone who is cleverer than himself, and against everything that escapes the grasp of his narrow understanding. Here come the men."

The door opened wide, and foremost among the men strode Colonel Graham. By his side walked his host in a manner rather suggestive of a policeman in charge of a criminal.

"May I introduce Colonel Graham to you, Madame Marsky? He has expressed a great wish to me for an introduction, in order to apologize to you for his most unfortunate speech."

"I must apologize," he began in a tone that was anything but apologetic, "for my most unfortunate remark in regard to your most charming self just now. Of course, as soon as I knew who you were I realized the heinousness of my crime. In regard to what I said about hypnotism I apologize also, although I still preserve the same feelings on that subject."

"Very well, Colonel Graham," she replied coldly. "I accept your not very gracious apology. Perhaps at some future date we may meet again, and I may prove to you personally that I am neither a charlatan nor a cheat, and that there is something in hypnotism after all."

She bowed haughtily and turned her back upon him.

• • • • • • • •

The large concert hall was brilliantly illuminated. Down below, in the body of the hall, sat the serried ranks of "Tommies." Above on a level with the plaform, sat the officers and their friends, foremost among them being Colonel Graham. Lady Flora, the toast of the regiment and the Colonel's fiancee, sat by the side of her soldier lover.

On the platform a small figure stood, dressed in white. Madame Marsky, the celebrated hypnotist, held the audience in the hollow of her hand, breathless and fascinated.

"How pretty she is and how determined she looks! No wonder no one can resist her! I wish you would go and be hynotized, Colonel! I should dearly love to see her pit her whole strength against you—you, the strong man!"

"My dear Lady Flora," he said deprecatingly, "you know quite well that your wish is my law, but really you can scarcely expect a man in my position to make such a fool of himself publicly in the face of his whole regiment, now could I?"

"You wouldn't look like a fool," she said. "Madame Marsky would, of course! You say she is a cheat and a charlatan! Here is your opportunity to prove your words before all. She couldn't hypnotize you; the idea is absurd—or have you secret doubts of her power after all? Oh, I believe you have!" [illegible] as she received no answer from her admirer.

"Dear me, how hot the place is! I am beginning to feel quite dazed; the heat is really affecting my head. I beg your pardon, Lady Flora. What were you saying just then?"

"I said that I believe you are secretly frightened of Madame Marsky and her powers and won't own up. Now confess you are scared, aren't you?"

"Scared! Pheugh! Scared, my dear young lady! The idea is absurd. My position in the regiment forbids showing this woman up as I should like to do. How she does stare up here!"

"Many people scoff and call me a cheat and a charlatan. There is a man here to-night, who once insulted me in public. His apology must be made to me publicly on his bended knees. I am calling to him now. He is weak as water in my hands. That man will [illegible] my power as [illegible]."

The Colonel gasped and wiped his brow, on which beads of perspiration had gathered. He half rose from his seat and [illegible]

"Good heavens," he murmured [illegible] in his dream. "I believe the woman actually means me! What impertinence, what horrible impertinence!"

Lady Flora leaned towards him.

"What are you muttering to yourself about so vindictively? She is looking at you, my friend; you had better be careful. My dear, good man, what on earth are you going to do? How very extraordinary you look!"

She drew back aghast. The Colonel's face had grown rigid and fixed; his eyes fixed on Madame Marsky's face, seemed to be starting out of his head. He breathed unevenly and looked like a man in a trance.

"He is coming to me now," cried the hypnotist, "down the stairs, across the hall, to prove that the science of hypnotism is not quite a fraud after all."

And he was! As one in a dream, the Colonel rose and pushed back his chair. He broke away from Lady Flora's almost frantic grasp and passed like a sleep walker among his guests, unseeing and quite unconscious of what he was doing.

"I once insulted both you and the science you love. I was rude to you," he said in a low, clear voice. "I have deeply regretted it since—oh, so bitterly—for I love you so! You are really the only woman I have ever loved. Will you forgive me and marry me?"

"Colonel Graham has apologized to me for his insulting remarks on the subject of my art and for the statement he made about me personally. He has found out that I am not a cheat, not a charlatan. All these statements he recalls utterly as if they had never been made. I forgive him."

There was a silence that could almost be felt, and then a "Tommy" burst into an hysterical cheer. His companions joined in frantically. The rafters rang with their boisterous applause. The Colonel was not a popular man in his regiment.

Madame Marsky stood a moment, proudly erect, and listened to the uproar; then she bent forward over the kneeling figure and made a few passes with her hands. Her victim rose to his feet and faced her.

Slowly the full knowledge of what had happened and the humiliating part he had played seemed to dawn upon him. The cheering ceased abruptly; cold fear had gripped the "Tommies" at the sight of the furious, white, drawn face on the platform.

The Colonel passed his hand across his face like one awaking from a dream. As he [illegible] his hands he encountered the steady, magnetic gaze of Madame Marsky's eyes. The sight seemed to make him nearly mad.

"You witch!" he hissed between his clenched teeth. "You shall pay for this, madam!"

For one moment he looked as if he would strike her down in his blind rage, but his hand fell helpless before her merciless, fixed stare. He put up one hand to his head and seemed about to fall.

"Go," she said authoritatively; "go, you have had your lesson."

She turned to the audience, bowed and passed through the curtains at the back of the stage.

A Gracious Compliment.

"I find old age to be an enjoyable period of life."

Thus, on his birthday, a young woman, an admirer of his books, happened to bring him a bouquet of roses. Colonel Higginson asked her name, and then he said:

"You live, I suppose, with your parents?"

"No, sir," the lady replied. "My parents are in heaven. I live with my husband."

"Your husband, too, is in heaven!" said Colonel Higginson, gallantly.

Quarrelsome Musical Minds.

Something in the musical mind seems to be very irritant and quarrelsome, inviting doubt as to the celestial origin of the "heaven descended maid," and suggesting rather that it is a juice of the basement and not [illegible] from the top stories of the brain. Parrots and mocking birds, [illegible] whistle and sing with some success, and are as spiteful and jealous as devils and monkeys.

Anecdote from Real Life.

"Forty years ago I started in life without a cent."

"Say, on."

"And now I have four hundred dollars in the bank, and a [illegible]"

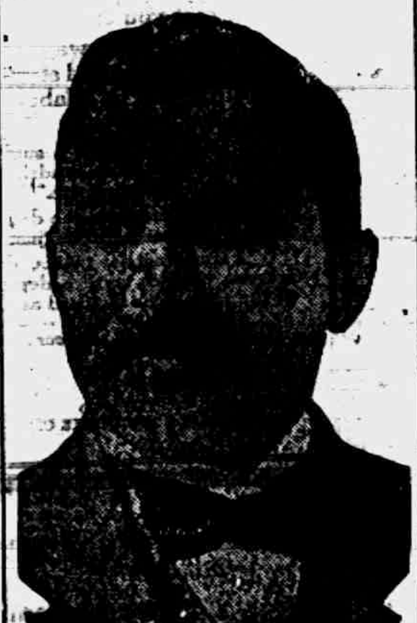
WM. M WOOD

Woolen Trust Head Freed of Charge of Planting Dynamite.



WOOD ACQUITTED BY JURY

Disagree on Atteaux—Collins Guilty on Two Counts.

Boston, Mass., June 9.—After deliberating throughout the night the jury acquitted President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company of the charge of conspiracy to injure the textile strikers at Lawrence by "planting" dynamite. A disagreement in the case of Frederick E. Atteaux was reported. Dennis J. Collins, who turned state's evidence, was found guilty on two counts and not guilty on the other four counts of the indictment.

Wood, Atteaux and Collins were indicted for alleged conspiracy to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence to discredit the textile strikers during the industrial troubles of 1912.

Long French Fishing Grounds.

It is an established historical fact that for more than 400 years French fishermen have come each season to the shores of Newfoundland and the neighboring banks, except during the wars with England, when French ships were temporarily driven from these seas.

BLOOD WILL SURELY TELL

When Prof. Reichert Has Developed His Idea.

PROOF OF HEREDITY COMING

University of Pennsylvania Scientist Can Now Distinguish the Blood of a Chinaman from That of an Englishman—Will Solve Many a Problem Involving Bloodstains.

Philadelphia, June 9.—With the publication of the second work of Professor Edward Tyson Reichart of the University of Pennsylvania, elaborating his research investigations, there is but one other theory to be developed by the noted scientist, and that is the establishment of the proof that heredity can be traced through the examination of the blood crystals.

Can Tell Races by Blood.

"You can say for me now," said Professor Reichert, "that my work on heredity is progressing. Within the next year I will have established proof that heredity can be traced through the blood crystals. When that is done, I will have finished years of endless labor and I have enjoyed the work."

The two works which the Carnegie Institution at Washington have completed represented the best years of the life of this remarkable scientific medical genius. Scientists believed that the blood of all Germans should be alike and that it ought to be possible to distinguish between the blood of a Chinaman and the blood of an Englishman, but no one had demonstrated the fact htat it was possible to differentiate between them until two years ago, when Dr. Reichert discovered it.

"When I had," he continued, "completed my work on hemoglobins, I found that I had gone about as far as I could at that time and before it would be possible for me to continue my research work along the lines of evolution it would be necessary for me to first go back to the chemistry of protoplasm and that meant that I had to work in the vegetable kingdom as well as the animal before I would find out where we were starting from."

Will Settle Mooted Problems.

It is now possible to tell with absolute certainty from what animal the blood which made the stains on the garments of the accused—if there is stains—was obtained. This delicate test will determine from what animal the blood was obtained and furthermore it can be relied upon to distinguish what species of an animal the specimen was taken from.

NEW CABINET IDEA

Aids to Be Called In When Chiefs Are Away from Capital.

Washington, June 9. — President Wilson apparently has established a rule that in the absence from the city of the heads of the departments assistant secretaries shall sit in their places at the cabinet table. John Skelton Williams, assistant secretary of the treasury, attended the last cabinet meeting and on all occasions upon which Secretary Bryan has been away thus far John Bassett Moore, counsellor of the state department, has joined the president's advisers.

It is said the reason for the rule is that each cabinet officer may have a representative at the session who will report to him any subjects concerning his department which may have come up for discussion during his absence.

OROZCO, SR., HANGED

Zapata Refuses $20,000 Ransom for Rebel Chief's Father.

Mexico City, June 9.—Disdaining a ransom of $20,000 offered by the friends of Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., father of the former rebel chief, Emiliano Zapata has caused the old man to be put to death, according to a special dispatch from Cuernavaca to El Imparcial.

The dispatch says Orozco's body was found by the federals at Tlachichipla, near Jojutla, in central Morelos, hanging to a tree and riddled with bullets. A commission of Orozco's friends recently went to Zapata and sought the freedom of Orozco. Zapata said he would not sell justice.

COWBOYS IN LONG RACE

Three Start at Kansas City and Are to Finish at Winnipeg.

Kansas City, Mo., June 9.—A fifteen hundred mile cowboy race for a prize of $1,000 started from Kansas City. Miller Hawk, Spur, Tex.; William Benton, Sierra Blanco, Tex., and T. O. Henderson, Coayama, Mex., are the contestants, and their destination is Winnipeg, Man. Each of the riders has a pack pony besides his mount. They will go by the way of Omaha and Minneapolis. There each will choose a separate trail.

Mayor Jost, who sent a letter with the racers to the mayor of Winnipeg, acted as official starter.

EASTERN WIFE FINDS BIGAMIST IN INDIANA

Arrest Deprives a Knightstown Widow of Husband.

Newcastle, Ind., June 9. — Charles W. Reed, alias Charles Reamer, fifty-three years old, of Rochester, N. Y., was arrested at Knightstown on a charge of bigamy preferred by Mrs. Guerney Tuttle Reed of Jersey City, N. J., who offered evidence to show that she and the prisoner were married March 8 at Jersey City. On May 1 Mrs. Reed's husband married Mrs. Nancy Bailey, sixty-four years old, a well-to-do widow of Knightstown. The groom gave the name of Charles Reamer, by which he was known in Knightstown.

Mrs. Reed charged that he departed with almost $700 worth of diamonds and a large amount of money.

When arrested Reed admitted his identity, although he had shaved off a heavy mustache. "Yes, I am the man wanted for bigamy," he said. "I am fifty-three years old and am awfully sorry I did it. I was a long time geting started to marrying, but after I got started I certainly went some."

When questioned about his first wife's diamonds he admitted taking them and the money, but he would not say what he had done with them, since he was not yet charged with the theft.

Mrs. Bailey asked Reed to write to her while he was in jail.

LIFERS WANT PARDONS

H. E. Hinshaw, Preacher Convict, May Be One of June Petitioners.

Laporte, Ind., June 9.—According to letters received by Harry B. Darling, secretary of the state board of pardons, the June meeting will be featured by the hearing of a large number of petitions of life term convicts in the Michigan City prison.

It is understood that friends of W. E. Hinshaw, the preacher convict, will appear again before the board with an earnest appeal for his release. The docket for the June term will be large and five days probably will be occupied in this session.

INDICT MINERS' CHIEFS

Federal Grand Jury Charges Men Break Sherman Act.

Charleston, W. Va., June 9.—President John P. White and eighteen other officials of the United Mine Workers of America were indicted in the federal court on a charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

It is alleged the defendants conspired with the coal operators of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to raise wages in the West Virginia coal field so as to prevent its competition with the four other states in the western market.

MISS DAVISON PASSES AWAY

WONAN'S PURPOSE UNKNOWN

Never Ascertained Whether Attempt Was to Interfere with King's Race Horse or to Spoil the Race—Once Fined for Whipping Minister—Fined Many Times.

London, June 9.—Miss Emily Wilding Davison, the militant suffragette who was knocked down and trampled on by King George's race horse Anmer, when she rushed on the track and interfered with the running of the Derby last Wednesday, died at the Epsom Cottage hospital. She was conscious for a short time Friday, but lapsed into unconsciousness after an operation had been performed and died without regaining consciousness.

Purpose Unknown.

It will never be definitely known whether Miss Davison made a particular effort to interfere with the king's horse or whether she simply wanted to spoil the race. It was the king's horse, however, who hit her with his shoulder and knocked her down and trampled on her. Jones, the jockey, was thrown and badly hurt, but is expected to be about again in a few days.

Once Whipped Minister.

The crazy act of Miss Davison was witnessed by King George and Queen Mary, who were in the royal box and were watching the result through their glasses. For a time the report was that Miss Davison was dead. The woman, who was thirty-five years of age, was well educated and had the degree of B. A. She was one of the most active of the militants and had been in prison for suffrage outrages no less than eight times. She was sentenced once for horsewhipping a Baptist minister, whom she mistook for David Lloyd George.

An inquest will be held next Tuesday.

STRAUS MEMORIES HONORED

Bronze Tablet to Memory of Titanic Heroes Unveiled.

New York, June 9.—A handsome bronze tablet bearing the medallion portraits of Isidoro Straus and his wife, who perished heroically in the Titanic disaster, was unveiled in the assembly room of R. H. Macy & Co.'s store in the presence of 4,000 employes and invited guests.

A five-year-old granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Straus pulled the strings that drew the big American flags from in front of the tablet.

Woman Temperance Worker in South Bend Threatened with Death.

South Bend, Ind., June 9.—Mrs. Jennie Sharpless, a society woman and prominent in Indiana W. C. T. U. circles, has received a "black hand" letter, the writer of which threatens to blow her head off unless she ends her campaign to close South Bend dives.

TARIFF TRYOUT IN COMMITTEE

Next Crisis Comes Before Finance Body.

DELAY IN THE PROGRAMME

Prospects Are That Some Democrats on the Committee Will Oppose Many Changes—Work Done on Sunday on Several Schedules to Gain a Day.

Washington, June 9. — Before the tariff bill gets to the senate Democartic caucus, where it will be submitted to the most severe test it must meet before its pasage, it will have a preliminary tryout before the senate finance committee that promises to be most rigid.

Will Be Opposition.

Although the subcommittees have been at work on various schedules a month and are about to finish their work, it was said that there would be opposition by Democrats on the finance commitete to many changes. There is a prospect that some of the committee recommendations may not be adopted.

Committee Meets Tuesday.

Chairman Simmons of the finance committee has called a meeting of the majority members of his committee for Tuesday orning. He hopes to call the meeting of the entire committee next week, but two of the subcommittees still are struggling with schedules and cannot camplete their work before the middle of the week at the earliest.

Senator Johnson's subcommittee worked Sunday in an effort to gain a day. If some schedules are reduced as much as is reported a fight in committee seems certain before the bill gets to the caucus.

ANTISUFFRAGIST PRIZES

Miss Henry, Cleveland, and Mrs. Townsend, North Carolina, Honored.

Washington, June 9.—Miss Julia D. Henry of Cleveland, O., and Mrs. Metta F. Townsend of Greensboro, N. C., have each been awarded a prize of $100 by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage for submitting essays giving reasons why the suffrage should not be granted to the fair sex. More than a thousand essays were submitted in the competition that came to an end June 1.

Mrs. George Riggs (Kate Douglas Wiggin) Miss Ida Tarbell and Miss Jeannette Gilder acted as judges.

One prize of $100 was offered for the best essay written by a city woman. This went to Miss Henry. The other $100 prize was for the essay from the country districts and this went to Mrs. Townsend.

CAL GIVES DOPE

New Trade Strengthens Both Teams—Favors Cleveland.

New York, June 9.—Manager Jimmy Callahan of the Chicago White Sox discussed baseball from various angles in a talk. Callahan expressed the opinion that the trade which involved the shifting of Hal Chase to the Sox in exchange for Borton and Zeider was about even up.

"The deal will help both teams," declared Callahan. "Chase, I think has been misunderstool.

"Borton and Zeider played great ball for us and they will repeat for Chance. Borton is a natural hitter and he will prove it before long.

"In my opinion the Clevelands are equally as strong as the Athletics. The Naps, it would seem, have a better pitching staff."

HOW'S THIS

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by this firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with any old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Those Suspicious People.

Politeness is wasted on some people. They always seem to think we have a gold brick to sell them.

An Ill Wind

The big yellow car had just escaped taking off the wheel of a very smartly rigged Stanhope, and the pretty women in it had sent a look of resentment and disgust deep into poor Billy's susceptible eyes; he spoke irritably as they sped past.

"I wish to heaven, Julia, you would be more careful. That's the seventh time this afternoon we've escaped a mix-up. Let me run her now, that's a good girl."

His cousin shut her lips firmly. "If you are going to develop nerves, Billy, you can get out, you know. I may be a greenhorn, but I'm game for any amount of this business. Do we turn just ahead? I don't seem to remember this road."

"Yes, we turn—on—one wheel, probably," retorted the perturbed Billy, savagely. "No stunts now. Shut her down, I say! There's the deuce of a mill, Julia——"

Soon afterward he sat up in the dusty grass of the roadside and gazed vaguely about him. Presently he became conscious of a peculiar object on which his hand rested. He looked down. A roasted chicken, plump, browned to a turn, met his astonished gaze. A bottle of champagne, broken, alas! lay near, its golden nectar wasted on insensate grass. Dazed and aggrieved he got to his feet, and then he sat down again suddenly. A big red car stood in the otherwise deserted road. Red?

He got up quickly, anxiously. That reckless girl! Ah, there she wasn't!

A young woman in a torn coat of pongee sat calmly on the wall behind him, arranging her sunny hair in the indescribable fashion peculiar to all pretty women. She met his scared eyes affably.

"Come around, haven't you?" she said with a nod of her charming head. "I thought you would. You began to groan when I poured the champagne over you, but really there wasn't anything else I could do for you. On the whole I think we've come off rather luckily, don't you?"

Billy's head whirled. Who was this nochalant young person who said "we" so calmly to an utter stranger, and who seemed oblivious to the existence of Julia?

"Would you mind telling me what has become of Julia?" he faltered, bold his acheing head. "Something has happened I think. Is she—badly hurt?"

It was the young woman's turn to start, and she did so, thoroughly.

"Julia? What do you mean? I don't remember a thing after I screamed, when I saw that big yellow streak bearing down upon us until I found myself in these bushes and you unconscious on the grass. Who is Julia?"

Mr. Billy Brooks staggered to a seat on the wall. The girl was frowning at the rents in her long coat.

"Look at 'em," she mourned. "Even if our car isn't past patching up, I'm a wreck. I can't possibly face Mrs. Elliott and the rest in this state. You see, I lit right in those blackberry bushes. It was awfully good of you to offer to get me there quickly, but, really, the train would have been less hard on my gown."

Mr. Brooks murmured an apology absently, staring straight before him! Mrs. Elliott! An addition to his circle of acquaintances. Perhaps Julia—Our car! Our car!

"Your eyes aren't gray, and your hair isnt curly—why I dont know you, I don't;" she said pitifully. "I never saw you in my life before What—what has happened to us? You talk of Julia and—and"—

"Why, cousin Julia and I were driving half an hour ago in a yellow car—the Meteor. Julia and the car seem to have been translated and you're Mr. Stewart. I am here, and you are here, and a red car is here, and—er—the remains of a good lunch—not mine. My name is William Brooks. Can you throw any light on this Chinese puzzle?"

"I don't quite understand. I thought you were Mr. Stewart or I—Why, this is Mr. Stewart's car! He was taking me over to Mrs. Elliott's garden party. And that big yellow car came roaring at us!

"When—when I crawled out of the bushes and tried to pour the champagne down your throat, I thought what pigs these people were to keep right on and never stop to see if we were killed! And you are not—Mr. Stewart—at all! If your name is Brooks, where is Mr. Stewart?"

"I really do not know," retorted the lady in the car, with some asperity. "It might appear to a sensible person that she is with Godfrey Stewart in a yellow car. Anything is possible after this."

Mr. Brooks slid from the wall with incredible speed.

"Why Hurst Abbey."

"But it is not for sale."

"Oh, any place is for sale if enough is offered."

"But——" she began.

"Don't worry about it," he interrupted her; "I have written to the lawyers. By the way, you don't know who owns it?"

"I—seem to have heard," she said, "once; but," she went on, as if trying to remember, "I am afraid I can't tell you the name. But why do you want to buy it?"

"Make it useful," he said shortly.

"But how?"

"Pull it down."

"Oh!"

"Turn it into a sugar refinery."

"You dare not!" she cried indignantly.

"I dare," he retorted.

"It is abominable!"

"Well, it's no use at present."

"No use! I—I——" She said no more, but whisked out of the room and shut the door with a bang.

"Spirit!" muttered Floyd, as he looked at the door as though his eyes were Roentgen rays; and he lit a cigar. "I like spirit."

He did not wait for the post on the following morning, but crept early into the [illegible] sunbeam-habited house, where the air seemed to lie in luminous strata.

"Ought to be somewhere here," he said quietly, and he walked noiselessly into the kitchen, where the cat rose, yawned, and looked at him, then at the boots he held in his hand.

"Ah, here we are!" he exclaimed at last, as he descended a step into a little brick-floored room. The bump his head made in the whitewashed ceiling is there to this day. "Brushes—blacking. Clean my own boots? Of course! Well"—brush, rub, brush—"I wouldn't at the Carlton; but I don't like to have jeweled knobs in my boots. Confound it! It hurts. Hullo, puss!" he went on, as he saw the cat sitting on the threshold gazing at him.

Bang went down one boot, and he picked up the other.

"Mr. Floyd!"

"Madam?" And he bowed to her profoundly, boot in hand.

"What are you doing?"

"Dirty work makes clean boots."

"But I won't have it."

"Oh, yes, you will, Miss Charteris, till Annette——"

"There isn't any Annette," she said excitedly, and she took a step forward.

"Thought as much," he said grimly.

"But——" she began, and then she turned away sharply for there came a rat-tat at the outer door.

"Postman," he said. "Shall I go."

"No, of course not!" And she darted off, to return in a minute, bearing a letter in her hand.

"You don't trust me," he said as he took it.

"Why should I?" she exclaimed.

"Oh—just because you should."

He read that letter, and then read it again. It began: "Dear Sir—In answer to yours——" end evidently it was not quite satisfactory, since soon after breakfast he started off for the country town whence it came.

(Return to that mansion.)

"They tell me——" he said.

"Who tell you?"

He looked at her quite calmly.

"The lawyers who have charge of the abbey. They say that it is not to be sold."

"No more it is."

"But——" he continued. "There, please sit down, because I have a lot I want to say." And she obeyed his wish, subsiding into the lounge chair in the corner of the veranda.

"What do you wish to say?"

"I want——" he cried. "I want to buy that place."

"To make it a sugar refinery?" she asked, and there was a suspicion of a smile at the corners of her mouth.

"No, no; I want to hear you play the spinet again, I want you, and the place would be yours, and the land which used to belong, don't you see? And you could repair where you chose and leave the rest. What have I made all my money for out there, where everything is so confoundedly new, if I can't do this—for you? Miss Charteris—Ethel—I am only a rough 'un; but could you not take me—for the sake of the abbey?"

She turned her head sideways a little and looked at him.

"Perhaps," she said softly; "perhaps I could."

And though the spinet of the olden days was far away, he felt that there was music just then which made its cadence dull.

Indelible Ink Required.

By the laws of England and of France, legal documents are required to be written in ink made from galls, such ink having proved to be practically indelible. The mixture is of bruised galls with sulphate of iron and gum arabic. This legal ink, at once the best and oldest in existence, entirely depends on a disease to which the oak tree is subject, and which is caused by a fly known as the gall-fly. The gall-fly belongs to the same order as the bees and wasps, and when it is ready to lay its egg, it cuts away the outer bark of an oak tree twig and deposits its eggs in the hole. From some unknown cause the tree immediately begins to enlarge about the egg, and a gall, or oak-apple, as it is usually called, is formed.

Money in Rats.

The only good rats are dead rats. Alive, the rat carries disease. Dead, it may have a commercial value. The skin is fine material for book covers and for making purses and photograph frames. It may also be used in the manufacture of gloves for women, and in several of the great cities the rat killing industry is assuming proportions. The rat in Scandinavia, as well as the species known as the Norwegian, a big bothersome rodent because of its fighting proclivities, is particularly valuable for the purposes named. The bodies can be converted into fertilizing material. Thus, in many commercial centres abroad, is the rat being killed by the many thousands not because it is a menace to public safety, but because uses have been found for the heretofore worthless hide. The time may come when the rat will be hunted assiduously in this country, not only because of the money that's in it, but because it is our enemy.—Indianapolis News.

The Strange New Creed.

Professor Percival Lowell, the famous astronomer and author, said the other day of the public ignorance where astronomical matters are concerned:

"I can't discuss my Martian theories with the average man. He is as ignorant of astronomical terms as one of our Flagstaff policemen is of all long Latin words.

"This policeman arrested, the other night, an elderly gentleman who was parading the street in a white nightgown.

"'Good gracious, officer!' said the old gentleman, giving me a great start, 'it's all right; let me go. I'm a somnambulist.'

"'It don't make no odds what your religion is,' he said, 'you come along with me.'"

Remington's Frank Criticism.

Frederic Remington, the illustrator, fresh from a Western trip on which he had been making studies of Indians and cowpunchers and things outdoors, met an art editor who insisted upon dragging him up to an exhibition of very impressionistic pictures.

"You don't seem enthusiastic," remarked the editor as they were coming. "Didn't you like them?"

Remington, remembering what he had been told as a boy, counted ten before replying. Then:

"Like 'em? Say! I've got two maiden aunts in New Rochelle that can knit better pictures than those!"

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A fatal accident occurred near Napoleon, Ohio, Friday afternoon when George James a freight conductor was thrown from a freight car on which he was riding.

He with a brakeman was shunkting some steel gondolas to Malinta, Ohio and an airbrake hose broke causing the cars to stop suddenly throwing Mr. James off the car. He was killed instantly. His body was taken back to his home in Napoleon where he moved from Tecumseh about two years ago. A wife and five children survive him.

CHILDREN'S DAY

The exercises at the Baptist church Sunday morning were exceptionally good. The Processional was fine, Lucille Kelly as Queen June escorted by two pages, and the Months in order, led the way to the rostrum and the older members of the School followed. The ladies were dressed in white with wreaths of syringa on their heads.

Opening song by the School, followed by a responsive prayer service. A solo by the Queen, was followed by greetings from the months with gifts of flowers according to their seasons. After this recitations and songs made a fine program. At the close of the exercises a Recessional hymn was sung, and the benediction closed a most delightful service, every child entering into the spirit of Children's day.

The church was most beautifully decorated with green and white. Maple leaves, White bunting and syringa blossoms were used in profusion with boquets of other flowers lending a riot of color to the decorations.

At the Presbyterian church a very fine program was rendered by the primary and junior departments, assisted by the whole school in chorus.

The address by the Pastor was most excellent, he has the happy faculty of reaching the hearts of the children and winning their effection.

Children's day has become one of the chief festivals of the month of June, and every child looks forward to its observance with a loving interest.

GENERAL FRANK D. BALDWIN

Retired Officer U. S. A. Served in Civil War, and for 30 Years Engaged in Indian Warfare.

GUEST OF GEN. FRED B. WOOD

General Fred B. Wood has been entertaining General Frank D. Baldwin of Denver, Colo. for several days.

General Baldwin deserves more than passing mention as he was in the U. S. army for so many years. He served through the Civil war and afterward was over thirty years engaged in Indian warfare only retiring from service when reaching the age limit.

Gen'l Baldwin was one of two officers to receive the second medal of honor. The other one being Thomas Custar a brother of Gen'l Custar.

His first medal was won by an act of distinguished bravery at Peochtree Creek during the Civil War when he went out between the two lines of battle alone during the fight and captured two confederate officers. The second was during the Indian Campaign, he being the officer who for the first time during our history subdued and pacified the Moro's on the Mindanao Island it was this campaign that won for him his title of General. It was in this fight that Major Will S McNair a Tecumseh boy commanded the artillery under Gen'l Baldwin. Since the retirement of Gen'l Baldwin he has made his home in Denver, Col.

The general has many relatives and friends in Tecumseh and adjoining towns, whom he is calling upon, at this time being on a return trip from Washington D. C. and Virginia where he rode with the cavalry soldiers with an ease and grace that astonished them but which he enjoyed to the utmost.

Arbitrated.

Conversation among travellers is frequently absurdly trivial. After several days together, as on shipboard, every one is idle, and talks about the most unimportant matters with the deepest interest. R. H. Milligan, in a book entitled "The Jungle Folk of Africa," recounts with what complacency the conclusion was reached that the thirteen colonies should never have rebelled, and that the blame was all on the side of England.

One man, moreover, disclosed the fact that he always wore safety-pins instead of garters, and descanted upon his preference with such enthusiasm that he made at least one convert.

One night we put in practice the principle of arbitration, of which we were all adherents. An argument had arisen among us as to which was the more simple of the two currency systems, dollars and cents, or pounds, shillings and pence. At last, the captain arriving, we decided to refer the matter to him, and to surrender our judgment to his arbitration.

The captain, an Englishman of the very stolid sort, after a period of reflection, replied very slowly, and with all the gravity of a judge:

"Pounds, shillings and pence is the simpler system; for, don't you know that when you are told the price of a thing in dollars and cents you always have to convert it into pounds, shillings and pence."

There was a little objection to this theory, but in general it was perfectly satisfactory so long as the voyage lasted.

B. J. PULVER.

AN EDUCATIONAL BOOM.

It Struck Our Colleges Along in the Early '80s.

The curves representing the number of students are astonishingly similar in the case of American institutions of higher education, whatever their character and location.

There is a normal increase in attendance corresponding to the growth in population until about 1885, when the curve takes a sudden leap upward, and in the case of the State universities, assumes a parabolic form.

The curve for German universities shows the same peculiarity, with the sudden upward bend occurring at 1871. This is easily referable to the consolidation of the empire, but in the United States there was no such political revolution in 1885.

Where the authorities in different universities have been asked to explain this sudden increase of attendance in the early '80s they have attributed it to some local cause. "Oh, that was when our college got a new president," or "That was the year of the big corn crop," or "The new school law came into effect then," or "The Legislature was unusually generous."

But there is a difference of only two or three years between Harvard and California in the date when the curve started upward, and it is obvious that when Eastern and Western institutions, private and public, high schools and universities, classical colleges and technological schools, are affected almost simultaneously in the same way the fundamental cause must be a general not a local one. This cause, however, according to a writer in the Independent, remains to be discovered.

Studebaker

STUDEBAKER

"Studebaker wagons certainly last a long time"

"I have had this wagon twenty-two years, and during that time it cost me only $6.00 for repairs, and that was for setting two tires."

"And after twenty-two years of daily use in good and bad weather and over all kinds of roads, I will put this wagon against any new wagon of another make that you can buy today."

"Studebaker wagons are built of air-dried lumber and tested iron and steel. Even the paint and varnish are subjected to a laboratory test to insure wearing qualities."

"No wagon made is subjected to as many tests or is more carefully made than a Studebaker. You can buy them of Studebaker dealers everywhere."

"Don't listen to the dealer who wants to sell you a cheap wagon, represented to be 'just as good' as a Studebaker."

Farm wagons, trucks, dump wagons and carts, delivery wagons, buggies, surreys, depot wagons—and harness of all kinds of the same high standard as the Studebaker vehicles.

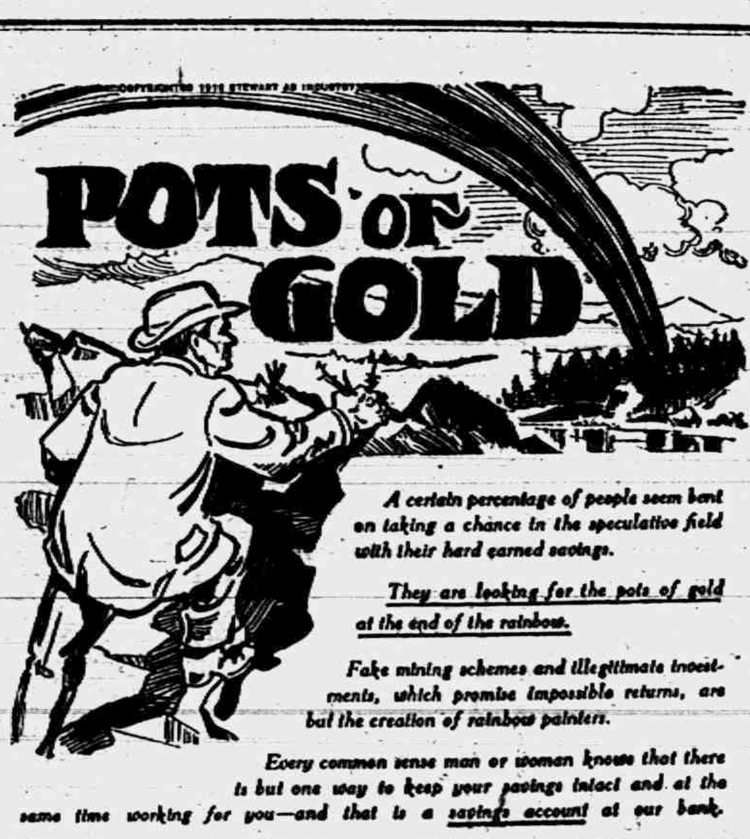
FURNITURE AND UNDERTAKING,



A certain percentage of people seem bent on taking a chance in the speculative field with their hard earned savings.

Fake mining schemes and illegitimate investments, which promise impossible returns, are but the creation of rainbow painters.

Every common sense man or woman knows that there is but one way to keep your savings intact and at the same time working for you—and that is a savings account at our bank.

ART EXHIBIT

Tecumseh Library Building June 6

The annual exhibit of the Art Department of Tecumseh the Schools was held at the Library Building Friday afternoon and evening.

There was a fine display in every line of work and much talent was displayed by many of the pupils. Free hand drawing, copy work, original designing from subjects chosen by the pupils were all worthy of praise.

The little folks had many drawings of the animal kingdom, horses. dogs and pigs, coming in for a general display. The coloring of pictures was also very fine.

Among the older ones the boys had fine drawings of automobiles and other vehicles while the girls had some fine views of the interior of houses and their furnishings. Mother Goose melodies were most artistically illustrated and called for special attention.

Original designs for stencil work were quite commendable. Some finely illustated book covers attracted our attention, and their contents of stained glass designs and the flags of the nations were well executed.

The poses of different pupils furnished subjects for the others and some of them were quite unique.

The drawings of the school rooms with open door scenes of familiar houses in Tecumseh with their lawns and shade trees were very good indeed.

Another noticeable feature was the free hand drawing of scenes suggested by some story, showing the vivid imagination of some of the pupils.

Miss Caldwell as teacher in drawing certainly deserves much credit for the great success that her pupils have attained in the work of the last year.

Plymouth Binder Twine

SAVES TIME AND GRAIN

PLYMOUTH
TWINE

Twine is a small item, but good twine saves a lot of expense in harvest time. Every time your machine is stopped the delay costs you money. Time in harvest season is always valuable, and sometimes extremely precious on account of the condition of weather or grain. Be sure you use the best twine.—PLYMOUTH TWINE. Then you will be safe from the annoyances, delays, expenses, which ordinary twine causes. Plymouth Twine works perfectly in every machine. More of it is made and used every year than any other kind, because it is known to be the best and has been for years. Binds more sheaves with less expense, no knots, no breaks, and is guaranteed full length and extra strength. Get Plymouth Twine from the local dealer. Look for the wheat-sheaf tag.

Use Plymouth Rope. It has the same high quality as our twine.

Books for the Children

Care must be taken in the stories we give to growing children that evil is always overcome. Book friends are very real to boys and girls and influence their character. There should be effort and conflict in their stories and daring endurance and steadfast purpose. Stories in which the child hero acts rightly are particularly valuable, because what a boy or girl has done appeals more directly to the child's own power. He feels though he may not express it even to himself that what other children have done he can do.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Herald Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidney

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kind, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

The harder some men work in the field the more right they think they have to growl around the house.

No Substitute Could do This.

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr. of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of head and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

BUFFALO BILL NEAR DEATH

Knoxville, Tenn., June 9.—Physicians attending William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") say his condition was grave. Colonel Cody is being cared for at the home of a cousin.

The colonel was said to be suffering from nervous exhaustion and stomach trouble.

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Mrs. J. Imhof, of 321 S. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Smart-Weed. I never had a well day before I took your medicines. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 132 pounds before and now I weigh 155. I have had several ladies come to me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it."

BEAVERS INSPIRE RESPECT.

A Professor Who Was Afraid to Kill So Knowing an Animal.

"I have yet to meet the man who can walk for the first time through a beaver works, as the range of a colony of beavers is called, and not feel something of the sentiment of human association," says a writer in Baily's Magazine.

"It is a sensation very similar to what we feel when we come out unexpectedly into a woodland clearing after a long day spent in the unbroken solitudes.

"I once stood with a learned professor of Columbia College on the bank of a stream in eastern Canada and looked down on a freshly made beaver dam—one of the best in point of construction that I had ever seen. It was indeed a really stupendous affair for a beaver to have made. Built of alder poles and brush, weighted with mud and small stones, it was fifty feet long, six feet high and raised the level of the water by about sixty inches.

"Seen from the upstream side it presented the appearance of a more or less evenly disposed array of short sticks protruding from a long mound of mud just level with the surface of the restrained water; from below the brushwood supporting the dam proper was plainly visible and the ingenuity of its placing at once apparent.

"There was of course none of that 'pile driving' or 'basket weaving' which at one time played so large a part in the picturesque descriptions by fanciful writers, but despite its roughness it was a really remarkable piece of animal engineering. My companion inspected it for several minutes in impressed silence.

"'I should be afraid to kill such a thing that knew so much,' he said thoughtfully."

The Only Victims.

West Africa is known to all navigators for its few harbors and its heavy surf, which at certain seasons rages like a battle, defying the white man who would approach its shores. The author of "The Jungle Folk of Africa," Mr. R. H. Milligan, tells of a successful, and to the observers an amusing effort to reach shore at a point where the surf did not seem to be impossible.

One day, when the beach seemed much better than usual, the captain and the ship's surgeon ventured ashore. The captain afterward narrated the adventure of their landing to a small but enthusiastic audience. He said that after waiting outside the surf half an hour the head man suddenly gave the order, and in a moment they were in the breakers, riding on the top of one of them, and speeding toward the shore at the rate of "seventy miles an hour."

The captain was in the bow of the boat, well braced and cushioned. But when the boat struck the beach with the force of a railway collision, the doctor was thrown violently over two thwarts into the captain's bosom, whom he clasped about the neck with a steel-like grip.

The next moment another breaker picked the boat up and hurled it upon the beach, throwing both captain and doctor to a perfectly safe distance, where they sprawled upon the sand. The doctor, still hugging the captain's neck, and very much frightened, exclaimed:

"O captain, dear captain, is there anybody killed but you and me?"

The New Baby.

Well, Jimmie," said the visitor, "I understand you have a new baby here."

"Yes," said Jimmie. "He got here last Tuesday night."

"Whom does he look like, your father or your mother?" asked the visitor,

"We don't know yet," said Jimmie. "He seems kind of undecided yet."

"They tell me he has your father's nose," said the visitor.

"Yes," said Jimmie. "He has pa's nose, and ma's mouth, and Aunt Sarah's ears, and between you and me I'm for givin' him grandpa's teeth. He ain't got any of his own, and grandpa's got two sets. What I'm afraid of is that if they don't give 'em to him he'll get mine, and I need 'em in my business."

The Keeper's Daughter

For days the thermometer had been rising at almost midsummer heat, softening the ice of the Great South Bay, until nearly all its cohesive power was gone. Now the ice was a thick, spongy mass, so rotten that even the foot of a life-saver pressing upon it firmly would break through at many places. It was impossible for either foot passage or for a boat to be forced through. And to increase the seriousness of the case the last two days had brought a fog so gray and dense as to shut Fire Island from every object a dozen yards away.

Out in midchannel toward the Long Island shore, and on the ocean side, currents had kept the ice from freezing thickly and had hastened the decomposition. Already the delayed shipping was seeking passage toward New York or the open sea, and in the fog and the narrow channels that were free from ice were meeting with disaster, from time to time signals of distress came from one direction or another, and so far as they were able the life-saving stations of Fire Island responded.

Perhaps at no other place in the world could assistance have been rendered across that barrier of slush ice, in which spaces of open water were beginning to appear, but then at no other place in the world perhaps were there amphibious scooters.

Several of these unique distinctions of Fire Island were lying on the edge of the ice, with pike and scootering iron and oars across the thwarts ready for instant use while their owners leaned forward listening, peering and for the most part shaking their heads. The wind was rising, blowing straight from the sea. In another hour it was likely to freshen into a gale. Before it the gray fog was being swirled and tossed and eddied, but still encompassing and dense—a huge wet blanket that seemed writhing in the agonies of pain.

On all sides were the sounds of fog and danger, bell buoys, boat whistles, occasional fog horns, the pounding and crushing ice where some vessel was forcing its way through, and now and then the ominous signal of distress and call for help. Among these came a sudden dull booming toward the sea, and evidently at considerable distance. The men who were in looked at each other, their faces paling.

"Yes," assented the man nearest him, "nothing can get to 'em that far out, not even scooters."

There was a peculiar grinding sound near them. A scooter slid up the beach and a man sprang out.

"The other fellows in yet?" he asked.

"Only Carey. He brought a man ashore and sent him up to the station, and then hurried back. He said it was a coal barge, with two men and a boy and a dog, and the other scooters will bring them in. The keeper ordered us to watch here for other work. What was yours?"

"Just a sailboat, with two young men. They called for help because they didn't know their surroundings. When I explained they decided to remain on board until the ice let them out. They have plenty of provisions and a snug little cabin. I heard the ship's call from outside and hurried back. I couldn't quite make out the location in the fog. Anybody gone?"

"Gone?" derisively. "Why, man alive! That's on the bar three miles away. No scooter could ever get there, across the open channel. Besides the ice has been piled up by the waves. She'll have to wait until the sea opens so we can use a lifeboat, or the fog lifts so we can scooter out. No one—where are you going?"

For the man had swung the bow of his craft into the fog and was again hoisting the sails.

"Out to the vessel, of course!" quietly.

"But it's sure death, Jack," remonstrated the life saver sharply. "Don't be a fool. You couldn't pick your way through the fog with that scooter and get back alive."

"Maybe not. But that signal sounds like a big boat, and if so there are a good many folks out there waiting for help. I'm only one."

"Oh, Mr. Bowman!" The call was clear and peremptory Jack Bowman paused, with one foot in the scooter, his face growing set. The owner of the voice was the keeper's daughter, and only the day before she had closed the door into a future which he had begun to believe would be his. The sentence, "I shall never marry a man whose future is bounded by a clam hoe and a fish trawl; the world has use for brave deeds," still rang in his ears.

"Father says for no one to answer that call just yet. He thinks this wind will soon break up the ice so that the lifeboat can go out. He says it will be suicide to attempt scootering through this fog. Mr. Bowman!" her voice rising in sudden displeasure, for the scooterist had stepped into his craft and thrown out his pike to shove her into the wind.

"I'm sorry, Miss Blanche," over his shoulder, "but the keeper's orders are for his own men, and not for a poor outside fisherman like me. Besides, the boat may be in sore need and though a little scooter cannot do much, it may at least carry intelligence and perhaps save one or two—provided I can reach them."

The girl's face underwent a sudden change, and she took an impetuous step forward, but already the scooter had slipped away into the fog.

As they waited there, listening, peering, while the hours dragged by, the faces of the men showed something of what they knew to be taking place within the fearsome, shifting pall of mist. The scooter was rushing on, dropping into open spaces of water, slipping up again upon patches of rotten ice, swiftly, with scarcely any checking of speed, its owner knowing that time was of more importance than caution. Any moment its nose was liable to strike some obstruction and throw out its occupant; the wind at that speed might overturn the scooter, or a sudden jibing wreck it without an instant's warning, either of which on the waste of rotten ice held but one possible fate for the owner.

Two hours and there came another signal of distress close in shore. The waiting life-savers dropped into their scooters and slid out into the fog. The girl was still there watching, her face white. Ten minutes more, and a scooter's nose suddenly slipped from the darkness, almost at her feet, and Jack Bowman sprang out. Bending over, he lifted a recumbent figure from the scooter to the sand.

"Will you call someone from the station to carry this man up, Miss Blanche?" he said hurriedly, as he swung his craft back into the wind. "I haven't time. There are others waiting for me."

The girl moved forward swiftly, placing a hand upon his shoulder.

"I hall be waiting, too, Jack," she said in a low voice. "You must come back to me."

A tremor went through the man's frame, but he did not pause for an instant in his work. As the craft disappeared in the fog his voice rose strong and resolute above the wind.

"Yes, Blanche, I will come back to you."

And he did.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Slaves of the Harem.

The members of the harem are still young slaves bought in Circassia, Georgia, Armenia, and other places, and practically educated in the harem itself on the chance that the Sultan may one day notice them, writes a Constantinople correspondent of a London paper. It appears also that civilization has not made great strides in the management of the royal harem, and that corporal punishments are still frequent, eunuchs, called "beating eunuchs," still being kept for refractory persons. Poisoned coffee is also not entirely out of fashion, while grimmer still, the terible sack flung into the Bosphorus even now does its sinister work. It is piteous to learn that, notwithstanding all this, many parents willingly sell children to supply the enormous colony which constitutes the harem.

Before the Time of Matches.

Sixty years ago the use of flint and steel to produce a fire was not wholly unknown. The late William E. Stone of ePoria lived at Beaver, Pa. His father one warm August night was stricken with apoplexy. The fire was out in the kitchen hearth and his mother in her distress, unable to find the tinder box, was obliged to send his brother Marsh two miles and a half to a neighbor. She gave him a handful of tow, which he put in his pocket. Arousing a neighbor with some difficulty, she gave him a live coal, which he wrapped in the tow, and putting it back in his pocket, ran home. When he arrived there he swung the tow around his head, thus fanned the coal and produced a flame which lighted a candle. In the meantime relief had been so long coming that the father was past all surgery.

Tibetan Trade in Musk.

A number of Tibetan traders who visited Calcutta in March, 1908, brought with them, among other articles, a large quantity of musk, which is held in high esteem by the high-caste Indians. The little deer from which the musk is obtained ranges in the Himalayas and Tibetan mountains, 9,000 feet above sea level. The male deer yields the finest and greatest quantity of musk. The deer are shy and alert, and difficult to cap-

Snapshots of Thought.

Right thinking is a religious injunction, but right acting is a divine mandate.

If you covet sympathy in your adversity, be not arrogant in your prosperity.

If chance were a necessary element in nature, Providence would have made more use of it.—T. M. Sullivan.

The Check System.

John Palmer, who died some years ago in rather straitened circumstances in a little town in Michigan, was the inventor of the check system. Palmer was a fiddler, and assumed responsibility for the hats, coats and wraps of those who came to his dancing parties. In keeping things straight he gave numbered checks for the articles committed to his care. Some railroad men who attended one of the dances, and, noticing how perfectly the idea worked, appropriated it, and in a short time the system was adopted all over the country. As is so often the case, the inventor got nothing out of it.

The Pyramids.

There are stones in the great Pyramid that are several times the weight of the Obelisk in Central Park. Some of the larger stones in Cheops weigh as much as 800 tons apiece. As regards the ways and means of getting such huge masses of granite into their places, it is now generally concluded by the best authorities that it was done by sheer manual labor and toil. They had plenty of subjects to draw upon, and the great blocks were in all probability pushed up along inclined planes by human mus-

MINNESOTA WINS

"State Rate" Case Is Lost by the Railroads.

A POINT WON BY ONE LINE

Minnesota Wins in United States Supreme Court in One of the Greatest of Modern Legal Struggles—Federal Power Comes First, but State Can Also Regulate.

Minnesota won a substantial victory in the supreme court when in the Minnesota state rate case Justice Hughes for the court held that the rates of the Minneapolis and St Louis railroad were confiscatory and unconstitutional, but that the rates of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern were valid.

The decision was a victory for the state on the interstate commerce phases of the controversy and upon the confiscatory features, with the exception of the portion affecting the Minneapolis and St. Louis.

What the Cases Are.

The so-called "state rate" cases have presented to the supreme court one of the momentous problems of the decade.

In general terms, this group of cases called upon the court to decide two questions. One was whether the states in pasisng maximum freight and 2-cent passenger laws had unduly interfered with interstate commerce. The other was whether those laws confiscated the property of the railroads by requiring them to transact business at a loss.

The group consisted of forty-five cases. All arose out of legislation enacted by state legislatures about 1907, or just after the federal government had passed the Hepburn rate law. The forty-five cases concerned directly the laws in six states—Missouri, Minnesota, Kentucky, Oregon, Arkansas and West Virginia. Similar litigation arose in Alabama, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and South Dakota. In all, it was said that seventy-six suits in federal courts depended upon the decision in the forty-five cases before the supreme court.

How the Suits Started.

The Minnesota cases arose out of suits by stockholders of the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroads against the companies to enjoin them from obeying the maximum freight and 2-cent passenger laws as unconstitutional, and against the state officials to enjoin them from enforcing the laws. Judge Sanborn of the United States circuit court for Minnesota held the laws unconstitutional, of a confiscatory nature, and that they burdened interstate commerce. The three suits were appealed to the supreme court.

Did Jefferson go to his inauguration ceremonies on horseback?

This has always been a much disputed question, but the best historians insist that he walked.

STATE TO TEACH GOOD HEALTH

Principles of Cure and Prevention of Disease to Be Taught Health Department of State.

Two years ago the state board of health ran an exhibit car car in conjunction with the special "wheat and soil train" sent out by the agricultural college. The interest manifested in the health exhibit was so great and the good results so evident that plans have been formulated for an exhibit train which in quality and quantity will far outrank the former trip.

The train will consist of the engine, three exhibit coaches and a Pullman car. The exhibit coaches will be equipped with numerous pictures, charts and models, teaching not only the importance of good health, but the principles of disease prevention.

Among the special features will be the model tuberculosis shack, showing how best to construct living quarters for a tubercular person; models of sanitary water devices, including street fountains, indoor fountains and sanitary devices for use where water under pressure is not available, as in rural schools. Practicable substitutes for the common drinking cup and common towel will be displayed.

There will be several mechanical models of interest and instruction. Among these will be two bedrooms showing effects of good and poor ventilation. Valuable information will be demonstrated in relation to construction of wells so as to prevent pollution of water. Model garbage incinerators will be exhibited. In the laboratory exhibit there will be demonstrated the methods of water, milk and sputum examination. The public will be given the opportunity to see living typhoid fever and tuberculosis germs. These are only a few of the features which are promised.

The route planned is as follows: Leaving Lansing, August 4, on the Grand Trund railroad, going to Battle Creek, stopping at intervening stations. From Battle Creek the train will go to Kalamazoo over the Michigan Central. The route will then be north on the G. R. & I., making nearly all stops to Mackinaw City, branching off to Muskegon and to Traverse City on the way. From Mackinaw City the trip will head to Bay City over the Michigan Central and from Bay City to Detroit over the Pere Marquette. Stops will be made at nearly all intervening towns. From Detroit the train will go to Ann Arbor over the Michigaan Central and from there south on the Ann Arbor railroad, working around to Tecumseh, Adrian, Hudson, Hillsdale and back to Lansing on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern. The train will get back to Lansing in time to be put into good condition for the Grand Rapids fair and the state fair at Detroit the following week.

Lantern slide and moving picture exhibits will be given each evening in the towns where overnight stops will be made. Sanitary inspections will be made in and about depots at all stations.

LAMB IS NAMED FOR MINISTER TO MEXICO

Meredith Nicholson Slated for European Diplomatic Post.

John E. Lamb of Terre Haute, Democratic politician, is slated for ambassador for Mexico. It is learned from a trustworthy official source in Washington that Mr. Lamb, who asked for the mission to Switzerland when his name was first brought to the attention of the appointing power in Washington, will get the Mexican post unless there is a change in the present plan. He is well endorsed and has the additional asset of a consistent personal and political friendship with William J. Bryan, extending over twenty years.

There is joy in the Indiana "literary belt" over the prospective appointment of Meredith Nicholson, the author, to one of the smaller European diplomatic posts. Mr. Nicholson resides in Indianapolis, begun his literary career as a reporter on the Indianapolis newspapers and is the author of "The Main Chance," "The Hoosiers," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The Port of Missing Men" and numerous others.

The royal road to the diplomatic service in this administration evidently lies between the covers of a book. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, professor of English literature at Princeton university and the author of many works in poetry and prose, is to be appointed minister to the Netherlands.

CREATED CONSTERNATION

Indictment of President White and eighteen other members of the United Mine Workers by the federal grand jury of West Virginia, which charged conspiracy in restraint of trade, created consternation in organized labor circles here and there was an informal conference of the officers of international and national organizations on the situation. As the labor leaders here understand it, the conviction of the defendants would put a stop to organizing across state lines and would practically destroy labor organizations unless confining themselves within state lines and thus escape the inhibitions of the Sherman anti-trust law.

They admit that it has serious phases and that it was to escape just such conditions that they urged the passage of an act exempting them from prosecution under the anti-trust law.

MISS YOAKUM A BRIDE

At New York City at one of the most brilliant weddings New York has seen this season Miss Bessie Yoakum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Yoakum, became the bride of Francis R. Larkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Larkin of this city.

The ceremony was performed in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church and was followed by a large reception at the home of the bride's parents in East Sixty-seventh street.

Exciting Hotel Fire.

At Columbus, Ohio a five-story building located at Sixth and Walnut streets, comprising the Hotel Elmer, and several lodging houses, caught fire. Firemen made sensational rescues of guests of the hotel. The entire block was threatened by the fire, which was not under control for some time.

PARADISE PARK IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

New York Summer Resort Damaged About $100,000.

Manhattan Island was illuminated and residents excited shortly before daybreak by a fire which swept all of the summer resort known as Paradise Park at Fort George.

The blaze started from causes unknown near the Ferris wheel and before the apparatus summoned by three alarms had reached the scene several large pavilions and amusement halls and a score of small buildings were doomed. The flames spread over a large space, and leaped across the street, threatening the Isabella Heimagh home for aged Hebrew women.

This building was saved, but its infirm inmates were panic stricken while the firemen were playing water upon it to extinguish the sparks. The loss in the amusement park was estimated at upwards of $100,000.

BURN BODIES OF KILLED

Matamoras, in Hands of Mexican Rebels, Is Quiet Again.

Matamoras, Mex., across the border from Brownsville, which surrendered to the rebel army of General Lucio Blanco is again orderly.

All saloons have been closed and revolutionists not engaged in caring for the scores of wounded and gathering the dead are hastily reconstructing the battered defenses in anticipation of the coming of the government troops reported en route from Vera Cruz. At lease 100 bodies were assembled in a huge pyre and the torch applied.

DR. BRIGGS DEAD

Heresy Charged Against Him Once Aroused Much Interest.

The Rev. Dr. Briggs of New York City, whose trial for heresy by the Presbytery of New York in 1892 gave the church world much to think and talk about, is dead in his apartments in the Union Theologial Seminary, on West One Hundred and Twenty-Second street.

Dr. Briggs had been ill since the last week in May. Pneumonia developed, which further weakened his constitution, making the end inevitable. He was the oldest professor of the Union Theological Seminary.

To Make Alfalfa Tour.

An alfalfa tour of Grand Traverse and parts of Leelanau and Antrim counties has been arranged to begin June 17 and continue until the territory is thoroughly canvassed. The list of speakers will be headed by Prof. Eben Mumford of the M. A. C. There are about 1,200 acres of the forage crop under cultivation in that section and it is the desire of the friends of the plant to at least double this amount through the influence of this campaign.

Crop Conditions Good.

Michigan crops, with the exception of fruit, are in good condition, according to the crop report issued by Secretary of State Martindale. It is reported that 5 per cent of the wheat has been plowed up on account of being winter killed; 5 per cent has also been damaged by the Hessian fly.

Hundreds of postal card inquiries sent out to the fruit growers of the Grand Traverse region have elicited the information that a bumper fruit crop is expected this year in the seven counties which have been canvassed. Tabulation of the replies show the following estimates: Sweet cherries, full crop; sour cherries, 85 per cent crop; peaches, 50 per cent crop; early apples, 70 per cent crop; winter apples, full crop.

SPURNS BIG BRIBE

Blanco Refuses 300,000 Pesos and a Generalship.

MAN WHO OFFERED IT SHOT

Envoy Trevino, a Captain in the Mexican Federal Army, Who Bought the Proposal to Blanco Is Summarily Executed at Matamoras—Young Officer Also Put to Death.

Three hundred thousand pesos and a generalship in the federal army were offered General Lucio Blanco, commander of the victorious constitutionalist forces in Matamoras, if he and hs army would swear allegiance to the Huerta government, according to a statement by Francisco Jóse Mujica, chief of staff of General Blanco.

Blanco's staff was offered the same rank in the federal army that is now held by it in the constitutionalist army, Mujica says. The offer was made by General Trevino of Monterey, General Fernando Gunsales, chief of the Huerta army in Nuevo Leon, and General Juan de Dios Arzamendi, chief of arms at Victoria. It was made verbally and brought to Matamoras by Captain Bruno Trevino, accompanied by a rurale. Trevino was executed. The rurale is in prison.

Young Officer Also Executed.

Antonio Echasaretta also was executed in Matamoras. He was captain of volunteers in the federal forces of Matamoras. Though only twenty-three years old, he had made a reputation as a fighter.

Sixteen prisoners were released by Blanco in the presence of United States Consul Johnson. The majority joined the rebels.

Fourteen members of the Sixth Mexican cavalry band, who say they were forced to fight with the federals in Matamoras and who escaped during the battle, were guaranteed their safety by General Blanco if they would return to Matamoras and reorganize the band. The men are being held under guard by United States soldiers and have not indicated that they would return.

Accused of Violating Neutrality.

Secret service men arrested Amado Stevens of Brownsville on a charge of violating neutrality laws by smuggling ammunition to the constitutionalists.

Is is the first arrest here during the present revolution for neutrality violations. Stevens was held to the federal grand jury under $1,000 bond.

Veterans to Gettysburg.

It is announced that 1,050 Michigan veterans of the civil war are eligible to attend the Battle of Gettysburg reunion. Two Confederate veterans are among them. They are Peter Garvey, Grand Rapids, a member of the Seventh Louisiana infantry, and R. F. Dunawar, also of Grand Rapids, a member of a Virginia artillery regiment. It is probable that the veterans will be mobilized in Detroit, except those who leave on a special train from Grand Rapids. The veterans will be quartered in a government tent just south of Gettysburg. The government will also furnish all table utensils and chefs.

Observe Anniversary.

The annual conference of the 26 Baptist churches of the Southern Michigan district was held at Bellevue Tuesday and Wednesday, which was also the seventy-second anniversary of the Jackson Baptist association. One hundred delegates were at the meeting and addresses were given by Rev. C. H. Heaton, Norvell; Joshua Roberts, Tawas City; Prof. L. F. Smith, Kalamazoo; Magnus Burgess, Detroit, and B. C. Lomont, Jackson.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with any old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Those Suspicious People.

Politeness is wasted on some people. They always seem to think we have a gold brick to sell them.

Commencement Week.

Class of 1913 Paid its Last Tribute Last Night. A Class of Nineteen was Presented With Diplomas by Superintendent D. P. McAlpine. Class Day was Held Tuesday Afternoon on High School Grounds, Final Graduation Given at Opera House Thursday Evening at 8 O'clock.

PROF. KING OF M. A. C. GAVE THE ADDRESS. MISS FRANCES PETERS, VALADICTORY AND AUGUSTUS KEMPF, SALUTATORY. MUSIC. LADIES TRIO, MR. PORTER AND CLASS.

1913 CLASS HISTORY SONG

Day dreams, Visions of School,
Dear as the hopes of friendship,
Bright as a Freshman and brief as a rule,
Lost in wooing and courtship.
School days, moments divine,
When all so radiant seems,
Those are the days when the sun ever shines,
Bright on those dear day dreams.

Day dreams, Visions of school,
Dear as the joys of June time,
Wise as a Sophmore and brief as a rule,
Lost in the maze of exam time.
School days, moments divine,
When all so radiant seems,
Those are the days when the sun ever shines,
Bright on those dear day dreams.

Day dreams, Visions of school,
Dear as the mem'ries of sleigh rides,
Bright as the moon light and cold as the ice,
O'er which our merry big sleigh glides.
School days, moments divine,
When all so radiant seems,
Those are the days when the sun ever shines,
Bright on those dear day dreams.

Day dreams, Visions of school,
Dead as the books we bear here,
Sad as the Seniors and gone all the rules,
Lost as the books we bear here.
School days, moments divine,
When all so radiant seems,
Those are the days when the sun ever shines,
Bright on those dear day dreams.

PROPHLOY

When a Senior is dreaming her dreams,
The world' not at all what it seems,
She thinks of the nearness of that June day
When she goes away, far to stray,
When a Senior is dreaming her dreams,
The world's not at all what it seems,
She'll a suffragette be,
Or dina with great fee
When a Senior is dreaming her dreams

When a Senior is dreaming her dreams,
The world's not at all what it seems,
She thinks of the nearness of that June day
When she goes away, far to stray
When a Senior is dreaming her dreams
The world's not at all what it seems
She will teach a fine school
Or at home she will rule
When a Senior is dreaming her dreams.

When a Senior is dreaming his dreams,
The world's not at all what it seems
He thinks of the nearness of that June day
When he goes away, far to stray,
When a Senior is dreaming his dreams
The world's not at all what it seems
He will sail o'er the sea,
Or a lawyer he'll be
When a Senior is dreaming his dreams.

When a Senior is dreaming his dreams,
The world's not at all what it seems
He thinks of the nearness of that June day
When he goes away, far to stray,
When a Senior is dreaming his dreams,
The world's not at all what it seems
He will play high finance
Or by preaching entrance,
When a Senior is dreaming his dreams.

CLASS DAY

June, 10

The class of 1913 carrying out their idea of nos following in the beaten path of the many classes that had preceeded them, held class day exercises on the lawn of the High School, Tuesday afternoon in a very unique manner, reflecting much credit on those who so faithfully worked for its acchievement.

The platform was beautifully banked with green branches which with the trees on the lawn made a complete bower. The chairs were arranged on the lawn with a threatrical effect and the whole setting was beautiful.

Services Orchestra rendered a fine opening selection which was followed by the salutatory by Augustus Kempf which was given in a most unaffected natural manner showing the pains taken with his work to make it a success.

A solo by Miss Lucile Kelly was very sweet and she gracefully responded to an encore. The class history and prophecy followed next and were given in a manner quite unusual but very pleasing. Miss Nina Olivar in cap and gown appeared upon the stage as a dreamer and Ernest Church with Mrs. Wood pianist interpreted her dream in song assisted by the members of the class who acted their parts in the dream.

Geneva Satterthwaite, a suffragette Sylvia Andrews, a Prima Donna Marietta Robison with dusting cap, dust pan and brush, a housemaid, Gretel Conklin and Lucile Kelly with ruler and other symbols of the teacher Harold Bachman, soldier, Frank Hand, a lawyer. These appeared before the Dreamer as the song proceeded and their future was foretold.

The class history of four years was also told in like manner, William Comfort, Frances Peters representing the Freshman year, while Holly Hand and Hazel Pocklington represented the sophomores, the Juniors and Seniors were every where in evidence, with the juniors as sleighing party and the burial of the old school books was under the supervision of Frank Hand Byrd Stone, Margeret McClue, Harold Bachman and Gretel Conklin, who laid them away with sorrow; Another selection by the Orchestra was followed by the Valedictory by Frances Peters given in a very sweet and feeling manner, as one who felt the hour of parting with regret.

Punch and wafers were served to the invited guests. The strife for the supremicy of class colors made a lively scrimmage, the ringing of the old school bell and the firing of cannon added to the fun.

The class of '13 has a membership of 19, 10 girls and 9 boys who have earnestly worked to acchieve the best and now as they go forth to work in new fields may they work as earnestly and well as they have in the past and may success crown their efforts.

COMMENCEMENT EXCROISES

Thursday Evening.

The Commencement exercises at the Opera House on Thursday evening were greeted with a full house.

Rev. B. B. Weld opened the exercises with the Invocation and a trio composed of Mrs. R. S. Moore, Mrs. D. P. McAlpine and Mrs. C. S. Ruthruff sang "Come Dance and Sing" in a most charming manner.

Augustus Kempf gave the Salutatory address. This was followed by a baritone solo by Mr. Porter. Miss Frances Peters followed with the valadictory.

Prof King of the M. A. C. gave a fine address on "The Rare and the Trite" showing the tendency of the times to degenerate, from the rare to the common from the noble to the ignobles, from the subline to the rediculous, and urging upon the class to fight against this tendency. His speech abounded in many humorous points and was much appreciated by the audience.

Mr Porter gave another solo and responded to an encore in a most delightful manner, and the great event of the evening followed when the diplomas were presented to the Class of '13. The singing of the class song and the Benediction closed an era in the lives of this class that will be a pleasant memory for all.

SALTUTATORY

Augustus Kempf.

Ladies and Gentleman:

We, of the class of 1913, bid you welcome. In welcoming you here, we assume that you are interested in this class, in this school, and hence in schools in general. Before we tell you what our own school offers, it may be well to note in a broad general way the history of High Schools in this country.

The first High School this country boasted was founded in 1635 at Boston. This school was for only the richest because a high tuition was charged. The studies taught were Latin Greek and religion. With the addition of other subjects and various improvements it has existed to the present time.

This type of High School prevailed down to the close of the Revolution when the "academy" High School sprang up. These academies offered a better chance of education for all classes of students because they were supported by the district in which they were situated. Very soon after the government took a hand in education, and has continued to do so to the present time.

In 1798 practically all the New England States passed a law that required towns having a population of five hundred to provide for a master, who was to teach the History of the United States and science. This law laid the foundation for the High School as it is today.

In the year 1821, the first modern High School was organized at Boston. This institution offered a three year course in English literature, history and the various common sciences. The course was later lengthened to four years and modern languages added.

Other Massachusetes towns followed and the modern High School movement spread slowly over the country. These schools were supported by the people and organized as free institutions of learning. Here the government jealously brought up the point whether the voters could lawfully build and support a school as had been done in the past. We are proud to say that this difficulty was settled forever in the Supreme Court of our own State. The case known as the "Kalamazoo law" stated that in no policy, law, or even the constitution itself, is a High School of this State restricted, in branches of knowledge which offers may have caused to be taught, or the kind of instruction given, if the voters have consented to bear the expense.

With regard to Michigan, the famous ordinance of 1787 emphasized the high place of education here. When Michigan became a state the High School began the wonderful development, which has not yet ended, for all her institutions of learning have been created by the passing of the compulsory school law.

During the last quarter of a century colleges and universities have made use of the High School as a preparation for their courses. The required subjects are taught in every accredited High School, so that a student with intentions of higher education may prepare himself accordingly.

In regard to courses given in the High Schools some have advanced farther than others, and meanwhile changes are constantly being made for the betterment. In the science department laboratories are being provided so that the students may carry on extensive experimental work. In the literary department, the study of literature, has changed from the old plan of studying historical and political summaries to that of the study of masterpieces of the various great writers. Manual training and various trades are being added accompanied by experimentation. Michigan was one of the first states to allow High School graduates certificates to teach in the lower grades.

As we look back over our four years of hard work we can see distinctly that our own High School has made an improvement. There are greater improvements needed, much remains to be done. As students of Tecumseh High School we have been vitally interested in its growth, and as alumni we shall be scarcely less interested. But it is to the sympathy and assistance of our friends in the community, that we must look for the fostering of our High Schools growth. We feel that your presence on this occasion manifests once more the interest and kindly spirit, which you have ever shown toward us in our work, and we thank you for it, as once more we heartily welcome you

VALIDICTORY.

Miss Frances Peters

Now at the end of a period of twelve years, given over to work and study, we are about to begin the real business of living.

Though our school life has presented many difficulties, difficulties which seemed real enough at the time yet we recognise the truth that this has been but a time of preparation, a period when we have been sheltered by our home, our school and our community.

To our homes we owe for the love and care so lavishly bestowed upon us through all these years. Surely our greatest debt rests there.

Then our school comes next. A place where our fundametal training and inspiration have been acquired.

To the community, we owe the means by which we may become successful. The girls even more than the boys feel this debt to their community for less than one hundred years ago it was not deemed necessary for girls to learn anything other than cooking, a little embroidering and a smattering of French. Even the boys who had this great privilege of education then had to pay attention. When we consider what a comparative luxury real training was such a short time ago, we feel doubly thankful for our own advantages.

Conditions now are changed the community pays all the boys and girls education and places powerful weapons in their hands to use as they will.

Those words "As they will" are noteworthy for one may have splendid educational opportunities many flattering offers of means of livelihood and still if he wills not to use them all will be lost.

To the well trained person who wills to be a force in his community and make the business of "earning his living" something finer than (so?) usually is meant by the term our age offers a big and varied choice of occupations.

Before we speak of opportunities open for all sides to serve without reward, let us note first a few of the many gainful occupations we may enter upon.

If we have delighted in school work nothing can be more suitable than following in the steps of the pedagogue, no other one profession can give quite so wide and varied a field for real service, not alone in introducing children to the world of books, to the great beauties and truth in nature, but in giving a certain amount of ethical instruction. This does not mean preaching, but I do believe example and suggestion from a teacher after fixed Ideals help through all our lives.

But if our delight is not in the realms of the mind so much as in "labor of the hand," which Carlyle assures us is quite as noble. We need only to observe the broad fields of rich soil all around us, to find our real business in life. No one who loves the world of out doors need look further than to the life of the farmer, surely his life is ideal as he gradually learns to get best returns from his farm according to scientific principles. Let no one think that brains are unnecessary to the farmer since he works with his hands. The scientific farmer of today is one of our wisest men.

Here are but two suggestions for future work, but no matter whether we turn teacher, farmer or ditcher we do have the chance to be a real force in our community in it. Whoever aspires to good citizenship and I take it for granted that no one here does not owe it to his community to labor and to labor well. It is not our business ever to be satisfied with our own efforts. We owe it to our community constantly to strive towards greater perfection in all our work. Indeed Browning is not mistaken when he says

"A mans reach should exceed his grasp
Or whats a heaven for?"

Then if we remember to be good citizens to serve our community and strive to work more efficienly always, we have in measure repaid the debt we owe.

Still it is not enough to live entirely unto ourselves, we all need to feel that we can serve others. It may not be our particular lot to serve many or to serve in a large way but small acts of kindness and good will are fairly standing in our way calling on us to do them. Let us then unselfishly serve our community by wise acts of charity, by kindly service to everyone.

Only so can we hope to pay our debt and fill the place in the community, we desire to prove ourselves worthy to occupy.

And now we as a class though soon to be separated in person, still ever united in spirit bid you farewell.

Politeness.

Lieut. Shackleton, in a happy and manly speech which he made in reply to the toast of his health by Mr. Heinemann at the dinner given by that gentleman at the Savoy Hotel, told an interesting story of politeness in the untrodden regions of the Antarctic.

His party, he said, were always extremely good-humored and polite, and one professor in particular attained a degree of politeness unusual under such trying circumstances. "'Are you busy, Mawson?' he called out one night to another member of the party who was in the tent.

"'I am,' said Mawson.

"'Very busy?' said the professor.

"'Yes. Very busy.'

"'If you are not too busy, Mawson, I am down a crevasse.'

"The professor was found hanging down a crevasse by his four fingers, a position which he could not have occupied for any length of time."—London Daily Chronicle.

DR. C. H. BARROW

The address of Dr. C. H. Barrow at the Baptist church Wednesday evening on, "Life in Central China," was one of maked interest, his residence of many years in China and his familiarity with the customs of the people made his description seem more real. While his talk was earnest throughout, yet he did not fail to show the funny side of life among these peculiar people.

There was a good attendance and every one felt a deeper interest in the work of spreading the gospel in China than ever before.

Wedding Presents at Gaston's.

S. P. G.

Tommy, 14 years old, arrived home for the holidays, and at his father's request produced his account book, duly kept at school. Among the items "S. P. G." figured largely and frequently. "Darling boy," fondly exclaimed his doting mamma; "see how good he is—always giving to the missionaries." But Tommy's sister knew him better than even his mother did, and took the first opportunity of privately inquiring what those mystic letters stood for. Nor was she surprised ultimately to find that they represented, not the venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, but "Sundries, Probably Grub."—London News.

A Surprise for Jim.

A mission worker in New Orleans was visiting a reformatory near that city not long ago when she observed among the inmates an old acquaintance, a negro lad long thought to be a model of integrity.

"Jim!" exclaimed the mission worker. "Is it possible I find you here?"

The visitor sighed. "You, Jim!" she repeated. "I am surprised!"

"Yessum," said Jim. "So was I, or I wouldn't be here!"

"Improved" Bull Fight.

A bull fight in Tokio is quite as much excuse for a gala day as a full fight in Madrid. Business men leave their offices, and women and children their homes, to hurry to the arena. Stripped of all the less exciting, or less horrible, preliminaries which characterize the Spanish bull fight, the animals are brought in and sent at each other at once. So the battle is shorter, and two or three more fights will follow in quick succession during the course of an afternoon's "entertainment."

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Monday Mrs. Lavern Austin had a birthday, and by way of a reminder Mr. and Mrs. John Austin and son, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Field and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCoy dropped in upon her in the afternoon. They went well prepared for a birthday feast, which was spread at the supper hour and was duly disposed of. A very jolly evening followed, and every one present hoped that Alma might have many more such happy occasions.

SURPRISED

The Ladies of the T. B. A. with a number of other friends gave Mrs Ed Hand a surprise visit Wednesday. it being her birthday. A jolly crowd were in attendance and the afternoon was all two short for them. A potluck supper was a prominent feature of the occasion The Ladies presented Mrs. Hand with a solid silver butter knife as reminder of the occasion.

HONORING MR. FORD

The evening was spent in social chat, games and music. Mr. Ford has been a great friend and companion to the boys assisting them with council and advice, and as a tribute of the good will they bear him, they presented him with a fine silk umbrella.

Books for the Children

Care must be taken in the stories we give to growing children that evil is always overcome. Book friends are very real to boys and girls and influence their character. There should be effort and conflict in their stories and daring endurance and steadfast purpose. Stories in which the child hero acts rightly are particularly valuable, because what a boy or girl has done appeals more directly to the child's own power. He feels though he may not express it even to himself that what other children have done he can do.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Herald Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidney.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Mrs Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kind, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States

The harder some men work in the field the more right they think they have to growl around the house.

No Substitute Could do This

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr. of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of head and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The children in the home should have at least as much training as the colt in the field or the vine on the trellis.

Most Children Have Worms.

Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, costiveness, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms Peevish, ill-tempered, fretful children who toss and grind their teeth, with bad breath and colicky pains, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Hauling corn to the market is taking the profits the wrong way, and sooner or later the fields will tell you about it.

Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and all kidney and bladder ailments, use Foley Kidney Pills For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

HOW BLOOD IS MADE.

The liquids and the digested foods in the alimentary canal pass through the wall of the canal into the blood. This process is called absorption and takes place chiefly from the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food through the body, and each cell takes from the blood the food it needs. A pure glyceric extract made from bloodroot, mandrake, stone, queen's root and golden seal root, and sold by druggists for the past forty years under the name of

gives uniformly excellent results as a tonic to help in the assimilation of the food and in the absorption by the blood of the food it requires. Eradicate the poisons from the blood with this alterative extract which does not shrink the white blood corpuscles, because containing no alcohol or other injurious ingredients. Thus the body can be built up—strong to resist disease. This is a tonic taken from Nature's garden that builds up those weakened by disease. Sold by druggists everywhere. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHAS. FAERBER, JR.

MR. CHAS. FAERBER, JR., of 832 Woodlawn Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was troubled with my stomach for almost three years. Tried several doctors and most everything anybody recommended to me, but kept getting worse and honestly did not care to live as I was never well even though, at times, I had no pain. My symptoms were as follows: Always tired, my whole body in a throb, belching of gas, pain and soreness in the stomach, vomiting, constipation, could not tell what to eat or what would agree with me, and was melancholy. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with the 'Pleasant Pellets' it has made me a well man which is something to live for."

FATIGUE AND ITS DANGERS.

Great Importance of Knowing the Limit of Safe Exertion.

In the World's Work Dr. Luther H. Gulick, who is trying, not without success, to give the public schools of this country some of the advantages they ought to get from modern science, discusses "The Time to Quit Work." For most people this while a serious problem, is not a difficult one, since it is their invariable habit to quit work the minute they can, and before that minute arrives to do no more than they have to do. Dr. Gulick writes, however, not for these people, but for the minority, who, for one queer reason or another, are wont to work both too hard and too long—and, alas! to take an offensive pride, usually, in their abnormality.

He says that, contrary to what is commonly supposed, weariness does not increase steadily in direct proportion to the amount and duration of work done. The "fatigue curve" rises somewhat rapidly at the beginning of exertion, but then, if conditions are normal, it runs for a long time, almost on a level. This in a runner of foot races, is called getting his second wind," but there is a similar phenomenon in exertion of all kinds, including that of the mind, and it is while this "wind," lasts that the best work can be done and the wear and tear on the worker are only such as can be promptly repaired in the subsequent period of rest.

As soon as this level part of the "fatigue curve" is past, it takes a sudden turn upward, and when that turn comes the worker should stop—unless he is doing something that justifies him in exhausting his last resources of energy. If the excess has been too great, recuperation will never be perfect, and the result may easily be death, immediate or not long delayed.

There are many signs announcing approach to the limit of safe exertion. Among the first of the usual warnings Dr. Gulick mentions a flushing of the temples or an increased circulation of blood in the ears and cheeks. This may be followed by a queer feeling in the pit of the stomach—not nausea, but something like it. Again, if the overtired man extends his arms, he will notice that his fingers tremble. An indubitable sign is irritability of temper—loss of self-control in small things and a tendency to exaggerate their importance. With it goes bodily restlessness and inability to fix the attention.

Especially notable is the fact that the work done despite fatigue is almost sure to be bad work, which usually must be done over again, and it is well to remember that work should not be resumed until rest is complete.—New York Times.

EARTHQUAKE PROOF HOUSES.

Tree Homes of Mexico—Twigs and Grass Interwoven with Branches.

In order to protect their homes from earthquakes many of the natives in the territory around Chilpancingo and other towns in the State of Guerrero, Mexico, live in trees. Some of these tree homes are of large size and are ingeniously constructed. Reeds and grasses are interwoven with the twigs and branches of the tree, much in the manner that a bird builds its nest.

The severest wind seldom looses these houses from the tree. Where the trees are large and stand closely together houses of two and three rooms are frequently built in their branches. These houses also afford protection from the "tigers" and other wild animals which are found in that region in large numbers. It is claimed that a "tiger" will not attack its prey unless it is upon the ground. The prime object of elevating these houses into the trees, however, is to keep them from being shaken down by the severe earthquakes which visit the Guerrero territory at frequent intervals.

The rocking of the earth gives the trees a swaying motion that does no damage to the houses. In some localities whole villages of these tree homes are to be seen. None of them suffered damage from the recent earthquakes which wrought such ruin to the buildings on the ground.

JACK JOHNSON GETS ONE YEAR SENTENCE

Also Must Pay Fine of $1,000 Appeal Granted.

John J. Johnson, the celebrated negro pugilist, must serve a year and a day in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth and pay a fine of $1,000 for violating the Mann white slave act. Federal Judge Carpenter pronounced sentence late in the afternoon after denying the appeal for a new trial at Chicago.

Benjamin Bachrach, attorney for Johnson, immediately served notice of carrying the case, to the appellate court on a writ of error, and Judge Carpenter suspended execution of sentence for two weeks, pending the preparation of the necessary papers. Johnson was given his freedom on the $30,000 bail furnished at the time of indictment.

Johnson was convicted May 13 on seven counts on charges of transporting Belle Schreiber, a white woman, from one state to another for immoral purposes. The Schreiber woman was formerly a manicurist in Milwaukee, and after meeting the pugilist in Pittsburg accompanied him to the Pacific coast and elsewhere on his fighting expeditions.

WOOD ACQUITTED BY JURY

Disagree on Atteaux—Collins Guilty on Two Counts.

At Boston, Mass., after deliberating throughout the entire night the jury acquitted President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company of the charge of conspiracy to injure the textile strikers at Lawrence by "planting" dynamite. A disagreement in the case of Frederick E. Atteaux was reported. Dennis J. Collins, who turned state's evidence, was found guilty on two counts and not guilty on the other four counts of the indictment.

Wood, Atteaux and Collins were indicted for alleged conspiracy to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence to discredit the textile strikers during the industrial troubles of 1912.

An Old Fable.

"Metaphysics," said Bishop Castle of Oregon, at a dinner in Philomath, "is a subject that always makes one think of the cat and the owl.

"A cat, you know, once set forth in quest of happiness. She wandered up, she wandered down; she questioned this animal and she questioned that. Finally, wrapped in meditation in a tree, she perceived an owl.

"'Owl!' said the cat, 'tell me, most wise bird, where happiness is to be found!'

"'But,' said the cat, 'on what subject am I to meditate?'

"'On the subject,' the owl answered, 'which has occupied the race of owls since the beginning of time—namely: Which came first, the owl or the egg; for, while the owl comes from the egg so also does the egg come from the owl!'"

Famous Golf Match.

The projected golf match between two well known amateurs and a leading member of the London Stock Exchange for a stake of £500 recalls the famous foursome in which the Duke of York, afterward James II., took a prominent part on the Leith links in the year 1682. It was really an international contest, in which the Duke, with John Patersone, a golfing shoemaker of great repute, championed Scotland against two noblemen of England, a heavy wager depending on the issue. The Duke and the cobbler had an easy victory, thanks largely to the man of the last, and John Patersone's share of the stakes was so substantial that he was able to build a goodly house in the Canongate, in a wall of which the Duke caused a stone to be placed bearing the Patersone arms with the motto "Far and sure," a tribute to the cobbler's driving powers. Patersone's house, we understand, survives to-day.

The Blacksmith's Sleeves.

An aged woman was standing before a beautiful picture of a blacksmith standing at his forge, which was blazing with a light that illuminated the whole room. The woman came to the canvas with several younger women, apparently her children. All stood with rapt attention before the work of art, contemplating the light effects and the beautiful shadows. One of the younger women asked of the elderly one what she thought of the picture.

"Well, it's all right but the sleeves," she replied. "I lived in the country a long time, and I know something that the painter with all his knowin' didn't know. That blacksmith's sleeves are rolled out. Now, they don't wear them that way. A blacksmith always turns his sleeves in so the flyin' sparks won't catch."

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

The new Masonic temple at Oxford will be dedicated on June 26.

It is now thought that the burning of the Thody hotel at Lakeport was the work of an incendiary.

Wildwood Harbor hotel, owned by Batchellor Brothers, on Walloon lake was destroyed by fire with a loss of $7,000.

Five hundred bankers are at Lansing to attend the sessions of the twenty-seventh convention of the Michigan Bankers' association.

Frost Sunday and Monday nights has done an inestimable amount of damage to spearmint and peppermint crops on the low lands near Niles.

Actual work has been started on the new $100,000 Elks' temple at Muskegon. The big four-story structure is to be finished within eight months.

After long deliberation, the Harvard club of Michigan has awarded its $250 scholarship to Harold S. Anderson of the high school at Cadillac, Mich. The competition was unusually keen this year.

Joseph Davison, the convict charged with having fired the binder twine warehouse at the Jackson state prison was found not guilty in circuit court after the jury had deliberated 35 minutes.

Elizabeth Hunter, 3 years old, was almost instantly killed near her home three miles north of Benton Harbor when a machine driven by Albert Hoardley, farm hand, hit her. Hoardley received slight injuries.

Fred Hunt, 22 years old, lost his life in the lumber woods, near Deward when two trees which were being felled crashed against each other and he was caught under one. Hunt was to have been married June 20.

Instead of having died as the result of a bite from a spider as stated last week, Mrs. William Ackerberg of Fruitland township, near Muskegon, is alive and entirely recovered from the poisoning following the insect's bite.

An armed desperado, after holding up residents at the point of a revolver, robbing them and wounding one severely, ran amuck and made an attack on the lives of a dozen persons in the neighborhood of Richland and Kalamazoo.

Fire starting from an unknown source destroyed the electric lighting plant and the pumping station at Roscommon at a loss of $5,000. A large pump in an adjoining building was saved and this is supplying a small quantity of water.

William J. Dart, a well known business man, is in the Port Huron hospital with a fractured skull and Bert Mills, a police clerk, is nursing several bruises as the result of a mix-up said to be caused by Mr. Dart being out riding with Mrs. Mills, who filed suit for divorce some time ago. The parties are prominent.

Orville Fogelsenger, a lineman in the employ of the Bay City electric light department, was instantly killed when reaching for the insulated end of a fallen electric light wire which had lodged in a tree, his right hand coming in contact with the exposed end of the wire. He leaves a young widow and a 4-year-old child.

Secretary William Engleman has announced the program for the greatest grand circuit race meet ever held in Kalamazoo. According to the program, Kalamazoo hangs up more money for the grand circuit meet than any other city on the entire circuit, although it is the smallest place. The total of the purses amounts to $53,000, exceeding all former purses by $13,000.

Charles H. Hall of Grand Rapids was elected president of the State Association of Assistant Postmasters. He succeeded Scott Munn of Eaton Rapids. Other officers were elected as follows: Geo. H. Saxton, Lansing, first vice-president; John J. Williams, Saginaw, secretary; Christian J. Weiler, Muskegon, financial secretary, and Charles Carnahan, Mt. Pleasant, treasurer.

With his 14-year-old daughter and blind wife standing in the corridor ready to pay his fine, Joseph Goodman of Lansing, who pleaded guilty in the municipal court to a charge of drunkenness, was severely rebuked by Justice Haight. "I am wondering if you have any manhood left," he said. The little girl escorted him from the court leading her blind mother, who paid the costs.

The choir of the M. E. church of Bad Axe has come back into its own and Sunday occupied its usual place. Rev. J. M. Life, with whom the choir quarreled, preached his last sermon June 1 and will be transferred to northeast Pennsylvania, Rev. Gillett of that place coming to Bad Axe. A little unpleasantness arose during Sunday services between Mr. Life and the choir over the singing of a hymn, causing them to leave while he remained.

When Ray Eastman returned from Brown City after delivering a number of cattle to the stockyards, for which he was paid, he was accosted by a man armed with a shotgun. Eastman grappled with the man and threw him. A second man appeared and Eastman ran around a house. The second man fired, but the shot missed Eastman. Several more shots were fired, but none struck Eastman, and he was soon out of range and organized a posse of 25 farmers. They chased the two men for miles through woods and swamps and fields, and after a half day search captured them. They gave the names of Davis and Anderson, 22 and 26 years old.

Statistics compiled by Secretary of State Martindale show that cancer has caused the death of 18,188 persons in Michigan since 1903.

Rev. J. E. Gregory, pastor of the St Johns Baptist church, charged with improper conduct with Ina Marshall an 11-year-old girl, is in jail there, he having returned from Chicago and confessed to his crime.

The old independent Congregational church on Main street, Battle Creek long the meeting place of conventions patriotic societies, musical attractions of the higher order, etc., is to become a moving picture playhouse.

Eugene Frost of Frankfort was found dead in the woods near Frankfort. He had been despondent for some time. There were no marks upon the body but an inquest was held. He has a brother, Novot Frost, in Frankfort.

Norman B. Conger, general inspector of the Detroit weather bureau, has been suspended pending the investigation into the alleged activities of former Chief Willis S. Moore in endeavoring to be appointed secretary of agriculture.

Unable to find their 4-year-old son Arthur when they called him for dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Carmody of Grand Rapids started a search which resulted in his dead body being found by the father buried in a cesspool near the home.

James Stewart of Saginaw, while attempting to board the "blind baggage" on the northbound passenger train at Gaylord, missed his hold and fell under the wheels. Both legs were crushed so badly that he died. He was about 45 years old.

John Smant, the 15-year-old son of Ralph Smant, a farmer near Grand Haven, was accidentally shot in the neck by his little brother while the two were hunting in the vicinity of their father's farm. There is little hope for his recovery.

W. R. Melton of Ann Arbor is the author of the winning book for the 1914 Michigan Union opera. S. S. Grosner, Washington, will write the lyrics for it, and W. A. Diekema, Holland, and D. F. Ganiard of Jackson will write part of the music.

Francis Graham, who had he lived until July 4 would have been 96 years old, is dead at St. Ignace. His father came from County Mayo, Ireland, with some of the original families on Mackinac Island and was the first white settler in St. Ignace.

Jack Lamb, 30, an employe in a Jackson stove works, attempted to take his own life by shooting. He was found in his boarding house lying at the foot of the stairs in a pool of blood. A revolver was found at the head of the stairs. He will live.

Louis Prieur, 25, Marathon runner and all-round athlete of Bay City, was arrested after he had paralyzed the countryside by running amuck on the Midland road. He had been grabbing horse bridles and scaring women. It required four men to overpower him.

Mrs. Henry Meyers of Cadillac, 30, attempted to take her own life by hanging. She swung off from a barn beam on a rope, but was discovered by her son, 4 years old, who brought Mr. Meyers to the barn in time to save the woman. She had been hanging 20 minutes.

Mrs. D. Rolland of Cadillac was seriously injured when she attempted to get into the rear of an express wagon driven by Harold Bartlett, and the horse bolted. Mrs. Roland's foot caught in the chain of the tail gate and she was dragged half a block. She is in a serious condition from bruises.

Judge Glen B. Failing of Kalamazoo has ruled that when a man hires out to work by the month his employer has no right to ask him to work on Sunday. The case grew out of the refusal of the proprietor of a candy store to pay his clerk full wages because he did not work on Sunday. The judge ordered the full amount paid.

The search for Joseph Tobias, who shot and killed two deputy sheriffs, James Sutton and Alfred Scribner of Brimley, has been taken up by United States government officials, the revenue cutter Vigilant having left for the south shore of Lake Superior under command of Lieut. Baggett, with 10 deputy marshals heavily armed, to check any possible escape to Canada.

After discovering that she had swallowed a two-grain bichloride of mercury tablet by mistake for a heart stimulant, Mrs. Helen Conrad of Ann Arbor dashed out of her home before daybreak this morning and ran to the residence of her physician, aroused him and was taken to the Homeopathic hospital, where only the heroic efforts of several doctors saved her life.

Fire supposed to have been started by children playing with matches destroyed the feed and livery barn of Fred Newman at Morrice. Newman lived in the second story and all his household goods were burned. His loss is $5,000, with $2,000 insurance. The blacksmith shop of Samuel Atkins, adjoining, was also destroyed, with a loss of $1,500. The fire department from Perry was summoned, but arrived too late to be of service.

George Westlow, aged 38, a resident of Coldwater, committed suicide in South Bend Sunday by drinking carbolic acid. In the presence of many in his boarding house, Westlow suddenly leaped to his feet and exclaimed: "Here's to my wife and children." swallowed the poison and sank unconscious to the floor. He had been married twice, but both wives had left him. There were about a dozen persons in the room at the time, among them several women, who were sent to the street screaming.

Can you tell me anything about the impeachment of United States Senator William Blount of Tennessee?

Blount was charged with complicity in the attempt to seize Florida and Louisiana in 1797. Blount had written letters to Carey, a Cherokee interpreter, urging him to stir up the Cherokee Indians to aid him in the invasion of the Floridas.

These letters fell into the hands of United States officers, who sent them to President Adams, who in turn communicated them to congress just as that body was about to adjourn. Blount during a recess resigned his seat in the senate and was elected to the state senate of Tennessee and chosen its president. When the trial came he refused to attend, but his counsel held that the case should not proceed for two reasons—first, the constitution empowered the senate to try "officers" on impeachment charges only and a senator was not such an "officer;" second, that Blount, being no longer a member of the senate, could not be tried as such. The senate decided that it had no jurisdiction. Blount resided the rest of his life in Tennessee. No further attempt was ever made to impeach him.

Depth and Speed.

A remarkable result of the speed tests of fast-driven vessels is the discovery that the depth of water strongly influences the speed. But it is not true, as was until recently believed, that increase of depth is invariably attended by increase of speed. Experiments with the "river class" of torpedo-boat destroyers have shown that there is a sudden maximum resistance developed at certain depths, where it takes the same power to give a speed of 20 knots as to give a speed of 22 knots when the depth of water is 45 feet. On the other hand, there are points of minimum resistance. For instance, a speed of 32 knots in 60 feet of water can be obtained with less horse-power than in 200 feet. The result, says a writer in Cassier's Magazine, is yet better at 40 feet. It seems to be established that in moderate depths the square of the speed in knots divided by 10 gives the depth of water in feet where a sudden increase of resistance is felt. It all depends upon the influence of the bottom of the water on wave formation.

$2,245 for Two Pennies.

Who was Wiglaf? Numismatists know, and gave £449 for two of his silver pennies yesterday at Sotheby's. Wiglaf, or Withlafe, as his name is sometimes spelled in the old chronicles, was that King of Mercia tributary to Egbert, first King of England, and held nominal sway between 825 and 839. His silver penny, without bust, with a cross in centre and a pellet in each angle within a beaded centre on the obverse, and lunettes and pellets on the reverse, caused excited bidding, which reached £275 (Spink). Only one other of this particular type is known, and it is, fortunately, in the British Museum. Another Wiglaf penny, with a rude head in a circle and a cross-crosslet in centre of reverse, realize £174 (Lincoln). This was found at Dorking in 1817.—London Daily Telegraph.

Influence of Locality.

In a communication to the French Academy of Sciences, L. Joubin recently called attention to a remarkable effect apparently produced by locality of habitation upon the susceptibility of animals to disease. When mice were inoculated with certain germs, he found that the effects produced depended, to a surprising degree, upon the place of origin of the mice. Those that came from the locality where the germs were produced were more susceptible than those which were brought from a distance. This seemed to him to indicate that, in some way, geographical influences might be more potent than physiological likeness in producing susceptibility to disease.

GREAT GATUN DAM FINISHED

Engineering Feat Has Been One of Big Problems.

COST HAS BEEN $25,000,000

Barrier and Its Locks Ready for Opening of Panama Canal—Event Equal in Importance to Completion of Miraflores Dam and Locks Forming Barrier to Pacific.

Colon, June 16.—The Great Gatun dam, the barrier which separates the Panama canal proper from the Atlantic coast, finally is complete to the last detail.

For the first time the waters of the ocean were allowed to sweep against the great structure, the engineering task in erecting which has been one of the greatest problems of the canal builders.

Equal to Miraflores Dam.

The clearing of the face of the dam to the waters of the ocean is an event of equal importance with the completion recently of the Miraflores dam and locks which form the barrier against the Pacific ocean at the other terminus of the canal.

The building of the Gatun dam was designed to hold back the waters of the Chagree river and to create a lake of considerable size. Gatun lake, thus created, is fifteen miles long and covers about 160 square miles.

Cost $25,000,000.

The dam and the locks cost $25,000,000. There are six locks, in twin series of three, and thus forming three steps by which boats are raised or lowered between the canal and the Atlantic ocean. The locks are 1,000 feet long and the total length of the three allowing for an entrance to each lock 500 feet long, is 4,000 feet, about three-quarters of a mile.

TO START OLEO QUIZ

Attorney General Prepares to Investigate Fraud Compromise.

Chicago, June 16.—James B. McReynolds, attorney general of the United States, has fully decided to make inquiry into the oleo fraud compromise case. After a two-day cogitation Mr. McReynolds returned from St. Paul, stopped in Chicago between trains and deaprted for Washington. In the interim he expressed himself as fully determined to take up the question.

"A plan I favor has been outlined by District Attorney James H. Wilkerson," he said. "At this stage of preliminary investigation it is impossible to say what course of action will be taken. One point, however, is determined. If the oleomakers avoided payment of certain revenues accruing to the government they must be made to pay."

Federal League in Complaint against Western Union.

Indianapolis, June 16.—A complaint of the Federal Baseball league alleging discrimination is to be filed against the Western Union Telegraph company before the interstate commerce commission because the telegraph company is alleged to have declined to carry Federal League scores on the "ticker" service operated by the telegraph company.

Under a recent enactement of congress the interstate commerce commission has jurisdiction over telegraph and telephone companies as well as railroads. The commission has in the past prevented descrimination against shippers under the Hepburn act.

"We have agreed to pay the full charges for such service," the attorney of the league stated, "We know that so far as one big league park is concerned the Western Union pays for the privilege of sending the scores. We might conclude that the same is true of other parks. But we have offered to pay and have been turned down."

HEURTA FAILS TO STOP REBS

President Will Have Difficulty Restoring Peace.

FORCES GROWING STRONGER

Anti-American Sentiment of Mexican Press Suddenly Changes Tone—Not Near So Anxious to Have Huerta Recognized as It Was a Few Months Ago.

City of Mexico, June 16. — In the three months General Huerta has been president of Mexico he has made no substantial headway against the rebels, according to opinions of close and impartial observers of the situation in this republic.

Unless there is made a radical change in the conduct of the government's campaign against its enemies, or unless the rebels become much weaker than they are today, foreign observers believe that Huerta will have great difficulty in restoring peace to Mexico. As for the rebels, they have grown steadily stronger since General Huerta became president, and now there is scarcely a state in which their mobile columns have not been operating in defiance of the government's superior armament and organization.

Campaigns Are Systemized.

The military operations of the government have been divided into three general campaigns, one in the south against the followers of Zapata, conducted by General Juvencio Robles, another whose center is Guaymas, in Sonora, and the third, directed from Monterey against the rebels operating in the states of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas. In addition to these defined campaigns the government troops are riding here and there over a dozen states, forcing their way from one point to another, only often to find, when they arrive at their destination, that the rebels have cut in behind them, or have torn the country to pieces on either side of their line of march.

Press Changes Attitude.

The press of the capital, which bristled with anti-Americanism in the early days of May following recognition by several nations and the failure of the Washington government to fall in line, has suddenly changed front. Wiser counsel seems to have prevailed, and now a conciliatory tone is distinctly noticeable.

A campaign to bring about a boycott of American products has fallen flat, and a proposed popular demonstration of disapproval of Washington's nonrecognition of the Huerta government has been called off. Today there are no evidences of any anti-American agitation in Mexico City.

LOS ANGELES' BIG GAIN

New Directory Figures Give California City Population of 483,417.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 16.—According to the new city directory just completed, Los Angeles has a population of 483,417, or 64,321 more than the 1912 directory gave.

There are 216,852 names in the new book which is multiplied by two and one-quarter. The increase in population is therefore 15 1-3 per cent over last year.

Superintendent William McDonald of the directory company said this estimate was conservative and believed there were considerably more than 500,000 persons in Los Angeles. The assessed valuation for 1913 totaled $441,331,475.

IRON AND STEEL ARE DUTY FREE

Senate Committee Eliminates Tariff on Raw Materials.

CUTS REVENUE BY $600,000

Total Annual Amount Cut Off From New Tariff Bill Is Now $27,000,000—Nearly Every Item in the Metal Schedule Has Been Cut—Some Not Determined On.

Washington, June 16.—The transfer to the free list of the tariff bill of iron and steel raw materials with an estimated dutiable value of more than $600,000 a year was approved by the majority members of the senate finance commitee. This increased the senate's additions to the Underwood free list to an aggregate annual loss of $2,000,000 in revenue, making the total estimated annual revenue loss from the free list about $27,000,000.

Metal Schedule Widely Cut.

After an entire day spent on the subcommittee's report of the metal schedule Chairman Simmons announced it had been widely cut, nearly every item of the schedule being reduced. To the free list were added pig iron, ferro manganese, steel blooms, slabs and billets. On all finished steel products an average reduction of 10 per cent was made from the Underwood rates.

Some Items Not Determined.

Lead, zinc and aluminium were left unsettled, to be determined upon later. Aluminium will be changed from an ad valorem to a specific tariff basis and the duty will be reduced, but it will not be transferred to the free list, as many had advocated. Aluminium experts will be called in by the committe to go over the committee's proposed specific rates, and if no mistakes have been made in computing the change the subcommittee rates will be approved.

WANT STATE PARK

Lovers of Nature Visit Forest in Ogle County.

Oregon, Ill., June 16.—"The Lovers of Our Native Landscape," a Chicago organization, came to Ogle county in a special train. They tramped to the white pine forest, nine miles west of here, the largest reservation of the kind in the west, to spend the day in picnicking. About 175 to 200 people came on the train and there were twenty automobile parties from Chicago.

Features of the day were a playlet by Kenneth Goodman, an Indian camp fire, and a powpow.

The object of the organization is to secure and preserve for the people the streams and adjoining bluffs and plains with their trees and flowers. A bill is now pending in the state legislature to make the sixty acres of forest a state park.

MAN SHOT BY ROBBERS

Chicago, June 16.—An attempted robbery of two men from Dalton, Ill., on the Milwaukee avenue viaduct over the Chicago and Northwestern railway resulted in the probably fatal shooting of Nicholan Randozza, who accompanied by John Turrie, was on his way to visit an uncle living at 1108 West Ohio street. Turrie told the police that three men attacked him and his companion and in the fight that followed Randozza was wounded in the chest.

A street car frightened off their assailants.

CONGO TYRANNY IS FINALLY PUT DOWN

Reform Association, With Victory Won, to Disband.

London, June 16.—The final meeting of the Congo Reform association will be held in London after nearly ten years of existence.

It is the final meeting because the following five objects have been attained:

1. The abolition of atrocities.
2. The abolition of the main features upon which the slave system reposed.
3. The separation of the administrative from the commercial element.
4. Direct taxation in place if irregular demands for rubber.
5. Freedom of trade.

Lasting for a period of twenty-five years, the Congo tyranny had reduced a population almost as large as that of England to one as large as that of London.

Sir Henry Stanley estimated the Congo population to have been 40,000,000. This is doubtless an overestimate, but even if the figures be reduced to one-half—that is, to 20,000,000—it still shows a reduction of 12,000,000 during the Leopoldian regime, for today the Congo census gives the population at less than 8,000,000.

BANK TELLER IN PRISON

Begins Five-Year Term for Shortage in Accounts.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 16.—Harry Baseler, the former bank teller of St. Louis, who occasioned the arrest of a gang of Cuban robbers who stole a package containing $200,000 while it was en route from Cuba to New York, was received at the federal penitentiary here to serve five years for violation of the national banking laws.

Basele was charged with being short in his accounts.

BOY LOSES LEG UNDER TRAIN

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 16.—Losing his grip as he swung on the bumpers of a freight train on the Wabash tracks near Harrison street, William Ralph McCarthy, eight years old, fell to the rails and his right leg was crushed off. His left ankle was also injured.

Three cars passed over him. The accident occurred while the boy was "hopping" cars.

G. Fred Williams Weds.

Bingham, Mass., June 16.—George Fred Williams, a Democratic leader and twice candidate for governor, and Mrs. Frances Ames Tompkins of Brookline were married at the home of relatives of the bride here.

NEWS FOR DIVORCED PEOPLE

Nonresidents May Wed in Wisconsin Within Year.

Madison, Wis., June 16.—The attorney general ruled that a person who secures a divorce in another state and comes to Wisconsin to be married need not wait a year, as the law requires resident divorces to do, before being entitled to a marriage license and the right to be lawfully married.

The case came from Janesville.

Understands Himself.

Chicago, June 16. — Oscar Von Hagan, a graduate physician from the University of Heidelberg, Germany; ex-convict, and self-styled "king of purse snatchers," has given a psychological analysis of his life. "I won't work."

HOW'S THIS

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr J C Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co. Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with any old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Those Suspicious People.

Politeness is wasted on some people. They always seem to think we have a gold brick to sell them.

A Woman's Fib

It began in the usual way strictly according to Plato. And the boy Cupid chuckled to himself as he watched the two, and tightened the strings of his bow.

At first things fell out exactly as Cupid had expected, and one fine day the man told the girl that he loved her, and asked her to become his wife.

As the girl listened a glad light came into her eyes. Then she looked at him searchingly, and her face clouded over.

"Are you quite sure?" she asked.

But he only laughed, and kissed her.

"I would rather we kept this to ourselves for a little while," she told him presently, when he spoke of a formal engagement. "I—I want to be quite, quite certain."

"Certain of what?" he asked.

"Of you, Dick," she replied. "Don't be angry with me, dear, I can't help it. It seems such a wonderful thing that you should love me after all. Do you remember what you used to say?"

"I was a fool."

"But do you remember?"

"I haven't said it for a long time, have I?"

"You used to say, Dick, that I was too much of a man myself for men to fall in love with me. I didn't know what you meant at first, until you explained."

"Never mind that now."

"But I do mind. I can't help thinking about it. I have an idea that you were right."

"No, I wasn't, Madge. I've found out my mistake."

"You said I was too free, too independent to win men's love, that men only loved the helpless, clinging women—the women who needed protectors."

"Why do you want to remember all the idiotic things I've said to you?"

"Because I believed them to be true once, and I think—perhaps—they are true still. You told me I was so strong and self-reliant—the sort of girl to make a chum of, not a wife. And you made a chum of me, Dick. Are you sure you want the wife?"

Her frank gray eyes met his unflinchingly.

He drew her toward him with sudden passion.

"I love you," was all he said. And, for a time, she was content.

Then there came a day on which a shadow seemed to fall between them, and doubt grew strong again.

"You are worrying over something," she said, and he made no reply.

"Tell me," she pleaded, but still he was silent.

"Do you know you haven't kissed me once to-day?" she continued, her eyes fixed upon his troubled face.

"Forgive me," he stammered, awkwardly trying to take her hands.

"I want to talk to you," she said. "I am going to tell you what is on your mind. I know."

"Madge, you don't know. You can't know. It's nothing."

"Don't be untruthful, Dick. You used to credit me with some intelligence when—when we were only chums. Do you think I can't guess what is troubling you? You're miserable, Dick, as miserable as it's possible for any man to be, and I know why. It's because you can't make up your mind—about—about me."

"What do you mean?" he asked, turning away his head.

"You can't make up your mind whether you are in love with me or not. There! Now I've said it. Isn't it true?"

Her voice never faltered. Her calm eyes seemed to read his every thought.

"Don't be afraid," she said. "It is better to be quite frank—kinder to me. That day you asked me to be your wife, you were carried away by a sudden foolish impulse. I suspected it all along. I had no right to take you at your word; Dick, we must be chums again."

"For Heaven's sake, Madge, don't talk like that!" he cried. "You don't know what you're saying. You wrong me, indeed you do. I have you, I admire you more than any other woman I know. You're too good for me, but, you've promised to marry me, and I'm the proudest fellow in the world. I'll try to be worthy of you, dear."

"It isn't a question of being worthy or unworthy," she replied, gently. "It's a question of love, Dick. I think I understand you. You're fond of me, I know that, but you don't love me in the way that you feel a man ought to love the woman he is going to marry."

"Any man who isn't a senseless brute ought to love you."

"Well, we'll grant that, for the sake of argument."

"You're clever and good, Madge, and uncommonly pretty; you're everything a woman ought to be."

"But—don't be afraid to say it, Dick—I'm not the right woman for you. I know. I understand."

"Madge, you don't understand, you can't understand. I don't understand myself. It's my cursed nature, I think. I'm not capable of loving you or any woman."

"You say that, now, because the woman hasn't come yet."

"She never will!" he cried. "You're the only girl I ever cared for, and ever shall care for. I'm sure of that. It's the only thing I seem to be sure of," he ended, miserably.

"Listen to me, Dick," she replied. "What a brute I am. What a brute! Do you care as much as all that?"

"I care for your friendship, Dick," she said, in her ordinary calm, low voice. "I meant nothing more. I am quite content."

Then, one day, she saw a change in Dick. It was bound to come. She had told herself so again and again. Yet in her heart of hearts she had not believed it.

"So that is the right woman for Dick. She can bring the look to his eyes that I have watched and waited for in vain. She, that poor, empty, foolish little creature has the power—bah, what a wretch I am! What right have I to judge her? I am unjust, blinded by—oh, God, not that—not that! Have I fallen so low? Do I grudge him to her—I, who never really had his love?"

And she stood afar off and watched the two together, and waited for Dick to tell her.

"He is afraid," she told herself, with a bitter smile. "He remembers what he swore to me. I must help him."

"Dick," she said, abruptly, at their next meeting, "there's something on your mind, and you've got to tell me what it is. Years ago you made me your 'Mother Confessor,' and I've held the office ever since. Come, Dick out with it! What is it?"

"It's nothing at all. I've got nothing to confess, little girl. How did you get that idea into your head?"

"I don't know. It came, Dick, that's all."

There was a pause.

"Madge," he asked, presently, "you're sure you're quite happy?"

"What do you mean? Nobody is quite happy, I suppose."

"I mean, are you quite contented with this sort of thing? With our—our friendship, you know."

The girl laughed gayly.

"Of course I am. Haven't I told you so, over and over again?"

"And yet—I don't know—sometimes I think—"

"You think I'm yearning for matrimony?" she retorted flippantly. "What a dear, conceited, stupid old thing you are! I've quite got over that little weakness, Dick. I don't want to marry you, really. I'm fond of you, of course, but then you're fond of me, too—at least you always pretended you were, and yet, you don't want to marry me. Why should that sort of feeling be possible for you and not for me, Dick? Perhaps—perhaps I'm wiser now than I was a few months ago. Perhaps I've found out my mistake."

"What do you mean, Madge?"

"Dick," she said, almost in a whisper, "you discovered, months ago, that I was not the right woman for you. Perhaps—perhaps I've discovered that you are not the right man for me."

Again that glad light shone in his eyes, and the girl grew sick with the pain that was in her heart.

"You're pleased to hear me say that!" she cried, and wild, ill-considered words rose to her lips. With a fierce effort she conquered the temptation to speak them.

"You have something more to tell me," said her companion, eagerly. "I can see it in your face. I can guess what it is!"

"Well!"

"That the right man has come to you?"

"And the right woman to you, Dick?"

"Madge, how did you know?"

"I only guessed. Perhaps a fellow-feeling, Dick. Does she know?"

"Good Heavens, no! I haven't dared to own it, even to myself. You'll laugh at me, and I deserve it, for being a presumptuous idiot, but—I can say it now without offending you—I—I though you still cared for me, not—not as a pal only, but in the other way, and so—"

"And so you determined to sacrifice the most precious thing on earth for the sake of a sickly sentimental feeling on my part to which I had no earthly right. Oh, Dick, you old stupid, what an awful mistake you might have made. And she—she cares for you, doesn't she?"

He flushed like a schoolboy.

"I've no right to say that," he replied. "I've never spoken to her about it. I was ashamed, because of—of what I had said to you."

"Go to her at once, Dick, and say—all you ever said to me, and much more that I could never teach you. Go, Dick. I know what her answer will be."

"And you, Madge? What of him, the right man, you know?"

"Dick, I can't tell you."

"It's a secret, then?"

"Well—yes—a secret. Don't be angry with me for not telling you. It isn't possible. We shan't be able to marry for a long time, and so we think it best to say nothing about it at present."

"You might, at least, tell me this, Madge: Do I know him?"

"No, Dick. You see I only met him a month ago, while up in Saratoga, you know. He—he has to go to Oregon, and won't be back for five years."

"Poor little girl, I'm sorry."

"But five years! Why, it's a lifetime! Fancy waiting five years for—for—"

"Go, Dick, go. There's no reason why you should wait, anyhow. Go to her, and good luck to you!"

When he had gone she rose slowly, and walked across to the mirror.

"Liar!" she said to the white face that stared at her through the glass. "Liar! It's an ugly word. I loathe it. And yet—and yet—it made things easier—for him."—GRETE HAHN.

OUR FUTURE RAILWAY RIVAL.

It Will Be Russia, Which Now Is Second to Us in Mileage.

If it is a question merely of bigness the Russian railway system is far and away the first in Europe. There are already many more miles of railway in this vast empire than in any other country in the world excepting the United States, and Russian railways are still only in their infancy.

It is of course quite true that there are now in the United States more miles of railway than in all Europe and almost as many as in all the rest of the world put together, and that our territory is so large and as yet so far from complete development that we shall probably keep the lead as far as railway enterprise is concerned for a long time to come.

But in taking these large views, says Moody's Magazine, we have forgotten that Russia is two and a half times as large as all the United States put together with a population more than half as large again as our own; that in territorial extent it is more than twice as large as all Europe; that it stretches across the world for 170 degrees of longitude—nearly half way around the globe—and that it includes one-sixth of the land surface of the planet.

It is not surprising that in such a country railways should have had a large development, that already there is a considerable mileage and that the prospects in this direction seem to have no limit. In the future Russia and the United States are likely to divide the railway empire of the world between them.

A Gentle Turndown.

Robinson (to Jones)—I say, old man, have you a loose fiver about you?

Jones—Why-er—would you believe it, I met Smith just now, and he had the nerve to ask me for it.

Robinson—He got it, of course?

Jones—N-no, he didn't! I told him I owed it to you!

Robinson—Ah!

Jones—But I find I was mistaken. I don't owe you a sou! I've paid up every cent I've borrowed of you, and promise you here and now never to pester you again for money. It was a shame—a beastly shame—but don't be alarmed, it'll not occur again! Good day!

Robinson (dizzily)—Good day!—Punch.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 7.

Tecumseh, Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of School District No. 7, Township of Tecumseh, in the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, will be held at the Council Building, in the Village of Tecumseh, Michigan, on the 24th day of June, A. D. 1913, at three o'clock P. M. of said day:

That said meeting is called for the purpose of ratifying a loan of Fifty Thousand Dollars, to be made by the issue of the bonds of said District, as hereinafter set forth, and is called pursuant to the following resolution, which was adopted by the Board of Education of said District, at a meeting thereof held in said District on 11th day of June, A. D. 1913, viz:

"Be it resolved, that the Board of Education of School District No. Seven of the Township of Tecumseh, in the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, now in regular session, and all members being present, do hereby determine that it is necessary that a new building for high school uses be erected in said District on the site of the present high school building; that Fifty Thousand Dollars is hereby estimated as the amount of money necessary to be raised for the purpose of erecting said new building; that, subject to ratification by the qualified voters of said District, as provided by law, said sum be borrowed by issuing the bonds of said District, payable as follows: $2000.00 per year for five years after the present year; $3000.00 per year for five years, the first of which shall become due in A. D. 1919 and $5000.00 per year for five years, the first of which shall become due in A. D. 1924, with interest at 5 per cent payable semiannually, installments of principal to become due on the 1st day of July of each year and installments of interest to become due on the 1st day of July and the 1st day of January of each year,

That the President and Secretary of this Board are hereby directed to call, by due notice, a special meeting of the qualified voters of said District, to be held at the Council Building, in the Village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County and State of Michigan, on the 24th day of June A. D. 1913, at three o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at which time and meeting the proposition of ratifying the borrowing said sum of money for the purpose aforesaid and on said terms shall be and is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of said District; the vote of said electors to be by ballot, and the polls of said election to be opened at 3:30 o'clock P. M. of said day and at said place and to remain open for the period of three hours, as provided by law; and which election shall be conducted in the manner provided by law."

That the object of said meeting is to take action upon the question of said loan, and that the voting thereof will be as provided in said resolution:

That the qualified voters of said District who are entitled to vote upon said proposition include, only, every citizen of the United States of the age of twenty one years, male or female, who owns property which is assessed for school taxes in the District, and who has resided in the District three months next preceding said meeting: provided that the purchaser of land upon a land contract who actually pays the taxes upon such land and resides thereon, may vote: and where a husband and wife own property jointly and same is assessed for school taxes in the School District, each may, if otherwise qualified, vote.

Why Shoes Don't Squeak Now.

"Do you remember," asked the shoe salesman, "the days when new shoes creaked? And how you used to have the shoemaker put wooden pegs in the middle of the sole about every week to stop the noise? Sometimes you soaked the soles of your shoes in water and then had to rub them with lard or some other kind of grease to get them flexible. You don't have to do that now. The new welt has taken the squeak away. In the old days the soles of shoes consisted of two even pieces of leather and the friction of these two pieces caused the squeak when a person walked.

"Shoes are made differently now. You see that little piece of ridged leather that runs from the heel around the outside of the sole? That's what we call the welt. It is a piece of leather about an inch wide sewed to the flap cut and turned under the inside. The space between the outer side and the insole is filled with ordinary tar paper, which holds the soles in shape and also prevents squeaking by taking away the friction. This system of welt was invented thirty years ago, but at first it wasn't a success because the soles were sewed with a straight needle. Couldn't explain it to you in one hundred years, but to prevent the squeaking the soles of the shoes have to be sewed with a crooked needle.

How to Be Lucky Always.

George Salsbury, mining operator, returned from Rawhide yesterday, convinced that advice is not always worthless. He told about it at the St. Francis.

"Talk about advice being cheap," he said. "I tell you a man often gets mighty valuable advice, and from entire strangers, too. It shows we're all akin and that the milk of human kindness is ever ready to flow if we hold a pail for it.

"There was Turner—ever hear of him? He's a prospector—at Rawhide. We were sitting in the hotel chinning when along came a fellow who knew Turner slightly, but gave him the best advice in the world and next week Turner struck it rich.

"'Been having any luck?' the fellow asked.

"Turner replied, 'Oh, good enough luck one day, and the next day no luck at all.'

"'Then work every other day only!' said the fellow."

An Unorthodox View.

French heels and a Merry Widow hat never made an actress.

FLAG DAY

Saturday June 14 was Flag Day and while there was no demonstration of Fife and Drum or parade on the street yet the spirit of patriotism was evident by the liberal display of our National emblem, our dear old flag with its red, white and blue. All this display has a deep meaning. It is not an empty observance, for the spirit of patriotism never dies, but grows stronger day by day and year by year, and our flag which is the outward sign, has grown into our hearts, and we realize how much we owe to the country that gave it birth and we renew our of vows fealty to our Country and give three cheers to the Red, White and Blue, salutins our flag wherever it may be.

CHILDRENS DAY

Methodist Church

The Childrens Day services of the M. E. Sunday school were held at 5 o'clock p. m. The platform was beautifully banked in green and white syringa blossoms being used in abundance.

The program was carried out as given in our last issue. A full choir of girls and boys sang in chorus. Every number of the program was charmingly given.

The graduation of the primary class to the intermediate was an interesting event. They recited the 23rd Psalm in unison after which Rev. G. H. Whitney in a few wellchosen words presented each one with a Bible.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. Nellie Adamson was most pleasantly surprised Friday afternoon when a bevy of her friends invaded her home and took possession. A company numbering 35 gathered at the home of Mrs. R. A. Heesen and marched in line to Mrs. Adamsons residence.

500 furnished the amusement of the afternoon and at 5:30 the numerous baskets being despoiled of their contents a fine pot luck supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Heesen with their son, George and daughter Alice and Mrs. George Adamson of Toledo, Mrs Duke of Ann Arbor and Mrs Bates of Williamston were the out of town guests.

NO CHANCE FOR IGNORANCE

According to an amendment to the compulsory school law which Govenor Ferris has lately approved, every child in the state of Michigan, under the age of 16 years must be in school or regularly employed, whether they have or have not passed the 8th grade. Heretofore if a pupil had passed the 8th grade, he was exempt from the provisions of the law regardles of age.

Beginning with August 15 any child who has passed the 8th grade must secure a work permit from the county commissioner of schools or the grade school superintendent and must have regular employment, if in a physical condition to do work.

This law is intended to keep pupils in school for a longer period and thus increase the enrollment of the High School throughout the state.

The Conjurer Confesses.

That "the hand is quicker than the eye" is one of those accepting sayings invented by someone who knew nothing of conjuring—or, as is more likely, by some cunning conjurer who aimed still further to hoodwink a guillible public. The fact is that the best conjurer seldom makes a rapid motion, for that attracts attention, even though it be not understood. The true artist in this line is deliberate in every movement, and it is mainly by his actions that he leads his audience to look not where they ought, but in an entirely different direction. Mr. David Devant, who for years has entertained London with his ingenious tricks, has said: "The conjurer must be an actor. By the expression of his face, by his gestures, by the tone of his voice, in short, by his acting, he must produce his effects."—St. Nicholas.

SPIRAL ARROW HEADS.

According to an authority of the National Museum at Washington there have recently been found in New Jersey several chalcedony arrow-heads which are so peculiar in form that, if they are genuine relics of Indian times, they seem to indicate that the red men may have sought, in some cases, to give their arrows a twisting motion, like that of a rifle ball.

The arrow-heads in question are cut in a spiral shape, and one of them makes a fifth of a turn in its length of two and one-half inches. Dropped point down in water, it is said, it will perform a complete revolution in a space of about thirty inches.

Parisian Horse Markets

The famous old horse market in the Boulevard de l'Hopital in Paris, where Rosa Bonheur used to plod about in man's attire with pencil and sketch book, has ceased to exist. No one who loves horses will regret it, for it represented the acme of equine discomfort. The new horse market, in the Rue Brancion, is a model of its kind. It comprises stables and sheds sufficient to shelter 800 horses.

What is Whisky?

The trial of a case that involved the important question, "What is whisky?" greatly interested the British. It presents many problems. "Suppose," asked one of the counsel, "that a merchant has a blend of spirit three months old and spirit ten years old, what is the age of that whisky?" "Five years and a half," replied the witness.

Pat's Appreciation.

An artist had finished a landscape; on looking up, he beheld an Irish navy gazing at his canvas. "Well," said the artist, familiarly, "do you suppose you could make a picture like that?" The Irishman mopped his forehead a moment. "Sure, a man c'n do annything if he's druv to ut!" he replied.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

The Fence made entirely of No. 9 Wire is the Cheapest you can buy. Read why

No. 9 wire is stronger and takes more galvanizing in proportion to its size than smaller wire. Fences made entirely of No. 9 wire last many years longer in proportion than lighter weight fences, cost no more to string, cause less trouble, are better at all times. These are technical facts. "Pittsburgh Perfect" "Jumbo" Fences, made entirely of No. 9 wire in many styles and sizes, are the strongest made because of the Electrically Welded joints, most durable because of the high quality Open Hearth Wire and pure zinc galvanizing, and the most economical and satisfactory fences in the world. Crude Fibre, only	1

NOTE—Almost no crude fibre. This means no waste. A wholly digestable feed. Wet up with skimmed milk this feed is superior to anything on the market as a pig GROWER. It's a bone and muscle food. Consists of a carefully compounded formula of selected whole wheat (no flour taken out) barley and corn grits, well sweetened, thoroughly cooked—dried, finely ground. It's absolutely free of screenings, foul stuff or dirt of any kind. It's a fine clean meal—very palatable and good enough for human food. All young animals like it, and thrive on it. An excellent poultry mash. It's worth your investigation. Prices—100-lb bag, $1.75; 200-lbs., $3.40; 500-lbs., $8.20; 1000-lbs., $16; 2000-lbs., $31. Send for trial order. Freight prepaid on 500 lbs. or over.

Money back if not satisfactory.

INDIANA AT GETTYSBURG

More Than 400 Soldiers to Leave Hoosierdom June 28.

Indianapolis, June 16.—More than 400 men now living in Indiana who, as members of the Union of Confederate armies, participated in the famous battle at Gettysburg have notified the Gettysburg anniversary commission of their intention to take advantage of the offer of the state of Indiana to provide for their free transportation to the battlefield where the fiftieth anniversary of the engagement is to be celebrated July 1, 2, 3 and 4 with a reunion.

The special train carrying the Indiana survivors of the battle, together with other veterans who will pay for their own transportation, will leave Indianapolis June 28 at about 1 p. m.

Your confidence is what Studebaker seeks to keep

Possessing this confidence, we have never tried to produce a cheap wagon. We could, but we don't dare try the experiment. Our constant aim has been to produce the best wagon.

And in living up to this highest standard, we have won and hold—the confidence and good-will of hundreds of thousands of farmers all over the world.

Studebaker wagons are built to last, to do a day's work every day, to stand up under stress and strain and to make the name Studebaker stand for all that is best in vehicles.

Don't accept any other wagon represented to be just as good as a Studebaker. The substitute may be cheaper, but it isn't up to Studebaker standards, and you can't afford to buy it.

For business or pleasure, there is a Studebaker vehicle suited to your requirements. Farm wagons, trucks, business wagons, surreys, buggies, runabouts, pony carriages—each the best of its kind. Harness also—of the same high Studebaker standard.

Salves Can't Cure Eczema

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:

Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D.D.D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 50 cent bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommendating this D.D.D. Prescription to a skin sufferer here and there, and we want you to try it now on our positive pay guarantee. D.D.D. Soap keeps the pores clean; ask us.

CEMENT

UNIVERSAL

This cement is a Steel product which is absolutely uniform, is not subject to the whims of nature like marl cement.

The manner of manufacture is far superior to any other cement institution, therefore more is sold than any other brand.

This cement is used by our local masons and contractors almost exclusively as they recognize its superiority.

Farmers who have used it with other brands, readily see the difference, so will you if you will try it

It does not cost as much as other brands proportionally.

We carry in stock a complete assortment of Sewer, and Field Tile, in fact all kinds of building material.

A certain percentage of people seem bent on taking a chance in the speculative field with their hard earned savings.

Fake mining schemes and illegitimate investments, which promise impossible returns, are but the creation of rainbow painters.

Every common sense man or woman knows that there is but one way to keep your savings intact and at the same time working for you—and that is a savings account at our bank.

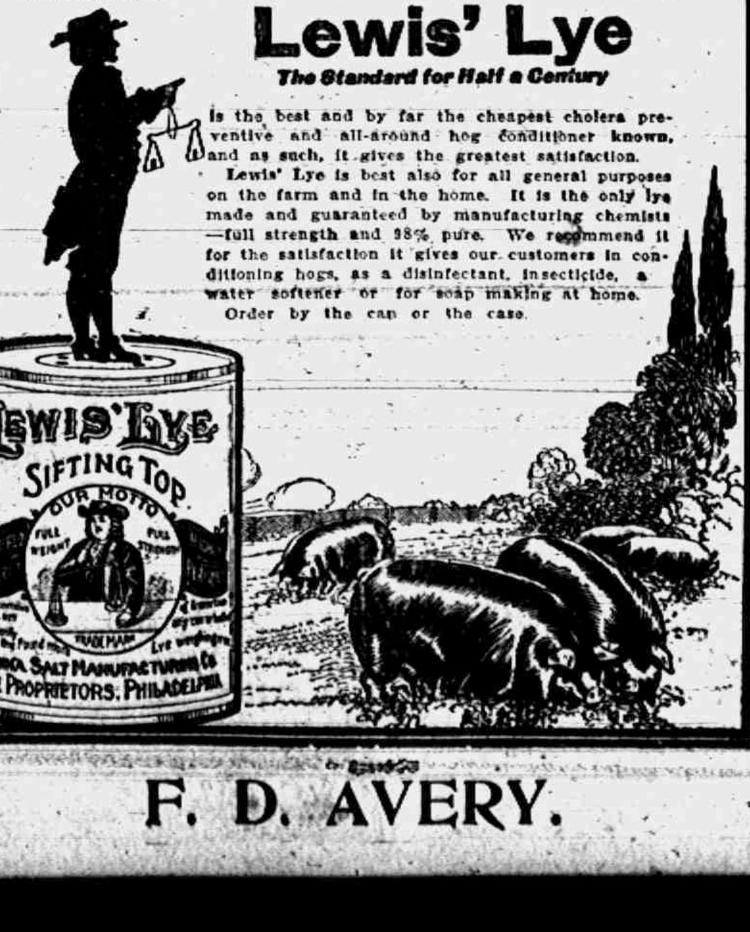
Big, Fat, Healthy Hogs

As long as you do raise hogs and expect to make a profit on the money and time you have invested in your droves—see to it that every precaution is taken to insure you a full profit at market time.

Hogs that are big, fat and healthy produce the best profit—hogs that are kept in condition through the consistent feeding of Lewis' Lye are not likely to become diseased—get worms or have cholera.



Lewis' Lye
The Standard for Half a Century

is the best and by far the cheapest cholera preventive and all-around hog conditioner known, and as such, it gives the greatest satisfaction.

Lewis' Lye is best also for all general purposes on the farm and in the home. It is the only lye made and guaranteed by manufacturing chemists—full strength and 98% pure. We recommend it for the satisfaction it gives our customers in conditioning hogs, as a disinfectant, insecticide, a water softener or for soap making at home.

Order by the can or the case.

Books for the Children

Care must be taken in the stories we give to growing children that evil is always overcome. Book friends are very real to boys and girls and influence their character. There should be effort and conflict in their stories and daring endurance and steadfast purpose. Stories in which the child hero acts rightly are particularly valuable, because what a boy or girl has done appeals more directly to the child's own power. He feels though he may not express it even to himself that what other children have done he can do.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Herald Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidney

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are weak.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kind, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

The harder some men work in the field the more right they think they have to growl around the house.

No Substitute Could do This

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of head and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The children in the home should have at least as much training as the colt in the field or the vine on the trellis.

Most Children Have Worms.

Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, costiveness, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms. Peevish, ill-tempered, fretful children who toss and grind their teeth, with bad breath and colicky pains, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

"DRYS" WIN ELECTION

Madison County Commissioners Order Vote on Markleville Petition.

Anderson, Ind., June 16.—A call was issued by the county commissioners for a local option election to be held July 8 in the township including Markleville. The fact that Squire Palmer of Markleville has on file a petition for a liquor license in that town was the reason for the "drys" asking for the election.

There were 109 signatures to the petition for an election. It is said that the township is overwhelmingly "dry."

Family "Riddled" by Cupid.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 16.—Six members of the family of Mrs. C. H. Headford, 87 Erie street, have been married in the last two months. Three of the marriages followed elopements.

HOW BLOOD IS MADE.

The liquids and the digested foods in the alimentary canal pass through the wall of the canal into the blood. This process is called absorption and takes place chiefly from the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food through the body, and each cell takes from the blood the food it needs. A pure glyceric extract made from bloodroot, mandrake, stone, queen's root and golden seal root, and sold by druggists for the past forty years under the name of gives uniformly excellent results as a tonic to help in the assimilation of the food and in the absorption by the blood of the food it requires. Eradicate the poisons from the blood with this alterative extract which does not shrink the white blood corpuscles, because containing no alcohol or other injurious ingredients. Thus the body can be built up—strong to resist disease. This is a tonic taken from Nature's garden that builds up those weakened by disease. Sold by druggists everywhere. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

MR. CHAS. FAERBER, JR., of 832 Woodlawn Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was troubled with my stomach for almost three years. Tried several doctors and most everything anybody recommended to me, but kept getting worse and honestly did not care to live as I was never well even though, at times, I had no pain. My symptoms were as follows: Always tired, my whole body in a throb, belching of gas, pain and soreness in the stomach, vomiting, constipation, could not tell what to eat or what would agree with me, and was melancholy. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with the 'Pleasant Pellets' it has made me a well man which is something to live for."

CHICAGO STEAMER IS SUNK AND ALL LOST

The Jessie Spaulding Rammed by the Schneider Junior.

Houghton, Mich., June 16.—The steamer Jessie Spaulding of Chicago, owned by Charles F. Spaulding of that city, was sunk in a collision off Keweenaw Point, Lake Superior, and went down with all on board.

There is but little hope that any of the officers or crew escaped.

The Jessie Spaulding was going eastward with a cargo of iron ore when she was rammed by the steamer Schneider, Jr., westbound, with coal.

According to wireless information from the Schneider, Jr., the Jessie Spaulding must have sunk quickly. Her distress signals were heard, but suddenly they ceased and by the time the Schneider, Jr., had reversed her engines and returned to the scene of the collision the Jessie Spaulding had vanished. The search for the vessel and for members of the crew who might have escaped in lifeboats or on rafts was kept up for hours without avail.

JAIL BREAKER RECAPTURED

Petersburg Man, Accused of Attempted Wife Murder, Is Caught.

Petersburg, Ind., June 16.—Thurman King, who recently was fined $50 and sentenced to twenty-five days in jail for attempted wife murder, broke jail, but was captured by Sheriff Nance and City Marshal Whitney one mile south of here.

A Hard Pull

On the end of Long Wharf sat Captain Holcombe, Nate Ryder, Peter Simpson and Little Abner. The wharf, gray and shaky with age, stretched out from the grassy bank, over the pebble beach, out into the blue tide, like a long arm of the small town, ready to grasp from the broad waterway whatever of life and industry came within its reach. It caught but little nowadays. Now and then an occasional coaster took on a load of ice or fish or lumber. Between times Beachport went to sleep and dreamed of her former prosperity.

Captain Holcombe's weather-beaten face had smiled through a long life voyage. It was crossed and recrossed by bad-weather marks of contrary gales, but certain humorous lines spoke of northwest breezes and fair winds. Nate and Pete were big, bronzed young men, mates on coasting schooners, taking an idle day or two between trips. As for Little Abner, he was little only in name. His appellation had stuck to him, in spite of increasing inches, and only strangers saw any humor in the situation.

It was a still afternoon. The only sounds which broke the quiet were the swash of the lazy waves against the rotting wharf, and now and then the insistent call of the August insect.

"The Byron P. Thorne will have a good chance out to-night," remarked Peter, languidly letting his eyes wander over the bay to the horizon-line.

Captain Holcombe remarked, "Dirty to the suth'rd."

"Guess it's only loom."

"Well," returned the captain, "mebbe it is and mebbe it ain't. If it was anything else in question you might calculate. But fog! Scott! There ain't anything uncertainer in this world of uncertainties. A cyclone's steady-going compared to a fog. You think you are in for it, and—whiff! the sky's clear as a bell. Again, and you won't see the bowsprit from midships for a week of days."

"That's so," asserted Nate.

"Speaking of fog," went on the old man, "makes me think of the summer of '65. I never see anything like that before or since."

"Where was you?" asked Peter. Little Abner, who was fishing, edged nearer and kept one ear turned toward the captain.

"Off East Point, whaling. I shipped that year as mate in the Ellen Mary, but before I was through the voyage I'll be blowed if I wasn't everything, from cabin-boy to captain. What with being sick and getting hurt, we had so many laid up that we all had to turn to and get the day's work done somehow. First the captain he sailed in with a spell of ailing, then Big Jim broke his leg falling off the foreyards. I was ship's doctor!" and Captain Holcombe chuckled.

"Know anything about doctoring?" asked Peter. The captain's blue eyes twinkled beneath their shaggy brows.

"Well, perhaps not just according to the medical idea. My sister she married a man who was studying to be a doctor. He give it up before the first year was out, and went into the canning business, but it kind of gave us a feeling of belonging to the profession. That's why they hit on me to fix Big Jim's leg. I must say I was staggered for a bit. I'd never seen a broken leg, much less meddled with one. But common sense helps you along all right if only you don't hinder it, and I argued it out in my mind that what that leg wanted was a chance to mend itself. I made it fast to a bit of broken oar, lashed it well with rope yarn, and wrapped it up in a piece of old sail, and nature did the rest of the business."

"Wa'n't he lame?" asked Pete.

"Well, not to speak of. It put his steering-tackle a bit out of gear and he couldn't point according to compass. But nothing to hurt. The boys called me 'Doc' after that, and my work was cut out for me the rest of the voyage. I never see anything like it. Seemed as if we had a Jonah on board. Bad luck with whales, too. They was as scarce as barnacles on the topmast.

"Then the fog shut down, and for three mortal weeks we much as ever knew where we was. Fog! It was soup! We ate it and drank it, and it got into our heads until we couldn't think clear. We was soaked from stem to stern, and the men was fair crazy. There ain't nothing lonesomer than a fog. 'Mon,' says Angus McDonald. He was a big, red-haired Scotty. 'Mon, I'd gie a good bit o' siller to hae ane o' ma gran'feyther's sermons alang!' 'Why?' says I. 'They're the driest things I ken,' says he.

"Then Galley Joe's finger had to come off, and I was the one to do it. He'd got it poisoned with a fish-hook."

"I don't believe I'd have nerve to do that," commented Nate.

"You can always do a thing you have to do," returned the captain. "'Twa'n't so bad—that is—not for me. Galley Joe didn't seem to find it real amusing. It got along all right and healed up real pretty. But that wa'n't my hardest job, not by a long shot."

"I'd like to know what you could have harder'n cutting off a finger?" asked Pete.

"Pulling a tooth."

"I should think that was easy sailing compared with the other," said Pete.

"Well, it wa'n't. I'd rather pull a loaded gundalow single-handed against the tide than pull another tooth like that. It was a corker of a double tooth, with a hole as big as my fist—that is, speaking comparatively. The man had a toothache of about as big a size as he could hold. It ached unmercifully, and what with the ache and the fog, he had about all he could steer under. It never let up, night or day, and all the poultices in the ship would not stop it. I reckoned that the right course was for it to come out, but the man wa'n't set on having it done, and I wa'n't set on doing it. I was getting kinder sick of the medical profession.

"At last he couldn't stand it any longer. Neither could the rest, and I said I'd get it out somehow. All the tools I had that was appropriate was a small monkey-wrench and a jackknife, but I thought that with them—and me—I was mighty strong in those days—the tooth wouldn't stand much of a chance.

"I was a consarned long time bringing that man to the point. He'd take in sail as quick as I'd ever take up that wrench. But after jibing and hauling and tacking about, he finally dropped anchor, opened his mouth, and said, 'Let her go!'

"The Rock of Gibraltar ain't set firmer'n that tooth was. I screwed on the monkey-wrench as tight as I could get her, and then I hauled for all I was worth. But it never budged, Scott, but he hollered!

"I remembered that the gums kind o' anchor the teeth, so I got in a little work with the jack-knife. Then I took a turn with the wrench. After a time I jerked the thing loose in its moorings, and out she came with one big haul. Scott! I never was so tired in my life."

"It couldn't have been much fun for the other fellow," remarked Nate. "But I don't see how it was worse for you than cutting off a finger."

"Well—it was," he drawled. "You see, the finger was Galley Joe's."

"What has that to do with it?" inquired Pete.

The captain rose stiffly. "My bones feel as if we was going to have a spell of weather," he remarked. "About the tooth—well, it made a heap of difference. It's bad to pull a tooth, and it's worse to have one pulled, but when both jobs are put on the same man at the same time, it's a leetle more'n human nature can stand. You see, that tooth happened to be mine!"

The captain walked away, and silence fell on the little group. Then the long, discordant bray of a horn broke in upon the stillness. Little Abner wound up his fish-line and leisurely obeyed the summons.

Nate and Pete sauntered up to the village store, and the old wharf was left deserted in the soft, golden twilight.—MARY E. MITCHELL.

Function of the State.

Generations come and go. The life of the individual is short; his plans and ambitions relate to temporary purposes and present profits. The State goes on forever and the State must safeguard its own future. In a recent notable decision, the United States Supreme Court says: "The State as the guardian of the public welfare possesses the constitutional right to insist that its natural advantages shall remain unimpaired by its citizens." In the developing and carrying out this purpose, it is natural and proper that the State should employ its own geologists and engineers and chemists; that it should make use of the facilities of its university; and that it should teach the new purpose to its university students, as well as to its matured citizens.—Science.

Twentieth Century Dugouts.

Dugouts are usually associated with bygone days, but they still figure in Maryland navigation. A few are even being made to-day. The dugout is the Chesapeake canoe of the Eastern Shore oystermen. It is made by placing three pine logs side by side and fastening them together with wooden pins. Then the inside is dug out with an adz and the outside similarly shaped. The result is a nonsinkable craft, with bow and stern alike, that is rigged with two sails and sometimes a "jigger" as well. From these boats the oysters are taken up with tongs. When the oyster season is over these canoes are painted and aquatic races are indulged in by the oystermen.—Harper's Weekly.

Lived in One House 94 Years.

In the village of Stathe (Somerset), on the banks of the River Parrett, resides William Broome, who has lived the whole of his life—ninety-four years—in the same cottage.

The house is his own property. Broome has always enjoyed good health, is still very active and has never tasted medicine. He is a great-grandfather, grandfather and father, but only six of his descendants are living.

Dog's Long Chase After Thief.

John Brooks, Dick Cousins and John Walker, negroes, accused of robbing the bank of South Hill, Mecklenburg county, Virginia, at a preliminary hearing before three Magistrates in South Hill were held for the Grand Jury and committed without bail. In a signed statement Cashier Thomas A. Bryson gives Suffolk bloodhounds a portion of credit for the burglars' capture. One of the thieves was chased eighteen miles by dogs.

What Becomes of Them.

High school teachers are sometimes caught up by their pupils. One teacher of Latin a short time ago resolved to give a question out of her jurisdiction, thinking to reduce the pride of her girls, who believed their knowledge illimitable. However, as it happened, she hit upon a question that would have stumped even herself to answer—one that has puzzled the world for a long time.

"Girls," she said, "who can tell me what becomes of all the pins?"

There was an instant's silence, then one girl's hand went up.

"Well?" asked the teacher, with a smile.

"They are deposited wastefully in the ground and become terrapin," replied the girl, playing upon her Latin.

And, privately, the teacher admitted defeat.

The Fluctuating Sun.

Prof. Charles Lane Poor of the Columbia University observatory is continuing his researches on the figure of the sun, from which he concludes that its exact shape is not known. The generally accepted idea that the sun is a sphere is, he holds, at least open to question. Practically every series of measures shows departures from a spherical form. Of course the departures, considering the great size of the solar globe, are very minute. There seems to be a fluctuation in the shape of the sun corresponding in period with the sun-spot cycle. There are also indications of a fluctuation having a period of about 28 days.

Want Monument Erected.

H. F. Wallace Post, G. A. R. of Corunna, at a recent meeting adopted a resolution calling to the attention of State Senator William A. Rosenkrans the proposition that a monument be erected to mark the last resting place of the late Gov. Andrew Parsons, whose home was in that city. Gov. Parsons came to this city with his parents when 17 years old. He was the first county clerk of Shiawassee county, assuming the duties of that office in 1839. Later he became state senator and in 1853 was elected lieutenant governor, and became acting governor, holding the office for two years.

G. A. R. Encampment at Lansing.

Lansing assumed gala attire for the state encampment of the Michigan G. A. R., June 17, 18 and 19. Decorators transformed the capitol building into a veritable sea of color, while all the municipal buildings and business blocks are decked with bunting and flags. Hundreds of veterans were present and thousands of other visitors helped to make this a memorable reunion. The parade, which is the big feature of the encampment, was held Wednesday afternoon. Gov. Ferris was unable to be present on account of a previous engagement at Monroe.

The state board of health will establish a branch laboratory at Port Huron on July 1 to analyze samples of water taken from the great lakes, with a view to determining whether the sewage from the various cities along the lakes is causing a contamination sufficient to make the water unfit for drinking purposes. The state will work in conjunction with the Canadian government. Assistant State Bacteriologist Chambers will be in charge of the Port Huron laboratory.

The Upper Peninsula Dental society has awarded the 1914 convention to Escanaba for next June. Officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. H. E. Fox, Ironwood; vice-president, Dr. G. P. Ritchie, Sault Ste. Marie; secretary-treasurer, Dr. A. Cotton, Escanaba.

Fred Schroteke, night watchman at the Jackson-Church Co.'s plant, Saginaw, dropped dead of heart disease at a fire in the plant. The auto engine, answering the alarm, struck Harold Desl one, 10 years old, who was riding on a bicycle, and broke his leg.

Peter Zilinski, a farmer near Auburn, was severely bitten on the chest by a mad dog after the animal had made three unsuccessful leaps for his throat. The dog was killed by a neighbor soon after, and Zilinski went to Ann Arbor Monday for the Pasteur treatment.

GORMAN SLUGS WILSON

Disgraceful Assault on Floor of Illinois House.

At Springfield, Ill., State Representative Thomas N. Gorman, from Peoria, knocked down Representative George H. Wilson, Republican, of Quincy, on the floor of the house.

Gorman made some remark to Wilson, who replied, "Oh, shut up; go away." Wilson moved away, but had not got ten feet away when Gorman got in front of him and struck him on the right side of the jaw.

Wilson fell full length on the floor of the house and the thud, as his body struck the carpet, was heard above the turmoil in the house.

KANSAS TOWN WIRED OUT

The business section of Reserve, Kan., was almost entirely wiped out by a disastrous fire, which was extinguished early in the day. It is supposed to have started in a pile of oil-soaked rags in a harness shop.

The harness shop, a restaurant, a general store, a furniture store, a newspaper plant and a butcher shop were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Citizens of the town turned out in force and fought the flames by forming a bucket brigade.

WOMEN TO VOTE

Illinois House Passes Bill by Constitutional Majority.

CAN NOW VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

Victory Gained After Long Struggle—Measure Now Goes Up to Governor Dunne, Who Is Certain to Sign It —Women Also Eligible to Vote on U. S. Senators.

At Springfield, Ill., woman and her cause triumphed in the house of representatives when the suffrage bill was passed by a vote of 80 to 58.

Now the bill will go to Governor Dunne for his signature, and when he signs it, as it is believed confidently he will, Illinois will take its place as the first state east of the Mississippi river to give considerable voting power to women.

Equal suffrage, as broad as it is possible to make it without a constitutional amendment, became almost a fact in this state when Speaker William McKinley announced the result of the final roll call on the bill.

Will Vote for President.

Under the operation of this act women in Illinois will be allowed to vote for all offices created by statute, including presidential electors and United States senators, and on all propositions submitted to the people.

It was not until there had been a hard fight that the bill was taken up and passed, and it marked the end of a long, arduous and intelligent campaign by women and their friends inside and outside the general assembly. The result was greeted with an outburst of applause from the crowded galleries and floor of representative hall.

Women Given Credit.

Members of the legislature gave full credit for the victory to the sagacity of Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the state suffrage organization, and Mrs. Sherman Booth, chairman of its legislative committee, who have been in Springfield throughout the session. Mrs. Antoinette Funk and Mrs. Medill McCormick have been other members of the suffrage lobby during recent weeks.

Mrs. Trout was so affected by the victory that she broke down and cried in the house gallery. The strain was severe during the roll call, as it looked for a time as though the bill had been defeated by a narrow margin.

More Votes Than Needed.

The bill had received only seventy-six votes, or one short of the constitutional majority of seventy-seven, when the roll call was completed. Speaker McKinley had cast the seventy-sixth vote. On the call of absentees Representative Barker cast the seventy-seventh vote. Cheers swept over the house. With the victory won additional votes came easily. Representatives Farrer, Jackson, Harris, Ryan and McCarty were among those voting for the bill after the majority had been obtained. The final vote showed six more votes recorded in favor of the bill than were needed.

MOROS ARE DEFEATED

American Lose Six Killed in a Battle in Philippines.

Intrenchments of rebellious Moros under the sultan of Jolo at Bagsag were taken by the American forces after a fierce battle, in which the American casualties were six killed and twelve wounded.

The killed were two privates of company M, Eighth United States infantry, three members of the Fifty-first company of scouts and one member of the Twenty-ninth company of scouts. Lieutenant Edwin H. Raikley was wounded in the leg.

Brigadier General John J. Pershing, commander of the department of Mindanao, who led the forces, declares he will continue operations in Jolo until all the tribesmen's guns have been taken and the whole island is peaceful.

The Muskegon-Ludington & Manistee Electric Railway company, capitalized at $1,500,000, has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The company will construct a line from Muskegon to Ludington, and from Ludington to Manistee. The Michigan office will be at Muskegon.

MEMORIAL IS HELD AT MONROE

Monroe Holds First Centennial Anniversary in Honor of Heroes of Raisin River.

One of the largest crowds of people ever seen at Monroe was there Wednesday to observe the Centennial of 1813 Massacre and to pay honor to the heroes of Raisin River.

Ex-Mayor Deinzer was master of ceremonies and Mayor Orvis delivered the address of welcome.

The memorial was held in honor of the 600 brave Kentucky soldiers who left their homes in the south and marched in the dead of winter through forest and swamp, enduring terrible sufferings in order that the settlements along the Raisin river might be saved from the red man's savage fury and that Detroit might be relieved, only to be captured by the English, under General Proctor, early on the morning of Jan. 22, 1813, and cruelly butchered by the Indians the day following. The defeat was due to the treachery of one of the settlers whom the Kentuckians had tried to save, aided by the incompetency of the American General Winchester, while the massacre was due to the breaking of the promises made by the English to the Americans, not even the sick and wounded being spared from the tomahawk and scalping knife. The bodies were left to rot where they fell, the dry whitened bones being gathered up some years later and interred in a Monroe cemetery, now known as Memorial place, and marked by a handsome granite monument, erected by the state of Michigan in honor of the Kentuckians.

Gov. Ferris and the Lieut. Governor of Kentucky were among the speakers.

IRON AND STEEL GO ON THE FREE LIST

Senate Committee Eliminates Tariff on Raw Materials.

At Washington, D. C., the transfer to the free list of the tariff bill of iron and steel raw materials with an estimated dutiable value of more than $600,000 a year was approved by the majority members of the senate finance commitee. This increased the senate's additions to the Underwood free list to an aggregate annual loss of $2,000,000 in revenue, making the total estimated annual revenue loss from the free list about $27,000,000.

After an entire day spent on the subcommittee's report of the metal schedule Chairman Simmons announced it had been widely cut, nearly every item of the schedule being reduced. To the free list were added pig iron, ferro manganese, steel blooms, slabs and billets. On all finished steel products an average reduction of 10 per cent was made from the Underwood rates.

Lead, zinc and aluminium were left unsettled, to be determined upon later. Aluminium will be changed from an ad valorem to a specific tariff basis and the duty will be reduced, but it will not be transferred to the free list, as many had advocated. Aluminium experts will be called in by the committe to go over the committée's proposed specific rates, and if no mistakes have been made in computing the change the subcommittee rates will be approved.

DECIDES AGAINST CHARLTON

Supreme Court Surrenders Him to Italy for Trial.

The United States supreme court at Washington has rendered a decision surrendering Porter Charlton to Italy for trial for the murder of his wife at Lake Como.

The killing of Mrs. Charlton stirred Europe and America as have few murders of recent years. With the discovery of her body stuffed into a trunk and sunk in Lake Como, both continents turned to search for the murderer.

That question was solved when Porter Charlton through the agency of wireless telegraphy, was found on a steamer bound from Italy to the United States. He was arrested a few days later when the ship landed at Hoboken, N. J., and that night there appeared a confession bearing his name.

BOILERS EXPLODE ON BARGE

Four Men Are Killed and a Number Seriously Injured.

At Racine, Wis., the big boilers on the coal barge C. K. Peck, unloading coal at the Pugh Coal company docks, blew up, carrying the entire deck of the steamer, a mass of debris, into the harbor.

The Peck caught fire and the city fire department fought the fire. Twenty-five men were on board the barge at the time of the accident. Four are known to have been killed.

Whether any more are dead has not been learned. Also the number of injured is unknown. Ambulances rushed to hospital wards with the wounded.

BRYAN ON MEXICO

Declares American Interests Seek Intervention Selfishly.

FORTUNES THEIR ONLY CARE

Secretary of State Refuses to Join in the Movement Merely for the Protection of Property Worth Approximately $250,000,000.

That the Wilson administration will not in any way intervene in the Mexican revolution or participate of any drastic movement for the sole purpose of protecting the financial interests of Americans in Mexico has just been reiterated with emphasis by Secretary of State Bryan.

To a delegation of nine Americans, representing approximately $250,000,000 worth of interests in Mexico, Secretary Bryan is said to have made it plan that there will be no intervention to save property, that there will be no participation with other nations in a message of warning to Huerta or the Mexican people against the destruction of property of foreigners, and that there will be no change of our policy of neutrality to the extent of letting the revolutionists and the government alike get all the arms they want from this country to the end that the revolution may be fought out decisively.

Bryan Blunt in Language.

Secretary Bryan is declared to have been so blunt in his dealings with the committee that some of the men who participated in the conference felt insulted. They say Secretary Bryan at one point in the conference declared they were not presenting the case with candor; that they had come to him speaking for the dollars and cents they have invested in Mexico, and that they were merely feigning when they made their appeal on behalf of the safety of the American men and women in that country.

Three Texans participated in the conference. They were W. N. Pence of Midland, representing Nelson Morris, the packer; W. W. Turney and Charles Newman of El Paso. Others participating were Brice McKinney of Cleveland, who holds large mining interests; Joseph Quailey of New York, and H. S. Stevenson of California.

Pearson Interests Keep Out.

Suggestions of intervention and of letting down the neutrality bars so the insurgents might be put on the same footing as the government in the matter of obtaining arms have been made from time to time since the fall of the Diaz regime, but the suggestion that this country join with the European governments, in a warning to the Mexican government against the destruction of property of foreigners was for the first time formally presented to the state department by the representatives of American interests in Mexico.

It is said the committee wanted to give an international importance to its suggestion by having the Pearson (Lord Cowdray) interests participate in the conference. According to the reports current in connection with the matter, the Pearson interests declined to join in the representations to Secretary Bryan.

She deserted her own offspring to take care of the chicks and when people heard of the novelty and went to see her and the chicks she blandly picked a few of them up and carried them to another part of the restaurant.

JUDGE CUTTING QUITS THE BENCH

Probate Court Jurist Resigns to Practice Law in Chicago.

Judge Charles S. Cutting of Chicago of the probate court of Chicago, has sent his resignation to Governor Dunne to take effect Sept. 1.

Governor Dunne under the law will have to call a special election to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Judge Cutting.

"I don't expect to take any vacation or rest, but expect to work as hard if not harder than ever," said Judge Cutting when telling of his resignation. My resignation has been sent to Governor Dunne, effective Sept. 1."

DUNNE VETOES HARBOR BILL

Calls Lake Calumet Project a Tax Burden.

At Springfield, Ill., with his first veto message sent to the present general assembly, Governor Edward F. Dunne returned without his approval the Kleeman Calumet harbor bill, which recently passed both houses.

This was the last day under the law on which the governor could have prevented the measure from becoming a law. If he had withheld action until midnight it would have gone into effect July 1 without his signature.

As reasons for vetoing the measure Governor Dunne states that the Kleeman bill might impose voluminous burdens on the taxpayers of Chicago. He says that the work of excavating 500 acres in Lake Calumet would cost at least $3,000,000.

EXPLOSION IN LAUNDRY KILLS

Three Maids, Waitress, Janitor and Hostelry Keeper's Wife Are the Victims.

One person was instantly killed and five others injured, two perhaps fatally, when the steam chest of the new mangle in the Briny Inn laundry at Manistee exploded Monday afternoon.

Two women and the janitor were all within a few feet of the machine when the steam box burst. Mrs. Field was hurled nearly 20 feet to the other side of the laundry by the force of the explosion, while the others were thrown to the floor, showered with boiling water and cut and lacerated by the flying pieces of steel.

The report was heard for several blocks and a large crowd of persons rushed to the scene.

The maids were placed in automobiles and hurried to a hospital, where only slight hope was extended for the recovery of Misses Ely and Babineau.

The condition of Miss Ely is considered most doubtful because of the burns which seared the entire left side. She sank into unconsciousness soon after arriving at the hospital.

Cries For Help Unanswered.

Believing that the cries for help of Roy Sovey, 16, of Pontiac, were made to create excitement, the many pleasure seekers on Cass lake paid no attention to the struggling youth and he drowned. Sovey with several other boys had been diving from a box in the middle of the lake for several hours when he decided to swim ashore. About half way to the mainland his strength gave out, and he began calling for help. His companions laughed, and others, who could easily have saved him, paid no attention.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with and old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from a ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL

The School Board's Estimate of Average Yearly Rate of Tax on $1000 Valuation of Assessed Property. Some of the Advantages of the New Building.

TO BE VOTED ON TUESDAY JUNE 24.

As the time approaches when the proposition is to be placed before the electors of the District for the erection of a modern high school building the interested voter is naturally looking for all possible light and guidance in the matter.

Perhaps the question most vital and the one most often asked is "What will the expense to the individual: what will it cost me to have this improvement?"

That each voter may know just what the expense would be to him expressed in dollars and cents, the Board has prepared the following figures which are based on our assessed valuation of the past year, or $1,518,000.

In paying as is proposed, $2,000.00 on the principal during the first five years from 1914 to 1918 the amount required of a taxpayer on a $1,000.00 valuation of property would be $2.97 in the year of 1915. This amount gradually decreases during each of these five years, until in 1919 the rate of tax would be $2.70 on a $1000.00 valuation.

In the next following five years of 1920 to 1924 when it is proposed to pay off $3,000.00 per year on the bond principal, the cost to the individual would be at an average rate of $3.10 per year.

In the following or last five year period (1925 to 1929) when it is proposed to pay off the remainder of our school indebtedness in $5,000 yearly installments, the rate of tax would be an average of $3.78 on $1,000.00 valuation of property.

In arranging the payments on the principal of the proposed bond issue the Board in so doing has kept in mind the constantly decreasing amound due on our water bonds and on this account has placed the largest payments in the last of the five year periods, when our water bonds shall be paid and out of the way and the sewer bonds coming due in but $1000.00 annual installments. Taking the foregoing figures as a basis for further computation gives us an average individual expense or tax of $3.24 per year for fifteen years on each $1,000.00 of assessed valuation for the proposed new high school building.

A brief description has already been given of the interior arrangement and construction and the sanitary conveniences of the proposed new structure.

It is the hope of the Board of Education that should a new building be authorized for Tecumseh that the idea of vocational or manual work, which is becoming so prevalent and popular in other places, may have some sort of an introduction in our own schools.

In the plans for the proposed new high school building, convenient rooms in the basement have been provided with this possible end in view. Each room in fact shown in the architect's drawings has its specific use.

It is true, however, that in this, as well as in all well laid plans, some modifications and adjustment to untried conditions may have to be made. For instance, the room marked by the architect as "Teachers' Rest Room" in our plans is intended to be used as a retiring room for either a teacher or a pupil who might be temporarily ill. Practical experience however, might show that such a provision was not necessary, in which case the room could easily be utilized in meeting some more needed school requirement.

In presenting these plans to the District the Board has endeavored to look into the future with its possibilities and probabilities of education on rather broader lines than can, with our present facilities, be given.

The Special District Meeting called for the purpose of voting upon the proposed new high school building will be held in the Council building on Tuesday, June 24th between the hours of 3:30 and 6:30 p. m.

Qualifications for an elector and other details can be found in the special notice to the District.

THE GREAT SHIP SEE ANE BEE

Launching of the great ship See and Bee last November at the yards of the Detroit Ship Building Co. was an event of historical importance as she is the largest and most costly passenger steamer on inland lakes in the world. She is considered as beyond all exception the finest side wheel steamer ever built, and is the crowning event of Frank E. Kirby, who has designed most of the side wheel steamers of the United States.

A description of the boat may be of much interest to our readers, so we give in full. Size of ship, length, 500 feet, breadth, 98 feet 6 inches, depth, 30 feet 6 inches. She has 510 staterooms, 24 parlors accommadrting 1,500 passengers. She has the government permit of carrying 6,000 passengers as many people as in a good sized town. Frieght capacity 1,500 tons, she has six decks, orlopmain, promenade, gallery upper and dome deck. Her main shaft and pistin rods are among the largest ever cast, weighing 220 tons, four enormous smoke stacks each 9 feet in diamater, and her furnishings would cover a 40 acre field. Her hull made of steel with double bottoms 365 feet long with space for water ballast and has 14 water tight compartments. It is divided into three compartments connected by fire proof doors from main deck to dome.

The steamer is kept on an even keel at all times by two steel tanks holding 53 tons of water which can be filled or emptied in two minutes. Her engines are 12,000 horsepower 4,000 more than any other side wheeler, 45,000 electric lamps will make her a blaze of light.

The decorations on the interior are rich but simple. The Lobby is as spacious as that of the largest hotels, in fact every part of the big boat is up to the latest in furnishings and the system of telephoning from one room to another is in the scale of a village.

The Hercules Bed Springs are used exclusively in all the parlors and saloons of the vessel being selected for their merit as having past the most severe test and being without a peer for comfort. The name of Real, Restful Rest, Steel Feathers being well chosen.

The Hercules Springs are very light and easily kept clean and do not bend. The coiled springs being of the finest tempered steel and are easily adjusted to an kind of bed.

OIL ROADS

The Property Owners facing on Chicago Street between Union and VanBuren, are preparing to give the proposition of oiling another trial. They will first brush the street clean, getting down to hard pan and will wait for a good hot day when they will apply a thin coat of good oil, repeating the operation from time to time as is necessary. This plan of applying oil to the street has been carried out very successfully in other places, and will without doubt be a great help in keeping down the dust.

Why Have "Nerves?"

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

MRS. LILA B. HAWKINS, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicines, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."

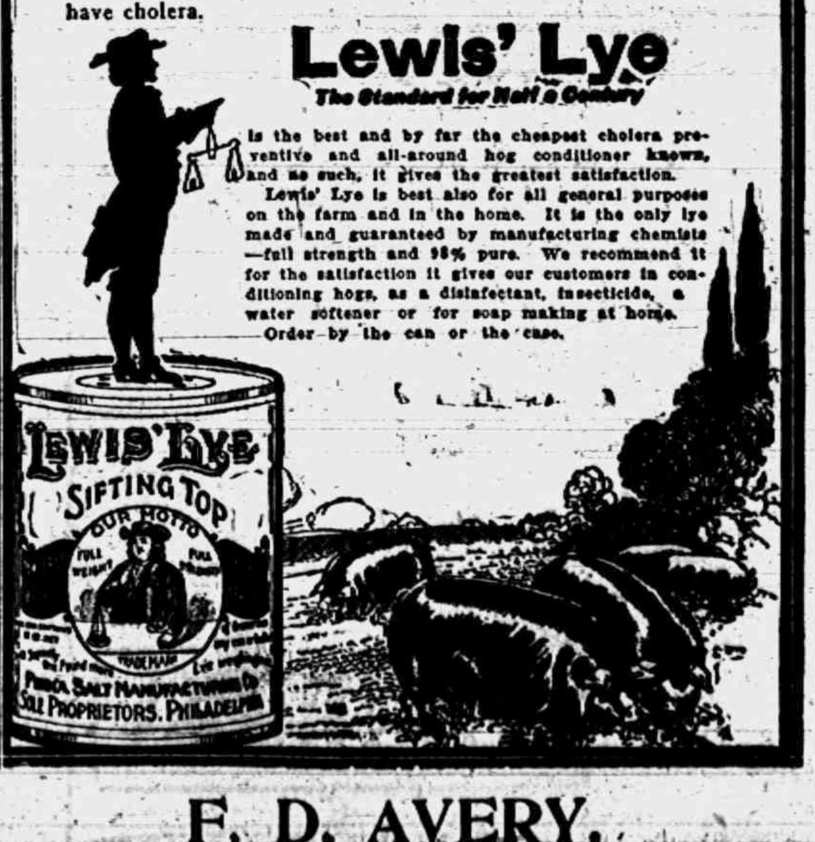
Big, Fat, Healthy Hogs

As long as you do raise hogs and expect to make a profit on the money and time you have invested in your droves—see to it that every precaution is taken to insure you a full profit at market time.

Hogs that are big, fat and healthy produce the best profit—hogs that are kept in condition through the consistent feeding of Lewis' Lye are not likely to become diseased—get worms or have cholera.



Lewis' Lye

The Standard for Half a Century

is the best and by far the cheapest cholera preventive and all-around hog conditioner known, and as such, it gives the greatest satisfaction.

Lewis' Lye is best also for all general purposes on the farm and in the home. It is the only lye made and guaranteed by manufacturing chemists—full strength and 98% pure. We recommend it for the satisfaction it gives our customers in conditioning hogs, as a disinfectant, insecticide, a water softener or for soap making at home.

Order by the can or the case.

SUMMER CAMP FOR BOYS

Say, boys, Do you know how to catch a good string of fish? Do you know how to stop a ball that is a grounder? Can you swim? Can you sleep on straw? Can you help a little in washing dishes? Are you 12 years old and under 17? Would you like to be a little stronger, better, cleaner man? If so we would like to have you join our bunch at Devils Lake, Wednesday morning June 25th until July 5th. By doing our own work we are going to make the rates very low to each fellow. We have some fine boats at our disposal. A good ball diamond. We will have some good talks by men who like boys. If this looks good to you ask Rev. W. B. Hartzog about it or write to W. R. Curtis, Rollin Mich.

Here are some of the things that you will need, 1 pillow, 1 bed blanket, 1 empty tick for straw, 1 piece of oilcloth 2 yards long, comb, glass, 2 towels, knife and fork and spoon, 1 pie tin, 1 pint basin, 1 tin cup, bathing suit, box of fish bait, base ball togs, and any games you have, Bible and writing material to write home to mother. Pack the whole in a trunk that you can make of a box with rope handles in the end so it can be checked on the train.

BABY PARTY

Celebrating the second birthday of Virginia Edith Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Halleck Wilson of Detroit, a company of babies and their mamas were invited to the pleasant home of G. B. Garlinghouse on West Chicago street, Wednesday afternoon.

The out of town guests were Mrs. Adelbert Mills and baby of Ithica, N. Y., Mrs. Frank Bates and baby of Missoula, Mont, and Mrs. George Witherell and baby of Tipton. Those in town were Mrs. Elmer Slayton and two children, Mrs. Herbert Temple and son, Mrs. Leon Rosacrans and son, Mrs. George Sanford and son and Mrs. Wade Jones and daughter. Refreshments were served on the lawn, and a group picture taken.

Each little one was remembered with a gift as a reminder of the birthday of their little friend.

THE MIDGET IMPERSONATOR

A large and appreciative audience gathered at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening for the entertainment given by Miss May Noble the Midget Impersonator.

It was hard to realize that Miss Noble was other than the child that she so charmingly impersonated. Her selections were all good especially the groups of aunt Minerva and William Green Hill to Brother Spear.

The musical selections were fine and the whole evening was a delightful one

THE PROPOSED NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

On Tuesday next the legal voters of School District No. 7 will vote on the proposition of bonding for a new high school.

One of the first questions asked by the writter on deciding to come to Tecumseh was "How about the Schools" others are and will ask this same question.

As the law makes it necessary for us to send our children to school let us cheerfully shoulder our responsibility and take pride in giving them the best possible chance.

The New Building as planned by the School Board will be equiped for advanced High School work such as the old building cannot take care of. Its cheerful surroundings will help the students during high school life

You are all familiar with the disadvantages of the old building. Three flights of stairs for the younger pupils to climb. Building poorly heated and lighted, window sash do not fit letting in cold in winter time, outside toilets, no general assembly room, no provisions for Commercial Department, Domestic Science, Manual Training and other departments used in modern High Schools in fact many other disadvantages with which you are familiar.

The proposed new gymnazium will give the students a chance to avail themselves of a course in Physical Training thus helping to keep up the interest in High School work.

The auditorium planned will give the citizens a meeting place which can be used for all civic purposes.

The expenditure of the money can not pay you money dividends on the envestment, but it will pay you large dividends in the increased advantages that will accrue to your children and to your neighbors children. It will better fit them for the duties of life.

FINAL RESTING PLACE

H. J. Stahl on Thursday placed the body of Mrs. Fred Goheen in its final resting place in the Mausoleum. The casket had been in the vault since the first of May and the body is in complete state of preservation so that the friends have been able to see her face from time to time with a great degree of comfort. Hers is the first body to be placed in a crypt in the Mausoleum which is now ready for occupancy.

POPULAR

The following clipped from an exchange shows the esteem in which Supt. Reed is held in Blissfield, and is a good recommend to the people of Tecumseh, where he will take charge of our schools for the coming year:

Prof. Reed was the victim of a pleasant surprise last evening, planned by the pupils of the high school. He was supposed to attend a board meeting at the school house. While there all of the high school pupils, the teachers and also the members of the normal class met him. The two halls were prettily decorated and tables set R. W. Angell served light refreshments. The high school orchestra played several selections and the time passed very pleasantly in visiting and having a good time. Mr. Reed was presented with a handsome leather Morris chair. This is Prof. Reed's last year here and the school seems to fully realize that his departure will mean a great loss to them, but wish him success in his new home.

ALLIANCE WITH LIQUOR DENIED

Anti-Suffragists Defy Opponents to Make Charge.

SEEK TO CHECK SCURRILITY

National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage Takes Steps to Protect Itself from Abusive Language and Innuendos — Keeping Check on Speeches by Suffragettes.

Washington, June 23.—With a view to protecting themselves from abusive language officers of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage have employed attorneys to examine all the speeches and literature of the suffragists for the purpose of instituting suits for libel against objectionable parties."

This is the opening sentence in a statement given out here by the Washington headquarters of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

No Liquor Assistance.

"The scrutiny of the material put out by the suffragists," says the statement, "has become more thorough since Miss Inez Milholland in a public meeting in Plainfield, N. J., stated that both on the platform and in the public presses charges of an alliance between the anti-suffrage movement and the liquor interests had been made and the fact that no suits for libel had been instituted was good proof that they were true."

In answer to this statement, Miss Minnie Bronson said:

"To say that any interests, liquor or other interests, are supporting our cause is not in itself libelous, but if the suffragists in public or in the press ever made a statement that the liquor interests are giving help to the National Association Opposed to woman suffrage or to any representative thereof, a suit for libel will be instituted within twenty-four hours. We are looking for this opportunity and when it comes we will take advantage of it to the uttermost.

Would Check Untruths.

"One conviction for criminal libel will do a great deal to check the flood of malicious untruths about the women who are opposed to votes for women which have been circulated by the suffragists."

BRYAN FAVORS CURRENCY BILL

Much Better than He Supposed It Possible to Secure.

BLESSING TO BUSINESS MEN

Confers Advantages to Banks, While It Preserves to the People Ample Protection—Believes Men of All Parties Will Support Measure—Quotes Baltimore Platform.

Washington, June 23.—Secretary of State Bryan in a formal statement warmly endorses the currency bill in every particular and urges both the Democrats and Republicans to support it. He says in part:

"It is a much better bill than I supposed it possible to secure at this time. Conflicting opinions honestly entertained uand strongly adhered to have been reconciled with a success hardly to be expected. I have doubted until recently the wisdom of attempting currency legislation at this session, but my doubts were largely due to the fact that I feared the difficulties in the way would prevent an agreement upon a plan.

Advantages to Banks.

"The plan which the president new urges confers great advantages on the banks, while it preserves to the people acting through the government all that is essential for the protection of the public.

"The regional reserve banks are to represent not only the national banks of the district but such state banks as are willing to put themselves on a footing which will be equitable to the national banks. This is an important provision and gives to the state institutions a protection which they deserve for they share with the national banks the responsibility of furnishing banking facilities to the business of the country. The great point of advantage to the banks—an advantage that ought to make them willing to accept the bill without question—is that it furnishes a currency which they can secure in time of need without having to put up bonds as security.

Blessing to Business Interests.

"The business interests will, I think, welcome this bill as an unalloyed blessing. It gives them, through their banks, a promise of relief in any time of stringency and it gives this promise without putting in the hands of the banks a power that might be used against the public. The bill is a faithful fulfillment of the promises made in the Baltimore platform."

Mr. Bryan quotes the Baltimore platform in substantiation and closes as follows:

Urges Both Parties to Support It.

"I feel sure that the Democrats of the senate and house will rally to the support of the bill and I am sanguine enough to believe that it will receive a cordial support from Republicans as well."

ILLINOIS SOLONS QUIT

Forty-Eighth General Assembly Ends Legislating.

Springfiled, Ill., June 23.—Broad daylight at 4:45 a. m. saw the gavel fall on the active business of the forty-eighth general assembly. Amid turmoil the gavel fell in the house at 4:22 with members shouting to get pet measures on roll call. The game got too hot for Speaker McKinley and he let the gavel fall and it was all over. With the whack all bills were to lie upon the table dead that had not received the final consideration. The senate quit at 4:45.

The big item in the list of the dead is the residence district measure. The house failed to concur in the senate amendments and, although it had passed both houses, the legislative requirement was not complied with and there is no more of it. Thus was the big victory of the "drys" wipe dout in the closing of legislative life. Under this bill it was calculated that 1,000 saloons in Chicago would be voted out of business.

DAY'S GIFTS SET RECORD

Total in White Elephant Campaign Raised to More Than $22,000.

Lafayette, Ind., June 23.—Much enthusiasm was injected into the Y. M. C. A. white elephant campaign at the fifth noonday luncheon when reports showed a total of $3,810 subscribed for the day. This was the best report of the week.

The campaign is now half over and the total amount subscribed is $22,291.

Lizzie Silverman Dies.

Chicago, June 23.—It proved impossible to get a living human kidney to graft into the body of Miss Lizzie Silverman, and the girl, whose poisoning with bichloride of mercury has attracted country-wide attention, died at the University hospital.

MASTERPIECE IS FOUND

Carlo Dolci' Painting, Lost Abroad for Centuries, in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 23.—Carlo Dolci's masterpiece "Salome" with the head of John the Baptist, missing for centuries from the galleries of the old world, is hanging in Memorial Hall here.

The discovery has just been made through the restoration of the painting by Pasquale Farina. For nine years this painting of the greatest artist of his period, depicting one of the famous scenes of sacred history, has hung a dim and dingy, paint covered nondescript entitled "Youth and Love," by Carlo Dolci.

John G. Johnson bought it while abroad in 1909 and presented it to the city. Had it borne any name other than that of Dolci it is likely it never would have been recognized.

CURTIS REPLIES TO SULZER STATEMENT

Says Former U. S. Attorney Admits Petition Called Forgery.

New York, June 23.—Judge George M. Curtis of Brooklyn read carefully the long statement of Governor Sulzer calling his Vermont perjury paper a forgery and the judge a liar, and then went to a trunk and hauled out four more paper which he waved to the reporters.

One was an affidavit of Alfred E. Watson, husband of Mrs. Watson, whom Sulzer sued in vain for $10,000 legal fees, in which Mr. Watson said: "Sulzer's suit is I believe an attempt to blackmail my wife."

Another was a letter from Watson promising to look up the files for the petition asking Sulzer's punishment for perjury. Another was a letter of Ex-Governor Pingree of Vermont telling how Mrs. Watson hadn't wanted the charge against Sulzer prosecuted and the fourth was an affidavit by Z. E. Simmons, the Louisiana lottery king, who swore to hearing Justice Curtis ask Felix McCloskey, accused of perjury with Sulzer: "Why did you tell so many lies at Windsor and such silly and improbable lies?"

Simmons says McCloskey answered: "Well, I was desperate and besides Billy told me that you would not be there."

The "Billy" was Sulzer.

The veteran lawyer offers to waive the statute of limitations if Sulzer wants to sue him for the $10,000 fees. He points to the fact that while Ex-United States Attorney Frank Plumley admits the petition against Sulzer the governor goes on calling it a forgery.

CHICAGO SEES BIG BRAZILIAN

Dr. Lauro Muller Pays a Visit to City.

Chicago, June 23.—Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, who is looked on as the next president of Brazil, reached Chicago from Niagara Falls.

The distinguished Brazilian, who is known throughout the South American republics as "Brazil's favorite son," is returning to his native country after a visit to Washington, in the return of an official visit made by Secretary Elihu Root to Brazil in 1906.

Thus far in his tour of the United States he has pleaded for closer relations between the two countries, especially along commercial and industrial lines. His address pointed out to Illinois manufacturers some of the trade inducements his country has to offer.

After leaving Chicago Dr. Muller will go to San Francisco where a warship is waiting to take him to Brazil.

STORM HITS INDIANA

Wind Causes $30,000 Damage at Tennyson, Wrecking Houses.

Boonville, Ind., June 23.—A windstorm which passed over southern Indiana did $30,000 damage in the neighborhood of Tennyson. Several houses and barns were demolished or burned, and a number of persons escaped injury by narrow margins.

James Byers, Uley Simpson, Gurley Dimmett and Tom Hart lost barns. The home of Tom Hart was wrecked while full of occupants, but none was hurt.

Gary, Ind., June 23.—The marriage of Miss Helen Robbins to Emmet N. White, the city controller, was solemnized at Christ Episcopal church.

STANDARD OIL TO HAVE RIVAL

Rothschilds Back of Waters-Pierce Recapitalization.

CONCERN PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

Stock to Be Increased from $400,000 to $10,000,000—Stock Has Sold at from $600 to $800 Per Share—H. Clay Pierce Will Retain Control of Reorganized Company.

St. Louis, June 23.—The Post-Dispatch says that the Waters-Pierce Oil company is being reorganized, its capital being increased from $400,000 to $10,000,000. The European banking family of Rothschilds is understood to have invested heavily in the reorganization, and the new company is expected to become a rival of the Standard Oil company in the United States.

Pierce Will Control.

Henry Clay Pierce of St. Louis, chairman of the board of directors of the old Waters-Pierce company, will retain a controlling interest in the reorganized company. The Rothschilds are heavily interested in an English corporation which is a strong rival of the Standard in England.

The Post-Dispatch says further that when H. Clay Pierce last winter bought from the Standard Oil interests their stock in the Waters-Pierce company, the funds were furnished by the London house of the Rothschilds. It is intimated that the property of the Pierce-Fordyce Oil association will be taken over by the reorganized Waters-Pierce company which is to have a new name.

Paid Big Dividends.

Though the Waters-Pierce company is capitalized at but $400,000, its property is valued at millions, and its stock has sold at $600 to $800 a share. Until it became involved in anti-trust litigations in various states it paid 600 per cent annual dividends.

TWO KILLINGS ARE LAID TO GREAT HEAT

Victims in Each Case Were Acting as Peacemakers.

Evansville, Ind., June 23.—Two persons were shot and killed in this city and the crimes, directly traceable, it is believed, to the intense heat that has prevailed for six days, had circumstances so nearly identical as to make them appear inspired by the same mind.

Charles Meissner, seventy-one years old, killed Henry Berger, fifty-five years old, a saloonkeeper and acquaintance of long standing. Simon L. Winfrey, colored, forty-eight years old, killed George Heyns, sixty-three years old.

In each instance the man killed was the third party in a violent dispute and attempted to act as peacemaker. Each slayer went home for his weapon and returned to the scene of the quarrel to shoot his victim.

In each case physicians declare there are evidences that they were laboring under delusions produced by the long, hot spell.

Who was the man who bet he would not have his hair cut until a Democrat was inaugurated president, and when did he make the bet?

TWO ARE CRUSHED IN AUTO; BURN TO DEATH

Tank Explodes after Machine Is Wrecked at Crossing.

Chicago, June 23.—Two persons, if not more, were crushed and burned to death, an automobile was ground to bits and a Metropolitan Elevated train was set on fire and badly damaged at the surface crossing at Oak Park.

The wrecked auto bore the license No. 11,563, belonging to George M. Scott of Riverside, and, as Mr. Scott was out in his car at the time, he is thought to be one of the victims.

The other is thought to be Mrs. W. E. Smith, a niece of Scott, also of Riverside, who had gone for a ride with him.

When they left the Smith residence they had with them a Mr. Johnston, an iron and steel man, living on the south side and Johnston's wife and little niece; but the guests are said to have left the auto before the accident.

Eye witnesses say there were only two persons in the auto when the train struck it; others declare that there were four or five, and that one was a child.

HONORS WILSON'S DAUGHTER

Margaret Put on New York Investigating Board by Sulzer.

Albany, N. Y., June 23.—Governor Sulzer has appointed Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, a member of a commission to investigate the affairs and management of the prisons and reformatories of the state.

BEE HIVE CATASTROPHE

Heat Melts Comb and Bees Are Smothered.

Connersville, Ind., June 23.—Seven stands of honeybees smothered in their own honey Thursday, in A. H. Rieman's apiary. The insects had been busy for weeks, loading their hives with sweet clover honey.

Mother Foils Kidnapers.

Bloomington, Ill., June 23.—Vernon Miller of Bloomington, was arrested charged with assisting J. W. Walters of Buffalo, N. Y., in trying to kidnap his children while with their mother near Mansfield. The mother fought off Miller and Walters in a desperate battle. Walters escaped.

Prison Term for Stratton.

Rock Island, Ill., June 23.—Clyde Stratton, the convict who escaped from the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth by going through a sewer, was found guilty of the murder of J. L. Crowder, a banker, of Silvis, Ill., and punishment was fixed at fourteen years in Joliet penitentiary.

HOW'S THIS

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by this firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

To try to give nothing for something is dishonest. To expect to get something [illegible] which is foolish.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co, guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with and old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The End of the Summer

By ELIZABETH ROSE.

"Who could want heaven to be more perfect than a day in June!" exclaimed the man, stretched lazily upon the grass, and he looked up with a sigh of content at the girl in the hammock.

"Who, indeed," she responded, sympathetically. "If it could but always be summer, and June!"

"Always this June, with the flowers and the grass and the green things, and you and I here together," he suggested.

"We should stagnate, and we should grow very tired of each other."

"Not I. I should be perfectly happy if I remained here forever, provided you remained with me."

"I do not agree with you. Happiness itself would become monotonous and we should long for a discord, just for the sake of a change. We should pine away longing for a good old fashioned November drizzle. I should wear my heart out waiting for an opportunity to wear my sable furs, and your limbs would become stiff for want of a good ball game, or a snowball fight, and all the other good things that do not belong to June."

"How very practical you are, and at such a time, too!"

"Not at all. On the contrary, I am very romantic; but one cannot live on a continuous diet of sentiment and romance. It is very appropriate and delightful in the summer time, when everybody and everything is glad and happy, but in the winter one needs more substantial things. If it were raining heavily at this moment, and you were cold and wet and tired, would you still be content because I shared your plight?"

"Please don't; I detest the subjunctive. I only know that I want you very badly," he said tenderly. "I need you."

"And yet, a month ago you had never seen me. Singular that your need developed in so short a time."

"Necessity knows no law," he retorted glibly.

"You are flippant," she answered. "I have heard men talk like this before. You are a selfish lot. Unfortunately, I am not a 'summer girl'; I hate flirting and I hate flattery." She rose, with a laugh. "However," she added, sweeping him a courtesy, with a tinge of sarcasm, "I thank you for a very entertaining afternoon."

"Ah, don't go!" he pleaded, springing to his feet. "You will not deny me the privilege of defending myself against such an accusation. Little girl," he said, taking the brown hands in his, "you may believe me when I tell you that I am not flirting with you, nor am I flattering you when I say that you are the dearest, sweetest little comrade, and that these weeks have been the happiest I have ever known, because they were spent with you. With all my heart I mean it when I say I love you, and I want you, not for a 'summer girl,' but for an all year round girl, a girl who can winter it wth me in the absence of the sunshine and the flowers and the birds, and who can love and cheer me just the same in the November drizzle, when the skies are gray and heavy, as she can in June, when it is so easy to love and be happy. I really want you, will you come?"

"Am I the first to whom you have extended the invitation?" she asked, saucily.

"The very first, little girl. I have been waiting for you for years."

"Indeed; and during all those years you have never cared for anybody?"

"I never cared for anybody as I care for you. I never loved anybody so much as I love you, and I never thought of marrying until I met you. As the poet says, my heart has shed its outer leaves to give you all the rest. And you?" he asked anxiously.

"I have believed myself to be in love dozens of times, and it has been very pleasant for the time being, but I have always outgrown it."

"And you are quite sure there is nobody else now except me?"

"There has never been anyone quite like you."

. . . .

"You are silent this evening. Is there anything troubling you? Can I help you?"

"You are the only one who can," he answered drearily.

"Tell me. You know there is nothing I would not do for you."

He looked at her, half eagerly, half tenderly. "You will think me a cad and a brute," he said.

"You may be assured I shall not. Please tell me."

"You will hate me, but I am going to ask you to release me from our engagement."

The girl's face flushed then paled. She looked into his eyes earnestly for a moment then dropped her own. "Gladly," she replied, looking up with a bright smile. "Do not trouble to explain, I know. You no longer care for me, and you think it would be best."

"You are a mind reader," he said with relief. "How did you know?"

"It is easy to guess what one would like to guess."

"You are glad; you wanted this to happen?" he said in amazement.

"I think as you do, that it is better it should end."

"And you are not angry with me?" he asked doubtingly.

"Certainly not," she answered promptly. "Why should I be angry? I release you gladly. We all make mistakes, and it is better to rectify them when we can before it is too late. I am pleased to be freed from the engagement."

"May I ask if you made a mistake when you said you loved me a few months ago?" he said curiously.

"Did you make a mistake when you told me how much you cared, and how much you needed me? May not a woman also make a mistake? I release you most willingly. What more would you have?"

"But I thought you loved me. I remember your very words; you said you never knew anybody quite like me," and he laughed a trifle bitterly.

"It is true. I never have known anybody quite like you. But things look different to one in the city, without the flowers and the birds and the 'green things.' However, since we have come to an agreeable understanding let us part friends. Good-by!" and she held out her hand.

"You mean it?" he said, taking it in his own.

"Certainly. I am not in the habit of lying."

A week later he returned. "I have come to say I am sorry for what I said last time I was with you. I made a great mistake. I love you just the same, dear; I have always loved you and I want you to take me back. You said you did not care. Don't you think you could learn to care all over again? I love you and I should be miserable without you."

"It is useless," said the girl, "I do not care to enter into the engagement again."

"Won't you come, even if you do not care? You will learn to; you are not like other girls."

"You are wrong," she answered sharply. "I am no different from other girls. We are all alike."

He was silent a moment, then he said slowly: "Tell me one thing; I cannot believe it until I hear you say it. Is it possible that you were flirting with me all the time?"

She drew herself up proudly, but did not reply.

"I knew you were not."

"Mistaken again. I was flirting with you all the time," she said deliberately. "My heart was shedding dead leaves."

"I should not have believed it had anybody else sworn it, but, as you say, you are not in the habit of lying. Then this is the end?"

"Yes."

"Very well. Good-by, dear little girl. That is what I have always called you in my heart—dear little girl. In spite of everything I love you. Good-by."

"And," she whispered brokenly to herself, "I am not in the habit of lying."—Boston Post.

Funerals in Peru.

According to social usage, women in Peru cannot attend funerals, and they do not appear at weddings unless they are very intimate friends. When a funeral procession passes through the streets the coffin is carried upon the shoulders of the pallbearers, who are followed by an empty hearse drawn by two, four or six horses, according to the means of the mourners and their desire for display. All the male members of the family and friends of the deceased follow on foot, with a line of empty carriages behind them. As long as they are in the presence of the dead it is considered a proper and necessary evidence of respect to walk. After the body has been committed to the grave those who attend the funeral are brought home in carriages.

Willing to Help Him.

He had gone to the dry goods store with a bit of dress material which his wife had bidden him to match. "I am very sorry, sir," said the salesman, "but I have nothing exactly like this. The very last remnant was sold this morning."

"But I must have it!" exclaimed the husband. "Otherwise, how can I face my wife?"

"If you will permit me, sir," said the salesman, "I would venture to suggest that you invite a friend home to dinner with you."

Boys Grades the Clergy.

The late Bishop Potter, at an ecclesiastical dinner in New York, read a Cooperstown schoolboy's essay on "Clergymen." The essay, which created much amusement, was as follows:

"There are 2 kinds of clergymen Bishups recters and curats. the bishups tells the recters to work and the curats have to do it. A curat is a thin married man but when he is a recter he gets fuller and can preach longer sermons and becums a good man."

Loss of London Theatres.

It is estimated that London theatre managers have lost during one season no less than $400,000 in the production of plays that have been unsuccessful, and much of this amount on dramatic enterprises imported from the United States.

Blue Mountain Resorts.

In the Blue Mountains, three hours from Sydney, are many beautiful country houses, mostly bungalows with wide verandas all round, where Sydney people fly in February and March to get away from the heat of the city by the harbor.

Coal Dust Explosions.

As a precaution against coal dust explosions Prof. William Galloway said that if the coal dust in a roadway in a mine were regularly strewn with a sufficient amount of salts containing large quantities of water of crystallization, or with much larger proportions of the dust of clay, slate, limestone, chalk or other substances, it would be rendered quite as innocuous as if it were damped with water.

Latin-American Excesses.

No modern tropical people perhaps, except the Chilians, are outright drunkards. Sillies often talk of the temperance of Mediterranean peoples. As a matter of fact, many men in Latin America die in middle life from heart and circulation diseases—of a type rarely seen here—from excessive and continuous consumption of coffee and cigarettes.

Striking the Hot Iron.

The following is the conversation carried on between a blacksmith and his helper; both, as it happened, stuttered.

Blacksmith's Helper—"Sh-sh-shall I h-h-hit n-n-now?"

Blacksmith (who is holding a piece of heated iron on the anvil for the helper to hit)—"Y-y-yes, h-hit it n-n-now."

Blacksmith's Helper—"Sh-sh-shall I h-h-hit it h-h-har-hard?"

Blacksmith—"Y-y-yes; h-h-h-hit it h-hard."

Makes Lumbering Unprofitable.

While there is an abundance of suitable timber in Brazil, it is difficult to find many districts where the trees suitable for lumber are close enough together for profitable work.

Much Unused Water Power.

Germany utilizes 20 per cent. of her water power; Switzerland, 25 per cent.; France only 11 per cent.

PENCIL DAY

And what came of it, $76

The young girls who were so active in the good work of selling pencils Saturday for the benefit of the "Childs Welfare League of Michigan" raised the sum of $76 and prizes were given to the best five as follows:

1st prize	Bernice Bramble
2nd "	Mabel Skinner
3rd "	Marjorie Rosacrans
4th "	Fern Nobles
5th "	Albertine Mobbs

The girls were much in evidence everywhere and were so ladylike and courteous that they won much praise wherever they went.

ENTERTAINED

The members of the 500 Club numbering thirty-six were very delightfully entertained Friday evening, at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Raymond southeast of town. An elegant hot beef steak dinner was the leading feature, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The favorite game of "500" furnished the amusement of the evening. Good-nights were spoken at a late hour, the departing guests feeling that they had been most highly favored, voting their host and hostess the best ever.

4th ANNIVERSARY

Monday June 23rd was the fourth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Halleck E. Wilson of Detroit. Mr. and Mrs Wilson and daughter, Virginia are visiting with their parents in town and the day was fittingly celebrated at the home of Mrs. Wilson's father, G. B. Garlinghouse. Twenty five of the relatives were present and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent by all. Delightful refreshments were served on the lawn and and everyone was merry and happy. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson received a number of gifts in honor of the occasion and at the hour of parting the guests united in best wishes for their future and hopes that they might have many happy returns of the day.

SUMMER AT BAY VIEW

The seasonable Bay View announcements are out and will interest the thousands in search of an ideal vacation place. All winter Bay View has barely a dozen families, but in July and August its population swells to 5,000, and then the young people in their gay costumes, the teachers and delightful people from all over the land throng this summer city, amid the groves on Traverse bay. More than 10,000 go there annually. The magnet which draws the people is the Assembly and Summer University, which this year opens on July 5, continuing to August 14. These five weeks are crowded with recreative pleasures and advantages of the finest order. A feature of the Assembly is a series of four great public conferences on supreme issues which are discussed by distinguished leaders. The general daily programs are filled with famous people, among the names this year being Wm. J. Burns, the great detective, Mme. Schuman Heink and Helen Keller. The university's fame extends far and last season drew students from 14 states. This year a new school is added in Library Work, conducted by the State of Michigan. Those who desire to know more about this summer place will find it in the Bulletin, from which above facts are drawn. J. M. Hall, Bay View, Mich., will send it.

Uses Horses to Drag Nets.

In the lower part of the Columbia river, between Oregon and Washington, men are often seen on horseback, wading about in what appears to be an aimless manner. They are really fishing for salmon with huge dragnets, which are so heavy as to make the assistance of horses imperative.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

A merry group of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Molles Friday evening for a royal feast. The most prominent dish being Starwberry Shortcake. This however was accompanied by a fine supply of good things that go to make a feast.

A very pleasant evening followed and everyone pronounced the Strawberry Shortcake as the perfection of Culinary art.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Rev. G. H. Whitney of the Methodist church will be united in marriage to Miss Marie Keysor of Birmingham, Wednesday morning June, 25 at 9 o'clock. They will take a trip of the lakes directly after the wedding being gone about two weeks. Further announcement will be made of their return to Tecumseh. The many friends of the Rev. Whitney will unite in congratulations and good wishes on this occasion and give Mrs Whitney a hearty welcome to Tecumseh.

During the absence of the pastor his pulpit will be occupied by the Rev. J. F. Emerick of Ypsilanti.

RACES AT JACKSON

The races at Jackson, Mich., July 1-4 will be the first meeting in the Short Ship Circuit this year and they have the largest list of entries a half-mile track ever had; there will be more races, more horses better horses and faster races than ever seen on a half mile track.

The management of this meeting have been to a large expense in remodeling the track, building over and painting the grand stand and building new barns for the horses which give Jackson the most complete and the finest situated half-mile track in the U. S. today. They have also engaged the famous "Wallace Vocal Orchestra" which is acknowledged as the best of its kind in the country. Lovers of good music will have a rare treat listening to them throughout the races at the above meeting.

A WAY THEY HAVE

Mrs. Flint came for a visit to her sister's home, and her little niece, Charlotte, was delighted to see her.

"What became of the black kitten that you had when I was here before, dear?" asked Mrs. Flint.

"Why, don't you know?" asked Charlotte, much surprised.

"I haven't heard a word," replied the aunt. "Was he poisoned?"

"No, ma'am," said Charlotte.

"Drowned?"

"Oh, no."

"Stolen?"

"No, indeed."

"Hurt in any way?"

"No, ma'am."

"Well," said Mrs. Flint, "I can't guess, dear. What became of him?"

"He growed into a cat," said Charlotte. —July Lippincott's.

Her commander, Captain Ruser, is a veteran navigator and has been nicknamed "the Brave" because of his heroism in many thrilling experiences.

ATTEMPT AT NOTORIETY

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—State Auditor James J. Brady declared the suit of $75,000 brought against him by J. H. Coyne, state bank examiner, was an effort on the part of Coyne to obtain notoriety. Brady refused to discuss the suit further.

"I have no statement to make at this time," Mr. Brady said. "I will talk when the proper times comes. This man simply seeks notoriety at this time."

Coyne said his suit was for alleged defamation of character and that the basis of his suit was contained in a letter which Brady wrote to him asking him to resign. Coyne said the letter charged him with misappropriation of funds.

First Game Preserve.

The bluegrass region of Kentucky and Tennessee was the first national park and game and forest preserve in America.

It was so set apart before the white man had come with profaning foot and conquering firearms by the great Iroquois tribes of Indians—the Six Nations. They forbade any settlement or agriculture in all that great region and it became known as the "hunting grounds."

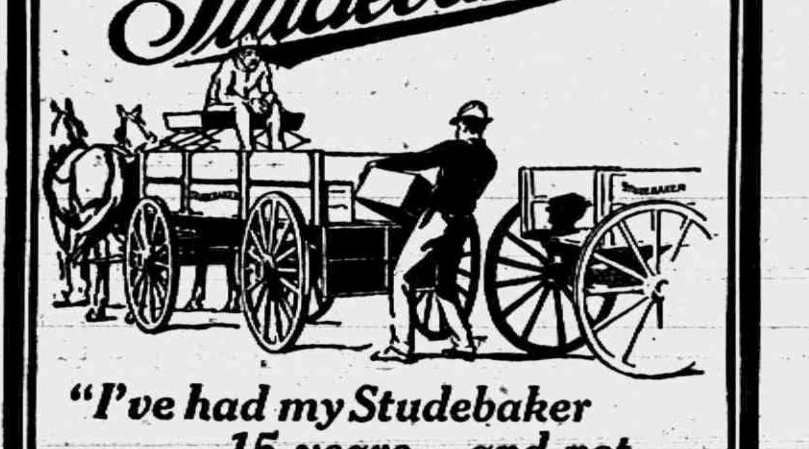
Studebaker



"I've had my Studebaker 15 years—and not a cent for repairs"

A word of just praise for a wagon that has done its work faithfully and well.

Men become attached to their Studebakers—proud of them.

Because they realize that a Studebaker is built on honor and with an experience in wagon building that dates back to 1852.

Studebaker wagons are a result of that long experience, coupled with a desire to build the best wagons, not cheap ones.

And when your dealer says "Buy a Studebaker—there's no better wagon made" he's giving you the verdict of a million farmers. He is not asking you to try an experiment.

Big, Fat, Healthy Hogs

As long as you do raise hogs and expect to make a profit on the money and time you have invested in your droves—see to it that every precaution is taken to insure you a full profit at market time.

Hogs that are big, fat and healthy produce the best profit—hogs that are kept in condition through the consistent feeding of Lewis' Lye are not likely to become diseased—get worms or have cholera.

Lewis' Lye

The Standard for Half a Century

is the best and by far the cheapest cholera preventive and all-around hog conditioner known, and as such, it gives the greatest satisfaction.

Lewis' Lye is best also for all general purposes on the farm and in the home. It is the only lye made and guaranteed by manufacturing chemists—full strength and 98% pure. We recommend it for the satisfaction it gives our customers in conditioning hogs, as a disinfectant, insecticide, a water softener or for soap making at home.

Order by the can or the case.

UNTIMELY DEATH

Mrs. Marshall Cole Ends Her Life by Drowning Self in Red Mill Pond Some Time Friday Night, Body Found Sunday Morning.

LEAVES A HUSBAND, SON AND DAUGHTER.

Mrs Marshall Cole disappeared from her home sometime Friday night and vigorous search was kept up until Sunday morning about 8.30 her body was found near the dam in the Red Mill pond.

Her mind had become unsettled from long illness and she had been in the Asylum at Kalamazoo for several months but had seemingly so far recovered that she had returned home and had visited with her friends.

The fear of a return to Kalamazoo was with her all the while and she had made several remarks that at the time were not thought much of but since the tragic ending of her life show that the deed was premeditated.

At night when she retired she told the family not to disturb her in the morning but let her rest. As this was nothing unusual, her daughter waited until 7 o'clock when she went to her room to see if she would not like her breakfast brought to her, as she had done a number of times. She found the room empty and failed to find her around the house or neighborhood, the alarm was given and the search began. They traced her footprints for quite a distance but not until Sunday morning could any trace be found. A young lad named Steele was out fishing and his hook caught in her clothing. Calling for help he drew the body to the surface when it was rescued by a number of those who had been searching so long. The body was taken to Belding's store where it was cared for after which it was taken to the home.

The funeral services and burial will be at the old home town of Perrysville Ohio where she was taken this morning.

Mrs. Anna Cole was young to be taken away being but 51 years and six months old. During the brief four years that the family have lived in Tecumseh they have made many friends who unite in symathy and grief with those who mourn. She leaves a husband and two children Lillian and Herman who have so faithfully cared for her during her months of suffering and pain.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Herald Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidney.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are weak.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Tecumseh people endorse their worth.

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin. Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kinds, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other

The harder some men work in the field the more right they think they have to growl around the house.

Why Have "Nerves?"

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

Mrs. Lila B. Hawkins, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicines, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."

TAKE DR. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PELLETS FOR LIVER ILLS.

No Substitute Could do This.

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr. of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of head and I had spells of dizziness, I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The children in the home should have at least as much training as the colt in the field or the vine on the trellis.

Most Children Have Worms.

Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, costiveness, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms. Peevish, ill-tempered, fretful children who toss and grind their teeth, with bad breath and collicky pains, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Hauling corn to the market is taking the profits the wrong way, and sooner or later the fields will tell you about it.

Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and all kidney and bladder ailments, use Foley Kidney Pills. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Nobody ever pulled up and went far away and made a fortune but would have done pretty well if he had put in the same amount of energy right where he originally was.

Don't be a mere imitator, but that doesn't mean that you are not to pick up good points wherever you can find them.

Canada's Oyster Industry.

There are no oysters on the coast of New England, north of Cape Cod, but they are numerous in certain parts of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and adjacent Canadian waters. Efforts are being made by the Dominion government to develop the oyster industry to much larger proportions than its present comparatively small size.

There is no trade or employment but the young man following it may become a hero.—Walt Whitman.

Peculiar Natural Fact.

One of the puzzles of nature is the fact that many springs show an increased flow of water several hours before a coming rain begins to fall. Various explanations have been attempted, the most plausible being that the weather before a storm is often of the kind which checks loss of moisture from the ground by evaporation and hence leaves more to feed the springs.

STANDARD RIVAL

Rothschilds Back of Waters-Pierce Recapitalization.

CONCERN PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

Stock to Be Increased from $400,000 to $10,000,000—Stock Has Sold at from $600 to $800 Per Share—H. Clay Pierce Will Retain Control of Reorganized Company.

The St. Louis, Mo., Post-Dispatch says that the Waters-Pierce Oil company is being reorganized, its capital being increased from $400,000 to $10,000,000. The European banking family of Rothschilds is understood to have invested heavily in the reorganization, and the new company is expected to become a rival of the Standard Oil company in the United States.

Pierce Will Control.

Henry Clay Pierce of St. Louis, chairman of the board of directors of the old Waters-Pierce company, will retain a controlling interest in the reorganized company. The Rothschilds are heavily interested in an English corporation which is a strong rival of the Standard in England.

The Post-Dispatch says further that when H. Clay Pierce last winter bought from the Standard Oil interests their stock in the Waters-Pierce company, the funds were furnished by the London house of the Rothschilds. It is intimated that the property of the Pierce-Fordyce Oil association will be taken over by the reorganized Waters-Pierce company which is to have a new name.

Paid Big Dividends.

Though the Waters-Pierce company is capitalized at but $400,000, its property is valued at millions, and its stock has sold at $600 to $800 a share. Until it became involved in anti-trust litigations in various states it paid 600 per cent annual dividends.

80 GIRLS CREMATED BY A RUSSIAN MOB

Victims Had Been Imported to Work on Sugar Estate.

Eighty women were burned to death in a barn by villagers enraged at the importation of cheap girl laborers to work on a sugar estate in the district of Piriatin, in the Province of Poltava, southern Russia, according to the Kiev newspaper Lismin.

The excited villagers first securely fastened all the means of exit from a wooden barn in which the girls were housed.

They then set fire to the building while the inmates were still asleep, and all were burned to death without a chance to escape.

BIG RELAY RACE ON

Boy Scouts Carrying Message from Washington to Chicago.

At Washington Tuesday President Woodrow Wilson handed a sealed message for Mayor Carter H. Harrison of Chicago to Frank Reed, assistant boy scout master of Washington, at 9:30 a. m. and the 800 mile relay run from Washington to Chicago was on.

Along the route were posted more than 1,500 boys, each tingling with the expectation of carrying the president's message a little distance on its long journey, the receipt of which Saturday noon in Grant park is to signalize the opening of the international athletic championship there.

An average of eight miles an hour is expected to be maintained throughout the race, but this does not mean that will the fastest time made. The average speed takes into consideration the long stretch over mountainous and hilly country between here and Pittsburgh, and the fact that time made at night probably will be much slower than that maintained in the daytime.

WOMEN HURT IN RIOT

Turbulence Attends Garment Workers' Strike in Cincinnati.

At Cincinnati, Ohio, about eight thousand garment workers are on strike and the police were called to suppress a riot in which a score of women were injured.

Every factory and loft is picketed and the strike leaders declared any attempt to bring in nonunion workers will be the signal for the outbreak of further violence.

State Tax Commission Busy.

The state tax commission has finished the assessment in Jackson City and the assessment made by the commission will be $14,500,000 higher than that made by the local assessing officers in 1912. Saginaw, which has also been reassessed, will be tilted $10,533,000. Marquette city is the next on the list and Bay City will be taken up this week. In all cases where cities have been reviewed the remainder of the county will be reviewed later, or in time for the board of review to act this fall. The cities are being assessed first in order to get ready for the summer taxes. At Pontiac and other cities the local assessing officers have adopted the commission's figures without a review and the same is true of six townships in Oakland county. Iosco county made application for assistance in assessing the county some time ago, and two men from the state department were sent there. As a result the assessment of the county has been increased over 100 per cent. Berrien, Van Buren and Allegan counties will be reviewed during July, the commission taking the three together, as they produce fruit to a large extent. Local fruit experts in these counties will be hired by the commission to assist them in their work.

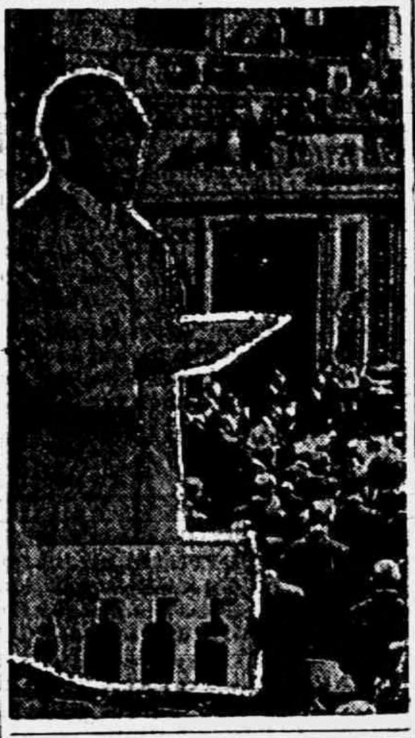
ADDRESSING CONGRESS

President Wilson Urges Passage of the New Currency Bill.



WILSON MAKES PLEA FOR CURRENCY BILL

President Addresses Joint Session of Congress.

President Wilson went personally to congress on Monday to deliver the second message of his administration. As when he submitted his ideas on tariff reform, congress met in joint session in the chamber of the house to hear his message urging currency legislation before the close of the special session.

Despite the opinions of many house and senate members against the wisdom of enacting currency legislation at this session, administration leaders said they were at a loss to understand how, in view of the urgency with which President Wilson presented the situation there can be any hesitation on the part of congress with the president's desires. The currency bill was introduced in both houses and the house banking and currency committee is expected to meet early this week to begin consideration of the measure.

KNABE TRIAL POSTPONED

Lawyers Not Ready in Case of Men Held for Death of Indiana Women.

The trial at Indianapolis, Ind., of Dr. William B. Craig and A. M. Ragsdale, an undertaker, who were indicted last December for the murder of Dr. Helena Knabe, who was found dead in her apartment here in October, 1911, has been postponed until next fall. The delay was asked by the prosecution.

Attorney Eph Inman, who has been employed by the women of Indianapolis to assist the state in the prosecution, said he had not sufficient time to prepare the case for court. The case probably will come up in October.

The common council of Marshall has authorized the electric light and water commissioners to pay $5,000 toward retiring the water bonds, thus reducing the bonded indebtedness on the water works system to $36,000. Marshall is one of the few cities in the state which believes in municipal ownership and consumers get the cheapest light, power and water of any city in the United States.

TWO ARE CRUSHED IN AUTO; BURN TO DEATH

Tank Explodes after Machine Is Wrecked at Crossing.

At Chicago two persons, if not more, were crushed and burned to death, an automobile was ground to bits and a Metropolitan Elevated train was set on fire and badly damaged at the surface crossing at Oak Park.

The wrecked auto bore the license No. 11,563, belonging to George M. Scott of Riverside, and, as Mr. Scott was out in his car at the time, he is thought to be one of the victims.

The other is thought to be Mrs. W. E. Smith, a niece of Scott, also of Riverside, who had gone for a ride with him.

When they left the Smith residence they had with them a Mr. Johnston, an iron and steel man, living on the south side and Johnston's wife and little niece; but the guests are said to have left the auto before the accident.

Eye witnesses say there were only two persons in the auto when the train struck it; others declare that there were four or five, and that one was a child.

MASTERPIECE IS FOUND

Carlo Dolci' Painting, Lost Abroad for Centuries, in Philadelphia

Carlo Dolci's "Salome" with the head of John the Baptist, missing for centuries from the galleries of the old world, is hanging in Memorial Hall here.

The discovery has just been made through the restoration of the painting by Pasquale Farina. For nine years this painting of the greatest artist of his period, depicting one of the famous scenes of sacred history, has hung a dim and dingy, paint covered nondescript entitled "Youth and Love," by Carlo Dolci.

John G. Johnson bought it while abroad in 1905 and presented it to the city. Had it borne any name other than that of Dolci it is likely it never would have been recognized.

HELD AS SPY IN MEXICO

Appeal Made to Secretary Bryan to Secure Release of American.

J. A. Rippeleau, father of Carey H. Rippelaau, the young American detained by Mexican "constitutionalists" at Piedras Negras, Mexico, on suspicion that he is a Huerta spy, received word that Rippeleau would probably be released after an inquiry to be conducted by Venustiano Carranza, the rebel commander in chief.

Congressman Summers of Texas sent a message to Secretary of State Bryan, urging him to use his efforts in behalf of Rippeleau.

PLOT TO MURDER KING

Bulgarian Soldiers Said to Have Sought Constantine's Life.

At Saloniki a bold plot of Bulgarians to kill King Constantine of Greece has been discovered. A number of Bulgar soldiers, disguised as civilians, were arrested by the Greek military police. One of the Bulgarians who was arrested confessed that an attempt was to have been made to blow up the king.

Constant firing between Greeks and Bulgarians is going on near here. The city has been strongly fortified on the land side.

The five day campaign of St. Clair county for a greater acreage of alfalfa was launched Monday morning, when the first meeting of the series was held at the farm of Augus McIntyre in Burtchville township. The campaigners left Port Huron in automobiles, and will not return until late Friday night or Saturday morning.

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

President Attaches Protest to Objectionable Item.

"I COULD NOT SEPARATE IT"

Taft Vetoed Same—Wilson Says "Unjustifiable in Character and Principle" is Part Exempting Labor and Farmer Organizations from Prosecution Under $300,000 Grant.

President Wilson signed the sundry civil appropriation bill, but made public a memo of protest against the section of the bill which prohibits the expenditure of any part of a $300,000 department of justice item contained in the measure in the prosecution of labor unions and farmers' organizations for Sherman anti-trust law violations.

Taft Vetoed Same.

On March 4, when the sundry civil bill in the same form came to President Taft for his signature, Mr. Taft declared the provision amounted to "class legislation of the most vicious sort," and vetoed it on the ground that he could not "be a party to writing such a provision into the laws of the republic."

"I have signed this bill because I can do so without in fact limiting the operation of the power of the department of justice to prosecute violations of the law by whomsoever committed.

Could Not Separate It.

"If I could have separated from the rest of the bill that item which authorized the expenditures by the department of justice of a special sum of $300,000 for the presecution of violations of the anti-trust law, I would have vetoed that item because it places upon the expenditures a limitation which is, in my opinion, unjustifiable in character and principle. But I could not separate it.

"I can assure the country that this item will neither limit nor in any way embarrass the actions of the department of justice. Other appropriations supply the department with abundant funds to enforce the law. The law will be interpreted in the determination of what the deaprtment should do, by independent, and I hope, impartial judgements as to the true and just meaning of substantive statutes of the United States."

Pleasing to Neither Side.

The opinion expressed in political circles here on the president's actions was that it would result in making an unfavorable impression on both the opponents and the supporters of the exemption clause. It was pointed out that the president has certainly not endeared himself to the labor sympathizers or of these among the farmers, who are seeking support favors, for he has gone on record as agains the "character and principle" of the provision.

PELKEY ACQUITTED

Jury Finds He Was Not Cause of McCarty's Death.

At Calgary, Alta, Arthur J. Pelkey, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Luther McCarty, was adjudged not guilty. The jury was out one hour.

There was applause when the verdict was announced.

After his fourth attempt to commit suicide at Lansing, Loomis A. Caldwell, 21 years old, died from poisoning believed to have been caused by strychnine. Caldwell took chloroform Friday night but was saved before the poison took effect and an hour later in the presence of his sister swallowed several strychnine tablets which brought death.

HOW'S THIS

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by this firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

To try to give nothing for something is dishonest. To expect to get something for nothing is foolish.

No person need hesitate to take Foley Kidney Pills on the ground that they know not what is in them. Foley & Co. guarantee them to be a pure curative medicine, specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They do not contain habit forming drugs. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Keep in touch with average humanity. Some persons are always marching so far ahead of the procession that observers do not recognize them as a part of it.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

There are a great many people who protest against every good thing until it is forced upon them.

Best Laxative for the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

A lot of food is spoiled in the cooking.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists or by mail. Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

When folks say mean things about you, if they are true, amend; if they are not true, it will do you no damage to amend a little anyway.

A substitue in medicine is never for the benefit of the buyer. Never be pursuaded to buy anything but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds, for children or for grown persons. It is prompt and effective. It comes in a yellow package, with beehive on carton. It contains no opiates. Take no substitute for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

If you can't get what you want it is no reason why you shouldn't appreciate what you do get.

ULCERS AND SKIN TROUBLES.

If you are suffering with and old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by C. A. Wright & Son.

All virtue is hid from the eyes of jealousy.

A Worker Appreciates This.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Daily Thought.

I am more and more impressed with the duty of finding happiness.—George Eliot.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Herald Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidney.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are weak.

Backache and other kidney ills may follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Tecumseh people endorse their worth.

Mrs Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since 1908. I can still recommend this preparation highly. I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year and when someone told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kinds, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

The harder some men work in the field the more right they think they have to growl around the house.

Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and all kidney and bladder ailments, use Foley Kidney Pills. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Nobody ever pulled up and went far away and made a fortune but would have done pretty well if he had put in the same amount of energy right where he originally was.

Most Children Have Worms.

Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, costiveness, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms. Peevish, ill-tempered, fretful children who toss and grind their teeth, with bad breath and collicky pains, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Don't be a mere imitator, but that doesn't mean that you are not to pick up good points wherever you can find them.

No Substitute Could do This

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr. of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of head and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The children in the home should have at least as much training as the colt in the field or the vine on the trellis.

Hauling corn to the market is taking the profits the wrong way, and sooner or later the fields will tell you about it.

Cheapest accident insurance—Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Stops the pain and heals the wound. All druggists sell it.

Soothes itching skin. Heals cuts or burns without a scar. Cures piles, eczema, salt rheum, any itching. Doan's Ointment. Your druggist sells it.

Feel languid, weak, run-down? Headache? Stomach "off"?—Just a plain case of lazy liver. Burdock Blood Bitters tones liver and stomach, promotes digestion, purifies the blood.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since,"—A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulpher Springs, Tex.

CLASS REUNION

Tuesday afternoon June 24 the annual reunion of "Mrs. Griswolds" class in the M. E. Sunday School, held their annual reunion in the church parlors with twenty-one present, a number of whom have been members since the class was first organized as "Helens Babies." We gathered year after year with our beloved teacher, until "God touched her with his finger and she slept." Mrs. Leman Barnes took up the work that she had laid down and was faithful to her trust, until she too was called higher. Mrs. B. Hurry is now the leader of the class and that she may be spared to us for many years is the heartfelt prayer of all.

From time to time group pictures have been taken of the class and looking over the first one taken many years ago when one of the members was about to leave us with her husband for the far west, our dear friend Mrs. Gillett. We find that of the 19 then gathered together four have passed over to the other side, eleven have married and four have been widowed and seven were present at the gathering Tuesday. The years have brought many changes yet the same spirit of loving kindness the same striving for better things, the same hope of heaven is with us today. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent and a fine picnic supper was served at 5:30. Those present from out of town were Mrs. Della Totten-Harmon of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Belle Mooney-Neeley of Detroit, Mrs. Emma Binns-Ford of Blissfield, Mrs. Libbie Sherman-Smith of Grand Rapids. L. T.

PANAMA CALIFORNIA EXPOSITION

San Diego, Cal.,—June—A mission city in white, set in a tropical landscape will be the picture presented by San Diego's Panama California Exposition. The exposition is being built now, several structures having been completed.

San Diego plans to have her exposition buildings complete by January 1, 1914, that the landscape gardeners may have a whole year to decorate it with trees, vines and flowers before the gates are opened January 1, 1915. It will remain open the entire year 1915.

Sir Thomas Lipton plans to have a model tea garden and packing plant at San Diego's exposition. He agrees to move the packed tea as fast as it is wrapped and to bring tea plants from Ceylon for the garden.

There will not be a single case of canned or bottled goods to be seen at San Diego's exposition. All exhibitors who show processes must remove the product as fast as is completed.

The Aztecs ruled America at one time but the nation, since the days of Hernando Cortez has dwindled to less than 1,000 pure bred survivors. Some of these will be brought to San Diegos exposition, with their arts and crafts.

Hello girls at San Diego's exposition will work behind plate glass where every motion in operating a huge telephone exchange may be seen day and night.

Archaeology looks like a hard word, but it means a wealth of interesting matter that pertains to the ancient people who inhabited the earth. The exposition at San Diego in 1915 will contain a complete exhibit of all the wonderful ruins of America, some of which antedate the pyramids of Egypt.

Flowers, vines and oramental trees by the million are now being propogated in an enormous nursery on the ground of San Diego's exposition for decoration of the exposition buildings in 1915. The climate is such that the plants grow riotously whenever cared for and protected.

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K C, the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins

2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful salt; ¼ cup sugar; ¼ cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk.

Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

K C
25 OUNCES FOR 25¢
BAKING POWDER

Graham Muffins

1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level tablespoonfuls sugar; ½ teaspoonful salt; 1 egg; 1¼ cups milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoonfuls melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins.

Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins.

To get 88 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The meeting of the Home Missionary Society held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wright Wednesday, was a very enjoyable as well as profitable gathering.

Automobiles and carriages were provided to convey the members to the place of meeting, and about 18 ladies were present. At noon a picnic dinner was served. The Ladies tied off two comfortables which will be sent to a home for poor working girls in Cleveland, which is presided over by Miss Celia Jones as Matron. Miss Jones was a former resident of Tecumseh. A business session with election of officers was held in the afternoon with the following result.

Exchanges are discussing the sane Fourth of July issue now-a-days. It sounds nice, but there is a question about whether it is right to deprive boys and girls of a few fire-cracker privileges, when automobiles are daily killing and maiming people, and are not compelled to use ordinary precautions. Which is the most dangerous, unlimited gasoline or gun powder in minute quantities, wrapped up in a fire cracker?—Hudson Post. There are a few cranks every where, who forget their own boyhood days and have grown terribly careful over the subject of a sane 4th, and the use of a few fire works. Just as well eliminate base ball or any other sport, for the boys do get bruised and hurt more or less in these games.

BONDING FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATED

At a Special Election held in Tecumseh Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of voting on the bonding of School District No. 7 for $50,000 for a new High School building, the vote was lost by a majority of 21 votes.

Total vote cast 213.
Votes against	117
Votes for	96
Majority against	21

A lack of interest seemed to be manifested by the light vote cast as the average vote of the District should have been about 400.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Henry L. Jones reached the Seventy-second mile stone along his journey of life last Sunday June 22, and his friends planned and executed a neat little surprise for him. Martin Crossman and family of Toledo came up bringing a birthday cake, and at the appointed time the friends made their entrance at the home. That he was completely surprised and more than pleased, goes without saying. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent by all. light refreshments were served That Mr. Jones might have many happy returns of the day was the wish of all present.

BEING RECEIVED

FAREWELL RECEPTION

A very pleasant reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs H. J. Stahl Tuesday evening at the parlors of the Presbyterian church as a token of appreciation and regret for their departure from Tecumseh. A fine program was given Messrs. Will Dickinson, Fred Dickinson and Elmer Slayton rendering some delightful vocal solos and Miss Mingay some choice readings.

The company presented Mr. and Mrs. Stahl with a silver mounted casserole and set of ramekins and a silver carving set. Little Neal had a souvenir spoon. Ice cream and cake were served and good-bys and good wishes were echoed by all.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

About 75 of St. Peter's Church and Sunday School, attended the Union picnic in Clinton going over in autos. It is estimated that there were about 200 present. Various games and stunts were pulled off, Tecumseh winning out in "The Tug of War." Prizes were given to those doing the best in these.

A fine picnic spread was not the least interesting of the afternoon's entertainment. As the sun was sinking in the west, a tired but happy crowd wended their way homeward.

LOBBY EXPOSER SKINS HIS PAL

Col. Mulhall Refused to Divide with Playwright Barry.

GOT $10,000 FOR HIS STORY

Astonishing Accusations Are Made Against Public Men—Says Congressman Watson Drank Cocktails While Talking Temperance and McDermott Sold Out Labor Men.

New York, June 30.—Colonel Martin M. Mulhall, a Republican politician of Baltimore, whose expose of the work of the lobby of the National Associations of Manufacturers was published in several newspapers, it is learned, sold the statement for $10,000.

Richard Barry, a widely known playwright, author and newspaper correspondent, says that Colonel Mulhall broke an agreement to give Barry half the amount for making the deal. Barry has sued Mulhall in the supreme court of this state, and supreme court Justice Giegerich issued an attachment for $5,000 against any property of Mulhall's that could be found here.

Astonishing Accusations.

Here and there in the statement of the self proclaimed corruptionist are accusations of astonishing hypocrisy against widely known men. He says, for example that in 1908, when James E. Watson, running for governor of Indiana, was making radical temperance speeches and denouncing all drinkers, Watson slipped into his room at the Claypool hotel, in Indianapolis and drank six cocktails that Mulhall had ordered and placed in a closet for him so that not even a bell boy would be the wiser. Previously and subsequently the N. A. M., made large presents of cash to Watson. He says that ex-Representative Littlefield, another strong temperance advocate, won an election in the second Maine district in 1906, by making Democrats so drunk they couldn't get to the polls, the money being supplied by the N. A. M. He charges that Representative McDermott of the Fourth Illinois district, elected as a labor union spokesman, was always in the pay of the N. A. M., lobby and that the beef and other trusts supplied the cash for him to win campaigns. He says that ex-Representative Gardner of New Jersey after a fight surrendered to the lobby and became a subservient agent. These are only a few of the details of the long story which Mulhall puts forward as an account of the underground operations of the N. A. M., in secretly controlling the government.

McDermott Discussed.

Mulhall discusses Representative James T. McDermott of Chicago at great length, says that he posed as a friend of labor although sold out all the time to the lobbyists; that McDermott let the lobbyists use his frank, arranged a scheme by which the pages and messengers of the house could spy and collect advance news of legislation for the lobbyists, let the lobbyists use his own room in the capitol for an office, solicited and received money and even forged a check that had ben contributed to his campaign fund by Harold McCormick of the Harvester trust.

One of the most startling pieces of information handed out by Mulhall was the statement that the Manufacturers' association was directly responsible for the tariff commission during the Taft administration, with the object of forestalling revision of the then existing tariff.

Lobby Committee to Investigate.

Washington, June 30.—The senate lobby committee announced that Martin M. Mulhall would be ordered to substantiate under oath all the charges made against statesmen in connection with the alleged $10,000,000 lobby. The committee also declared that every man named by Mulhall would be summoned before it and if necessary its powers would be widened.

Loses Leg Leaving Train.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., June 30.—In jumping off the Aurora accommodation train on the Big Four railroad, Charles Reagan fell under the wheels and his right leg was crushed so badly that amputations was necessary. Reagan was a student at Notre Dame.

PLANS TO SAVE MILLION

Governor Dunne Will Cut Appropriations to $37,000,000.

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—Governor Dunne will lop off more than a million dollars from the appropriation bills which are before him. If he could find a way to do it, the slashing would be more severe. The shape in which the bills are made up makes it impossible to cut any more without forcing a shutdown of offices and departments which he would like to slice.

The $1,000,000 cut will leave the total of appropriations for the general assembly near the $37,000,000 mark, and the tax rate will be about 65 cents.

M'ADOO DETAILS LATE CHANGES

New System Expected to Save $400,000 Annually.

CHICAGO HEADS A DISTRICT

Is Effective July 1—Rock Island and Galena Subports Abolished—Cairo Transferred to St. Louis District—Michigan and Wisconsin Each to Constitute a District.

Washington, June 30.—The details of the plan of reorganization of the customs service, which eliminates obsolete ports and useless offices, was made public by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. The new system, which is expected to save the government $400,000 a year in administrative expenses, will go into effect on July 1:

Chicago Heads District.

In Illinois the surveyorships at Rock Island and Galena are abolished and Cairo is transferred to the St. Louis district. The remainder of Illinois and the northern part of Indiana will constitute the Chicago district under the administration of Collector John C. Ames. Peoria will be a subport in charge of Samuel P. Prowse, now the deputy surveyor there. The only other subport in the Chicago district will be Michigan City, Ind., for which no deputy has been assigned so far.

The remainder of Indiana will constitute one district, with headquarters at Indianapolis.

Other Districts Constituted.

Dubuque and Sioux City will be the only ports in Iowa, Burlington, Council Bluffs, and Des Moines being abolished.

TURN SHOOTING TO POLITICAL ACCOUNT

Local Option People Say Liquor Caused Trouble.

Orland, Ill., June 30.—The fight betwen the "drys" and "wets" reached a climax here when Andrew Link, a laborer, fired two shots from a shotgun at John Barnes, a constable.

Link had been drinking during the day and went to his home in an angry mood. He started a fight with his wife which resulted in her calling a constable.

When the constable approached the house Link fired both barrels of his shotgun at the visitor. Barnes was not injured. He arrested Link and took him to the police station.

The shooting aroused the "drys" and the local option backers will try to turn the shooting at the constable into an attack on the saloons.

New Haven Factories Burn

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 30.—Two factories at New Haven, Ind., about five miles from this city were damaged by fire late in the afternoon to the extent of about $75,000. The plants were the Wayne Chair works and the Elastic Plaster company. Both factories were burned to the ground with a loss to the first of $45,000 and the second one of $25,000.

TWENTY-FIVE HURT IN INDIANA WRECK

Three Coaches Turn Over; Injuries not Serious.

Peru, Ind., June 30.—The intense heat, causing the rails to spread, is given as the cause of the wreck of the Chesapeake and Ohio passenger train No. 6, known as the "Fast Flying Virginian," when twenty-five persons were injured near Fulton, twenty miles northeast of here. Two Pullman cars and a diner turned completely over, but no one was killed. The train was making about forty miles an hour at the time of the accident.

Phillip Dupples of Washington, D. C., probably was the most seriously injured. He was severely scalded by the overturning of the coffee urn. Among others injured were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Boardman Smith of Charlottesville; G. L. Beardsley, Richmond, Va.; W. C. Simmons of Chicago; R. C. Cosby and L. A. Briggs, Chicago newspaper man; W. E. Bell, Richmond, Ind.; Scott McDonald, Huntington, W. Va.; Miss Ester McMannis, Shannon City, Ia.; Phil Phiel, Munice, Ind.

It is said at the hospital that all will recover.

Some frantic man passenger was the cause of several people being cut by broken glass. He was so terrified that he crawled through a window after the diner was on its side, and, according to Mrs. Boardman Smith of Charlottsville, who was cut about the neck, face and shoulders by the falling glass, he walked on the window panes and fell through twice before he managed to reach the ground in safety.

MRS. EDDY TO APPEAR

Mrs. Stetson Predicts She Will Manifest Victory Over Death.

New York, June 30.—Mrs. Augusta B. Stetson, whose interpretation of the teachings of Mary Baker Eddy has been called by the Boston directors of the mother church "pretended Christian Science," said she has letters written by Mrs. Eddy indicating that the founder of the cult who died several years ago, will reappear. She did not call it a "resurrection," but said that "it remains for the feminine representative of the motherhood of God to make her public demonstration of her teachings," and "a second manifestation of God through man of the victory over so-called death."

It apparently is Mrs. Stetson's belief that Mrs. Eddy will reveal herself to the world and to her just as Mary, the mother of Jesus, was at the tomb when the Saviour appeared so Mrs. Stetson believes she will see Mrs. Eddy.

New Circuit Invades Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 30.—A new burlesque circuit, which styles itself the "Progressive circuit" in opposition to the Burlesque "Wheel" recently formed, will invade Philadelphia. It has obtained the Trocadero theater here and will make it a part of their chain of some twenty-three houses in different cities of the country.

PEACEMAKER IS DEAD

Alfred H. Love, Co-Worker with Belva Lockwood, Passes Away.

Philidelphia, June 30.—Allfred H. Love, aged eighty-four years, a prominent manufacturer of this city and for half a century the president of the Universal Peace union, died at his home here after a short illness.

Mr. Love was known as one of the so-editors of "The Peace Maker" with Belva Lockwood and the Baroness Von Suttner.

CAUCUS READY WITH TARIFF

Will Submit Underwood Measure at Once.

SESSION APPROVES SCHEDULES

Exclusive of Administration Features and Income Tax Amendment—Bill Is to Go to Senate Finance Committee Promptly—To Be Pushed Along Rapidly.

Washington, June 30.—The Simmons-Underwood tariff bill, exclusive of the administration feature and the income tax amendment, was practically finished by the senate Democratic caucus late Saturday night. The hemp, wool manufacturers, silk, paper and cundries schedules were approved by the caucus in rapid succession and the long free list was taken up.

May Submit It Tuesday.

"This disposition to rush things along," said Senator Simmons at the close of the session, "is very gratifying and almost insures the submission of the amended measure to the full senate finance committee either on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Leaders of the party in the upper house stated that the minority members of the finance committee would be allowed about a week to consider the bill and draft their intended measure. This would bring the bill before the senate not later than the week of July 7.

Finance Committee to Push It.

In order to still further accelerate the passage of the bill the senate finance committee decided to hold meetings at once to pass upon those items referred back to it for further consideration. Among these is the matter of raising the internal revenue rates on brandies used in fortifying American wines, the question of reducing the duty on blankets and flannels, under the Ashurst resolution and the placing of spool cotton thread on the free list.

JACK JOHNSON SAILS FOR EUROPEAN PORT

Much Disgust Among Fellow Allan Line Passengers.

Montreal, June 30.—Jack Johnson sailed by the Allan Liner Corinthian for Havre. His departure was watched by representatives of the immigration, who, had he not sailed, were prepared to arrest him pending deportation proceedings as an undesirable alien. There were, however, no unexpected developments. His wife sailed with him. Their baggage consisted of eighteen large trunks and valises. He had also a limousine and a touring car embarked on the steamer.

There was much disgust among the other cabin passengers at Johnson being allowed to travel with them, but it is understood that his meals will be served to him in his state room.

"District" Sued for $73,000.

Chicago, June 30.—Five suits for damages, aggregating $73,000, were fled in the superior court against the sanitary district by farmers living at Beardstown, Ill. The suits are for damages growing out of overflowing of the drainage canal during the last year.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Out of the Fire

By JOSEPHINE R. MARTIN.

Day after day the forest fires had crept nearer and nearer the little clearing where Bunt Doble's cabin stood, away up toward Cat Mountain. The sky was lit each night by the sickening glare, the air was full of smoke, and terrified and strange birds flew wildly about.

Sometimes the smoke stifled them, then as the wind shifted, for a little while they breathed easier, but still the great army of flames marched steadily onward, while overhead blazed a relentless sun in a cloudless sky, with no promise of rain to end the dreadful destruction.

"Pears like we ain't goin' ter hev no more rain. I guess it's the end of all things a comin' slowly," remarked Bunt Doble, and Lora wearily assented. To Lora it did not seem to matter much; she looked out on life with beautiful, tired eyes. Forced into an early and unwilling marriage with Bunt Doble, by her French Canadian father, (who owed Bunt money), and thought that was the best way of paying his debt), she rebelled against fate with all the strength of her beautiful young womanhood. She hated the little clearing, thick set with tangled shrubbery, she hated the thick forest, and the mountains farther away that seemed to shut out all that was great and good in the big world beyond; she hated more than all Bunt Doble, gaunt and gray, with an ugly leer in his green eyes, and a fierce set of his lean jaw; and sometimes she even hated herself, her own beautiful face and perfectly formed womanhood.

Bunt Doble, outlaw, and the terror of all game wardens the country through, was certainly no fit mate for the beautiful wild creature who was bound to him for life; and Lora was afraid of him, so afraid that she paled before the leer in his eyes and the firm set of his hateful mouth.

All this day they had fought the fire, with their few bits of household goods packed in readiness for flight, but at night the wind had shifted and the gentle patter of rain on the leaves brought the belief that the worst was over. Bunt wearied beyond endurance drank deeply, and threw himself down in stupid sleep, but Lora crept out to the edge of the clearing to cool her hot face in the water of the brook. As she plunged her wrists deep in the coolness, a whisper startled her, and a dark, handsome face peered out of the bushes. "It's only Peter, Lora," he whispered. Pete Carson, the young guide, who had loved Lora long and hopelessly and Lora loved him, too, but would not acknowledge it, for was she not bound to Bunt?

"I only wanted to make sure you was all right, Lora; that brute will kill you yet, and I'm always fearful. I wish I could take you away, Lora." Pete's voice was full of feeling.

"Don't, Pete," she half sobbed, "I'm his wife, you know, and I'd ought not be here talking with you, but, oh, Pete, I wish I could die." She sobbed softly and Pete watched her, his face full of misery.

"If you want me, Lora, I'll be near," he said gently. "You can call; I'm never far away; I guess the worst is over, but come to me if you want me. I must go," and with a reassuring grasp of her hand he went silently away. It was after midnight when Lora awoke with the sensation of smothering. She sprang up and rushed out of the cabin, fighting her way through the smoke; the wind had shifted again and the fire was creeping up closer, the cracking of the boughs sounded like the firing of musketry, the heat was unbearable, the smoke stifling, there was no time to lose, already the brands, glowing red, were falling in to the clearing.

Lora rushed back to the cabin. "Bunk," she cried, "wake up, the fire is upon us, but Bunk deep in drunken slumber was not so easily aroused. A feeling of frenzy arose in her heart, "Lie there," she cried. "Lie there and burn; it'll be the best night's work the fire has yet done." Hastily snatching a few things she rushed out and plunged into the thicket toward the road leading to Pete's cabin. But even as she flew onward, remorse flew more quickly and overtook her; with a groan she stopped and wrung her hands. "I can't do it," she moaned. "I know he's a brute, but I'd feel like a murderess. I must not leave him so."

Back through the underbrush she plunged again, her eyes smoke blinded; the trees were falling everywhere with crash and roar, while overhead the stars shone mockingly in the clear rainless sky.

Lora had almost reached the clearing when she stumbled over the body of a man. "Get up, Bunt," she cried, realizing he was overcome by heat and smoke. "Get up or you'll burn. I'll help you." She helped him struggle to his feet, her eyes so blinded she could not open them; roused by her words the man staggered blindly on, dragging on her helplessly; but fear gave her strength and half leading, half dragging him she plunged on until they reached the river, then summoning all her courage she half carried him in her strong arms across the foot log, and dropping her burden sank beside him. Dipping her hands in the cool water she bathed her smoke blinded eyes until the smarting ceased, and then in the darkness she filled her hands with water and dashed it into the face of the unconscious man. "I've saved you, God help me," she murmured.

The dash of cold water aroused the man and he staggered to his feet, and as the glare of the fire fell upon his face Lora gave a startled cry, for it was not Bunt who stood before her, but Pete, brave, handsome Pete, who had started to save her and had been overcome in the clearing.

"Oh, Pete, Pete!" she cried. "He's back there in the cabin! I thought you were him, and I tried to save him. Oh, Pete, what can we do?" Pete lifted the terrified girl to her feet, the realization of what she had done sweeping over him. Suffering as she had from the brutality of that man, she had risked her life to save his so worthless.

"Lora, you are an angel," he said reverently. "God knows you did your best to save him, and he knows, too, that you have borne your burden long enough. See, it is too late to go back now," and even as he spoke a great tree blazing fiery red fell across the little cabin, blotting out the worthless life within. Praying softly, Lora covered her eyes from the dreadful sight, and then Pete's arm was about her, and he drew her hands gently down and turned her face toward him. "Lora, you are his wife no longer. I have waited long; will you come to me now?"

Lora gave him her lips for her answer, and regardless of the destruction sweeping down upon them, Pete gathered her in his arms and kissed not only her lips, but her eyes and face and dusky hair as well, and then with his strong arm about her, they turned their backs on the scene of death and desolation, and plunged down the trail leading them away from the forest which had held for them little besides misery and sorrow, out into God's country, under the silent stars, leaving the old life behind them and going forward into the new, a better and cleaner life, purified by fire.—Boston Post.

Rain Poor Substitute for Irrigation.

Irrigation is better than rain, infinitely better. That also sounds like a paradox, but instead it is almost a truism. What is better—to give a plant just as much and no more water than it needs and just when it needs it; or to parch it or drown it according to the whim of the clouds? The rain falls upon the just and upon the unjust alike; upon your strawberries that cry for it and upon your sugar-beets that want uninterrupted sunshine. Rain is all right in its place, but it is a very poor substitute for irrigation. Otherwise why would the lawns of our cities be sprinkled or irrigated, instead of leaving them to the tender mercy of the clouds? No. Arid lands are more fertile than ordinary lands, and irrigation is better than rain.

A Bridge of Coffins.

When the British forces were marching to Pekin in 1860, after the capture of the Taku forts, one of the rivers became so swollen with the heavy rains that it was rendered almost impassable. While in this quandary a bright idea suddenly struck one of our officers. Being well aware that the Chinese generally order their coffins years in advance and keep them on the premises and also that they are perfectly air tight, he consulted with his brother officers, with the result that orders were given to search all the houses of the village and collect every coffin. With the aid of a few empty casks the soldiers constructed a pontoon bridge of coffins sufficiently strong to bear the artillery, and the river was thus passed in safety.

A Spiritual Carrot.

The lay preacher has his rewards, but he has also many discouragements. A veteran brother once, at a conference of lay preachers, gave them some cheer. He said: "When I was a lad I used to drive a donkey-cart. Sometimes the donkey would not go, but I tied a carrot on the end of my whip and dangled it in front of his nose, and then he went. My brothers, let me dangle a spiritual carrot before you—'Be not weary in well doing, for in due time ye shall reap if ye faint not.'"

Where Great Writer Lived.

Craigenputtock, where Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus" was written, has just been the scene of a notable wedding. The bride was Miss Mary Carlyle of Craigenputtock, a grand-niece of Thomas Carlyle, and the bridegroom James Carlyle, a farmer of Pingle, Dumfriesshire, a son of Thos. Carlyle's favorite nephew. Pingle is about four miles from Ecclefechan, Carlyle's birthplace, and this village is the original of the Entuphl of "Sarto Resartus."

Window Glass at Pompeii.

Recent discoveries in the ruins of Pompeii prove that the ancient Romans used window glass; but for centuries houses in England were without window glass, the place of which was frequently supplied with waxed linen or oiled paper. At the end of the eighteenth century there were men living whose occupation it was to paste oiled paper into window-sashes.

Hawaiian Pineapples.

"Hawaii has the most extensive pineapple district in the world," said B. O. Thomas, formerly of San Francisco, now a resident of Honolulu, within Whiawa, which is a twenty mile ride from Honolulu. "James D. Dole is the man who introduced pineapple culture into Hawaii, and he has made a fortune out of the business. Some of the pines in the Wahiawa district extend in parallel rows for miles, and it is not unusual to find the fruit weighing as much as fourteen pounds. The largest cannery in the world is located within an hour's ride of Honolulu."—Washington Post.

Dog Dies From Grief.

A dog's striking attachment to his master is recorded from Villeneuve-Saint-Georges. While attending the funeral of a municipal councillor's wife M. Constantin, a resident of that village, contracted congestion of the lungs, from which be died suddenly. He had a dog, a small fox terrier, which never left him. After the death of M. Constantin the poor animal refused food and passed whole days at the cemetery moaning on the tomb of his dead master. Later the terrier was found dead.—le Figaro.

Indianian's Hungry Eagle.

C. E. Summers had a gray eagle which was captured in a steel trap here. The bird measured seven feet from the tip of one wing to the tip of the other and its appetite made it desirable for Mr. Summers to dispose of it at once. It ate one rooster, two crows and about ten pounds of meat. Attacks on lambs caused sheep owners to set traps about their folds with the result that the eagle was caught by Henry Mannan.

Strength of Rope from Paper.

As illustrated the excellence of the paper (which is made from unused linen scraps) upon which Bank of England notes are printed, it is stated that when one of these notes is twisted into a rope it will sustain a weight of 359 pounds.

An Old Art Lost.

Although the name of the first ropemaker and that of the land in which he practiced his art have both been lost to history, Egyptian sculptures prove that the art was practiced at least 2,000 years before the time of Christ.

MANUEL QUEZON

Delegate to Congress Has Resigned from Philippine Society.

In his letter asking that he be dropped from the rolls of the Philippine society Manuel Quezon says he does so because he is convinced the society is committed against the independence of the islands. Senor Quezon announced that he permitted himself to be enrolled in the society in the hope that it might be a bona fide opportunity for impartial discussion of Philippine matters. He has found it otherwise, he states.

MICHIGAN RAILROADS PROSPER

Reports Show Increase in Earnings in Twelve Months Ending Last July.

Business on the steam roads of Michigan was better during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, than during the preceding year, according to figures compiled by James Bice, of the state railroad commission, for the annual report of that body.

In earnings their business was $3,434,999.79 better than the preceeding year. The total freight earnings of the steam roads was $44,359,780.24, as compared with $41,541,184.87 the year before, while the passenger earnings for the last fiscal report were $16,436,741.02, as compared with $15,820,337.21.

The railroads carried during the period covered by the report a total of 78,101,024 tons of freight, an increase of approximately 5,000,000 tons over that of the preceding year. The passengers carried, who paid their fares, numbered a million more than the year 1911, the total for 1912 being 23,351,881 persons.

The four main railroad systems of the state all enjoyed an increase in business, although it was not large for any of them. The Michigan Central railroad passenger earnings were $4,616,616.26, as compared with $4,449,816.26; the Pere Marquette passenger earnings were $3,174,572.56 and $3,095,967.07 for the year preceeding; the Lake Shore passenger earnings were $1,315,222.31 as against $1,281,208.03; while the Grand Trunk shows $2,616,008.20 and $2,251,265.01. In freight earnings the Michigan Central increased from $10,669,051.17 to $11,356,848.22; the Pere Marquette from $8,460,641.95 to $8,832,399.93; the Lake Shore from $1,878,746.55 to $2,144,026.29, and the Grand Trunk shows $4,922,144.61 for 1911 and $5,319,445.73 for 1912.

The Pere Marquette is the only railroad reporting any considerable amount of Pullman car earnings, and that roads' revenues from the chair and berth cars show but little increase, the report giving $45,623.85 for 1911, and $45,518.75 for 1912.

Says Law Not Constitutional.

In a case of the state against George Hart, of Manistee, who refused to comply with an order of the fire marshal's department to tear down an old building which the department had declared a fire menace, Judge Withey, in the circuit court, held that the law giving the state fire marshal's department power to order the destruction of buildings which the department may condemn, unconstitutional, inasmuch as it makes no provision for recompensing the owners of such buildings. There are many similar cases pending in various parts of the state, and the Manistee case will be appealed to the supreme court for a final interpretation of the law.

Baby Drinks Gasoline; Dies.

Laporte, Ind., June 30.—The fourteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs John Cotteral, living near LaCrosse, died as the result of drinking gasoline. Mrs. Cotteral was cleaning her skirt and the baby, playing near her, picked up the tin cup with gasoline and drank the contents. A physician was unable to save the child's life.

MRS. CHRISTIAN COLLER.

Mrs Christian Coller passed away quite unexpectedly Saturday afternoon. She had a fainting spell in the morning and falling struck her head, the shock proving fatal. She was conscious until a short time before her death.

Sarah Dillingham was born in Genesee Co. N. Y., April 16, 1830, coming to Michigan with her parents when a little child. In April 1850 she was united in marriage to Christian F. Coller and has lived in and around Tecumseh all her married life. Mr. and Mrs. Coller celebrated their 50th anniversary in 1900. She was a devoted member of the M. E. church and of "Mrs Griswold's" class (now taught by Mrs. Hurry) and is the third member who has been called home from that class this year, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Barnes preceeding her to the better country.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the home, Rev. R. B. Weld officiating.

MRS. SAMUEL HAIGHT

Again this community is called upon to mourn the loss by death of one of its best known and universally esteemed members Mrs. Haight, which occurred Friday June 27, 1913, at 12:30.

Although her death had for some time been expected, the occurrence caused general regret to be expressed on all sides. She was a devoted wife, affectionate mother, esteemed friend to all, excellent neighbor and a noble Christian woman. Mrs. Haight was possessed of a fine mind and a noble character, which was reflected in her lovely face.

She became the wife of Samuel Haight Oct. 9, 1862. She was born on her father's farm in Milan Township in 1843 Jan 16th, her maiden name being Louise McBride.

Besides her husband she leaves one son, A. W. Haight of Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs E. D. Brown of Tecumseh, two grandsons, three sisters and one brothers.

Her son and daughter spent the last week at her bed side and was a source of great comfort to her. Devotedness to her family, and always seeking to make others happy were the characteristics of her life.

The funeral services were held at the family home Monday afternoon, and were largely attended by sympathizing friends.

The peaceful looking remains were laid away in Brookside, there to remain until the last stroke of the Archangel's pen shall declare that time is no more.

AN AERIAL RAILROAD.

Trial Line Proposed at Marburg to Combine Great Speed and Safety.

Consul Thomas H. Norton of Chemnitz, after mentioning the extraordinary amount of attention now devoted in Germany to every phase of aerial locomotion, writes as follows:

Engineers in Germany have taken up the problem of introducing the buoyant principle into railroad construction, and the first project in this line to enlist capital in its support is that of a well-known engineer of Marburg. This is practically a combination of the essential elements of the dirigible balloon and the electric railroad—cars supported by the buoyancy of a balloon and motive power transmitted by an electric cable, the latter being the only feature of an ordinary electric road that is retained. The supporting balloon is cylindrical in shape, of semirigid construction, 200 feet long and 33 feet in diameter. It rests lightly against cables on either side, channeled wheels attached to the framework of the balloon forming the contact, the cables being suspended at the proper height by towers. The passenger car is attached below.

A company is about to construct a line from the railway station in Marburg to Frauenberg, an elevation five miles distant and 1,200 feet above the town. The preliminary estimates show an initial cost of construction of $27,000 to $28,000 per mile for a double cable line. It is further estimated that the cost of maintenance and of transportation on such a line will not exceed 8 per cent. of the corresponding expense on a railroad, through the avoidance of weight, friction and serious wear of material. It is thought that a speed of 125 miles per hour can be attained, with practically complete avoidance of danger to the passengers and all danger to surface travel. The steepest grades in mountain regions are easily overcome.

Cure for Toothache.

A London physician at a meeting of a medical society stated that extraction of teeth was unnecessary. He was enabled to cure the most desperate case of toothache, he said, unless the case was connected with rheumatism, by the application of the following remedy to the diseased tooth: Alum, reduced to an impalable powder, two drachms; nitrous spirits of ether, seven drachms; mix and apply to tooth.

He Wouldn't Miss It.

Ivon and his baby sister were playing with some new marbles that were quite small. One marble disappeared and could not be found. The mother became alarmed, fearing baby had swallowed it. "Oh, well," said three-year-old Ivon, "there are enough left." The Delineator.

Keeping Friends.

It is one thing to make friends, but quite another to keep them. Remember that friendship will not thrive on discourtesy or neglect. Little courtesies and attentions to those with whom we are most intimate help to smooth and sweeten life.—Home Chat.

Dress of Tailor's Patron Saint.

The tailor's saint is St. John the Baptist, but why, we do not know, for, as far as sacred writ informs us, "his clothing was of camel's hair, and a leather girdle about his loins."—London Tailor and Cutter.

Sees End of Tuberculosis.

"It is quite possible that in 50 years consumption will be practically unknown in this country," said a doctor from Guy's hospital at a Southwark (London) inquest.

IS YOUR DOG MUZZLED?

Effective muzzling of all dogs is the only method to prevent spread of this fatal disease. All worthless, tramp dogs should be killed; all others should be securely, but humanly, muzzled. The State law (Act 306, P. A. 1909) authorizes township boards of health to establish quarantine and "to order all dogs in the township or any part thereof, restricted, confined or muzzled." This law should be taken advantage of now, as conditions over the state warrant it. Village and city ordinances providing for restraining or muzzling dogs should be strictly enforced.

All persons bitten by dogs suspected of being rabid (mad) should be taken immediately to the Pasteur Institute of the State University at Ann Arbor for treatment. This treatment, if taken advantage of, will absolutely safeguard the patient. There has never been a death from hydropobia among all the patients treated at the University Pasteur Institue.

A dog suspected of having rabies should be securely tied and observed for developments. If for any reason it is necessary to kill the dog he should not be shot in the head as that often renders it impossible to make the necessary laboratory examination to determine whether or not he had rabies. The dog's head should be packed in ice and sent to the Pasteur Institute, Ann Arbor, for examination. No charge is made for such examinations.

Let us have a general muzzling of dogs in Michigan the balance of the summer months and a wholesale doing away with worthless, tramp dogs.

R. L. Dixon,
Secretary,
State Board of Health.

THE OLD 4th REGIMENT INFANTRY

Reunion Jackson, June, 20

The Herald Office is in receipt of a late Jackson paper, with a short history of the famous old 4th Infantry Regiment. We regret that it came to late for publication last week, but will do what we can in this issue. Unusual interest was shown in this annual meeting, and the G. A. R. hall in the Court house received the visiting members. A fine program of song and story was given, and the usual routine of the day was observed. A brief history of this regiment will be of interest to our readers, as Tecumseh sent in a company with Capt. David Marshall in command.

The regiment was mustered in the United States service June 20, 1861, with a full quota of officers, Col Woodbury commanding. Each of its ten companies mustered 101 men in ranks. They took train for Washington D. C. June 21, '61, were in the forces at the first Bull Run battle, camped on Miners Hill, Va., in the winter of 61-62, and was with McClellan in the Peninsular Campaign, was leading Porter's divisions in the advance on Yorktown, and was stationed near the right of the lines during the siege.

The regiment was constantly in action. It attacked and routed Semmes brigade at Newbridge, meeting the entire brigade in battle, and wiping out Wheat's battalion called the Louisana Tigers.

In the summer of '62 came the engagements of Hanover Court House, Mechanicsville, Gaines Mill, Savage Station, White Oaks, Turkey Bend, etc. At Malven Hill the old 4th held the left of the Union line in the seven days fight, and while they lay on the skirmish line the whole force of the Potomac army poured a heavy fire over their heads, the cannonading the heaviest during the war lasting two hours.

In August they marched from Harrison's Landing to Hampton and Newport, took boat for Aqua Creek, marched up the Rappahannock to Kelly's Ford, were on the second Bull Run battle field, marched to Chantilly juse before General Phil. Kearney was killed, was at Anteitam, fought the Washington Battery on Mary's Heights, was in the battles before Fredericksburg with Burnside in his "Stick-in-the-Mud Campaign, was in the two days fight at Chancellorsville in '63 where many lives were lost, and in a number of lesser battles and finally at Gettysburg. Before this battle the roll call numbered 300 men with muskets, after the battle 150 were disabled, killed or prisoners. The small force left after the battle held together until mustered out of service.

Safest Seat in a Train.

The question is often asked by travellers, "Where is the safest seat in the train?" The answer is given by an engineer, who, after scientific calculation and protracted experience, asserts that the safest seat is in the middle of the last car but one.

Well-Producing Sand.

A curious well in Canada produces sand instead of water. The sand comes up in a fine stream like a fountain. The force which drives it to the surface from a depth of 100 feet has not yet been discovered.

THE CARE OF AWNINGS.

To Preserve Them in Good Order Keep Them Dry, Says Maker.

"Your awnings," said the awning man, "would last longer and look better if you'd dry 'em out when they get wet.

"Some folks will leave their awnings down to soak and drip all through a heavy rain. I never could understand why people do that; of course it doesn't do an awning any more good than it would any other fabric to soak it in that way and then drip may fall on the awning from the roof and flying soot may lodge on it, and so if you keep your awnings down in the rain the first thing you know they are faded, discolored and dingy.

"If you want to preserve your awnings you want to haul them up when it rains, but if they get wet, why, then when the air is right you want to lower them and let them dry out, and be sure they're dry when you furl 'em before you go away in the summer."

Studebaker

STUDEBAKER

"The LIFE of a wagon is what counts —that's why I buy a Studebaker"

"That's reasonable, isn't it?"

"A wagon that doesn't last is expensive no matter what price you pay for it."

"Suppose you buy three wagons, one after the other, and the three of them don't last as long as one Studebaker—which is the best bargain?"

"I didn't find this out myself. I heard my grandfather say it a good many years ago. He said he had proved that it paid to buy a Studebaker. I followed his advice to my own satisfaction."

"A wagon can't have life in it unless it has the material and work and finish in it. The Studebaker people have been making vehicles for sixty years. They ought to know how to make wagons right—and they do. They have the reputation because they've produced the goods. They don't put the name Studebaker on until the wagon's right, and when you see the name Studebaker on a vehicle of any kind it is your insurance of quality."

"That's why I buy a Studebaker. I trust a Studebaker wagon because I trust the people that make them. It's good business."

"A Studebaker promise is always made good."

PLYMOUTH
TWINE

Use Plymouth Rope. It has the same high quality as our twine.

Twine is a small item, but good twine saves a lot of expense in harvest time. Every time your machine is stopped the delay costs you money. Time in harvest season is always valuable, and sometimes extremely precious on account of the condition of weather or grain. Be sure you use the best twine.—PLYMOUTH TWINE. Then you will be safe from the annoyances, delays, expenses, which ordinary twine causes. Plymouth Twine works perfectly in every machine. More of it is made and used every year than any other kind, because it is known to be the best and has been for years. Binds more sheaves with less expense, no knots, no breaks, and is guaranteed full length and extra strength. Get Plymouth Twine from the local dealer. Look for the wheat-sheaf tag.

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Tecumseh People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Tecumseh residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

George D. Chaplin, carpenter, N Ottawa St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in December 1905 I have taken this remedy on different occasions since then and have always found that it acts as represented. My kidneys were disordered and made me miserable, Knowing of several people in this vicinity who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with success, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug store and began using them. The results were very satisfactory and I am in hopes that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading of my experience"

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Difference Between "The Summer Girl" and "The Summer Woman."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For sale by all druggists.

Diplomacy.

Diplomacy is the practical application of strategy, but lots of people term it the double cross.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth; crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverish and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years and entirely rid my children of worms I would not be with it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Rheumatism and the Heart

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbs the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

"TITANIC" IMPOSTER JAILED

Accused of Misappropriating $1,500 of Employer's Money.

Chicago, June 30.—David A. Williams, who, it is charged, in the guise of a survivor of the Titanic lectured all over the world and collected money, rested in the county jail on a charge of grand larceny.

Williams admitted he had never been on the Titanic, nor had he ever seen the ship. He confessed uneasiness over a certain affidavit made in Pittsburgh to back up his lecture.

While giving his lecture in a church in Gilman, Ill., Williams, who is a Welshman, met one member of the firm of Laconte & Hitchcock of that city and was employed by them to sell a patent releasable check rein for horses.

In January his employers met him in Chicago and gave him $1,500 to take out patents on the rein in England, France, Germany, Italy and Spain. Williams went abroad, but did not take out the patents. He says that he did not because check reins are not used in those countries.

Are You Blue and Worried?

Nervous? Some of the time really ill? Catch cold easily and frequently suffer from biliousness or headache? The reason is that your system does not rid itself of the poisons in the blood; just as impossible as it is for the grate of a stove to rid itself of clinkers. The waste does to us exactly what the clinkers do to the stove; make the fires burn low until enough clinkers have accumulated and then prevent its burning at all. Your liver is sluggish—you are dull and heavy—sleep does not rest, nor is food appetizing. In this condition illness develops. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery eradicates the poisons from the body—a glyceric alterative extract made from bloodroot, golden seal and mandrake root, stone and queen's root, without the use of alcohol. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood.

MRS. BLAKE.

MRS. BENJ. BLAKE, of Port Dover, Ont., Box 36, writes: "I have been a great sufferer for years from throat trouble, catarrh, indigestion, female troubles, bloating, constipation and nervousness—at times I would be in bed, then able to be up again. Was under many different doctors' care, and would get better for a little while, then I would go down with chronic inflammation all through me. For nineteen years I had this poison in my blood. After trying nearly everything I got worse. I read in The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have taken the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and have used five bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I am now able to do my work and walk with pleasure. I feel like a new woman. I enjoy everything around me and thank God for letting me live long enough to find something that made me well again."

Policemen in Silk Hats.

Savona, Italy, is probably the only town in the world where policemen wear top hats. One cannot help wondering what the policemen's "toppers" look like after the officers have had a rough and tumble with hooligans. Perhaps, however, Savona lives up to the level of respectability indicated by the silk hats and does not possess hooligans.—Wide World Magazine.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

Dr. Morley Vaughn has been appointed prison physician at Jackson to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. George R. Pray.

The two-year-old daughter of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Thomas Dorgan, of Kalamazoo, was badly burned while playing with matches.

Hon. Frank E. Doremus, member of congress from Detroit, has been elected chairman of the democratic national congressional committee.

Word has been received at Saginaw that the Marine City Sugar Company will not operate this season, and that the company is trying to place its acreage with some other company.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Helme has appointed Frank McGrath, of Charlotte, and W. C. Gragley, of Lansing, assistant chemists in the dairy and food department laboratory.

For the first time in the history of Saginaw county the contemplated vacancy at the Carrollton fourth-class postoffice will be filled by the civil service, the examination to be held July the 12th.

Claiming at Muskegon that his father, Orlin D. Williams, of Fruitport township, made an assault upon him with a loaded cane and knocked him unconscious, Henry Williams had the elder man arrested.

Cupid had the laugh on Father Time when a marriage license was issued at Petoskey to George W. Lucas, 72 years old, of Harbor Springs, and Anna Neiswander, 63, of Conway. This is the second venture of each in matrimony.

Twelve hours was the extent of Daniel Soper's married life, his wife leaving him the day after they were married, March 31, 1911, and telling him she never would return. She kept her word, and Friday the circuit court granted Soper a divorce at Jackson.

W. H. Wallace, general manager of the Michigan Sugar company, estimates that the recent rains has done thousands of dollars worth of good to the sugar crop. Without the much-needed moisture the beets would have lacked the proper qualities to produce sugar.

The first appraisal of Pontiac's municipal water works plant made public by Commissioner Richard Dewey and shows an investment of $369,941.85. The statement shows a net profit for the past 23 months, since the commission has been in office of $18,244.08 and a surplus, had the plant been operated as a privately owned corporation, of $8,124.45.

By a vote of nine to five, the city council of Ironwood has passed an ordinance licensing theaters of all kinds, the terms of the license expressly prohibiting performances on Sunday. Attorneys for the moving picture houses say the ordinance will be tested in the courts. The ordinance was passed because the state law provides no penalties for violations.

The confederate battle flags that have been preserved as trophies in the state house since the Civil war can't be returned to the survivors of the regiments from which they were captured until such action is first sanctioned by the legislature. The flags are the property of the state. It has been proposed to return them at the forthcoming reunion of the blue and the gray at Gettysburg.

"Farmers themselves ought to help the 'back to the farm' movement," declared Mrs. Katherine James, one of the speakers at the meeting of the Ypsilanti Grange. "Show the youngsters what the farm looks like. Farmers ought to drive into town every now and then and take the boys and girls back with them for an outing. In Detroit and even in smaller cities thousands of youngsters don't know what a farm looks like."

A unique legal fight in which the friends of Dr. Arthur G. Six, the Lawrence physician who committed suicide some months ago, seek to clear him of the charge of murdering his wife and daughter, has been begun in the Van Buren county circuit court at Paw Paw. Attorneys acting for the friends have filed a petition asking that the verdict of the coroner's jury be set aside. This verdict charged Dr. Six with poisoning his wife and daughter and firing their home. Dr. Six committed suicide two weeks after the double killing.

Gov. Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan in a talk with President Wilson Monday came out boldly for the Michigan democratic machine and enumerated a "clique" of men in the state who, he claims, are causing inharmony in the party ranks by declaring only so-called "original Wilson men" should have federal patronage. "I am here to look after that postoffice building for Big Rapids. We have the ground, congress has appropriated $75,000 for the building, and we want to have it constructed just as soon as practicable. I am to see Postmaster General Burleson about it and hear his suggestions," said the governor. Accompanied by E. O. Wood the governor returned to Michigan Monday night satisfied that the democratic state organization is to be recognized in all matters pertaining to party welfare.

Secretary of State Martindale reports 46,148 automobile licenses issued so far this year, an increase of 16 per cent over the number issued altogether last year. A total of 4,648 motorcycle licenses have been issued. Half rates go into effect after August the 1st.

Ex-Senator George A. Prescott, of Tawas City, whose father, Rev. C. H. Prescott, the millionaire preacher of Cleveland, Ohio, died recently, has sold his interests at Tawas, and with his brother will devote his attention to their large ranches at Prescott and other points in northern Michigan.

The Presque Isle county jail has been closed on request of the state board of corrections and charities, the circuit judge of the county notifying the board that he had issued such an order. Alpena county jail has been designated as the place of detention for Presque Isle prisoners until a new jail is built.

How did the "turkey trot" originate? It is said that its origin is the sailors' dance halls of San Francisco.

Walter Brace, of Marshall, who was arrested for stealing a horse and buggy, also his father's watch, which he is said to have sold for 15 cents, appeared before Judge Porter, of the Juvenile court, Friday. Someone told the boy that he could not be sent up if he was under ten years old, so he brought the family bible along to prove he had not reached his tenth year until Dec. 7, 1913. The case was adjourned until Dec. 8.

Dr. R. C. Fair, of Durand, has gone to Washington as advocate for the original Wilson men of Shiawassee county who are seeking postoffice appointments. With him he took affidavits of the formation of the organization candidates. His trip is the result of the conference of the originals recently held at Owosso, at which Edward Frensdorf, of Hudson, and W. A. Bahlke, of Alma, were present. Owosso, Corunna and Bancroft are the principal offices sought.

Announcement by Land Commissioner A. C. Carton that the site of the deserted town of Beaver Lake, Ogemaw county, has been transferred from the list of delinquent tax lands to the public domain commission for a state forest reserve. In the days when lumbering was the great industry of Michigan, Beaver Lake was a thriving community of about 3,000 people, but with the disappearance of forests Beaver Lake faded away, its buildings being moved away or torn down until not a vestige of the village remains.

Old Soldiers Leave Saturday.

Only a few days remain before Michigan veterans who participated in the battle of Gettysburg will leave for the reunion to be held on the famous battlefield. General George Stone, who has matters in charge at Lansing, says that two special trains will carry the Michigan veterans to their destination on July 1. One train will start from Grand Rapids over the G. R. & I. and the other from Jackson to Detroit, the latter train probably traveling in two sections. There are 1,050 applications that have been approved and the transportation vouchers have been sent their number of veterans. General Stone places the number who will go at between 900 and 1,000. Also from these there are several hundred veterans who did not participate in the famous battle who will be present plans to start the trains from Grand Rapids and Detroit Saturday night.

EDGAR T. DAVIES SUED

Former Factory Inspector Accused of Taking Things.

Chicago, June 30.—Edgar T. Davies, former state factory inspector, was sued for $258 in Chicago court by Charles J. Herman, counsel for the state factory inspection department, for being in possession of the state's money and other articles which have not been turned in to the factory inspector's office.

After the removal of Davies by Governor Dunne on March 21 from the state civil service commission an auditor was employed to look into the affair. According to the bill filed in court the accounts showed the purchase of a large number of office fixtures which Mr. Herman states, have never been delivered at the factory inspector's office.

LOBBY IS EXPOSED

Col. Mulhall Refused to Divide with Playwright Barry.

GOT $10,000 FOR HIS STORY

Astonishing Accusations Are Made Against Public Men—Says Congressman Watson Drank Cocktails While Talking Temperance and McDermott Sold Out Labor Men.

Martin M. Mulhall, Republican politician of Baltimore, whose expose of the work of the lobby of the National Associations of Manufacturers was published in several newspapers, it is learned, sold the statement for $10,000.

Richard Barry, a widely known playwright, author and newspaper correspondent, says that Colonel Mulhall broke an agreement to give Barry half the amount for making the deal. Barry has sued Mulhall in the supreme court of this state, and supreme court Justice Giegerich issued an attachment for $5,000 against any property of Mulhall's that could be found here.

Astonishing Accusations.

Here and there in the statement of the self proclaimed corruptionist are accusations of astonishing hypocrisy against widely known men. He says, for example that in 1908, when James E. Watson, running for governor of Indiana, was making radical temperance speeches and denouncing all drinkers, Watson slipped into his room at the Claypool hotel, in Indianapolis and drank six cocktails that Mulhall had ordered and placed in a closet for him so that not even a bell boy would be the wiser. Previously and subsequently the N. A. M., made large presents of cash to Watson. He says that ex-Representative Littlefield, another strong temperance advocate, won an election in the second Maine district in 1906, by making Democrats so drunk they couldn't get to the polls, the money being supplied by the N. A. M. He charges that Representative McDermott of the Fourth Illinois district, elected as a labor union spokesman, was always in the pay of the N. A. M., lobby and that the beef and other trusts supplied the cash for him to win campaigns. He says that ex-Representative Gardner of New Jersey after a fight surrendered to the lobby and became a subservient agent. These are only a few of the details of the long story which Mulhall puts forward as an account of the underground operations of the N. A. M., in secretly controlling the government.

McDermott Discussed.

Mulhall discusses Representative James T. McDermott of Chicago at great length, says that he posed as a friend of labor although sold out all the time to the lobbyists; that McDermott let the lobbyists use his frank, arranged a scheme by which the pages and messengers of the house could spy and collect advance news of legislation for the lobbyists, let the lobbyists use his own room in the capitol for an office, solicited and received money and even forged a check that had ben contributed to his campaign fund by Harold McCormick of the Harvester trust.

One of the most startling pieces of information handed out by Mulhall was the statement that the Manufacturers' association was directly responsible for the tariff commission during the Taft administration, with the object of forestalling revision of the then existing tariff.

Lobby Committee to Investigate.

The senate lobby committee said Martin M. Mulhall would be ordered to substantiate under oath all the charges made against statesmen in connection with the alleged $10,000,000 lobby. The committee also declared that every man named by Mulhall would be summoned before it and if necessary its powers would be widened.

VETERANS AT GETTYSBURG

Union and confederate veterans of the civil war are at Gettysburg, Pa., for the fiftieth anniversary of the great battle fought there.

Among the notable arrivals at the veterans' camp was General Daniel Sickles, who declined hotel quarters in favor of a tent pitched upon the site where he lost his leg during the battle. General Sickles was escorted to the tent by a cavalry detail and was chered lustily by wearers of both the blue and the gray.

A picturesque person who attracts much attention is General Felix H. Robertson of Texas, who came to town clad in the full uniform of a confederate general. General Robertson, who is proud of the fact that he was at Fort Sumpter when the first gun was fired, also decclined to accept the hospitality of the Pennsylvania commission, saying he preferred to share the camp life with his men. This attitude was also assumed by General A. J. West of Atlanta, Ga., who bunked with his comrades on the battlefield.

Among those registered at headquarters of the commission on the campus of Pennsylvania college are Colonel Heanan W. Allen, Vermont; Judge E. M. Gibson, Oakland, Cal.; E. L. Hawk, Sacramento, Cal.; F. W. Castleman, New Orleans, and J. W. Patterson, New Hampshire.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. — Rear Admiral Georeg Brown, 75 years old, died at his home, 860 Middle drive, Woodruff Place. Admiral Brown had been in failing health for many months and his death was expected. Admiral Brown was born in Rushville June 19, 1835, and was appointed a midshipman by Senator Joseph E. McDonald, then congressman from the Crawfordsville district, Feb. 5 1849. He commanded the Octarora, flag ship of the mortar fleet, under Admirals Farragut and Porter in operations in the Mississippi River, 1862; ironclad Indianola, Mississippi squadron, 1863; gunboat Itasca, West Gulf squadron, 1863-64; gunboat Arizona, West Gulf squadron, 1864; ironclad Cincinnati, Mobile Bay, 1865; gunboat Pocahontas, 1865, and the gunboat Hornet in 1865.

GENERAL NEWS.

NEW YORK — Supplementing his long statement that congressmen and senators were in the pay or under the influence of the National Manufacturers association, Col. Martin M. Mulhall of Baltimore published letters written by him to or received by him from members of congress or officials of the manufacturers association. The publication of sample lettersand telegrams selected from 20,000 odd documents that Mulhall sold to the New York World, along with his statements, for $10,000, is for the purpose of showing that the association worked stealthily to mould legislation, reward subservient legislators and punish members of congress who would not do its will. These letters and documents will be scrutinized by the Overman lobby investigating committee of the United States senate.

LONDON, ENG.—The case of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, came up in the house of commons again when Mr. Jowett, labor member for West Bradford, asked if the government was preapred to face the possibility of her death if the prison treatment was continued. Home Secretary McKenna replied that the prison authorities have done their utmost to induce her to eat and that she alone would be responsible for the consequences because of her persistent refusal to take nourishment.

WASHINGTON—The senate Democratic caucus has at last practically completed the consideration of the income tax amendment to the tariff bill. Just before midnight the caucus by a majority of two on motion of Senator Pomerene of Ohio voted to strike out the senate amendment exempting mutual life insurance companies from the tax. Motion was made to reconsider this vote and with this motion pending the caucus adjourned.

FREDERICK C. PENFIELD

Whom President Wilson Will Appoint Ambassador to Austria.

WASHINGTON—President Wilson has finally decide to appoint Frederick C. Penfield of Pennsylvania ambassador to Austria instead of minister to Greece. For several weeks the president had in mind to tender Mr. Penfield the post at Athens, but in the last few days decided to make the switch referred to.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH. — Death broke up the annual senior-junior high school picnic, the first social event of commencement week, at Gull lake, when Hal Youngs, eighteen years old, and a member of the junior class, was drowned. Youngs tried to change seats in a canoe and he and his companion were thrown into thirty feet of water.

WARSAW, IND. — Telling his little grandson to watch him be a boy again, L. W. Sisk, sixty-two years old, a lumber merchant, attempted to perform on a tight wire in his back yard at Sidney and, when the wire broke, he fell on his neck and shoulders and received injuries from which he died.

VALPARAISO, IND. — In the presence of 2,000 persons who were unable to render any assistance, Howard Pridgron, 22 years old, of Gary was drowned in Flint Lake. He was seized with cramps while swimming where the water was about ten feet deep.

CHICAGO—A man and a woman were killed and two other members of an automobile party were injured when the machine in which they were riding crashed into the railing of the "jack-knife" bridge over the lagoon in Lincoln park.

CHICAGO — The bad tangle over the vote fraud investigation which for five weeks has been uppermost in the judicial, official and political world in Chicago, straightened out with a snap Judge Baldwin entered an order recognizing the special grand jury of Judge Cooper and giving that body and John E. Northup, the special state's attorney in charge of it, access to the ballots. Almost simultaneously Judge Kersten, on motion of Clyde L. Day, the special state's attorney that court had named, entered an order vacating his call of May 20, for a special grand jury, and directed them to appear and with Mr. Day and his corps of assistants be dismissed.

CAR SHOPS MAY BE MOVED

Grand Rapids and Saginaw Plants Abandoned by Pere Marquette.

With the announcement that the Pere Marquette shops in Grand Rapids and Saginaw are to be abandoned, officially made by Superintendent Mulhern in Grand Rapids Monday, plans are afoot, according to one of the receivers of the road, to replace the two shops with one large shop in Ionia.

It is understood that Ionia business men are working on a proposition to give the Pere Marquette a site for shops and a large cash bonus to locate in that city, and if their plans go through the receivers will build new shops there.

While the immediate cause of the abandonment of the Grand Rapids shop is the strike of the employes, it has been the opinion of the management that the shops are not well located and that a great deal of money could be saved if they were more conveniently placed. The division of the work between Saginaw and Grand Rapids also has increased the cost of handling repairs.

Makes Last Report.

State Insurance Commissioner Palmer, who retired from that office Monday and was succeeded by John T. Winship of Saginaw, made his last annual report to Gov. Ferris, which is the forty-third annual of the department. The report shows that there are 77 life companies, 71 casualty companies, 30 co-operative companies and 84 fraternal societies operating in Michigan. There are organized under the laws of Michigan 8 life, 7 casualty, 14 assessment and 25 fraternal companies. Commissioner Palmer calls attention to the recent investigation made by the department of the health and accident companies of the state and says that one of the principal achievements accomplished from the investigation is that the companies have been forced to pay to beneficiaries more than $100,000 to which they were entitled, but which had been withheld. The financial statement shows that the receipts for the year ending June 30, 1913, were $673,339.09, compared to $549,614.95 for the previous year, or an increase of $78,725.14. For the last year the expenses of the department amounted to $28,113.99, as compared to $36,426.20 for the previous year, or a decrease of $5,212.21. A total of $273,972.76 was collected during the last year from fire and marine insurance companies, three per cent on gross premiums less reinsurance and return premiums; $277,580.18 collected from life companies, two per cent on gross premiums, $65,076.89 from casualty companies, $8,030 in fines and $48,679.26 in retaliatory fees, making a total of $673,339.09 in receipts.

Masons at Battle Creek.

Two thousand Michigan Masons visited Battle Creek July 4 to help lay the cornerstone of the new temple on Marshall street. All of the grand officers were there, together with William E. Elliott, of Grand Rapids, who took over the bonds issued by the Masons for the erection of the building. Frank T. Lodge, of Detroit, was the chief speaker.

Kalamazoo, Jackson, Charlotte and Marshall are among the cities that sent full companies of Templars for the occasion.

Postmasters Appointed.

The latest nominations for Michigan postoffices made by President Wilson are as follows: Joseph Fremont, to be postmaster at Bad Axe; George Arthur, Elkton; Henry M. Jacobs, Hamtramck; William S. Drew, Augusta; John J. Galster, Boyne Falls; George B. McIntyre, Fairgrove; Charles A. Standiford, Athens; Paul Harrison, Bloomingdale; Perry H. Peters, Davison; John J. Sleeman, Linden.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

COLLEGE GIRLS CARELESS.

The Matron Moans Over the Things That Are Left Behind.

"My troubles begin with vacation," said the matron in a girls' college. "Don't talk to me about the carelessness of boys—they aren't in it with the girls. Maybe it is because we expect more of the girls. Here's my experience; judge for yourself: The first crowd got off on the special, which left at 7 P. M. Before 8 next morning I had telegrams galore. Jewelled fraternity pins, lace waists, a princess gown left hanging in a closet, a diamond ring and an opal necklace were a few of the things telegraphed for. One student left five shirt waists, her new gymnasium shoes and all of her small things—washcloth, toothbrush, soap cup, whiskbroom, and never even wrote for them—forgot she ever had them, I guess.

"Do you know, I don't believe ten girls in the whole college had more than two-thirds of their belongings. They all left all their toilet articles. I think college life makes girls careless and slipshod. I asked the dean if one of the girls was very wealthy. 'Why, no, I don't think so—they are comfortably fixed, I believe, but not rich. What made you ask?'

"What made me ask? That girl left six almost new pairs of shoes, two hats, all her towels, curtains, shoe bags (they all have those), two silver spoons, a lot of books, a beautifully carved sandalwood box and any number of small things—couldn't get them in her trunk, she said. Do you wonder I thought her family must be rich?

"Sweaters, hot water bags, handsome waists by the dozen, aren't even written for. One girl did write for her Bible she had forgotten and needed very much. When they leave valuable things we send them C. O. D., and of course forward all things written or telegraphed for if found—wagonload after wagonload of stuff. trash of all kinds is taken from their rooms.

"It's a grand harvest for the maids. They find more than they can carry away. After a while they stop taking powder, shoe polish,—black, brown and white—bottles of whichhazel camphor, alcohol and tonics—never heard of so many kinds of tonic. They look with scorn on nail brushes and tooth powders. They really have more towels, handkerchiefs and washcloths than they can carry away. It seems an awful waste to me to have good things go in the trash hampers when I know all the mothers aren't rich and many have denied themselves to send their daughters to college."

WORK TREATMENT IN DISEASE.

Successful With the Mentally Affected and Alcoholics.

Some interesting experiments conducted at the State Institution at Mauer Oehling have completely demonstrated the great value of work as a means of healing in various forms of chronic illness, especially in mental and nervous disorders, alcoholism and epilepsy.

Under the supervision of Dr. Starlinger, the chief of the institution, no less than 54 per cent. of the patients are engaged in some kind of occupation. The majority are employed in farm, dairy and garden work, while others turn their attention to mechanical trades, including the production of a newspaper, which is printed and also largely written by the inmates.

It has been found that the mentally affected and those suffering from alcoholism make the most willing and efficient workers. Work has a quieting influence and renders the patients much more satisfied.

The favorable effect on their physical condition is shown from the fact that the number of deaths from tuberculosis have steadily decreased since the introduction of the work treatment, although the number of patients has constantly increased.

One other good effect of the work treatment is that the general public are found to lose much of their dread of asylums when they see the patients engaged in some useful occupation.

Controlling Flower Colors.

By the use of chemicals, such as potassium sulphate, aluminum sulphate, calcium hydrate and lead acetate, Prof. Henry Kraemer of Philadelphia has produced a red color in the petals of the white Kaiserin rose, and has caused hydrangeas, naturally red-flowering, to produce blue blossoms, says Youth's Companion. The chemicals are fed to the plants in the form of solutions, or added to the soil in the solid form, solution then taking place gradually in the earth. The manner in which the chemicals act on the plants is not yet fully understood.

Muscular Christianity.

Birmingham, England, was the home of prize fighting when the ring was patronized by literature and royalty. There was Bendigo, who became an enemy to all unrighteousness. "Wot's atheists?" he asked once, on being told that a gathering of men he saw were of that persuasion. He was told. "Don't believe in no God, don't they?" he shouted. "Here, hold my coat. I'll show 'em wot's wot."

Notice to Water Users.

At a meeting of the Water Board held June 30, 1913, the following resolution was offered and adopted:

Owing to the abuses of water privileges in the Village of Tecumseh by those who are on flat rate, also by those who are on meters, the following sections of the village ordinance for the management of the village water works and regulating the use of water therefrom will be rigidly enforced

Sec 11. Any water taker allowing water to run to waste unnecessarily, or using, permitting the use and not preventing the use of water for purposes not specified in their application and permit, or by any person not authorized, by permit, on [illegible] for premises, shall be liable to a penalty in the sum of not less than one and not more than ten dollars, in the discretion of the committee on water works, and the water shall be shut off until the penalty is paid.

Sec 13 The right is reserved to suspend the supply of water to all private families, jets, sprinklers and street washers, or for other than domestic use whenever the public interest requires it. Fountains and private hose shall not be used at the time of a fire. All persons using fountains are required to shut off the water upon an alarm of fire.

Sec. 15. All water rates, except hereinafter provided, shall be payable semi-annually in advance January first and July first for the ensuing terms, beginning January first and July first respectively. Meter rates and street sprinkling rates (where sprinkling is done with a cart or wagon) are payable monthly. Builders rates are payable in advance. If water rates are not paid within twenty days after they become due, a penalty of 6 per cent will be added thereto, and the committee on water works shall immediately cause the water to be turned on again until all back rates penalties and damages shall be paid and the further sum of one dollor for turning off and on the water.

Sec 16. In case where the water has been shut off from any premises for non-compliance with the ordinance of the village, a penalty of not less than one dollar must be paid to the committee on water works before the water will be turned on again. And in case the water shall be found turned on without authority, or when in the opinion of the committee on water works the turning off of the water is not a sufficient protection against the unauthorized use of water, the committee on water works may cause the ferrule to be drawn. Any further supply of water to the premises shall be allowed only under the conditions prescribed for original permits.

Sec. 17. All sprinkling charges will cover the term beginning May 1st and ending October 31st in each year. Proportionate charges will be made for longer time than that specified. In sprinkling streets each water taker shall be limited to the frontage for which water rates are paid. In case the water taker sprinkles or permits to be sprinkled more than the specified frontage, the excess will be charged at the full rate per lot or foot. The sprinkling of streets, sidewalks, lawns and gardens is prohibited except between the hours of six and eight o clock A. M. and five and eight o'clock P. M., unless special permit is obtained for longer use. The use of hose with out a nozzle or with a nozzel having a circular opening of over ¼ inch in diameter is prohibited except under special permit. Hose shall not be allowed to run water except when in use by a person engaged in sprinkling.

Sec. 18. Stationary fountains shall not be used more than ten hours each day and only between May 1st and November 1st, except by special permit and payment of additional charges.

Sec. 19. Revolving lawn sprinklers and movable fountains shall not be used more than two hours each day and between the hours of five and seven P. M., except upon payment of fountain rates per schedule.

Sec 20. The regular water rates for street, sidewalk and lawn sprinkling will be based on use, only for dust laying and sprinkling purposes fairly applied, and any excessive or unreasonable use of water is prohibited. Any violation of this rule will subject the offender to the forfeiture of water rates paid and the shutting off of the supply.

Sings Hymns to Her Chickens.

A woman living near here never says "Chicky, chicky, chick" when she wishes to feed her chickens. When she goes to the hennery with feed she sings a church hymn, such as "Rock of Ages" or "Holy Bible, book divine; precious treasure, thou art mine!" and the "biddies" make a bee line rush toward her from all parts of the yard. The chickens recognize her voice, and will not rush to any other person with the same speed, even if the same hymns are sung.—Clay City correspondence Indianapolis News.

A Portrait of Charles Anthon.

His outward personality was unique and impressive. He was a trifle under the average height, erect as an Indian and inclining to portliness. His head was suberb and his features strong and finely cut. He was punctiliously neat in his dress, the style of which was never varied. A short sack coat hung straight from his ample shoulders, merging in front into a black satin vest and a very small gold pin, the whole surmounted by a black satin stock and a high standing collar with rounded corners.

Broke 62,458 Bottles.

On the morning of April 18, 1906, the cellar of Paul Masson, a wine merchant of San Jose, Cal., contained a stock of 125,000 bottles, all neatly arranged. Then came the earthquake and when the proprietor was able to enter his cellar again he found that 62,458 bottles, by actual count, were broken and the remainder thrown about in the wildest confusion. It is curious, with such a large number of bottles, that the quake should have come within a few dozen of demolishing an exact half of the stock.—Wide World Magazine.

AN AUXILLIARY "FLEET" OF MOTOR CARS

With her usual preparedness and forsight in things military, Germany has distanced other nations in the matter of motor vehicles for war. Her preeminence in this field lies not so much in the ownership by the War Department of automobiles, nor along the line of motor units, but rather in the establishment of subsized automobile corps for both passenger and supply transportation. Without the great expense incident to possession, —an expense which would be useless in time of peace,—she is thus possessed of a well developed arm of the service. Corps under subsidy and subject to demand in war time include one of motor-cycles, one of passenger automobiles, and a third of motor supply trains of a sort practically unknown in this country. The first and the last are subject to purchase by the government at a fixed prices, the passenger machines must serve in maneuvers for a certain period each year, and all receive in compensation substantial payment divided in various ways.—From "Germany's Subsidized Army Automobiles," by Reginald McIntosh Cleveland, in the American Review of Reviews for July.

NOTICE

If every citizens of Tecumseh that is interested in the wellfare of the community would place a small crock in some shady place on the lawn and keep it replenished with fresh water. It would be a great preventative of Hydrophobia dogs and cats are constantly seeking fresh water during these hot days and thousands of our beautiful birds are panting and suffering for drink.

SMALL—WESCELIUS

A most beautiful wedding took place at Westminister Presbyterian Church Grand Rapids, Saturday noon June 28, when Miss Marie Wescelius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sybrant Wescelius, was united in marriage to Ward Small of Chicago, in the presence of a large assembly of guests, Rev. John F. Thomas Jr. officiating with the ring servise. Mrs W. H. Loomis presided at the organ, playing the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the party entered

Miss Dorothy Vincent was maid of honor. The bridemaids were Mrs. H. Perry of Forest River, Chicago, and Miss Effa Bown of Spring Lake, Walter Grerlss of Chicago was Master of Ceremonies, Mrs. Samuel McClure of Erie, Pa., was Mistress of Ceremonies, Little Dorothy Wescelius acted as flower girl and ring bearer. The bride was beautiful in a train gown of white meteor crepe trimmed with rose point lace and pearls. with a veil fastened with sweet peas, and she carried a shower boquet of the same sweet flowers, her only ornament being a necklace of pearls and aqua marine a gift of the groom. The maid of honor wore pink, the bridesmaids pale green, all wearing white picture hats trimmed with colors to match their gowns. The little flower girl being daintily gowned in white.

At the close of the ceremony the bridal party and out of town guests went to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding breakfast was served. About 50 guests were present from Chicago, St. Louis, and other places. A telegram of congratulations from Judge and Mrs. W. A. Moore was received from London England. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Small will be at home at Forest River Chicago.

Particular interest in this wedding is felt by many in Tecumseh, who have known the bride since her early childhood, as she with her parents have made frequent visits at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Smeltzer in the years passed by, and later have visited Mrs. Smeltzer from time to time. These friends unite in good wishes to the happy couple.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

Novel Combination of Fresh Mushrooms With Sausages.

"Have you ever tried broiled sausages with mushrooms?" asks a correspondent of the "Epicure."

"As a matter of fact the sausages are not broiled at all, but the smallest of breakfast sausages are laid in a sizzling hot frying pan and cooked brown on one side, then turned and taken out to drain on paper when sufficiently cooked.

"Some fresh mushrooms that have been peeled are then set cooking in the sausages on slices of toast which have been buttered. For a change add a few slices of bacon to the dish of sausages before cooking the mushrooms.

"A certan egg dish that was invented in a Latin Quarter studio in Paris is delicious. Butter some little earthen dishes such as are used for shirred eggs and break one or two eggs into each. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, grate on a liberal quantity of dry Cruyere cheese, and some bits of butter, pour over cream to cover and bake in a hot oven until the eggs are set.

"For another dish: Put a sweet Mexican pepper or Pimento morrones—the tinned variety—in the bottom of a custard cup or earthen egg cup, break in a fresh egg, add salt, pepper and butter, and bake until the egg is sufficiently cooked. Serve with fingers of crisp buttered toast."

Not Altogether a Hero.

After rescuing a boy from a pond at Zurich, Switzerland, recently, a peculiar reason for doing so was given by another boy, ten years old, Hans Weber. "I should never have troubled about him, if he had not been wearing my skates," was the laconic protest of the boy, when complimented on the rescue, at the risk of his life, of the boy, who had fallen through the ice.

ALFALFA TOUR IS POPULAR

Great Crowds Attracted to the Meetings in St. Clair County

Port Huron, Mich., June 25.—That St. Clair county farmers already have become inoculated with the alfalfa germ was made evident at the first day's campaign in several townships Monday. Everywhere the tourists went they were greeted by crowds and all seemed to be keenly interested in the practical demonstrations which was made. The tour will be continue throughout the week, ending with a banquet in this city next Saturday night at which the farmers will be the guests of the Port Huron business men. L. V. Crandell, St. Clair county's agricultural expert, is directing the campaign and he anticipates that it will be productive of immense good.

ALFALFA

They're using it for breakfast food,
They've tried it out found it good.
It leads them to a cheerful mood.
Alfalfa.

It is one of the safest bets
They're using it in cigarettes.
An appetite for more it whets.
Alfalfa.

They make campaign cigars of it,
Tobacco they use not a bit.
With patriots it makes a hit.
Alfalfa.

It makes fine stuffing for a bed,
Fine rats to dress milady's head.
To livestock it is wisely fed.
Alfalfa.

It's useful ways or so,
There's no place that it will not grow.
Get wise, oh, farmer man and sow
Alfalfa.

They are doing more tricks with alfalfa then a monkey can do with a cocoanut. It remains for some genius to invent an alfalfa tea which will cure rheumatism, lumbago, misery in the back, tonsilitis, that run-down feeling, sleeping sickness, corns, bunions, appendicitis, colorblindness, spring halt, spavin, stiff neck, falling hair, erysipelas, hay fever, housemaid's knee and baldness. A man ought to be able to get a doller a bottle for that. Flint Journal

The Ladies' World for July is called a Ten Story Number, and it has a fine collection of fiction by such notable writers as Mary Heaton Vorse, Emily Calvin Blake, Ellis Parker Butler, Mary Hastings Bradley, Mrs. C. N. Williamson, Grace Duffie Boylan and John Gruelle, besides some unsigned contributions that are full of interest. The concluding chapter of the remarkable successful series, "What Happened to Mary?" is given this month, and the promise is made that in August a new series, with a different atmosphere, and even more exciting, will begin. The Edison Company will also present moving pictures of the new stories. A feature of this number is the fine presentation of colored needlework, which will attract all lovers of this artistic occupation, which means nearly every woman. Mary Hinman Abel, in the housekeeping department, writes sensibly on Good Food for Less Money, and the housewife will find practical advice on putting up jams and jellies, on making summer desserts and many other seasonable things. There is a good article on celebrating the Fourth of July, and another on vacations. Frieda Hempel and Ernest Schelling give instruction on singing and piano playing, and Helen D. Purdy discusses the new fashions. [New York: Ten Cents a Copy.]

Baking Powder Biscuits

Light as a Feather

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Baking Powder Biscuits made by this recipe are so far ahead of ordinary baking powder biscuits that, if once tried, you will never use any other recipe. Try it the next time you run short of bread. Save this recipe. 28

K C Baking Powder Biscuits

Three cups flour; ¼ to ½ cup shortening; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; about 1 cup milk or water; 1 teaspoonful salt.

Sift three times, the flour, salt and baking powder. Work into the flour the shortening, using lard or butter for shortening. Then mix to a very soft dough with the milk. The softer the biscuit enters the oven, the lighter it comes out. Never knead baking powder biscuits; press the dough into shape and roll lightly. Cut in small shapes and bake on a sheet or very shallow pan in a hot oven. In placing biscuits in the pans place well apart, not allowing edges to touch. Small biscuits are better than large ones. Large biscuits do not have the proper amount of time to raise and bake.

Have you seen the new K C Cook's Book? Brimful of appetizing recipes that simply must be successful every time if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You would gladly pay 50 cents for this valuable book, yet we send it absolutely free upon receipt of the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder. JAQUES MFG. How About Madame.

"Under the lax American system of bringing up girls," says a Paris journal, "the American young man rarely wins the first kiss from the girl who is to be his bride." Maybe, but by Heck! that is not so bad as the Gallic discomfort of never knowing who has won the last kiss from the "madame."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Tecumseh People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Tecumseh residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

George D. Chaplin, carpenter, N Ottawa St., Tecumseh, Mich., says. "I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in December 1905 I have taken this remedy on different occasions since then and have always found that it acts as represented. My kidneys were disordered and made me miserable. Knowing of several people in this vicinity who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with success, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug store and began using them. The results were very satisfactory and I am in hopes that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading of my experience."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Detachable.

"Is her hair a crown of glory?" "Yes, and every night she abdicates." —Town Topics.

The Difference Between "The Summer Girl" and "The Summer Woman."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For sale by all druggists.

Diplomacy.

Diplomacy is the practical application of strategy, but lots of people term it the double cross.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth; crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverish and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years and entirely rid my children of worms I would not be with it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Makes Quite a Difference.

Mason—"Do you think it's unlucky to have 13 at table?" Brown—"Not if the thirteenth is paying for the dinner."

Rheumatism and the Heart.

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbs the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Attacked Wife and Mother.

Alfred Green, aged 28, is held in the county jail at Port Huron charged with having attacked his wife with a carving knife and stabbed her mother while in a fit of insane jealousy, augmented by drink. Green is alleged to have slashed his wife's face, throat and breast so that she will be disfigured for life. Edward Fortier, who rushed into the house and grappled with Green, just in time to save the woman's life, was stabbed in the arm. The aged mother of Mrs. Green received several wounds while attempting to shield her daughter.

ODD FACTS ABOUT DUST.

Four Thousand Million Particles of It in a Puff of Smoke.

Dust would not be possible were it not for the fact that matter is almost infinitely divisible. It has been estimated that an average puff of smoke from a cigarette contains about four thousand millions of particles of dust.

A single grain of indigo will give color to a ton of water; of course, says "Popular Mechanics," every drop of this water must contain an immense number of ultramicroscopic particles of indigo.

A few grains of fluorescein, a substance derived from coal tar, will produce a distinct fluorescence, shining with a yellowish green light when strongly illuminated, in a hundred tons of water. To produce this result the fluorescein must be divided into countless billions of particles.

Every conceivable substance enters into the composition of dust. In street dust may be found bits of iron and steel from the tires of wagons, horseshoes and the nails of our own shoes, bits of leather from harness, fragments of weed, cotton, silk, stone, gold, silver, clothing, wool, hair, animal excreta, various ores, tin, paper, clay, sand, moulds, bacteria—in fact everything under the sun.

The Austrian State Coach.

The Emperor of Austria owns the most beautiful state coach in existence. Its proportions are perfect and the finish of the mouldings and carvings are exquisite. It was built in 1696, and is shaped with all the curves which distinguish Louis Quatorze furniture, straight lines being carefully avoided. The panels are adorned with nymphs in the style of Rubens. Indeed, the custodian informs those privileged to view the coach that they are the work of Rubens. If Peter the painter had not died fifty-six years before the coach was built his statement would be believed. It is a more comfortable conveyance too than the British state coach, being hung upon well balanced springs.—London Chronicle.

A Kentucky Spelling Bee.

Dr. Herbert Cunningham, who was reputed to be one of the best in the bunch at the spelling bee, balked at the first word given out and was sent to his seat when he failed to spell the third word put to him. Press Arwood could not spell Chicago and John King put an i where the e should have been in bullet. John Lawrence put the i before the e in nickel; Arthur Burnett put a u for w in frown and Harper Boyd spelled pew pue. Mrs. W. H. Jefferson, who was the best speller for the town side, missed the word cuckoo, while Prentice Thomas, Mrs. Robert Crenshaw and others missed words equally simple.—Cadiz Record.

Birds Killed in Migration.

According to advices from the Caucasus millions of singing birds which every winter used to find a warm retreat on the southern slopes of the forest clad mountains of the Caucasus were suddenly surprised by the intense cold and severe snowstorms while they were on their way from the north. The sides of the mighty mountains, the highest in Europe, and the shores of the Black Sea were strewn with small corpses of singing birds, especially bullfinches, goldfinches, robin redbreasts, flycatchers and other birds which in the summer mostly visit these shores.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Whistling for Health.

Whistling is a good thing for the lungs. It is said that whistling boys are seldom troubled with bronchitis and pneumonia. Many medical men sometimes urge patients with weak lungs to whistle as often and as much as they possibly can.—Science Siftings.

Are You Blue and Worried?

Nervous? Some of the time really ill? Catch cold easily and frequently suffer from biliousness or headache? The reason is that your system does not rid itself of the poisons in the blood; just as impossible as it is for the grate of a stove to rid itself of clinkers. The waste does to us exactly what the clinkers do to the stove; make the fires burn low until enough clinkers have accumulated and then prevent its burning at all. Your liver is sluggish—you are dull and heavy—sleep does not rest, nor is food appetizing. In this condition illness develops. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery eradicates the poisons from the body—a glyceric alterative extract made from bloodroot, golden seal and mandrake root, stone and queen's root, without the use of alcohol. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood.

MRS. BLAKE.

MRS. BENJ. BLAKE, of Port Dover, Ont., Box 36, writes: "I have been a great sufferer for years from throat trouble, catarrh, indigestion, female troubles, bloating, constipation and nervousness—at times I would be in bed, then able to be up again. Was under many different doctors' care, and would get better for a little while, then I would go down with chronic inflammation all through me. For nineteen years I had this poison in my blood. After trying nearly everything I got worse. I read in The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have taken the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and have used five bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I am now able to do my work and walk with pleasure. I feel like a new woman. I enjoy everything around me and thank God for letting me live long enough to find something that made me well again."

EFFECTS OF INTENSE LIGHT.

Retinal Fatigue Depends on the Amount Received.

It is not so much the intensity of the light focused on the retina as it is the quantity received by that sensitive organ that causes retinal fatigue or worse. In the great snow fields of the artic regions the natives protect their eyes from the glare of the snow by goggles made of hollowed pieces of wood in which they have made small holes to look through. This, says the "Optical Review," reduces the quantity of the light which passes into their eyes with consequent relief from the glare.

So, too, if we look through a minute pinhole disc at the sun we can endure the very bright light much longer than when we look with the naked eyes. If we look at a distant electric arc light there is no retinal fatigue, while if we look at the same light from a short distance there is great discomfort, and yet the two retinal images are of equal brilliancy, only in the first case this image is very much smaller than in the second case; that is the quantity of light is very much different.

Then there is the flaming electric light which is now to be found in all of the large cities of the country. This light is much less brilliant than that of the arc light, and yet its size is so great that this more than makes up the difference, and it is therefore very glaring and uncomfortable to look at. In skiascopy it is possible to use a very intense light if it is made small in area, and for the reasons above stated.

Developing A Character.

The late Frances E. Willard said: "There are so many kinds of beauty after which one may strive that we are bewildered by the bare attempt to remember them. There is beauty of manner, of utterance, of achievement, of requtation, of character; any one of these outweighs beauty of person, even in the scales of society, to say nothing of celestial values.

"Cultivate most of the kind that lasts the longest. The beautiful face with nothing back of it lacks the staying qualities that are necessary to those who would be winners in the race of life. It is not the first milepost but the last that tells the story; not the outward-bound steed but the one in the home stretch that we hail as victor."

Enemies of Matrimony.

Wedlock seems to be in bad way in the mountains of the Dauphine. The confirmed bachelors of the country decided to meet every month and toast celibacy. Invitations are sent out with the information, "Good feeding, good drinking, much laughter, much dancing." An added insult to matrimony is that the invitations were sent to all spinsters who have "put on St. Katherine's cap"; that is to say who are over 25 and are therefore presumed to be on the high road to old maidenhood. The confirmed bachelors announced their intention of eating, drinking, laughing and dancing with the old maids every month. But their very hardihood may be their undoing.—London Telegraph.

Why a Horse Rolls.

Horses are fond of rolling on the ground and no animal more thoroughly shakes itself than they do. After a roll they give themselves a shake or two to remove anything adhering to the coat. The habit is of much service to horses living in open plains. On being turned loose at the end of a journey an Arab horse rolls in the sand, which acts as blotting paper, absorbing exudations from the body. A shake removes the sand, and the coat soon dries. Cavalrymen in hot climates sometimes put sand on their horses as the simplest and quickest way to dry them.—Selborne Magazine.

Barmaids in South Australia.

South Australia is suffering from a barmaid famine. Two years ago barmaids were abolished in that State by act of Parliament. No more could be legally engaged, but those already employed could remain on condition that they registered themselves. There are now only 400 of them left, and the competition for their services was that their wages jumped from 25 shillings to £3 a week. The hotels that have had to employ barmen report a considerable change for the worse in their receipts.—London Chronicle.

Opium Smuggled in Barrel Staves.

Through some clever work on the part of the customs secret services men 199 cans of opium hidden in the staves of barrels containing lamp blacking were seized and the would be importer and his assistants were arrested. As the staves of the barrels were rather thick just in the centre instead of being hollowed, the smugglers had carved out a small sort of pocket large enough to contain a narrow can of opium in each stave. When the staves were set together it was impossible to see these openings. —Manilla Times.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

Williamston will hold a home coming celebration on Aug. 6, 7 and 8.

Michigan is well represented at Gettysburg this week. All hope that the old soldiers will have a fine time and return safe and sound.

Leona Horn, 5 years old, of St. Charles, will lose the sight of her left eye as a result of sticking the point of a knife in the optic while playing mumbletypeg with her brother.

An epidemic of smallpox has broken out at Adrian and the board of health has announced that it will give out no information regarding the spread of the disease. Seven cases were reported the first day.

William Skella, 30, a Michigan Central brakeman, was perhaps fatally injured Saturday night when thrown from the top of a box car by a water pipe which had been left out over the track at Kalamazoo.

General Manager Charles A. Floyd of the Grand Rapids, Holland & Chicago interurban, has notified the motormen and conductors of a general advance in wages. The new scale will be 24, 25 and 26 cents an hour.

E. A. Holden, brother of Prof. Perry G. Holden, the alfalfa expert, is at Lake Ann looking after his farm in Almira township. The Holden boys grew up on this farm and learned the first principles of agriculture there.

John Parks, 33, employed at a Flint automobile factory, was found in an unconscious condition near Bridgeport Saturday afternoon by James Reid. Parks' motorcycle was lying nearby, partly demolished. It is not known how he was injured. His condition is reported to be serious.

In the arrest of John Carroll, Carl Nelson and Ray Hart of Grand Rapids by Detectives Halloran and Dunn, Chief of Detectives J. U. Smith believes he has broken up a gang of thieves which has stolen a large amount of valuables from Pere Marquette cars in and about Grand Rapids in the past several months.

Florence Richardson, aged 7, daughter of Joseph Richardson of Hiawatha township, Schoolcraft county, was crushed to death in the mechanism of a traction engine piloted by her father. The child had sought to ride on the tool box of the machine and her dress became caught in the cleats of the wheels.

State Bacteriologist M. L. Holm says that there should be a state law placing more rigid restrictions on the sale of bi-chloride of mercury. "Time was when bi-chloride of mercury was generally used as an antiseptic but there are so many good non-poisonous germicides at the present time that some restrictions should be placed on the sale of the drug," he declared.

When a scaffold on a barn he was helping to build near Henderson gave way Herbert Leavitt, 35 years old, fell 20 feet and suffered several broken ribs, a fracture of the left arm and such serious internal injuries that it is feared he cannot recover. About three months ago Leavit fell 35 feet from the roof of a barn and sustained injuries from which he had not fully recovered.

The intense heat during the past few days caused a sidewalk in Dowagiac to explode, pieces of the cement being hurled nearly 50 feet from the explosion. Water used to cool off the walks had leaked into a crevice in the cement. The intense heat beating down on the walk caused steam to form, it is believed, and so great became the pressure on the walk that the explosion followed.

Attorney-General Fellows, in an opinion rendered, holds that the owner of a motor car may be held liable for an accident resulting from the non-use of lights while the machine is standing on a curb. The law does not specifically state how machines shall be lighted when not in motion, but as a results of Fellows' ruling it is expected that motorists will keep both head and tail lights burning when at the curb.

The body of Archie McArthur, formerly of Alpena, was brought there Sunday for burial, accompanied by Miss Mary Williams of Flint, whom Mr. McArthur was to have married June 10. Mr. McArthur died in Flint Saturday. He was taken ill of typhoid fever June 4, and suffered a relapse on the day set for his wedding. He had lived in Alpena until four years ago when he went to Flint to work in the Buick automobile plant.

Monday afternoon the beet sugar manufacturers of the state met at Lansing in a conference with Professors Kedzie and Patten of the college and Analyst Shannon of the dairy and food commission, to draft plans for uniform methods in the analysis of sugar beets. The last legislature passed an act which requires all beet sugar manufacturers to pursue the same methods in their analysis of beets, to insure fairer prices to the growers.

Miss Margaret Mitts, president of the Saginaw County Humane Society, in a letter directed to the state live stock commission, holds as drastic the commission's recent proclamation declaring a quarantine in Saginaw against unmuzzled dogs. She points out that authority to shoot dogs should be placed only with the peace officers and not with citizens. Miss Mitts says that within the last few weeks the society has had to deal with people who poured oil on dogs and set them afire and one man cut a dog's tail and hind legs off.

During a fire which gutted the Saginew Brewing Co.'s plant, Henry Fiebig, 28, fireman, fell from the roof and seriously injured his back.

Jack Johnson, the pugilist, and his white wife are said to have entered Canada via Detroit on their way to Montreal, from whence they sailed for Europe Saturday.

There has been ninety-seven marriage licenses issued in Calhoun county during the month of June, the largest number ever issued in any one month in the history of the county.

James G. McMullen, 35 years old, of Breckenridge, Saginaw county, was acquitted in circuit court of killing Samuel Donohue at Merrill last August. The jury was out 20 minutes.

The entire business section of Albion was threatened by fire Monday when lightning struck the plant of the Commonwealth power company and reduced it to ashes, causing a loss of $45,000.

Three bathers, one at Manistee, one at Monroe and the other at Grand Rapids, were drowned Sunday afternoon, while two girls and their brother were rescued from similar fates at Ottawa beach, near Holland.

Joseph Bernard Orth, 51, for 22 years superintendent of Grand Rapids construction work, is dead, as a result of being weakened by having his teeth extracted, together with a collapse brought on by the intense heat.

The beauty and virtue of women are superior to the virtue and beauty of men, but no one can be beautiful when in the throes of a deep-seated hacking cough or cold. Nothing will bring greater relief than Allen's Cough Balsam. Sold for over half a century. Endorsed by those who use it. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

A Few Words about

Painkiller

The Rev. James H. Dixon, Rector St. Judes and Hon. Canon of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, writes:—"Permit me to send you a few lines to strongly recommend PERRY DAVIS' PAINKILLER. I have used it with satisfaction for thirty-five years. It is a preparation which deserves full public confidence."

In the graduating exercises of the Vassar high school of 1886 were three girls, Lizzie Thurston, Clara Labe and Anna Bergman. All were married, and this year all had daughters—each 18 years old—graduating in the same class.

Leo Walters, aged 20, lost his life Sunday at Monroe in an effort to stay under water longer than a companion. Both had dived several times, when Walters was missed by his companion. He called aid, and the young man's body was soon recovered.

Ex-State Treasurer A. E. Sleeper of Cass City has 40 acres of land surveyed and platted for a new village, which will be called Greenleaf, on the new Detroit & Huron railroad. The Cass City Grain Co. will erect bean and grain elevators, and McLeod Bros. will build a general store.

Elmer Dubey, the 12-year-old son of Noah Dubey of Mount Clemens, is in St. Joseph's sanitarium with his whole body paralyzed. He went swimming and is supposed to have struck a submerged log, injuring his spine, as he has been paralyzed ever since shortly afterward. His brain is also affected.

Fred Hauser, a Lansing resident, was nearly mobbed by angry citizens at Charlotte when he drove his automobile into a rig driven by Marvin Lane, a well-known farmer. Lane's horse was knocked down and the buggy damaged. Hauser was fined $25 and a suit for damages has also been brought against him.

While returning to Saginaw from the Country Club with several visiting golf players a motor car owned by R. S. Judd struck a carriage, throwing A. Forbes, of Flint, from the auto and badly injuring him. In the carriage, which was demolished, were Walter Petersen, Boyne City, and George Meeleder, Saginaw, who were bruised.

Ten thousand dollars is being expended on the farmers' elevator at Pinconning, making it, when completed, one of the finest grain elevators in this part of Michigan. The elevators at Standish, Sterling, Whittemore, Hale, Prescott, Gladwin and other towns have been remodeled or rebuilt recently owing to the increased business.

That most of the motion picture theaters in Michigan are not equipped with proper apparatus to entitled them to a state license is demonstrated by a report, obtained from the state fire marshal's department, which shows that of 63 inspections of such theaters made, in compliance with a new law passed by the last session of the legislature, but 12 passed muster and have been granted licenses. There are 385 such theaters in Michigan.

Angered because the children of his neighbor persisted in pulling limbs from trees which he had planted, James Cassidy, of Jackson, seized a shotgun and fired a volley at the children. The bullets took effect in the body of 5-year-old Russell Dodes an he is in a precarious condition. Deputy sheriffs placed the aged man under arrest and he is confined in the county jail. The shooting took place Sunday afternoon.

Stricken by the heat in Detroit while waiting to take the trip to Gettysburg, Henry B. Haass recovered in St. Mary's hospital in time to respond to summons to his home in Ovid because of his wife's illness. Haass is greatly disappointed at being unable to make the trip on which he had planned for many years. "Maybe I will get there yet before I die. I must think of my wife first. Her life has not always been easy. She's had battle to fight, too."

Stockholders of the Michigan & Chicago railroad company at a meeting in Marshall authorized a new bond issue of $10,000,000 to electrify the Allegan division of the Michigan Central from Battle Creek to Allegan and to install a third rail system on the Kalamazoo-Grand Rapids line. It is planned to have the roads connect west of Montieth. The stockholders also decided to build a line to Plainwell and Otsego. A contract was let to run from Holland to Grand Rapids over the Grand Rapids & Saugatuck line. To obtain power for all these lines a contract was let for two large power developing stations on the Manistee river.

NEW YORK — Albert Schlicht, who was a vaudeville actor, fifty-three years old, who was known on the stage as Al Bellman, formerly of the team of Bellman & Moore, committed suicide at the Vaudeville Comedy club.

LOGANSPORT, IND. — The dead body of J. G. Powell, former state senator, and formerly auditor of Cass county, was found in Eel river near the third bridge by a party of boys returning from a fishing trip.

Mysterious Death of Two.

Sheriff Maines is investigating the supposed mysterious deaths of Michael Sullivan, 74, and James Sullivan, 74, at Emmett. The sheriff says while there is some suspicion of the two men having been poisoned, nothing has developed which would cause him to make any arrests in the case, and because of the advanced ages of both men death may have resulted from natural causes. The stomachs of both men have been sent to Ann Arbor for chemical analysis, but as yet no report has been made upon them. Both were 74 years old. Michael died shortly after eating a noonday meal and James died suddenly 10 days later, shortly after eating breakfast. The home is five miles from Emmett and no physician could be summoned before death came. Mrs. Johanna Sullivan, sister of Michael and widow of James, is secluded in her room, declared by her daughters as too ill to receive callers

OLD CHURCH IS ON THE MARKET

New Application of Christianity Failed to Pay.

CHANGED POPULATION CAUSE

Pastor, Who Built Hotel, Free Library, Dining Room, Tailor Shop and Gave Automobile Rides to Foreigners Failed to Get Results and Has Taken Another Charge.

Philadelphia, July 7.—The old Presbyterian church of Northern Liberties, a historic structure at Fourth and Buttonwood street, and its many allied institutions has been put up for sale and the signs of realty brokers adorn the walls of what, at one time, was believed to be one of the paying forms of practical christianity in the city.

The former pastor of the church, Dr. William H. Helderby, has accepted a call to Pittsburgh, and with his departure has come the end of all the enterprises which were begun at a considerable outlay of money.

Population Changed.

Dr. Helderby, when he found that the population of the neighborhood was changing from the old American residents who settled there, to a variety of nineteen different nations, starting in two year ago, established all kinds of features. He constructed a sort of Mills Hotel. He put up a free library and a dining room and not to be outdone by another progressive church in the immediate neighborhood, which was pushing him hard for popularity, he rented a building and placed within it an Armenian tailor, whose duty it was to press the clothes of the derelicts and the foreigners, who wanted to look as prosperous as they might be, when they came to church—this without charge to the patrons and at the expense of the church.

New Way to Church.

An automobile was purchased to give those of the parishioners, rides who had never been able to afford them before and in other ways the way to heaven through this new kind of church was a path de luxe, which has not paid. The expenditures entailed were far exceeding the income from the investment and the trustees of the church soon found that they would have to face bankruptcy and have all their possessions sold if a halt was not called. There were some stormy meetings with the trustees and finally as a solution of the problem Dr. Helderby accepted a pastorate in the west and the elders of the church have decided to sell the outside ventures of the church and get back to first principles.

DUNNE DODGES JOB HUNTERS

Governor Leaves Springfield in Order to Escape Applicants.

Springfield, Ill., July 7.—Governor Dunne left Springfield for Chicago, where he will spend a couple of days. The governor expects to return to this city before leaving for a week's vacation, during which time he is expected to make most of his appointments.

The fact that most of the governor's time is taken up daily with calls by persons seeking state positions has made it necessary that he seek seclusion in order that proper consideration may be given the long list of applications.

SANBORN NOT TO COMMAND

First Regiment Colonel Will Not Go to Camp.

Springfield, Ill., July 7.—For the first time in thirty-three years Colonel J. B. Sanborn is not in command of the First Illinois infantry. It arrived in Lincoln for its annual tour of duty. Colonel Sanborn is detained in Chicago on account of business and the regiment is in command of Lieutenant Colonel James M. Eddy.

The advance detail of the regiment arrived at the camp and completed arrangements for the reception and will remain for one week.

BALL TO SUCCEED HAYWOOD

Unofficial Word from Washington Predicts His Appointment.

Lafayette, Ind., July 7.—An unofficial telegram was received by Mayor George R. Durgan from Washington saying that Representative Peterson had recommended Charles H. Ball for postmaster here.

It is understood that Ball will succeed George P. Haywood next week. Senator Kern has been enlisted in the support of Ball, and leading Democats here say that Ball is sure to be the next postmaster.

Prince Takehito May Die.

Tokio, July 7.—Prince Takehito of the house of Arisugawa-No-Miya, who is afflicted with tuberculosis, is critically ill. He is head of a collaterall branch of the imperial family. Prince Takehito was born in 1862 and served with distinction in the Japan-China war.

First Woman Voter.

Centralia, Ill., July 7.—Mrs. O. W. Coleman, wife of a real estate broker at Wamac, a village near Centralia, was the woman to whom fell the honor or of being the first to cast a vote under the suffrage act passed at the last session of the legislature. She was permitted to drop in the ballot before those of the waiting men. The election was for the purpose of choosing a president and six village trustees.

Capital Had Dry Sunday.

Washington, July 7.—Sunday was dry in Washington. It was the first Sunday the city ever experienced. If you are sick you have to send for a physician on Sundays, as it is only upon the prescription of a physician that a druggist is permitted to dispense liquor.

WINTERS THROWS MYSTERY ON CASE

Public Believes Dentist Has Definite Clew to Daughter.

New Castle, Ind., July 7.—Although two days have passed since Dr. W. A. Winters made the statement that he would have his daughter in half that length of time, the girl has not been found. Dr. Winters is still in the city. He said that he was through talking; that he is not yet through with his investigation and that he will find his child. Dr. Winters received a message with the information that Mrs. Jay Vance has confessed to having tried to blackmail him. Where the blackmail comes in cannot be found out.

The woman at no time demanded money, she only asked that she be given $25 for traveling expenses for herself and daughter.

It is thought in official circles that Winters has a confession from Mrs. Vance and that he found out something in Munice, Ind., the Fourth of July.

Prosecutor Evans, Mayor George M. Barnard and Chief of Police Bousleg all said when Mrs. Vance's letter was received that it was the first real clew. Since the telegram has been received by Dr. Winters to the effect that Mrs. Vance has confessed the officials are puzzled. Part of the statements she made were investigated and found to be the truth. Some things were mentioned in the letter which were known only to Evans, and for that reason he is puzzled.

Petoskey, Mich., July 7.—Two persons were injured when an Adams Express wagon and a farm vehicle collided. Chauncy Kipp, seventy-five year old, and his wife, of Conway, were thrown from the overturned rig.

Rand Strike Ended.

Johannesburg, July 7.—The strike, which involved practically all the gold mines on the Rand, ended. During its brief existence anarchy reigned in the city. There was much bloodshed, and the casualties are estimated at more than 100. The authorities finally were compelled to declare martial law, and during several hours of the day the troops raked the streets with rifle fire.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS AT STANDSTILL

Wilson Insists They Await Tariff and Currency Legislation.

JAPANESE QUESTION OBTRUDES

President Orders Foreign Relations Shelved Until He Can Take Hand in Their Settlement—British Protest Against Panama Canal Tolls Among Others That Must Wait.

Washington, July 7.—The failure of the Wilson administration to make even the slightest progress toward disposing of the numerous matters of foreign relations confronting this government, is due to the desire of President Wilson to concentrate on his program both tariff and currency reform legislation at this extra session of congress. This has been most clearly indicated recently in official quarters.

President Wilson has practically issued an order to the state department that the White House be not worried with matters of foreign relations any more than is absolutely necessary and that as far as possible settlement of existing controversies be deferred until congress is safely out of the way and the chief features of the administration program is satisfactorily disposed of.

Wilson to Have Hand.

The president, it is understood, is not content to let Mr. Bryan go ahead with such matters as the Panama canal dispute with Great Britain while the White House is necessarily absorbed with matters on capitol hill. Mr. Wilson is determined to go into such matters of foreign relations himself and until he can find the time to give them serious study, is unwilling that anything whatsoever shall be done in them by his secretary of state. His determination to exercise the guiding hand in the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States was revealed early in his administration when he wrote with his own hand and issued from the White House, the statements regarding Latin-American policy and the withdrawal of the United States from the sextuple loan negotiations with China. Also it was the president, who wrote the first note in reply to the Japanese protest against the California alien land law.

Japanese Question Obtrudes.

If it were possible, the president would include the Japanese controversy among those matters which are to be laid on the shelf until tariff and currency are out of the way. Only the strong pressure from the Japanese government prevents this being done.

There is now a well defined impression in Washington that the Wilson administration hopes to protract the negotiations with Japan over a long period of time so that the day of settlement may be deferred as long as possible.

IOWA GOVERNOR IS STRICKEN

Des Moines, Ia., July 7.—Governor George W. Clarke was taken to a local hospital suffering from an affection of the kidneys. Governor Clarke became ill shortly after reaching his office in the state house and said he suffered severe pains.

Doctors ordered the governor removed to the hospital.

After consultations physicians issued a bulletin announcing the governor's condition as satisfactory. His respiration and temperatue were normal and pains in his abdomen were being allayed.

MISSING GEMS ARE RECOVERED

Men Who Did Long Branch Robbery Are Captured.

LOOT FOUND IN ONE SATCHEL

Sweetheart Secured Position as Servant in Family of Lawyer Haas and She Handed the $50,000 in Plunder to Her Accomplices—All Property Is Recovered.

Greenwich, Conn., July 7.—Two men were arrested here charged with having been the men who robbed the home of Harry L. Haas, of Long Branch, N. J., of $50,000 worth of jewelry Wednesday night. After a four hours examination by detectives in which the men steadfastly insisted that they had not committed the burglary the police searched a satchel which one of the men had in his room. It contained all the jewels except a diamond sunburst, of small value compared to the total value of the loot.

Woman Servant Involved.

When the jewelry was found one of the men confessed implicating the other and also a woman member of Mr. Haas' household, who, he said, committed the actual theft, and passed the jewelry out of a window to him.

The men who were arrested are R. S. Rhind, who has been a nurse in Dr. J. E. Bowman's sanitarium, and James McIntyre, who has references, showing that he has served as a household servant for families who have summer homes at Newport. The men were arrested in a boarding house kept by Eugene Scott.

The arrest was due to a conversation between Rhind and McIntyre, overheard by some of the women of the Scott family. The men discussed selling large supplies of diamonds, and the women told Scott. He told Dr. Bowman and the police broke into Rhind's room and arrested them.

Sweetheart Aided.

McIntyre in his confession said that he and Rhind had planned the burglary for a long time. One of them had a sweetheart who would help them do the trick, so they managed so that she should get a job in the employ of Mr. Haas.

When McIntyre had told his story he was confronted by Rhind. McIntyre had said that Rhind had two diamond horseshoes of the loot, and that one of them had been sold for $156. Rhind is said to have at one time been a well known wrestler. When the police went to search him it took five of them. In one of his pockets was found one of the missing diamond horseshoes. In another pocket was a check for $156 which he had received from the sale of the missing horseshoe.

SEEK COUNTY SEAT

Residents of North Vernon Desire Removal from Vernon.

North Vernon, Ill., July 7.—Residents of Jennings county who favor the removal of the county seat from Vernon to North Vernon filed a petition with the commissioners asking that such action be taken.

The petition is being considered by the commissioner. Residents of the county are stirred by the proposal and interest is at fever heat.

YATES PUTS QUIETUS ON MRS. GRUNDY TALK

Former Governor to Have Wife Accompany Him.

Chicago, July 7.—Former Governor Richard Yates contemplates taking his wife along on future lecturing tours to protect him against the charge of mingling with other men's wives.

Mr. Yates expressed his intention in the presence of Mrs. Yates at the Hotel La Salle when questioned regarding a report that Edward R. Freemont of Eureka, Cal., was deeply concerned because his wife had boarded the same train as Mr. Yates out of her home town.

"I never in my life tried to take another man's wife, and I'm not going to begin now," said Mr. Yates. "There seems to be but one answer to such silly stories, and that is to take your wife along wherever you go. That story is an atrocious falsehood and an unmitigated lie.

"I met the Freeman's incidently, as I did scores of other people. Mrs. Freeman was on the train I took out of Eureka. She left it at San Francisco, while I came straight east. I spoke to her on the train, as I did to many other people I met on the coast."

Mrs. Yates accompanied her husband to Kilbourn, Wis. Later the couple departed for Farragut, Ia., where Mr. Yates spoke in the afternoon.

DENIES SMALLPOX STORIES

Mayor Issues Statement—Four Cases Out of Town.

Paxton, Ill., July 7.—Extravagant reports regarding smallpox in Paxton have been printed in various newspapers.

The stories are denied in a statement signed by G J. Johnson, mayor, a follows:

"All reports about smallpox in this city are false except that there are four cases. These are quarantined outside of the city and are under control."

TO REPORT SIX SENATORS

Women Will Meet to Denounce Solons on 54-Hour Bill.

Chicago, July 7.—Preparations for a massmeeting of women workers to protest against the action of six Chicago state senators in voting against the fifty-four hour bill for women have been begun by the Woman's Trade Union league. The meeting will be at the Garrick theater next Sunday, July 13.

United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin and Dr. Henry Favill of Chicago have been asked to speak. Miss Mary McDowell, vice president, will preside.

Senator Waage, who fought consistently against the bill, is to be singled out as the chief object of attack. The five other senators whom the lobby committee intends to "report" are Brady, Broderick, Clark, Denvir, and Lundberg.

ELLEN TERRY DENIES RUMOR

Actress and Husband Join in Denouncing Report of Separation.

London, July 7.—Miss Ellen Terry and her husband, James Carew, who was formerly her leading man, deny that they have separated. In response to a message inquiring as to the truth of the report that formal separation had been arranged, the following telegram was received:

"Absurd. Common report is a common liar; this is the first we have heard of it.

ELLEN AND JAMES CAREW."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"TOGO"

Katy fled up the cellar stairs, dropping potatoes and carrots at every misstep. "This is the last!" she gasped. "I'm tellin' ye wanst fer all, ma'am, the baste goes or I do!" And a moment later "the baste" himself appeared a small, unprepossessing, white-yellow ferret, wrapped in the arms of "Jimpsey" Englehart, the son of the house.

Mrs. Englehart stood uncertainly between them. "Well, Katy, I'm sure I haven't any fondness for him myself. He should have been sent back at once."

"Yes," said Jimpsey, fairly in tears, "yes, after he's gone and done his duty and killed all the rats—and he killed them just in bunches, too!—then nobody has any sympathy for him any more!"

By this time Mrs. Englehart could once more hold the scales of justice evenly. "Jimpsey," she said, "we're not denying how valuable he's been. When I think of the way we were pestered with rats hardly two weeks ago— But you ought to think of the people who are pestered with them still, and pass him on to them. The Ingsars and Appletons have just as many as we had."

"Well, why can't they go and buy ferrets of their own, then? But I guess they'll never get any like Togo."

"Then you must keep him in the stable. Why must he be forever going back to the cellar?"

"Why, because that's where he had the most fun, of course! I keep him in his box, too, only he chews his way out again."

"Togo" seemed to blink his little albino eyes in pleasant corroboration. Katy could hardly resist making a pass at him.

Jimpsey retreated vengefully toward the outer door. "And now, too, when he even knows my whistle! I can send him into that hole away up in front of the coal bin, and then whistle through my fingers into the hole away back near where we keep the potatoes, and he comes up just as if it was only the other side of the partition. He'll do it every time I give him a meat scrap. I guess there aren't many ferrets trained like that!"

Again Mrs. Englehart gave up.

Yet it was with a very uneasy mind that she gave up. Only too clearly did she feel that if there was another meeting between Katy and Togo in the shadowy glimpses of the coal and vegetable bins, there would no longer be any chance to choose between them. And Katy was the one really good cook she had ever had. She decided at last that it was something that Mr. Englehart must settle, although in the main it was against her principles to trouble him with such domestic problems.

"Belle," he said, "I'm about ready to quit."

"Why, dear," she asked, "what is it now?"

"Oh, Orv again. A young architect like that—with the brains for it, too —gets a job that gives him his chance to make a name through the whole State. He's uplifted that he marries on it. And then he lets a fat headed contractor make a fool of himself and him about once a week. When that business of the chimney supports got out, the Journal gave him enough bad advertising to kill two ordinary reputations. And now"—he spread out his hands on the table.

"Dear, dear! What is it Malone's done this time?"

"Oh, it was Malone, all right. In a way it wasn't Orv's fault at all. He's been giving himself entirely to the inside and up stairs work for the last month, and I suppose it never once entered his head that an ordinary reasoning man could go wrong in the pipe laying. Then Malone simply put in and covered up every solitary tube connection between power house, main building, library and dormitories without running the wiring through!"

"James!"

"Could you believe it? Could you? Oh, I need hardly say that Orv insists upon taking all the blame. There's miles of piping altogether. And as soon as the Journal gets hold of that—"

It was little wonder that Mrs. Englehart said nothing about Togo. And the same feeling that sent her across to the Havilands' with her dessert uneaten, sent her husband outdoors, where he believed he could think alone.

As a matter of fact he remained alone only till Jimpsey could find him. And then the whole matter of Togo's glitteringly meritorious past and his darkly perilous present was set forth for the consideration of the Englehart supreme court.

But to an outsider it must have been evident at once that the supreme court was not giving the matter its customary close attention. And by the time the counsel for the defense had made his case complete, by telling how Togo would answer to his whistle, the advocate began to be conscious of that himself.

When he was just about to enter a protest. "What? What was that?" asked Mr. Englehart, suddenly, "What was that you were saying about his answering to your whistle?"

Jimpsey went over that part of it again. And now the supreme court did give heed to him.

"But, pa," said Jimpsey, "I told you about that once before!"

"Did you, son, did you? Well, I'm very glad you've told me again." He walked through to the stable and peered into Togo's box. "Has he been fed yet?"

"Well, not for quite a while—not for an hour or two. Of course I'll have to feed him again before I go to bed."

"Good! But suppose you postpone that last feeding for another hour or two. I think I'd like to show him over at the Havilands'. And maybe, if you could put him back into that wire basket thing he came in, we could take him along right now."

To Jimpsey's increasing puzzlement his father seemed as anxious to put Togo on exhibition as he had ever been himself.

At the same time 150 yards away, in the pine and plastery smelling basement of the new college library, there was a second lantern and a second group. It was made up of a very pale young architect named Haviland, of his young wife and Mrs. Englehart and another of Mr. Malone's assistants.

The assistant was kneeling in a sort of niche. Between his knees, in the "wire basket thing," was Togo. In front of them was a hole that might have been a rat hole upon a planet where rats are as big as woodchucks and have learned to line their burrows with steel tubing. As it was, Togo was paying no regard to it at all.

Yet it was that nosing, scratching, none too clean and none to savory young ferret which four people were watching intently. For one minute—or five—or ten—they had been listening for something. And now at last it had begun to come to them—the faintest murmur echo of a "finger whistle." It sounded as if it had come over a telephone from a thousand miles away.

Togo sat up, thrust his nose out and looked at that pipe end. But even those who had never seen a ferret before could see that he was looking at it incredulously and with contempt. As a rat hole, that iron piping was an absurdity, and rats as big as woodchucks were palpably non-existent.

The whistle came again.

And again Togo twitched about and eyed that pipe end, possibly, after all, such things might be true.

A third time he got the whistle. And now his cage door was snapped open. For a moment he still persisted in his doubt, stubborn as a beaver, but the whistle was again repeated, and at last, with a squeaking cluck that admitted frankly that the thing was something which it was at least his duty to investigate, he shot through the hole and disappeared.

He was eating a meat scrap from the fingers of Jimpsey Englehart before the man with the wire basket thing was out of the library cellar. The matter was really decided already.

But it was necessary to make absolutely sure.

When Jimpsey began to whistle again, he in his turn had taken his place in the library basement, and Togo was being held for his start in the power house. This time, too, he made the trip more slowly. But he made it. And he was slow only because about his neck was a tiny dog collar, or rather cat collar. And behind it trailed 150 yards of fine hard fishing line.

"That'll take through any weight of insulated you want," he said.

"And, boys, it's miles ahead," said Mr. John Malone, "of the old story of the lad that got caught up top of the factory chimney, and raveled down the yarn from his sock heel. You know I said all along we'd manage our crossin' as soon as we'd actually come to it. Then, too"—he ingratiatingly expanded to young Mr. Haviland —"this'll make a fine story in the paper. It'll make the finest story you ever read." Meanwhile Togo had begun his second run, this time to North Hall.

And if, at the end of another hour, he decided that he was not hungry any more, and could accordingly leave the remainder of his job until the next morning, no one could do any worrying about that. In the procession that left the new college buildings with extinguished lanterns, Mr. Malone, contractor, and Mr. Haviland, architect, walked side by side—both alike making solemn resolutions enough for New Year's Day. A few steps behind them little Mrs. Haviland and Mrs. Englehart were taking advantage of the darkness to give each other a series of half-tearful hugs. And for his part, with feelings inexpressibly triumphant, Jimpsey Englehart was walking far in the van and all but hugging Togo!

And the evening that interview appeared the same Mr. Malone paid a private and confidential visit to the Engleharts, particularly to Jimpsey. He found him and Togo going into something together in the stable.

"You've got to sell him to me!" he said. "No way to it, you've simply got to. And I want him less to use than to admire. I'll give you $20—which'll set you up in a whole pigeon house, tumblers, homers and all."

Jimpsey's eyes almost popped out. His feelings toward Togo began, despite himself, to undergo a change.

"Twenty dollars, that's what I said. And nineteen of it'll be for his head. For, just between us, boy, just between us, it's his head I'm needing in particular."—ARTHUR E. McFARLANE.

For a Special Use.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Speaker of the House, tells a story of her ancient colored cook, who took a liking to every article in her mistress's wardrobe. It was "Please give me this" and "Please give me that," until Mrs. Clark took a trip to St. Louis and laid in a generous supply of hosiery and underwear and outer garments for the old mammy. The gifts were received with gratitude, but presently the old cook was at her old tricks, asking for stockings, aprons and wrappers. "What did you do with all those things I brought you from St. Louis?" demanded Mrs. Clark. "Why, miss," answered the woman, "I couldn't use them things. Not for nothing. I am saving them all to be buried in."—Washington Herald.

Pasteur's Revenge.

In that one of the hundred best books Vallery-Radot's "Life of Pasteur" we read the story of his misery. It is nothing to say that the war nearly broke his heart. But it broke neither his faith nor the straight line of his work. Only a sort of rage possessed him to redeem and console France by working for her. "Henceforth," he said, "every one of my books shall have written on it these words, Revenge, revenge, revenge." And this was his revenge, to set the name of France in the honors list of science higher than ever: to give the rest of his life to her service, and to wear himself out for her sake.—Spectator.

Regulars and Volunteers.

There is less caddishness in the United States Army than is to be found in military forces elsewhere in the world. In England the Reservists and the Yeomanry are rather snubbed at the instruction camps and the manoeuvres by the regulars; at San Antonio I saw no sign of this.

Everywhere throughout the army there has spread the spirit of real helpfulness for real comradeship with the National Guard. The independence of State troops and regulars has been recognized at last, and in the fact that this is so lies one exceeding great encouragement for him who has been doubtful of the merits of our military system at a time when danger possibly might threaten.—Columbian Magazine.

OLD MUSKET IN A TREE.

Flintlock of Revolutionary Times Found in Hollow of a Log.

Lumbermen employed by the Pennsylvania Lumber Company found a Revolutionary musket embedded in a tree cut down near Shohola, Pike county, Pa. A huge pine tree was cut down, but the butt was defective and in order to secure a sound end to the log the diseased part was cut off. In doing so it was found that this portion of the tree was hollow and the aperture had grown over so that it was not observable to the woodchopper. In the hollow was an old fashioned flintlock musket, such as was in use by the pioneers of this region.

The spot where the musket was found is in the neighborhood of the bloody battle which occurred between the whites and Indians on July 22, 1779, in which the former were defeated, and it is possible that the gun may have belonged to one of the wounded stragglers of the defeated patriots.

Wireless and Safety at Sea.

"Of late, too, another and powerful safeguard has come into use," writes L. Frank Tooker in an account in the "Century" of new and old devices for navigating in fog and darkness. "If one enters the wireless telegraphy room of a transatlantic steamer he will find on the wall a rectangular chart crossed and recrossed by many black lines. Across it also runs one broader line in red ink. On the margin of the chart are marked the days of the week. It is the wireless guide for the current month; the red line gives the course of the steamer, while the many black lines crossing it indicate to the operator at what hour of each day of his passage he will probably pick up the wireless messages of other ships crossing that month. The ship, one sees at a glance, is scarcely ever out of touch with other ships through which disaster may come; and with this knowledge of constant intercommunication the feeling of security justly grows."

The Butterfly's Eye-Spots.

What do the eye-spots on butterflies' wings mean? The naturalist says Mr. Percy Collins, must answer frankly, "I do not know." It is thought that they have some utilitarian application, and they form one of the most intricate of all natural designs. The fact that butterflies have been captured with their eye-spots pierced, as if from the attack of birds, has been used as an argument in favor of the view that they may be "protective markings," imitating eyes because birds strike at the eyes of their victims. But this suggestion is hardly regarded as satisfactory. Among butterflies the most striking examples of eye-spots are found on the under surface of the wings.

Family Floriculture.

George Marion, the stage manager, is a lover of nature and a hater of overcoats and umbrellas. Recently, during a violent rainstorm, he called on his mother, entering her presence wringing wet.

"George," said she, firmly, "you ought not to expose yourself in such weather. You will get pneumonia."

"But, mother," exclaimed George, with a theatrical wave of his hand, "why should I fear the rain? Does it not nurture the grass? Is it not life to the flowers."

"It is a long time," said the good woman, closing a window, "since you were a flower."—From Success Magazine.

Telephoning Without Wires.

Wireless telephony is making advances in various countries. More recent than the successful experiments in America, Denmark and France, are those of Professor Majorana in Italy, who has succeeded in transmitting words very clearly over a distance of about 37 miles, between Monte Marco and Anzio. He employs a hydraulic microphone, actuated by a persistent train of electric waves.

Emmanuel Movement Dangers.

"As for the dangers of the Emmanuel movement," writes the Rev. Elwood Worcester, D. D., in the July "Century," "there is danger in everything that moves; there is also danger in lying still. For my part, while God gives me the ability, I prefer to move and to see others in motion."—From Rev. Elwood Worcester's "The Emmanuel Movement" in the Century.

IMPERMEABLE CORKS.

Gelatine Prevents Even Gases from Penetrating Them.

Referring to the manufacture of impenetrable corks for vessels containing extracts, the Scientific American draws attention to the following process, taken from the Deutsche Destillateurzeitung, for making corks absolutely impermeable: Five per cent. of glycerine is added to a 5 per cent. solution of gelatine and the corks, which, of course, must be properly weighted, allowed to remain for several hours in the liquid. Care must be taken that the temperature of the bath is warm enough to retain the gelatine solution in a fluid condition. The gelatine fills up the pores of the corks, while the glycerine serves to keep the latter elastic. The corks remain in the bath till they are completely saturated, and are then allowed to dry in the ordinary way, no special method being necessary. Tightly-fitting corks, elastic and at the same time impenetrable even by gases, can be obtained by this process.

SOME CHERRIES

Harry Stahler of North Yakima, Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stahler of Tecumseh, has sent home a box of cherries, as samples of the fruit raised in that country. On a stem measuring eight inches were 54 perfect cherries, the smallest being three inches around and the largest 3½ inches. They are a dark red like our black fruit, and of a fine flavor. There were also some light ones like our Oxhart cherry, and these averaged three inches. They are sold by the pound in North Yakima at 6c, and average 64 cherries to the pound. These would surely be all right for the canning season.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

The Ithaca Conservatory of Music, with the desire to advance the study of Music and Dramatic Expression, offers two scholarships to applicants from each Congressional District of New York State, and two scholarships to applicants from each state other than New York. These scholarships are awarded on the basis of competitive examinations and are good for free tuition in Piano, Voice, Violin, or Dramatic Expression for one term of twenty weeks, beginning with the opening of the school year, Sept. 11, 1913. Any one wishing to enter these examinations or desiring further information, should write to Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Ithaca, N. Y.

The two from Michigan who received scholarship for the year 1912-13 were Lucy E. Longyear of Lansing, violin and Ruth Tracy, Manchester, piano.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

We clip the following from the Hudson Gazette. Mr. Skinner has many friends in and around Tecumseh who will be interested.

Mr. C. V. Skinner who makes his home with J. T. Hoffman north of the city was pleasantly surprised by about fifty of his friends coming in to remind him of his passing of the 70th milestone of his life on Tuesday evening June 24th.

Refreshments were ice cream and cakes galore and a pleasant evening enjoyed by all.

A post card shower was also a feature of the evening. He received nearly fifty cards besides other tokens of remembrance.

HOUSE PARTY

Miss Florence Bryan is entertaining a house party in honor of Miss Margaret Waldron, who is to be married the 16th of this month.

Guests were invited for a 6 o'clock dinner Monday, and to remain until Tuesday night. A granite shower for the prospective bride is one of the feature of the occasion. Those who are participating in the festivities are Misses Margaret Waldron, Ivah Waldron, Clara Waldron, and friend, Miss Hazel warren of Grand Rapids, Mildred Boyce, Marie Bramble, Lila Van Valkenburg and Phoebe Knight.

Has Memorized 40,000 Dates.

E. C. Laston, of England, who has just issued a challenge to the world for the memory championship, although only a young man of twenty-three years, is a veritable walking encyclopaedia, for he has memorized forty thousand dates of the principal events in the worlds history since the creation. It was quite by accident that he discovered that he had an exceptional gift of memory. He was being trained as an army officer when an attack of rheumatic fever dispelled his hopes in that direction. At that time he happened to meet the Zancigs in India, who, noticing what a remarkable memory he had for dates, advised him to cultivate it. He then purchased a copy of Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates," and sought to commit to memory the dates of the most important events in the world's history by writing fifty to a hundred dates on a piece of paper and rewriting them three or four times, until he had fully grasped them, with a result that he has a repertoire of thousands of dates, and can give the correct answer without the slightest hesitation.

What is the Next Stop?

In New Zealand an automatic device has just been patented for telling railway passengers the name of the next station. The names of the various stations are printed on a roll, which is rotated by toothed wheels. A "tripper" is placed, either on the track or by its side, between each station, and this is so adjusted as to strike a lever on the passing car. The motion is communicated to the toothed wheels governing the roll bearing the station names, and the ringing of an automatic bell announces to the passengers the fact that the name of the next station is on view.

Overcoming the Difficulty.

The time table of a south of France railway announces: "Half tickets for children are not issued on this line. In the case, however, of two children of one family traveling together a single ticket will be sufficient for the two. Should the family consist of only one child application should be made to the booking clerk, who will issue a portion of a ticket at a moiety of the usual fare."

Few Prizes, Many Blanks.

Everybody writes plays nowadays—or wants to write plays, because a successful comedy or drama pays. Authors are apt to forget that the art of playwriting is one of the most difficult, and requires special and rare qualities.

Chinese Turning Out Good Guns.

The new Chinese government arsenal at Canton now turns out rifles and quick-firing guns according to the best patterns, which are almost as good as those imported from foreign countries with regard to make and finish.

A STOCKING LETTER FROM LONG BEACH CALIF.

I presume that the readers of the Herald have seen different accounts of the calamity which befell our fair city on the 24th of May last, when the approach to the large auditorium, (and not the floor of the auditorium proper) gave way and let about 300 men, women and children on, the heads of hundreds of others who were on the lower floor immediately under the approach and crushing many of them through that floor to the sand beneath.

The total number killed is thirty-nine, the injured about 300. They were removed to the undertakers, the hospitals, their own homes and to private residence. Doctors and nurses were very faithful in caring for the unfortunate. The council and citizens at once made arrangements to bury the dead and care for the injured, free of all expense, to the friends of the dead and to the injured and also aiding those who were rendered destitute. The occasion was "Empire Day" when thousands of British people from all over Southern Calif. assembled here to celebrate Queen Victoria's birthday.

The celebration was under the management of the "Sons of St. George" while a very large parade was passing through the streets a large crowd had gathered in front of the main doors to be opened. When the procession arrived at the entrance the doors were opened and many had passed in when the crash came without a seconds warning with the result already related on the 18th of this month we held a special tax election to raise $60,000 to cover all expenses which have accrued and may accrue from the care of all the unfortunate victims of the disaster. The elevation trains carried by nine to one. The ratio was $2 to $100 valuation of property, which adds $45 to our regular tax

TECUMSEH GRADUATING EXERCISES

The Herald of June 13 is of universal interest to me because of the record of the Commencement exercises, Although I do not know a single one of those who took part in them. They were of interest to me because they took place in my boyhood's home and from the building and grounds where I spent some of my happiest school days I was one of the first class of pupils to enter the new building on the first morning that the old bell called us together to begin our school life in the new and then imposing edifice. It seems as though I can even now.

"I can hear its rattling ding
I can hear its booming dong
And again I hear it sing
Come along! Come along!"

In those days the grounds were not improved and were destitute of shade. The picture in the Herald shows the building hidden by trees only the south west corner which was then the girls' entrance. The thought comes to me, what became of all those bright and happy girls and young ladies who listened to the "rattling ding" to the booming dong" and heard it "sing" "Come along! Come along!" of the old school bell on that, to all of us, eventful morning.

Some years ago during a visit in Tecumseh, I had the opportunity of visiting the inside of the building during vacation. I wandered leisurely through the rooms but when I reached the large upper room which was once our chapel where we met every morning for devotional exercises. A feeling of sadness came over me for I found that it had been turned into a store room for old wornout, useless articles of all descriptions. It seemed to be a profenation of a place made sacred to memory by endearing associations of early school life.

From Mr. Kempf's Salutatory I learned much concerning the birth and growth of High Schools of which I had remained in ignorance all these years. He chose an instructive as well as interesting subject and he treated it in a masterly manner

Miss Peters' Valedictory contained many excellent thoughts concerning the means by which our education is gained and the uses to which it should be put. The following quotation which is taken from her essay expresses what to me has always been the most useful field in which an educated person who has real love for schoolwork can engage.

"If we have delighted in school work nothing can be more suitable than following in the steps of the pedagogue, no other one profession can give quite so wide and varied a field for real service, not alone in introducing children to the world of books, to the great beauties and truth in nature, but in giving a certain amount of ethical instruction. This does not mean preaching, but I do believe example and suggestion from a teacher after fixed ideals help through all our lives"

I believe that such a teacher as Miss Peters describes has an opportunity to do more lasting good in the world than a preacher because the teacher's work is to shape and build up character while the preacher works on characters already formed, I feel that if I have done any good in the world of a lasting nature it was done while I was teaching.

Test of Sobriety.

Many shibboleths have been devised for testing sobriety. George Meredith, who doubtless could have evolved some wonderful examples, had he chosen, calls them "oinometers, or methods of determining the condition of man, according to the degrees of wine or beer in him." One of the most snareful of these is the sentence, "Give James Grimes' gilt gig-whip, and a cup of coffee from a copper coffee pot."—London Chronicle.

MICHIGAN PEOPLE FROM OREGON AND WASHINGTON

Two special Pullman cars filled with former residents of Michigan now living in Oregon and Washington left Portland over O. W. R. & N. June 27 for Detroit Michigan to celebrate the first annual homecoming of the Michigan Societies of Pacific Northwest at Belle Isle July 1. Stop overs were greatly enjoyed at Salt Lake City, Denver Colo and Omaha Neb where auto trips and other entertainments was given the party by various Commercial Bodies of cities. The trip across the continent was so congenial and harmonious that the party seemed like one large family regretting the time when the separation should come. When nearing Michigan City they collected in one car and presented Mrs. Harriet Hendee with a beautiful travellers clock in a Morocco case, Mr. H. F. Smith of Portland making the presentation. Mrs. Hendee is chaperone of the party and secretary of the Michigan Society of Oregon.

The Personell is as follows:—

DR. R. D. SMITH,

is now and will be over up-stairs next door to the Peter's Jewlry Store until Monday Eve, July the 14th. He guarantees you absolutely painless work in every case and with no bad after-effects whatever.

Since coming here a few days ago he has worked for a number of people and every one of them has went away singing praises for what he did for them, not one of them has complained in any way, one lady said she would follow Dr. Smith to the end of the earth before she would let anyone else take her teeth out, and similar sayings are told Dr. Smith every day.

At a time like this when everything is booming along the cost line it may not seem like the right time to lower fees but as this is the first visit of Dr Smith to Tecumseh he has decided to offer an introductory fee of for each and every extraction for the next few days. Remember that this fee is simply made to introduce painless methods that were never before known in this part of the state and that on all following visits the regular fee of 50c will prevail.

Bear in mind that Dr. Smith has been extracting teeth for the last 16 years and is an

in his lineof work and as he does nothing else he is also a

SPECIALIST.

He manufactures his own anaesthetics and no one else is using them neither can they use them. There is positively not one particle of cocaine in them and they can not make anyone sick in any way. They will not affect your heart and if your name is "I. B. Nervous" you will get along just as well as if your name was Mrs. Bravo. For further information along this line see last week's paper or better still call and see the Doctor, he will not charge you anything for examination, neither will he bite you or steal your clothes.

LISTEN AGAIN

All of Dr. Smith's services are entirely free to anyone who cannot afford to pay. All you will have to do is say that you have not the finance and no questions will be asked, furthermore you will be treated with all courtesy and respect. It is the desire of Dr. Smith to do all the good that he can as he journeys along, and he would not rest a minute if he knew that you are suffering with an aching tooth just because you have not the coin. Don't be afraid to call, you should bear in mind that God liked poor people otherwise he would not have made so many of them.

All those people who have teeth they wish removed should remember that this is a chance of a life time and that they should not let it go by unheeded. Dr. Smith is prepared to do all of his work with the least degree of discomfort to the patient, an electric fan is always at your service.

You should not forget that it is to the best interests of the Doctor as wel as to your own that you get the very best work that can be had.

Please do not wait until the last day.

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Tecumseh People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Tecumseh residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

George D. Chaplin, carpenter, N Ottawa St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in December 1905. I have taken this remedy on different occasions since then and have always found that it acts as represented. My kidneys were disordered and made me miserable. Knowing of several people in this vicinity who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with success, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug store and began using them. The results were very satisfactory and I am in hopes that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading of my experience."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Difference Between "The Summer Girl" and "The Summer Woman."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Diplomacy.

Diplomacy is the practical application of strategy, but lots of people term it the double cross.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth; crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverish and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill, says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be with it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Makes Quite a Difference.

Mason—"Do you think it's unlucky to have 13 at table?" Brown—"Not if the thirteenth is paying for the dinner."

Rheumatism and the Heart

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbs the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache, urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Are You Blue and Worried?

Nervous? Some of the time really ill? Catch cold easily and frequently suffer from biliousness or headache? The reason is that your system does not rid itself of the poisons in the blood; just as impossible as it is for the grate of a stove to rid itself of clinkers. The waste does to us exactly what the clinkers do to the stove; make the fires burn low until enough clinkers have accumulated and then prevent its burning at all. Your liver is sluggish—you are dull and heavy—sleep does not rest, nor is food appetizing. In this condition illness develops. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery eradicates the poisons from the body—a glyceric alterative extract made from bloodroot, golden seal and mandrake root, stone and queen's root, without the use of alcohol. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood.

MRS. BLAKE.

MRS. BENJ. BLAKE, of Port Dover, Ont., Box 36, writes: "I have been a great sufferer for years from throat trouble, catarrh, indigestion, female troubles, bloating, constipation and nervousness—at times I would be in bed, then able to be up again. Was under many different doctors' care, and would get better for a little while, then I would go down with chronic inflammation all through me. For nineteen years I had this poison in my blood. After trying nearly everything I got worse. I read in The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have taken the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and have used five bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I am now able to do my work and walk with pleasure. I feel like a new woman. I enjoy everything around me and thank God for letting me live long enough to find something that made me well again."

How Birds Keep Warm.

The high temperature of birds enables them to resist cold more effectively than they could otherwise do. Whereas blood heat for man is 98.4 degrees Fahrenheit it is 107 degrees in the domestic fowl and more in some other birds. Nevertheless they feel the cold cruelly, as you may see any frosty night if you visit an ivy creeper clad wall with a lantern; the sparrows nestle together in a closely packed mass, and if there be a chimney you may be sure the birds will have chosen its exterior as their roosting place for the sake of such warmth as it may give.—Detroit Free Press.

The Vanishing Pigtail.

A large number of Shanghai officials, merchants and others cut off their queues, and every day the new fashion is coming more into popular favor. Time was, and that within the last two years, when any reference to this subject among representative people in this country was taboo, while to-day it is a subject comprehensive of discussion, and similarly to the vicious practices of opium smoking and foot binding, the wearing of a "pigtail" is rapidly becoming bad form.—Shanghai National Review.

The Pocahontas Delegation.

Clarence W. Watson, the new Senator from West Virginia, was a delegate some time ago to a Congressional convention down in his district. Pocahontas county was represented in the convention by only one delegate. The chairman asked for a roll-call on a matter that many did not understand. Whereupon the lone Pocahontas delegate arose and said in all seriousness to the assembled multitude: "Wait! The Pocahontas delegation desires to hold a consultation."—Washington Herald.

Modern Hewers of Wood.

We hear our fathers speak of how the broadaxe used to be in use and what great things they could do with it, but we do not have to go back to their times to see some first class work. George and Clyde Brown, two strong young men of the Stephensport community, shouldered their axes early one morning, went to the woods, and when night came they had made sixty-one crossties. No culls and only one second was found when they were spotted.—Hardingsburg Leader.

The LADY CLERK

By Douglas Walshe.

There weren't many prettier lady clerks than Lucy Raindom to be seen in the city. Lucy, neatly and tastefully dressed, with gold-brown hair, a pair of pathetic blue eyes, and the daintiest little square-set chin that ever hinted that it was not advisable to stir her anger.

As for Donald Hayes, he fell madly in love with her almost at sight, and from the first constituted himself her humble slave, sheltering her as much as possible and telling her all those little things and putting her up to all those little office wrinkles the ignorance of which makes a new place so uncomfortable at the beginning.

Now, in that office, as in most offices, there was a manager—Mr. Maynard—an evil-tempered man who knew his work, but who unfortunately had the notion that the only way to make people efficient was to bully them. Even Lucy's big blue eyes could not control him to keep his tongue; time and again he spoke to her in a way that galled her proud spirit almost beyond endurance, and caused Master Donald at his desk near by, to clench his hands and bite his lips.

And one morning he turned up in an even worse temper than usual, called Donald a "lazy brute," and then began to dictate his letters to Lucy at a furious pace.

"I beg your pardon," she said at last, having struggled vainly to keep up.

"Go on!" he cried, "Don't interrupt."

"But I cannot get it down. You are going too fast for me."

"Confound it all!" he blurted out. "What kind of a shorthand clerk do you call yourself? It's your business to get it down!"

"You impertinent little minx."

"I was doing my best, Mr. Maynard," she answered meekly.

"Rubbish," he snorted. "You're incompetent—thats what it is."

"It isn't," said Lucy defiantly, nettled by his tone. "I can do a hundred and ten words a minute, as I told you when I came."

"You impertinent little minx," blustered the manager, getting up angrily from his chair. "Don't back answer me. If you do, you'll precious soon find yourself outside!"

"That's where you ought to be, you bully," came in hard, stern tones from the neighborhood of Donald's desk.

"What?" cried the manager, swinging round in furious surprise.

"I said that's where you ought to be, you bully," repeated Donald, calmly. "You've no right to talk to a lady like that," he went on, while the manager struggled in vain for speech. "I'm sure the governor would not stand it, if he knew. It's a pity Mr. Cartwright is so old he cant come here more often and look after you!"

"Are you mad or drunk—you fool!" Maynard stormed, "to talk to me like this?"

"Neither," said Donald, still in the same low voice, "only utterly disgusted with your ungentlemanly behavior!"

The manager looked at him, controlled himself with a mighty effort and said thickly, "Very well. Take a week's notice," and turned on his heel.

"Come along, Miss Raindom," he added. "Get on with your work. Don't sit there staring like a little fool!"

But Lucy, who had sat dumbfounded through this scene made no effort to take up her pencil again. Proud as she was of Donald for championing her cause, nevertheless the little heart was heavy. Had he not lost his place?

"Mr. Maynard," she said conciliatingly, "are we not all rather cross and hasty this morning? Won't you take back the notice you have given Mr. Hayes?"

"Confound your impudence, no!" the manager snapped.

The little square chin shot forward a bit, and a sudden gleam came into the big blue eyes.

"Mr. Maynard," she said firmly, "I really think you ought to, you know!"

"Do you? And what right have you to dictate to me, miss? Take a week's notice yourself!"

The gleam in the big blue eyes became a blaze, the lion's tail was twisted now and the lion was awake.

"Mr. Maynard," said Lucy, rising and facing him, "you have been abominably rude to me, and you've had your chance to make amends and thrown it away."

And hastily pinning on her hat—while the manager watching her vaguely, frightened in spite of himself—she walked out of the office.

Very disconsolately Donald went out to lunch. It was not likely, he knew, that the manager would change his mind, for Mr. Maynard was one of these weak obstinates who boast that what they say they stick to. In a week's time he would be scanning the advertisements and tramping all London in search of a place.

But it was not that which caused his step to lag. He had no regrets; to him it seemed impossible that any one worthy of the name of a man could have acted otherwise.

His only trouble was that he greatly feared he had lost Lucy. She had walked out of the office in righteous wrath—and he did not know her address. So far their intercourse had been confined wholly to office life; he had not dared to speak the words that for weeks had been trembling on his lips.

And now she was gone—gone for good—and since it was not to be expected that she would write to him first his only hope of ever seeing her again was to meet her by chance.

But as he entered the restaurant at which they often lunched together his eyes brightened and the wrinkles fled from his brows as if by magic. There was Lucy sitting at the usual table—waiting for him.

"I came in here to cool down, and as it was nearly lunch time I thought I would wait to thank you," she explained. "I'm awfully glad you did," he cried. "I was in a most dreadful stew because I did not know your address, and thought I should never see you again."

"Did you want to see me again, then?" she asked innocently.

A blush was upon her dainty cheeks, and her eyes cast down on her plate.

"You know I did," he answered feverishly.

"Oh, Lucy, I love you!" and then the waitress came up and asked for his order.

"I ought not to have spoken," he went on when the girl had gone. "I know I shall be out of a place next week, but I must say it! I must say it! Lucy, I love you!"

"And I love you, Donald," she whispered back so low that a waitress who passed quite close to them just then never caught the words. But Donald did.

There was no Lucy for whom he could lift the cover of the typewriter next morning or at whom he could smile furtively as the bad-tempered Mr. Maynard hurried in, but Donald had his compensations. He had his memories—memories of five sweet whispered words, of a hastily snatched kiss a little later.

The manager had no time to bully that morning; he had hardly taken off his coat and hat before the bell rang twice from the principal's room—one ring for Mr. Maynard, two rings for Mr. Hayes.

Both men were astonished, for neither had known that anybody was in the private office, and "the governor" had never arrived so early before in all their experience. However, the summons was unmistakable, so both went in together.

And on the threshold both paused amazed. Seated at the governor's desk was not the white-haired, infirm old Mr. Cartwright, but Lucy Raindom, the clerk who had walked out of the office yesterday morning.

"Lucy," cried Donald, hardly able to believe his eyes.

"What is the meaning of this, madam," began the manager in his customary hectoring manner, but Lucy cut him short.

"Listen and I will tell you," she said calmly. "My father, Mr. Cartwright, is very old and very ill. For a long time it had been a dream of mine to learn all about his business and relieve him from the worry of it, so I came here under my mother's name, to begin at the bottom and get a thorough grounding in all the details from the lowest to the highest. And that, Mr. Maynard, is how I found you out. Not knowing who I was you bullied me as you have bullied my father's employes for years, and you forced me by your disgraceful conduct to reveal myself earlier than I intended.

"My father has now placed his business entirely in my hands, and I certainly cannot on any account keep such a bully as you in my employ. You sacked me yesterday, I sack you to-day. Here is a check—you will see that my father has treated you most generously—and my orders to you are that you leave the office for good in five minutes time.

"As for you, Donald," she went on when the deposed manager, after having vainly tried to find words to meet this unexpected situation, had slunk silently out of the room. "You, of course, as we arranged last night, will be my partner."

"But—but—that, Lucy," he stammered, "that was another kind of partnership. Our positions are very different now. I am only a humble clerk and you—you"——

"Poor Donald," she laughed tenderly. "Love levels everything. You loved me as a clerk and you'll have to go on loving me, so there!"

If only millionaires could afford to ride in street cars everybody would prefer them to automobiles.

A pleasant thing about a man who is really smart is he doesnt have to show off to prove it.

Swiss Called Servile.

Rev. J. J. Muir, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, New York, who has just returned from an extended tour of Europe, attended the Baptist Ministers' Conference at Calvary Baptist Church and gave a short "travel talk" on his experiences on the Continent.

In commenting upon the manner and customs of the Swiss people, Rev. Mr. Muir said:

"The population of Switzerland is becoming servile. The traveler cannot help noticing this, and he is largely responsible for it. The country is visited by so many foreigners who hand out tips and bestow the favor of their patronage that the people are beginning fairly to breathe servility.

Man's Guardian Angels.

The following beautiful allegory is told among the Turks: Every man has two guardian angels, one on his right shoulder and one on his left. In doing good the angel on the right shoulder notes it down and sets his seal upon it, for what is done is done forever. When evil is committed the angel on the left shoulder writes it down, but he waits until midnight before he seals it. If by that time the man bows his head and says: 'Gracious Allah, I have sinned, forgive me!' the angel blots out the fault, but if not he seals it at midnight and then the angel on the right shoulder weeps.

The beauty and virtue of women are superior to the virtue and beauty of men, but no one can be beautiful when in the throes of a deep-seated hacking cough or cold. Nothing will bring greater relief than Allen's Cough Balsam. Sold for over half a century. Endorsed by those who use it. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

Miss Casper Burge died on her seventy-ninth birthday in the house where she had lived 41 years at Marshall.

Nicholas Phillips, a Muskegon baker, reported to the police Monday that he had been robbed by pickpockets of more than $133.

The Alpena Woman's Civic League raised over $500 with a tag day, the proceeds to be used to help pay the expenses of a visiting nurse.

Marcia Dougherty lost most of her hair and sustained a badly burned arm as the result of catching her hair in the engine of a motor boat at Saginaw.

According to the monthly crop report, issued by Secretary of State Martindale, this year's yield of wheat in Michigan will be the smallest in years.

Harry Coleman, of Pontiac, Henry Kinney, of Bay City, and A. E. Richardson, of Saginaw, are the new correction board appointees by Governor Ferris.

In a collision between two ore trains in the Northwestern ore yards at Escanaba, Neil Nelson, engineer, and Vaner Starrine, fireman, were scalded to death in the cab.

James N. McBride of Burton, Progressive leader in the house during the recent session, is being mentioned as the Progressive gubernatorial candidate for 1914.

Frank Cowan, a brakeman on a Lake Shore engine at Jonesville, was killed Friday night by being run over by an extra freight train on the Lansing branch. His head was severed from his body.

Charles Carlson, 7 years old, of Cadillac, played with the family cow and was terribly gored by the animal as she swung her head about to brush off flies. One horn penetrated a lung. The child is in a critical condition.

The four big balloons that left Kansas City last Friday in an elimination race an were forced to land in Michigan after a terrific battle with the elements over the great lakes. One of the balloons landed at each of the following towns: Manchester, Rockwood, Goodrich and West Branch.

The monthly crop report issued by the secretary of state does not give very encouraging reports for a fruit crop in Michigan this year. Apples are reported as only 58 per cent of an average crop; peaches, 53; pears, 52; plums, 56; grapes, 66; raspberries, 76.

The funeral of Andrew Andrus, aged 28 years, who was killed when lightning struck the judge's stand during a horse race at Clare, July 4, killing Andrus, another man below the stand and injuring seven others, was held yesterday from the home of his brother, County Clerk Roy Andrus, of Hastings.

The 1914 convention of the Temple of Honor will be held at Calumet.

Members of the Church of Christ have completed arrangements for a new $15,000 edifice at St. Johns.

Driven insane by the intense heat, John Jacobson, a farmer near Holland, swallowed paris green and died. He was 81 years old.

Attorney and Mrs. Francis A. Stace, who were married in Marshall, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage Monday at Grand Rapids.

William Killinger, who lives in Loranger on the Hauptman branch of the Michigan Central, won a medal and $10 from the railroad company by discovering a broken rail and flagging train No. 59.

Colliding with a cow while riding a motorcycle on the Lake Harbor road near Muskegon, Arthur Backstrom and Carl Anderson were pitched from the machine into the ditch and the right shoulder blade of each was broken.

Word has been received from Los Angeles that Charles E. Pendel, who was slain there, left $35,000 to Saginaw relatives. Following are Saginaw people who receive legacies: Arthur C. Pendell, a son, $20,000; Anna Emerson, a sister, $10,000, and Joseph W. C. Pendell, a brother, $5,000.

TRAINS VERY SLOW; HOGS DIE OF THIRST

State May Exact Better Care in Shipping.

Lansing, Mich., July 4.—Although the bill passed at the last session of the lgislature requiring railroad companions to transport live stock at least ten miles an hour was vetoed by Governor Ferris on the ground that it was unconstitutional, it is expected that the state railroad commission will take action to oblige the railroad companies to hurry back shipments during the summer months.

It was reported a few days ago that a shipment of stock over the Pere marquette was on the road 52 hours to cover 104 miles, and that many of the cattle and hogs died of thirst.

Under a section of the laws passed in 1909 the railroad commission is given authority to require the companies to move stock at a reasonable speed and provide water in transit.

ALLEGED RELATIVES ON HAND

Mystery Shrouds the Case of Bay City Porter.

Bay City, Mich., July 4.—The former hotel porter, Frank King, as he was known to Bay City people, lived in this city under an assumed name for thirty years, according to statements.

King's right name was Baumstark, according to his brother-in-law, F. E. Lamphere, who came here from Chicago. King's wife, who died about two months ago, was Lamphere's sister. Accompanying Lamphere to the city were King's brother, Charles J. Baumstark of Chicago; Mrs. Baumstark, and their son, and Miss Louise Baumstark of Buffalo, N. Y. A sister of King is also here.

Lamphere, who appears to know the entire history of King, said the latter had always refused to reveal to friends the names of his brothers and sisters and that about a week before King shot himself he destroyed a lot of correspondence that might have thrown some light upon his past.

King left a $15,000 estate to his five-year-old adopted daughter.

R. C. BIALY WEDS

Bay City Millionaire Marries His Former Typist.

Bay City, Mich., July 4.—The fact that Robert C. Bial and Miss Margaret Auriette were married June 8 in Chicago became known here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bialy are living in the Bialy home in this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Curtis R. Stevenson of Chicago.

The new Mrs. Bialy was named as co-respondent in the famous Bialy divorce suit two years ago, when she was Bialy's stenographer. With her decree of divorce Mrs. Carrie A. Bialy was granted $100,000 alimony by Judge Collins, and this was upheld by the supreme court though Mrs. Bialy appealed, seeking half a million.

Mr. Bialy is in the hardware and supply business here and is heavily interested in local real estate and Colorado sugar factories. He is forty eight and his bride is thirty.

TWO MEN HELD

Suspects in Postal Robbery Are Captured by Sheriffs.

Bay City, Mich., July 4.—The two men who are alleged to have robbed the postoffice at Sterling, Arenac county, were captured by Sheriff Fitzgerald.

More than $200 in cash and a quantity of stamps and merchandise from the Sterling office were found on their persons ,while each carried a revolver, and one had a bottle of nitro-glycerin. They gave their names as Louis Morton, twenty-eight years old, Flint and Frank Clark, thirty-four, of Bay City.

SHE MUST BE A SUFFRAGIST

Wife Gone; Coffee Pot Explodes; Scalds Hubby.

Central Lake, Mich., July 4.—While preparing his own dinner in the absence of his wife, Lloyd Schism set a pail of coffee on the stove to heat, but neglected to remove the lid. The coffee exploded, scalding his face, arms, and chest.

The sight of one eye is endangered and he may be disfigured for life.

Walks 17 Miles to Doctor.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 7.—Daniel Sweeney, Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad employe, fell from a train south of here and walked and crawled seventeen miles along the tracks to the local yards. He will recover from internal injuries.

Traverse City Pioneer Dead.

Traverse City, Mich., July 4.—Ezra Hubbell, seventy-two years old, died here. He has been a resident of this section for more than fifty years and was once engaged in business in Manton and Kingsley.

Bay City Mother Disappears.

Bay City, Mich., July 4.—Mrs. Spalen, fifty years old, disappeared a few days ago and has not been found. Relatives fear she has met with foul play. She is the mother of nine children.

Despondent; Drowns Himself.

Menominee, Mich., July 4.—After many months' despondency resulting from his infirmities, John Baker, fifty yeas old, an invalid, plunged into the Menominee river and was drowned. The body was recovered.

Aged Clarkston Woman Dies.

Pontiac, Mich., July 7.—Mrs. Margaret Fielding, of Clarkston, aged eighty-eight, is dead at her home there. She had been a resident of Oakland county for sixty years.

3 SISTERS KILLED; TROLLEY HITS AUTO

Their Brother and Brother-in-Law Hurt in Collision.

At Toledo, Ohio, three young women were killed and their brother and brother-in-law were injured at Munsinger's Crossing near here when an auto in which they were riding was struck by a Detroit and Toledo interurban car. The dead are:

Julia, Gertrude and Catherine Delaney.

James Delaney was badly bruised and M. Lahey sustained a bad gash across the head.

Because a house obstructed his view, Lahey, who was driving, failed to see the car and ran on the track.

The trolley struck the rear of the auto and threw the occupants fifty feet into the air.

SAVES $4,500,000 TO CITY

Routing of Arson Trust Means Much to New York.

The complete routing of the firebug, which Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson believes he has effected in his campaign against the "arson trust," will save New York city $4,500,000 this year, according to an estimate based upon a remarkable decrease in fire losses for the first six months.

The losses up to July 1 aggregated $3,580,315, as against $5,819,091 for the corresponding period in 1912—a decrease of $2,238,686.

Fatal Fire at Indiana Harbor.

At Hammond, Ind., one man was burned to death and four were seriously injured in a fire that destroyed the old postoffice building at Indiana Harbor and seriously damaged a new three-story brick building in process of construction.

SPORTING AFFAIRS.

OCONOMOWOC, WIS.—The class C. race on Oconomowoc lake, the first of the series for the cup presented by Mrs. C. E. Kohl, was won by Charles and Winifred Richter in the new yacht Tootsie. Malcolm Regers' Phantom finished a close second and John Bullen, in the Bessie, finished third. The Turkey Trot, Miss Kohl's yacht, was fourth, and Richter's boat, Twin, came in fifth. A strong west wind was blowing and the contest between the two leading boats was close throughout the entire race.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Jack Britton proved himself so superior a boxer and ring general to Charley White of Chicago that the bout was stopped in the eighteenth round, and the decision awarded to Britton. At no stage in the entire go was Britton in danger, while he literally swamped White with his fusillades of jabs and hooks. White, during the latter half or the bout, was in trouble continually .

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—As long as Joe Rivers held the upper hand he fought like a Turk. When Ritchie stemmed the tide and then turned it, the Los Angeles Mexican grew visibly discouraged. Joe fought several rounds with very little spirit and quit in the eleventh.

George Lockhart, 28 years old, of Pinconning, was killed while his wife and two children, although but a few feet from him, were uninjured, when a bolt of lightning struck an oak tree under which they had sought shelter from the storm. The bolt struck Lockhart in the temple, and ran down his body to the ground, tearing his clothes and shoes to ribbons.

TURKS AND SERBS AGAINST BULGARS

Ottoman Government Threatens to Join Ally in War.

A dispatch to London, Eng., from Rome says that Turkey has notified Bulgaria that unless she abandons her claim to a war indemnity Turkey will join with Servia and Greece in event of hostilities.

Accusations of massacre and rapine, so common during the last war, are again being spread broadcast, especially by the Greeks. All of the former allies are making warlike preparations and are organizing hospital and medical services.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Saloniki describes the fighting there as a regular inferno. Eighty Bulgarians were killed or wounded in one house and the slaughter in other houses was on a similar scale.

DRAWING IN THE CASH

Ready to Apportion State Primary Money.

Lansing, Mich., July 7.—State Treasurer Haarer is making a demand on various banks holding state funds for approximately $5,000,000, which will be apportioned to the various shool districts July 15.

This sum is scattered among 250 different banks.

It is expected that the apportionment of primary school money will be less than $7 per capita this year.

Many of the school districts in the state are not eligible to share in the apportionment, as they have not used all the primary money on hand, and under the new law they will not participate in this year's allowance.

BARGAIN DAY FOR AUTOISTS

Cheap Sale of Auto Tags to Begin Aug. 1.

Lansing, Mich., July 7.—Secretary of State Martindale is receiving numerous letters from automobile owners asking for license plates at half price.

Cut rates do not go into effect until Aug. 1, when automobile owners and owners of motorcycles may purchase license plates for $1.50, or one-half the regular price.

KILLING IS SUSPECTED

Think Harbor Springs Indian Is a Murder Victim.

Petoskey, Mich., July 7.—Wallace Williams, an Indian, is reported to have been murdered at his home, three miles west of Harbor Springs. His wife is missing, according to the report, which is meager, on account of telephone wires being down. Officers and the coroner have hurried to the scene.

Because he came home drunk, with 80 cents left out of his pay envelope of $36, and spanked his bride of three months, Seward Hulbert of Lansing was sentenced to 90 days in the Detroit house of correction. It was shown in court that Hulbert spanked his wife with a shoe. The bride clung to her husband's shoulders when he was brought into the court room and cried bitterly.

The greater portion of the business section of Perry was destroyed by a fire Sunday afternoon, which swept across the village in a path two blocks wide and four blocks long. Three-fourths of the business section was destroyed, including 30 stores and residences. The loss is estimated at more than $200,000, while the insurance will amount to between $50,000 and $100,000.

GOV. GEO. W. CLARKE

Iowa Executive Stricken in Office by Kidney Affection.

IOWA GOVERNOR IS STRICKEN

At Des Moines, Iowa, Governor George W. Clarke was taken to a local hospital suffering from an affection of the kidneys. Governor Clarke became ill shortly after reaching his office in the state house and said he suffered severe pains.

After consultations physicians issued a bulletin announcing the governor's condition as satisfactory. His respiration and temperaturue were normal and pains in his abdomen were being allayed

DENVER, COLO. — Challenging her husband to a duel, Mrs. Vencentall Palacio made her defense against the accusations made against her by Samuel Palacio, until the police, who had been summoned by neighbors, broke through the locked doors and separated the combatants. Both suffered many wounds. They fought with knives. According to the police the combat was deliberately arranged for the purpose of proving whether the accusations of unfaithfulness made by the husband was false or true.

ELKHART, IND.—Four sisters were drowned when the three older girls sprang into St. Joseph's river in a vain attempt to save the youngest sister, Grace Schwyn, seven years old, fell into the river while picking cherries from a limb which overhung the water. The other girls—Alice, sixteen; Clara, thirteen, and Ida, eleven attempted to save her and themselves were drowned.

EPERNAY, FRANCE — Captain Rey of the French army was killed and his companion, a private of the engineers corps, fatally injured when the military biplane in which they were flying above the village of Bethen capsized and crashed to earth.

CHICAGO — Twenty persons in Chicago lost their lives through automobile accident in June, 1913. This is double the number killed during the same month last year. It is seven more than lost their lives during May of this year.

PETOSKEY, MICH. — Two persons were injured when an Adams Express wagon and a farm vehicle collided. Chauncy Kipp, seventy-five year old, and his wife, of Conway, were thrown from the overturned rig.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

An Ill Wind

The big yellow car had just escaped taking off the wheel of a very smartly rigged Stanhope, and the pretty women in it had sent a look of resentment and disgust deep into poor Billy's susceptible eyes; he spoke irritably as they sped past.

"I wish to heaven, Julia, you would be more careful. That's the seventh time this afternoon we've escaped a mix-up. Let me run her now, that's a good girl."

His cousin shut her lips firmly. "If you are going to develop nerves, Billy, you can get out, you know. I may be a greenhorn, but I'm game for any amount of this business. Do we turn just ahead? I don't seem to remember this road."

"Yes, we turn on one wheel, probably," retorted the perturbed Billy, savagely. "No stunts now. Shut her down, I say! There's the deuce of a hill, Julia—"

Soon afterward he sat up in the dusty grass of the roadside and gazed vaguely about him. Presently he became conscious of a peculiar object on which his hand rested. He looked down. A roasted chicken, plump, browned to a turn, met his astonished gaze. A bottle of champagne, broken, alas! lay near, its golden nectar wasted on insensate grass. Dazed and aggrieved he got to his feet, and then he sat down again suddenly. A big red car stood in the otherwise deserted road. Red!

Poor Billy pressed his hands over his traitor eyes. Red! The Meteor was yellow—he could swear to it. Yellow was Julia's color, Julia? When—where——

He got up quickly, anxiously. That reckless girl! Ah, there she wasn't!

A young woman in a torn coat of pongee sat calmly on the wall behind him, arranging her sunny hair in the indescribable fashion peculiar to all pretty women. She met his scared eyes affably.

"Come around, haven't you?" she said with a nod of her charming head. "I thought you would. You began to groan when I poured the champagne over you, but really there wasn't anything else I could do for you. On the whole I think we've come off rather luckily, don't you?"

Billy's head whirled. Who was this nochalant young person who said "we" so calmly to an utter stranger, and who seemed oblivious to the existence of Julia?

"Would you mind telling me what has become of Julia?" he faltered, hold his acheing head. "Something has happened I think. Is she—badly hurt?"

It was the young woman's turn to start, and she did so, thoroughly.

"Julia? What do you mean? I don't remember a thing after I screamed, when I saw that big yellow streak bearing down upon us until I found myself in these bushes and you unconscious on the grass. Who is Julia?"

Mr. Billy Brooks staggered to a seat on the wall. The girl was frowning at the rents in her long coat.

"Look at 'em," she mourned "Even if our car isn't past patching up, I'm a wreck. I can't possibly face Mrs. Elliott and the rest in this state. You see, I lit right in those blackberry bushes. It was awfully good of you to offer to get me there quickly, but, really, the train would have been less hard on my gown."

Mr. Brooks murmured an apology absently, staring straight before him! Mrs. Elliott! An addition to his circle of acquaintances. Perhaps Julia—Our car! Our car!

"Your eyes aren't gray, and your hair isnt curly—why I dont know you, I don't;" she said pitifully. "I never saw you in my life before. What—what has happened to us? You talk of Julia and—and"——

"Why, cousin Julia and I were driving half an hour ago in a yellow car—the Meteor. Julia and the car seem to have been translated and you're Mr. Stewart. I am here, and you are here, and a red car is here, and—er—the remains of a good lunch—not mine. My name is William Brooks. Can you throw any light on this Chinese puzzle?"

"I don't quite understand. I thought you were Mr. Stewart or I —Why, this is Mr. Stewart's car! He was taking me over to Mrs. Elliott's garden party. And that big yellow car came roaring at us!

"When—when I crawled out of the bushes and tried to pour the champagne down your throat, I thought what pigs these people were to keep right on and never stop to see if we were killed! And you are not—Mr. Stewart—at all! If your name is Brooks, where is Mr. Stewart?"

"Where is Julia?" replied Mr. Brooks unhappily, still anchored to the wall.

"I really do not know," retorted the lady in the car, with some asperity. "It might appear to a sensible person that she is with Godfrey Stewart in a yellow car. Anything is possible after this."

Mr. Brooks slid from the wall with incredible speed.

"Godfrey Stewart! Why didn't you say that in the first place? Of course she is! He's that pie-faced college youth whom Uncle Dave kicked out of the house last spring. Just beginning his senior year, mind you, and mad to marry Julia offhand. Will that car go? By Jove, this begins to be rather more than interesting."

With the resignation born of long practice, Mr. Brooks crawled under the car. The lady sat in dignified silence until he emerged, red but triumphant.

"O. K.," he reported, smiling as he stepped in beside her. "What the deuce Stewart left it for, I dont imagine. The Meteor isn't to be compared with it. Look here; see, here's where they turned out and around. See the marks in the dust? He's gone back the way you came.

Dexterously he turned the ponderous machine in the narrow road.

"Hold hard," he advised gayly. "I'm going to let her out all she's worth in a minute; but after we catch these two young idiots I shall demand an apology from you for mistaking me for that pie-faced kid. Really I'm very good looking when I'm clean."

A vagrant dimple appeared in the pink cheek of the dignified young lady in the town pongee coat.

"I shall require proof," she retorted demurely. "Some people consider me quite passable when I'm not tattered and torn. Shall you demand proof?"

Two disheveled heads, a brown and a black one, popped cautiously up from behind the stone wall across the road. The pair of eyes, brown and gray, stared thankfully at a deserted, dusty roadway; then the owner of the brown eyes spoke:

"I don't think we've ever properly appreciated Hildegarde," she said thoughtfully. "She's carried off this situation and Billy in a manner truly Napoleonic. The stage has suffered great loss in being unaware of her talent."

"Good old girl, Hildegarde!" he said warmly. "Didn't she get him away in great style, and short order, though? I tell you she's an artist in fabrication—not one whopper too many. Lord! I thought old Billy would start a search party of the vicinity and we'd be collared, but he never even glanced our way. Had his eyes glued on her even in his most anxious moments about your safety. And his face—wasn't it a picture for Puck? I've laughed myself sore. I say, Julia, in spite of his mean opinion of me, old Billy's a brick!"

Miss Julia looked down thoughtfully at the tangled blackberry vines.

"Billy—is Billy," she said slowly. "I really began to worry about him, Godfrey. It must have taken fully ten minutes for us to get the Meteor through these bars and hidden securely, and there he lay unconscious all that time, and none of us doing a thing for him. It wasn't fair."

"But all's fair in love and war, dear," he protested, "and this is love, isn't it? We just couldn't let such a blessed chance go by. Julia, I'm not going to finish my course. The pater had been very generous to me. I can go into the business directly I say the word, and I say the word today if you will just walk up this road with me to a little old parsonage I know of, and marry me now. What is the use of waiting to win over your father and then making a holy show of ourselves at a big wedding? I don't want it. I know you detest the thought of it—and, Julia, I—I dared to get the license over a month ago, because I knew, darling, I should take the very first chance I got to get you to marry me without any fuss and feathers—and I have. Look at me, dear. You—you are not angry"—

The girl glanced nervously at the battered Meteor, half hidden behind the trees, then she turned and slipped her hands into his.

"I've always said things about girls who ran away and got married," she murmured half sadly, "and here I am doing the same thing. But it's no use to argue with father. He says I'm too young; that he'll never give his consent until I'm 25. Twenty-five! Why, that a quarter of a century, Godfrey. And I belong with you. Poor old Billy will never believe that this was really accidental, and if Hildegarde ever tells him all that happened while he was unconscious—"

Young Stewart pulled her gently from the wall and marched triumphantly into the dusty road. A long, hot walk lay before them, but——

"She won't!" he declared joyously. "I think she had it on her mind to console her. Did you catch her last remark?"

Julia dimpled.

"Arrant little flirt," she murmured, indignantly. "I must really warn Billy."

"When you are Mrs. Godfrey Stewart! I say, Julia, doesn't it sound pretty? Dear, I know it's warm and the dust is awful, but—could you walk a little faster? The quicker we go the sooner we shall get there. Let's hold hands like the children, Julia, and hustle."

Julia shot him a mischievous glance over her shoulder. She ignored his outstretched hand and caught up her skirts coquettishly.

"Whoever would have dreamed I'd be married in a dirty white linen gown?" she inquired plaintively. "Faster? Well, I used to be a very good runner, Godfrey. Shall we see if I have deteriorated?"

Valuable Common Land.

No fewer than 1,593 towns and villages in Germany still own and have owned down from the middle ages so much common land that their inhabitants pay neither rates nor taxes. Five hundred of these townships and villages derive so great a rental from their lands that they are able, in addition, to pay every citizen, on New Year's day, a bonus of from $25 to $100 as his share of the surplus revenues.

One of Fashion's Follies.

A lady came on an odd-looking bag the other day in one of the fashionable London shops. It was in expensive feather, and seemed too large for an ordinary hand-bag; also it had a curious opening cut at one side towards the top. "Ladies use it for carrying their little dogs," the salesman explained.

Early Showed Greatness.

Andrew Jackson was a marvel of precocity. He carried a flintlock musket, as a soldier of the revolutionary army, at the age of 14. At 23 he was appointed by Washington district attorney of Tennessee. He was a United States Senator at 30. He did not reach the presidency until he was 62.—Sunday Magazine.

Intellect and the Body.

Men of stupendous intellect too often have little bodily powers, for, according to the law of the balancing and conservation of energies, all power here goes to the brain, and little is left for physical use and conventional display; and, indeed, genius has too often lacked even self-control.

To Take Place of Saltpeter.

By the aid of electric-chemical production of manures containing atmospheric nitrogen, Germany expects soon to largely decrease its importation of saltpeter from Chili.

A Suggestion.

I cannot think but that the world would be better and brighter if our teachers would dwell on the Duty of Happiness as well as the Happiness of Duty.—Sir John Lubbock.

"That woman seems to have a lot of trouble with her help." "Yes, she passes her life on the doorstep, either welcoming an angel or dismissing a fiend."—Life.

EXTENSIVE VOCABULARIES.

Scientists Who Had a Remarkable Command of Language.

The vocabulary of men engaged in professional or mercantile work does not, it it asserted on high authority, include more than two or three thousand words. But there are stenographers who can readily use five or six thousand wordsigns.

In this connection it is interesting to note the extraordinary extensiveness vocabularies of several men of science.

According to Dr. Murray-Aaron, the French naturalist, Hugo and the Swiss zoologist Agassiz could promptly give the names, according to careful estimates of over five thousand animals, in addition to the ordinary words they knew perfectly. It has been said of Tsa Gray, the great American botanist, that he knew quite eight thousand plants by name and at sight.

By far the most remarkable trained memory in the field of science was that of Dr. Joseph Leidy, for many years, and until death, president of the Academy of Natural Sciences, of Philadelphia.

Doctor Leidy was not only a foremost geologist and mammalogist, having hundreds upon hundreds of the terms of these sciences upon his tongue's end, but he was a deep student of birds, reptiles, fishes, insects and lesser things, and remarkably ready in remembering where their different species belonged in the great order of nature.

Besides this he was an authority on microscopic life, especially minute parasites, was a fair botanist, one of the leading physicians and anatomists of his time, and a perfect encyclopedia of geography and exploration.

Add to this a good memory for names and faces and a familiarity with several foreign languages, and some idea may be had of this man's powers in respect of memory.

Doctor Murray-Aaron has stated that after a long conversation with Mr. Leidy on this subject, he estimated that the Doctor's memory enabled him to use twenty-seven thousand words at will.

TEACHING INDIANS PATRIOTISM.

Students From Many Tribes Salute The American Flag.

At the Chilocco Indian Agricultural School at this place 800 boys and girls from the principal Indian tribes in the United States are educated at the expense of the Federal Government. Patriotism or love of country though not laid down in a text book, is taught as carefully as reading, spelling or writing. Patriotism is not presented to these boys and girls at Chilocco as an abstract theory but impressed as a concrete, visual reality in the ceremony of saluting the flag.

The band parades in the campus, playing the national air and the flag waves in the wind from the tall flagstaff. In captained companies the students assemble in line, facing the flag. For an instant there is silence followed by the order to salute as the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner." With bared heads the boys and girls gaze upon their country's emblem of freedom until the bandmaster's signals the band to cease playing.

Many of the Indian boys and girls at Chilocco possibly do not hear much about the flag at their homes, where their fathers and grandfathers once were at war with the United States. The ceremony of saluting the flag, soon makes a deep impression upon them, however, and they stand in reverent attention.—Kansas City Times.

Wall Paper and Temperament.

It has long been recognized by medical men that the color of the wallpaper has an appreciable effect on the occupants of a room, says the Reader. Scientists have made the subject a distinct branch of study. They call it chromopathy. And some of the more important of their results may be summarized as follows: Red, as a predominant color on the walls, tends to rouse, invigorate and cheer; blue has a sedative, calming influence, but with some people it is depressing, and leads to melancholy, although nervous excitement is frequently allayed by it; yellow is a capital cerebral stimulant, and, combined with red, thus forming orange, it proves a powerful specific in those of a sluggish nature; green has a very resting effect upon the eys, and this being in close sympathy with the brain, the soothing influence of this color proves helpful in case of brain-fag.

Cast of Pig Iron With Anthracite.

July 4, 1907, marked the sixty-seventh anniversary of the first successful cast of pig iron by the use of anthracite coal. The event took place in the first small furnace of the Crane Iron Works at Catasauqua, under the supervision of the late David Thomas, who may justly be regarded as the pioneer in the manufacture of iron by the use of hard coal. Several attempts to accomplish it had been made previously in other parts of Pennsylvania with some degree of success, but it remained for David Thomas to make not only a mechanical but a commercial triumph of the undertaking. In 1840 less than 1,500 tons of anthracite pig iron were produced in the United States.

To every 100 workmen in Austria there are 42 women; in France, 34; Italy, 32; Germany, 30; England, 24; Sweden, 21.

Joy of Aspiration.

To be truly happy is a question of how we begin and not of how we end; of what we want and not of what we have. An aspiration is a joy forever, a possession as solid as a landed estate, a fortune which we can never exhaust and which gives us year by year a revenue of pleasurable activity. To have many of these is to be spiritually rich.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Seek Cure for Pellagra.

NEW M. E. CHURCH FOR MORENCI

Morenci Methodists have voted to build a new church at an approximate cost of $20,000.

Plans are under consideration which if carried out will give Morenci as fine a church as that of any town of its size in Michigan. The site is where the old frame building has stood for years. Concrete, stone and pressed brick will be used making it an up-to-date church in every respect. Success to Morenci Methodists.

MRS. DAVID B PRESTON

Minnie M. Nelson was born in Adrian Michigan, May 26th 1870 and in May 27, 1888 was united in marriage to David B. Preston of Adrian.

In 1897 she united with the Baptist church and has always been a faithful member. She passed away July 7, after an illness extending over four years.

Her funeral was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Owens, Wednesday afternoon. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, a son Harold Preston of Adrian, a daughter, Mrs. Floyd Owens and her mother, Mrs. Clay Owens of Tecumseh

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends who so kindly assisted us in the funeral of our mother and daughter. For the comforting words of the pastor, the sweet singing and for the beautiful flowers.

BRIFF AND BREEZY

The young Pittsburg wife who is suing for a divorce because her husband never kissed her might get the kind-hearted Richmond pastor to help her out in her troubles.

Fears of political domination of business are frankly expressed. The old adage "The king can do no wrong" has been superseded by "A Republican form of government can be relied on to do the right thing."

Those dollar graduation dresses were pretty enough but a girl ought to turn down any man who thinks a dollar is enough for a womans best dress.

The Columbia (S. C.) state will be accused of hoggishness if it keeps on. Its editor in chief has been appointed Minister to Cuba, and its news editor has been appointed Civil Service Commissioner.

A heavy wind storm which struck that vicinity Saturday blew down a two-story concrete house, located three miles from Traverse City, demolishing the structure except a portion of the south wall. The house was located on the farm of R. H. Evans. The loss is $1,500.

At Grand Rapids John Williamson a farmer paid approximately $12 each for four drinks of beer. He drove to the city leaving his horse in the sun while he quenched his thirst. He was arrested and fined $30. A charge of drunkenness was also lodged against him and he paid $18 more.

Mrs. Patrick Welch of Bay City is conducting a search for her brother, Patrick Doyle, who has not been heard from for many years, in an effort to settle the estate of her mother, estimated to be worth $25,000. There are six children and the estate cannot be settled until all are accounted.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Because it's Welded, you can take it Down and Put it Up Without Injuring the Fence

That's a good point to consider.

Many a time you would shift a line of fencing from, say, the bull pasture to the hog lot—if it didn't destroy the efficiency of the fence.

It is actually a one-piece fence.

Taking down "Pittsburgh Perfect" and re-stringing it doesn't hurt it a bit. This is one exclusive "Pittsburgh Perfect" feature of economy perhaps you haven't thought of. Our catalogue, sent free, tells of many more. Get a copy at once.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Every Rod Guaranteed

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

500 CLUB

The members of the 500 club held a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs E. E. Hendershott Thursday afternoon. The usual game of 500 furnished the afternoons entertainment. Light refreshments were served at the close of the games.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY

Quite a little excitement prevaled Thursday morning when a team attached to a lumber wagon passed through Chicago Street at rather more than a double quick speed.

The team had become frightened at an automobile. The driver of the team displayed rare presence of mind and held firmly to the lines and finally brought the team to a standstill. Except for some damage to the wagon it was a lucky runaway as no one was hurt.

NEW CURTIAN FOR ROYAL THEATER

James Silvers has installed a new St. Louis Curtain in his Theater at a cost of $100. One can now sit near the curtain without experiencing any unpleasant sensation to the eyes. It represents the highest type of curtain made to-day.

Mr. Silvers is much pleased with it and is sure that it will add very much to the pleasure of seeing the pictures.

BLUE RIBBON RACES

With the opening of the grand circuit at Cleveland this week the harness racing season is under way, and unless all signs fail it will be productive of an unusual amount of genuine sport. Favored by the weather the trainers have their horses advanced beyond the ordinary year, so that speed will be in evidence from the first.

No racing in the country has attracted as much merited attention as the annual Blue Ribbon meetings of the Detroit Driving Club, and the coming of the trotters and pacers to the State Fair track is eagerly awaited by thousands who relish these keen contests in which stamina, education and skill are leading factors.

Blue Ribbon meetings of the past have been held in July, but this year the week of August 11 to 15 is to be given over to the carnival of speed. The fact that the meeting is later means that the horses will be in better condition, hence the racing itself should be improved, if such a thing is possible.

Detroit has a wonderful program this year, crowded with features so that no single afternoon is bigger than the others. On the opening day, Monday, August 11, the Matron stakes for three-year-olds, one of the great colt stakes, will be decided, also the Board of Commerce stake for free-legged pacers. Tuesday will have for its headliner the Chamber of Commerce pace, and Wednesday the M & M the greatest of all trotting classics. The free-for-all pace is on Thursday and the free-for-all trot on Friday. In all there will be 20 races and the best horses in training will be driven by the most successful drivers.

Blue Ribbon week this year promises to eclipse the successes of the past, which have put it at the head of all five-day meetings.

A Disappointing Man.

When Prof. Charles Zueblin of Harvard was last in Kansas City he immediately sought out L. H. Fiery, assistant manager of the Coates House, who was his boyhood friend. They had played on the same college base ball team and were chums at school. One afternoon Mr. Fiery and Prof. Zeublin went to Evanston to play golf. The professor is almost an expert at the game. He was constantly addressed as "professor." Finally Mr. Fiery's caddie whispered to him: "Is he a professor of golf?"

"Oh, no, my boy," Mr. Fiery answered, "he's a professor in a university."

The caddie studied a moment and then said, with a decided show of disappointment:

"Shucks! Is that all?"

Electricity in the Air.

We have a comparatively new trouble with our teeth in which the teeth loosen in the jaw without apparent cause and drop out, leaving the dentist in mystery. In these recent years the general tendency toward baldness has been marked as unusually apparent. Are the electric waves used night and day in wireless telegraphy a cause?

Prof. Hensingmuller suspects they may be. The effect of electrolysis is marked as it escapes from the cables of a power station. H says that in the sending of a wireless message only one mile, that portion of the electrical energy used is only 1,800,000,000ths of the energy expended. The rest goes into the air.—Chicago Tribune.

Downright Laziness.

George Washington drew a long sigh and said: "Ah wish Ah had a hundred watermillions."

Dixie's eyes lighted. "Hum! Dat would suttenly be fine! An' ef yo' had a hundred watermillions would yo' gib me fifty?"

"No, Ah wouldn't."

"Wouldn't yo' gib me twenty-five?"

Dixie gazed with reproachful eyes at his close-fisted friend. "Seems to me, you's powahful stingy, George Washington," he said, and then continued, in a heartbroken voice, "Wouldn't yo' gib me one?"

An Everyday Cake

Here is a simple and inexpensive cake that can be varied in many ways with different frostings and icings. It looks a little nicer baked in a tube pan, but will be equally as good baked in a square loaf.

K C Gold Cake

½ cup butter; ½ cup sugar; yolks of 4 eggs, beaten light; 1 cup flour, less 2 level tablespoonfuls; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ½ cup milk; grated rind of 1 orange.

Sift flour and baking powder together three times; cream butter and sugar, beat yolks of eggs, add these to creamed mixture, and lastly add the moisture and flour alternately, beating batter until smooth. Gold Cake can only be made successfully by beating yolks of eggs, very, very creamy and light lemon colored, using a rotary beater. The rotary beater is the only beater that will do justice to the yolks of eggs. The beating kills all egg taste and improves the texture of the cake.

Cocoanut Frosting

Beat the whites of 2 eggs dry; gradually beat in half a cup of sifted confectioner's sugar and continue the beating until the frosting is smooth, thick and glossy; then beat in grated cocoanut, fresh or prepared, and spread upon the cake. This frosting is made thick by beating rather than by sugar.

Save this recipe. You will want to use it frequently. Or better, send us the colored certificate packed in each 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder and we will mail you "The Cook's Book" containing this and 89 other baking recipes equally good—all by Mrs. Hill. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Now is the time to have your old clocks made like new at Gastons.

Every old soldier who attended the Gettysburg re-union is full of enthusiasm over the good time they experienced, and tell of meeting old comrades who fought with them in the famous battles of the rebellion. After fifty years they look back over the trials and suffering of the war as mere incidents, recalling the good times, and the friendships that were formed instead. Truly war is a leveller, and all men were brothers,

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Tecumseh People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Tecumseh residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

George D. Chaplin, carpenter, N Ottawa St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in December 1905. I have taken this remedy on different occasions since then and have always found that it acts as represented. My kidneys were disordered and made me miserable. Knowing of several people in this vicinity who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with success, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug store and began using them. The results were very satisfactory and I am in hopes that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading of my experience."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Difference Between "The Summer Girl" and "The Summer Woman."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For sale by all druggists.

Diplomacy.

Diplomacy is the practical application of strategy, but lots of people term it the double cross.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth; crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverish and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years and entirely rid my children of worms I would not be with it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Makes Quite a Difference.

Mason—"Do you think it's unlucky to have 13 at table?" Brown—"Not if the thirteenth is paying for the dinner."

Rheumatism and the Heart

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbs the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

COL. M. M. MULHALL

Confessed Lobbyist Whose Allegations Are Under Investigation.

Mulhall's startling allegations that representatives, senators and high officials of the government had been "reached" or "influenced," that the lobby conducted its operations from a room in the capitol, paid money to employees there, took an active hand in making up committees and went out actively in the political campaigns to defeat congressmen who opposed legislation the lobby wanted, have thrown congressional circles into an uproar. A rigid investigation of Colonel Mulhall's charges is promised by both the senate and house of representatives.

SOUTH BEND, IND. — Albert W. Sauer, twenty-one years old, was drowned in the lake at Notre Dame. He went bathing in an effort to find relief from the heat.

Teachers in Michigan are paid but a living wage, according to figures compiled today by L. L. Wright, superintendent of public instruction. During the past year 18,824 women and men made a living by teaching. The aggregate salaries paid the 18,824 teachers amounted to $9,952,326.67, or an average salary of $529.03 for each teacher for one year's work. There were 16,116 women and 2,708 men teachers.

There will be no special session of the legislature this winter, says Gov. Ferris. The governor bases his statement on the fact of a canvass made by a Lansing newspaper, which paper wrote a letter to every member of the legislature, asking them their opinion as to the needs of a special session this winter, and the replies received do not indicate that the members favor any special session. Some of the replies received are very emphatic against the calling of a special session, while a few favor such action and a few do not care to state, saying it is up to the governor.

The official program of the Perry centennial began July 4th at Put-in-Bay and will continue until October 5, with celebrations at Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Erie and other lake ports. Besides paying tribute to Commodore Perry and the battle of Lake Erie, the Perry centennial celebration commemorates the campaign of General William Henry Harrison and the 100 years of peace that will have passed between the English speaking nations since the signing of the treaty of Ghent on December 24, 1814.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

MRS. COFFEY.

This is what MRS. GINETTI P. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135.

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good.

"I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

Lady Burningham's Diplomacy

"I think it is very unkind of you, Lola; intensely, dreadfully unkind."

Mrs. Stevenson pushed her chair back impatiently as she spoke, an ugly frown disfiguring her usually pretty face.

Her sister-in-law smiled. "Don't be so painfully superlative, Miriam," she said, languidly; "there is no hurry, surely. I must think it over first."

"There is every hurry," retorted Mrs. Stevenson; "and you must do it, you simply must."

"My dear child," said Lady Burningham, settling herself more comfortably in her chair, "tell me exactly what it is you want me to do—you are so very incoherent." She leaned back and sighed.

"It's all very well for you to look like that, Lola," she said, irately, "but, after all, he's your own brother, and I think you might do it for him, at any rate."

Lady Burningham smiled patiently. "I might do what?"

"I have told you twenty times, I want, or rather, we want you to go to Lord Brentwood and make him give Fred this appointment."

"How can I make him?" asked Lady Buringham, speaking even more languidly than hitherto. "I hardly know the man." She yawned slightly.

"Nonsense! You know him quite well; at any rate you have met him and even dined him, haven't you? That's quite enough; besides, every one knows what an old fool he is about women, and the dozens of jobs he has done already. So it will be perfectly easy—for you."

"And my reward?" Lady Burningham spoke half laughingly.

"I will release you from the payment of the two thousand pounds I got from papa nearly a year ago."

Lady Burningham drew a deep breath, and her face flushed. To tell the truth, she had done her best to forget the obligation.

"We simply must have it, Lola. It will whitewash Fred as nothing else will, and it will give me the position I want. Why, only last week that hateful Mrs. Brunton-Burnett nearly cut me, and made some insulting remarks to Miss Alymer about Fred's company-promoting, but if he gets this appointment he will be all right. It's so awfully respectable to be in a government office, and, of course, I shall make him give up speculating and—"

"What's the pay?"

"Oh, very little, about five hundred pounds, I think; but papa has promised to double my allowance if we get it, and Fred has a little he has saved from the wreck." She leaned forward suddenly, and laid her hand caressingly on her sister-in-law's arm. "Do go and see Lord Brentwood and make him give it to Fred; do, Lola, dear."

"I'm awfully hard up just now," said Lady Burningham, meditatively.

"I'll ask papa to help you again, Lola. I'm sure he will if he thinks you have helped us; you don't know how awfully good he is."

"Yes, I know how generous Jews are to their own," said Lady Burningham, with more truth than good taste.

She rose as she spoke and drew on her gloves. "Well, I'll see what I can do," she said, condescendingly, "but it'll be a great bore. However, I'll do my best. Good-by, dear. I'll let you know if I get it!"

"Good-by, darling; thanks so much—you are a duck. I'll try to lend you a bit more if we get it."

Lady Burningham trailed her delicate skirts slowly down her sister-in-law's staircase, and, stepping wearily into her brougham, leaned back and shuddered slightly. "What a terrible little vulgarian," she said to herself, "and why did Fred marry her? I suppose I must do it; I'm so awfully hard up, and I daren't ask Burningham to help me again. I had better do it now." She laughed rather grimly and lowered the front window. "Go to 101 Grosvenor Square, Barnes, and be quick," she said, and leaned back again, making rapid plans of attack, while Mrs. Stevenson, left to herself, muttered, angrily:

"What a cat she is!—always sneering at papa; how dare she say that! But I gave her a dig over the two thousand pounds; I believe she thought I had forgotten all about it."

. . . .

Lord Brentwood looked at Lady Burningham with a deprecating smile. He was at all times keenly susceptible to the influence of women, and Lola Burningham was an especial favorite of his.

"My dear lady, I'm afraid it's impossible, absolutely impossible," he said, apologetically. "It really can't be done, I fear, even for you."

"Why not?" asked Lady Burningham, looking pleadingly up at him. "I thought all these things depended on you."

"So they do, to some extent," replied Lord Brentwood; "but, you know, he really isn't very capable—at least, not from what I've heard."

"On the contrary, he is exceedingly clever, indeed," said Lady Burningham. "I ought to know, considering that he is my own brother."

Lord Brentwood looked his astonishment. "Then Mrs. Stevenson—" he began.

Lola Burningham nodded her head and laughed. "Yes, she is my sister-in-law."

"Well, it's not a very great matter, after all," he said, musingly. "Why are you so anxious for him to have knows what he is!" It was impossible! "Even the king!" The words seemed to burn into his brain, and he felt an icy cold perspiration break out on his forehead. To think that this woman, like dozens of others, perhaps, had not only made use of him and traded on his good nature, but had tricked him. It should be the last time she or any other would have the opportunity. It was a moment of bitter awakening, and even more bitter humiliation to the courteous old diplomatist; but as the violinist ceased playing and was greeted with deafening applause, true to himself, Lord Brentwood muttered appreciatively. "Bravo, bravo!" and smiled and nodded to the duchess, who looked half-questioningly toward him.

It was an hour or so after Lord Brentwood's return home, and he still sat in his study, buried in reflections that were full of humiliation and shame. He had never meant to "work" a job, never, in his weakest moments, and he had always, even when giving way to beauty in distress, fully persuaded himself that beauty was true, and that the person for whom she pleaded must be a worthy recipient of his help and favor.

He rang the bell sharply, and sent his valet to her house with a note, asking her if he could see her the next day, and enclosing the little handkerchief she had left on the mantelpiece.

The man returned with the message that "Lord Burningham was away yachting, and that her ladyship had gone abroad—to Homburg."

It was true, then. Lord Brentwood frowned as he turned to the man, and said: "Do you know when Lady Burningham left?"

"Her ladyship left last night, my lord."

"Very well!" As the man left the room, Lord Brentwood opened the note he had sent Lady Burningham, and, taking out the small lace handkerchief, looked at it for a moment in silence.

"It is sad to lose one's illusions about so beautiful a woman!" he murmured, slowly; "sad even for an old man like me—but sadder still for poor Burningham, who is married to her!" He dropped his letter gently into the heart of the blazing fire and put the little handkerchief into a drawer. "Poor Burningham!" he repeated, softly—"poor Burningham! I wonder if he has found her out? I don't like to be hard on a woman, but I am afraid it must be done." And he sat down at his table and began to write rapidly.

. . . .

"Isn't it delicious?" she said, with a sigh of deep content. "Isn't it delicious? Look at those roses, Eunice, and remind me of the dust and grime of London, if you dare!"

The woman with whom she had been chatting smiled. "Lucky woman to have a sister-in-law."

Lady Burningham made a grimace. "She's a terrible little vulgarian, but—"

"She's a treasure," interrupted her friend; "and you ought not to abuse her, for she means much fun and many roses."

"And no Burningham," laughed Lola. "Yes, that's true—and nice."

"It was very clever of you, Lola."

Lady Burningham shrugged her shoulders. "It was quite easy, almost 'too easy,' as the man in the play said, 'Half a dozen words, a few tears,'—Pah! what fools men are!" she added, impatiently; "grown-up schoolboys, always open to the bribery and corruption of a few sweetmeats!"

"He's a particularly easy person to get over, isn't he?"

"Delightful!" said Lady Burningham; "an unsuspecting babe of innocence, and appalled, perfectly appalled, at the sight of a woman's tears."

"How long are you going to stay here?"

"Oh, I don't know. All the winter, I suppose. I am waiting for the rest of Miriam's checks; she only gave me fifty pounds to go on with."

Lady Burningham's maid, carrying a bundle of letters, came quickly toward her.

"All bills, I expect," she said, languidly, "and not worth opening. Oh! here is one from Miriam, and one from Lord Brentwood, too. I hope Miriam has sent the money." Then she opened Miriam's letter:

"Dear Lola—I am bittery disappointed to see by this morning's paper that the appointment has been given to some one else. I don't know why you told me Lord Brentwood had promised it, because he is not the sort of man to break a promise; and if you made it up to get the fifty pounds out of me, I think it was very shady of you. Of course I shan't send the rest; and I shall be very glad if you can ask Burningham (or shall I write him?) to let me have two thousand pounds, as we want the money now. Yours sincerely. M. STEVENSON."

"Fool! idiot! dolt! Of course, it is only some silly newspaper mistake. It must be!"

Still trembling, she tore open Lord Brentwood's letter. The letter was very short, and ran thus:

"Dear Lady Burningham—I regret to inform you that I have withdrawn my letter recommending Mr. Stevenson for the appointment about which you spoke to me. Will you allow me, as an old man, to give a word of advice?

"Should you wish in the future to carry through an act of diplomacy with any measure of success, you must inevitably keep your own counsel. Yours truly. BRENTWOOD." — R. NEISH.

SIXTY-SECOND YEAR NO 56 TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN TUESDAY JULY 15 1913 WHOLE NO. 4228.

JULY CLEARANCE SALE

At The Webster Anderson Co.'s Stores.

OPENS THURSDAY MORNING, July 17

The most radical sacrificing of Summer Stocks we've ever consented to begins Thursday, July 17th, Closes Saturday night, July 26th.

We begin a clearance campaign on July 17th that has but one object—to clear out all summer merchandise in our store. We begin with our eyes wide open, determined to stop at nothing within reason until we dispose of these stocks and have the store in good condition for the reception of Fall shipments. Ever since this store was established it has been our policy to do that at this time but in no previous year have we consented to such radical sacrificing, to such wholesale and aggressive price-cutting to accomplish our object.

Fact is our stocks are larger than they should be, and when we say in simple English you have never seen desirable goods so low before, we don't surmise. We are sure!

Clearance of Suits and Coats

The richest and the plainest styles in our Coat and Suit Department walk the plank side by side. We play no favorites. All alike are sacrificed to our Clearance Sale policy. Their room is more desirable than their company. Hence these extraordinary reductions:

One lot of Ladies' Suits go at $4.75 each
Our entire stock of Suits, regular price up to $20.00, go at $6.75 each
Our " " " " " $25 to $35, go at $11.75 each
All Spring and Summer Coats........................¼ to ½ OFF
Wonderful reduction in Ladies' and Misses' Serge Dresses, all reduced..........................¼ to ½ OFF
One lot Serge Dresses, all new Spring Models, worth up to $10.00, go at...........................$4 95 each
All Wash Dresses go at Big Reductions.

Clearance of Dress Goods and Silks

You'll find this Dress Goods Department full of astonishing bargains. Just fancy—the most commendable dress goods in the house, exclusive styles and staples that you longed for and lingered near, wanted but did'nt buy, maybe, beause of the price. They're here now at prices that should startle you and start them on their way. They are as good today as yesterday, but not nearly so costly.

1 large lot Wool Dress Goods, regular $1.00 and $1.25 qualities, go at....69¢ the yard
1 large lot Wool Dress Goods, regular 50c and 58c qualities, go at......29¢ the yard
1 large lot Fancy Silks, all new, regular $1.00 and $1.25 qualities, go at....67¢ the yard

Remember Nothing in this Department Reserved. All Silks and Dress Goods Discounted.

Clearance of Wash Goods

Prices on all Summer Fabrics have taken a big tumble. Light as a feather and in spite of the weather, which is just in tune, prices drop like a stone. The dainty stuffs that fashion went wild over—here they are, dainty as ever but not near so dear.

Motion made and supported that the township authorities be notified that the bridge on Burt street is in dangerous condition and should be rebuilt at once. Motion carried.

The following sidewalk resolutions were offered:

Resolved, That the Common Council of the Village of Tecumseh does hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the north line of Pottawatamie street in this village which lies along and adjoining the south line of that parcel of land situate in the Village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County and State of Michigan, and described as follows:

Bounded west by old Westgate property, north by A. C. Aylesworth and Thos. Langton, east by Geo. Burroughs, south by Pottawatamie street.

Said walk to be 4 feet in width, on the established grade, of Portland cement, sand and gravel.

The trench shall be excavated to a depth of 10 inches at least below the established grade except for driveways and street crossings when the depth shall be at least 12 inches below the established grade.

The foundation shall consist of clean cinders or gravel entirely free from clay, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of at least 6 inches, except for driveways and street crossings which shall be at least 8 inches.

On the foundation shall be laid a concrete filling, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of 3 inches.

The concrete shall consist of not less than one part cement to six parts of clean sharp sand or gravel.

On the concrete filling shall be laid a finishing layer one inch thick, consisting of one part cement and two parts of very clean, sharp sand. The said finishing layer shall in all cases be finished with a granular surface with a wooden float.

To secure a true line for the edges of the walk 2x4 strips shall be solidly staked down parallel to grade and on the true line of the walk, these strips to be removed when the walk is finished for use.

The concrete filling shall be tamped thoroughly till the water comes to the surface, then the finishing layer shall be immediately spread on in thin coats and rammed into the concrete, each coat being troweled until the water appears on the surface, the top surface being troweled only sufficiently to leave it smooth. The foundation shall be thoroughly wet while being rammed.

The joints for the blocks shall be made in the concrete and then in the finishing layer directly above those in the concrete.

Only Portland cement shall be used in the construction of walks and shall be in every respect the equal of the best grades of German Portland cement. The concrete filling shall be made from the same cement as the finishing layer.

And the owners and occupants of said lots and premises are hereby required to do the necessary grading therefor and to construct said sidewalk according to the provisions of this resolution, under the supervision of the street commissioner, said walk to be completed within 30 days from personal service, upon the owner or occupant of said described land, of a copy of this resolution, and in case of default in the construction and completion of said walk, as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to have said walk constructed, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

Resolved, That the Common Council of the Village of Tecumseh does hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Evans street in this village which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County and State of Michigan, and described as follows:

Said walk to be 4 feet in width, on the established grade, of Portland cement, sand and gravel.

The trench shall be excavated to a depth of 10 inches at least below the established grade, except for driveways and street crossings when the depth shall be at least 12 inches below the established grade.

The foundation shall consist of clean cinders or gravel entirely free from clay, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of at least 6 inches, except for driveways and street crossings which shall be at least 8 inches.

On the foundation shall be laid a concrete filling, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of 3 inches.

The concrete shall consist of not less than one part cement to six parts of clean, sharp sand or gravel.

On the concrete filling shall be laid a finishing layer one inch thick, consisting of one part cement and two parts of very clean, sharp sand. The said finishing layer shall in all cases be finished with a granular surface with a wooden float.

To secure a true line for the edges of the walk 2x4 strips shall be solidly staked down parallel to grade and on the true line of the walk, these strips to be removed when the walk is finished for use.

The concrete filling shall be tamped thoroughly till the water comes to the surface, then the finishing layer shall be immediately spread on in thin coats thoroughly rammed into the concrete, each coat being troweled until the water appears on the surface, the top surface being only troweled sufficiently to leave it smooth. The foundation shall be thoroughly wet while being rammed.

The joints for the blocks shall be made in the concrete and then in the finishing layer directly above those in the concrete.

Only Portland cement shall be used in the construction of walks and shall be in every respect the equal of the best grades of German Portland cement. The concrete filling shall be made from the same cement as the finishing layer.

And the owners and occupants of said lots and premises are hereby required to do the necessary grading therefor and to construct said sidewalk according to the provisions of this resolution, under the supervision of the street commissioner, said walk to be completed within 30 days from personal service, upon the owner or occupant of said described land, of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk, as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to have said walk constructed, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

Moved and supported that the several resolutions be accepted and adopted. Yeas—Moore, Daisher, Service, Elliott, Brown, Slater. Resolutions carried.

ANOTHER LAND MARK PASSING

One by one the old land marks of the village are passing away and now the old J. J. Adams house, later known as the Hall property is to be removed from the corner Chicago and Union St. where it has stood for over sixty years. John Smith who has purchased the house will move it on Killbuck St. where the foundation walls are now being laid. The old house will be missed from the corner and it is hoped that new houses will soon replace it.

ADDISON CORYELL

Addison Coryell was born Dec. 27, 1829. Died July 4, 1913, his age being 83 years 6 months. Jan. 1, 1853, he was united in marriage to Miss Janett Randall who survives him. They lived on a farm near Ypsilanti for several years, until failing their health made it necessary for them to retire to the city. In January last he was stricken with paralysis, rendering him nearly helpless and speechless.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his aged widow, two sons, and five grandchildren of Toronto, Canada, an adopted daughter, Edna Randall and one brother, Wm. L. Coryell of Orlando, Florida, a sister, Mrs. Benjam Lamkin of Tecumseh, Mich., and many other relatives who loved and respected him.

In his early manhood he yielded his heart to God and lived a faithful and devoted Christian life. The funeral services were held at the home Monday at 2 p. m. Text 2nd Cor. 5-1. Burial at Ypsilanti, Mich.

Those from Tecumseh who attended were Mrs. D. Coryell, Mrs. B. Lamkin, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lamkin, Mrs. B. J. Roberts, Mrs. Wm. Lamkin, nephew and nieces of Mr. Coryell, and Mrs. C. C. Smith of Ridgeway.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WHY THE BIG TREES ARE BIG.

Heavy Rainfall Gives Quick Germination and Steady Growth.

The magnificent forests of Douglas fir in Washington—it is called Washington fir there and Oregon fir (its commercial name) in Oregon—do not have an equal anywhere else in the world. This is not surprising if we take into account the rainfall, which in the Puget Sound country is about fifty-three inches, while up in the higher Cascades near Seattle it is 100 inches and even reaches 150 inches.

Under such climatic conditions the seeds of trees germinate readily and all trees continue to make a vigorous growth. These great forests, says Horticulture, are due to the climatic conditions of the region.

On the east slope of the Cascades the rainfall is much less, and here the bull pine is found, interspersed with beautiful white pines, which sometimes reaches a height of 200 feet and a diameter of 6 feet, although there are many trees over 100 feet high and 3 or 4 feet in diameter. The tree resembles our Eastern white pine, but is more slender and with slender spreading or somewhat drooping branches.

TOLEDO RACING

The Third Annual Race Meeting, under the direction of the Toledo Racing Association, will be held at Toledo, Ohio, July 22, 23, 24 and 25, 1913. This meet will without doubt, bring out a record breaking attendance (weather permitting) for the entries are large, and include some of the fastest trotters and pacers in the United States and Canada. The purses are liberal, Nine Thousann Dollars being guaranteed. Besides this there will be other match races among the individual owners for good sized purses, account of the difference of opinions regarding the speed of their stables, and as Pudd'n Head Wilson remarked "Difference of Opinions is what makes Horse Races." Plenty of music will be furnished and refreshments of all kinds for sale on the grounds to make the patrons as comfortable and as happy as possible.

There will be three or more races every afternoon starting at 2 p. m

Reception

REV. AND MRS. G. H. WHITNEY GIVEN A WELCOME HOME

Congratulation and Good Wishes Showered upon Them

The reception tendered Rev. and Mrs. Whitney Friday evening was a most pleasant function. A host of friends gathering to welcome them and to extend hearty congratulations and good wishes on the newly wedded couple.

A short program of music both vocal and instrumental and recitation was given. Mr. F. S. Temple giving an address of welcome in his own peculiar and happy manner. Mrs. G. R. Newsome also gave a heartfelt greeting. Through the courtesy of Mr. Temple, we give the prelude to his speech.

A little nonsense in the gloom,
Is good for both the bride and groom,
Your honeymoon is not yet past
We trust that it may always last
As you're moving down lifes way,
We trust there's none may say you nay
The domine we are reminded
Has in the past seemed absent-minded.
We do not wish to seem to slam,
But his thought have been at Birmingham
All mail trains he has seemed to meet,
And so absorbed upon the street,
He sometimes failed his friends to greet
But we do not wish to seem to slam,
For his thoughts, they were at Birmingham.
Since we have seen the lady fair,
We think he used his judgement rare
So now, there'l be no need to slam.
For his thoughts are not at Birmingham.

At the close of the exercises the young people served ice cream and cake and a social hour completed a very pleasant meeting.

The program as given was under the uspices of the Epworth League and was as follows, a trombone solo, Wilfred Waldron with his mother accompanist, a vocal solo, Miss Mary Kreidler, reading, Miss Agnes McIntyre, vocal solo, Lillian Kennedy

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Iyah Waldron was hostess Saturday evening to a company of young friends, honoring Miss Margaret Waldron. The stunt of the evening was given Miss Margaret who was called upon to clear up the cobwebs around the house, this she proceeded to do in a very neat manner proving her a good housekeeper. At the end of each strand of the web, she found a package which being undone proved to be something suitable for the furnishing of the new home. The last strand led direct to "the man in the case." Miss Waldron accepted each gift in a very pleasing manner, especially the last one. After a merry hour had been passed, ice cream, wafers and cake were passed and when the crowd dispersed for their homes each one felt that they had been finely entertained.

IN HONOR OF MARGARET WALDRON

Friday Mr. and Mrs Grant Schreder entertained Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Waldron and daughter Margaret and fiance, George Kidman, at tea. A very pleasant hour was passed, and the company was very much surprised when a party of relatives walked in upon them.

The surprise was gotten up as a special honor to Miss Margaret, whose marriage occurs Wednesday of this week. Gifts of china, linen etc., were showered upon her by her friends. A fine lunch was served later in the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Will Schreder, Leon Schreder and family, Miss Leva Gillespie, Clare and Victor Gillespie, Mrs G. R. Gillespie and daughter, Arlene. The occasion was a very pleasant one, and one long to be remembered by those most nearly concerned.

HIS THIRD BIRTHDAY

Master John Anderson was 3 years old last Saturday and the event was observed in a very pleasing manner. About twenty little folks gathering for the occasion.

A very merry time was enjoyed by every one. A dainty luncheon was served which also added to the pleasure of the crowd.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. M. Smeltzer entertained seven young Misses last Saturday afternoon honoring her neice Miss Hattie Griswold who was eleven years old on that day. Games were played and a merry afternoon was enjoyed by all, most delightful refreshments were served.

Miss Hattie Griswold moved here from London a few months ago and she has made many friends already among the young people.

THE ADRIAN BOOSTERS

According to Schedule 25 cars with banners and various other decorations arrived in town at 11:30 Monday morning boosting "Pennant Day" for the Adrian baseball team. The Imperial Band of Adrian gave several fine selections and each and every car tooted its own toot.

The man with the megaphone announced the events of Friday July 18. The bugle sounded and the line formed for the trip to Clinton. Once during the visit the band wailed forth "How dry I am" in a very pathetic manner but met with no response. The day was perfect, and as boosters, Adrian certainly did well.

Liberty Stays Till Last.

CAPTURED

N. O. Bryan of Raisin Township Identifies Man Who Asked for Work as the Missing Murderer Joseph M. Miller.

ARREST MADE BY DEPUTY SHERIFF JOHN SMITH AND CONSTABLE BERT MOMINEE.

Miller Taken Back to Jackson Saturday on the 6:15 Train.

Last Friday evening a man came to the home of N. C. Bryan in Raisin township four miles southwest of town, asking for work. Mr. Bryan took him in giving him food and shelter. Saturday morning suspicions were aroused that this might be the escaped convict Joseph M. Miller. Mr. Bryan telephoned to Judge S. P. Hosmer who at once notified Deputy Sheriff John Smith and Constable Mominee who drove out to the home and arrested him, bringing him to the jail for further identification.

Warden Simpson and special officer Leightner came down on the 3:03 train and identified the man as the missing prisoner.

Miller was one of the most faithful trustys of the prison and the last one they would suspect of making his escape. He was quite religously inclined and had always been a quiet hard working man. He had only 40 minutes start from the prison before the alarm was given. A blood hound was used to track him but lost the scent when but a short distance from the city. It was thought he would start for Detroit at once where he formerly resided and where he taught music.

He was convicted of the murder of Carrie M. Jennett one of his pupils whom he had met, loved and ruined. He confessed his crime and April 12, 1902 was given a life sentence by Judge Murphy, just three days after the murdered girl had been found on 13th St. between McGraw and Autoinette Ave. Her throat had been slashed and other wounds showed the violence of the attack.

A detective going to Miller's home for information regarding the girl, became suspicious and searched the house finding a blood stained hatchet. He arrested Mr. Miller with the results as mentioned above. His musical knowledge was partly the means of his re-arrest, as while Mrs. Bryan was playing the piano he corrected her several times and readily named the composers of the various pieces she played.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Special Meeting to be called to consider the Proposition of bonding the District for $50,000 for a new High School Building

At a regular meeting of the School board of Dist. No. 7, held in the Library building, the usual routine business was enacted. Reports from Secretary, Treasurer and Library read and approved. F. B. Wood's time as trustee having expired, he was unanimously elected to succeed himself.

A motion was then made and adopted that a special election be called for the purpose of voting on the bonding of Dist. No. 7 for $50,000, for the building of a new High School building. The vote stood 16 for to 1 against.

The matter was thoroughly discussed and it was the opinion of all that the vote at the last special election being so light did not express the sentiment of the district, and that special efforts will be made to bring out every voter, that the opinion of the people might be definitely expressed. No further business coming before the meeting it was declared adjourned.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION

MEETING OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.

At a meeting of the firemen last Tuesday evening the regular routine of business was followed by the election of officers resulting as follows. President, Donald F. Wright; Vice President, Leon Williamson; Treasure Fred Rosacrans; Clerk, Lester Coller; Chief, Floyd G. Heesen; 2nd Chief, Arthur Harding; 3rd Ass't. Chief; Elmer Slayton; Foremen, George Heag and Ed Pritchard. On comparing notes it was found that Fred Rosacrans was the oldest member in the service having been one of the first to join the department.

FIRE

The fire department had a call Saturday afternoon when the alarm was given that there was a fire at the Heesen Bros. foundry.

It took but a few moments for the crowd to reach the scene of action, where it was discovered that the fire was spreading fast in the grass in a field just east of the building. The high wind that was carrying all things before it was busy here, and but for the timely aid Tecumseh might have had a serious conflagrtaion.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Gives the Farmer a Big Boost in making His Farm Prosperous

Did you ever notice that a prosperous farm is invariably well fenced, and is usually divided into small fields by a fence "horse-high, hog-tight and bull-strong"? Why is it?

Because the prosperous farmer realizes that good fences are as necessary to successful farming as fertile seeds, efficient labor and proper machinery. But the wise farmer investigates before he invests. Others just buy and are often "sold." "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence is made with but one end in view—to give best service for the longest time at least cost. Investigating it costs nothing. Investing in it pays.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

Every Rod Guaranteed

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other fence is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Brands of Barbed Wire; Bright, Annealed & Galvanized Wire; Twisted Cable Wire; Hard Spring Coil Wire; Fence Staples; Poultry Netting Staples; Regular Wire Nails; Galvanized Wire Nails; Large Head Roofing Nails; Single Loop Bale Ties; "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fencing. All made of Open Hearth material.

Woman's Care of Genius.

Darwin had to be kept pretty much wrapped up in cotton all his life, like a precious cracked vase, to save him from breaking to pieces, and had not his tender wife nursed and coddled him, even as an infant, he would probably had died in early middle life of chronic seasickness, for he never entirely recovered from the years spent on the Beagle. And this is a fine illustration of what a true woman really is, for nature has so made her that she does not do such work as Darwin's, but Darwin could never have lived and done his work without the woman, so one is just as important as the other.

Why People Live Long.

Dr. von Linheim, a German scientist, who has been making a study of longevity, publishes the results of his observations on a series of 700 persons of both sexes, who had reached the age of 80 years and upward. His observations lead to the conclusion that instances of longevity are most often met with among persons whose parents and grandparents have been healthy, and especially if they have been long-lived; who have studied regularity, punctuality and temperance all through life; and who have postponed their retirement from active occupation as long as possible.

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Tecumseh People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Tecumseh residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

George D. Chaplin, carpenter, N Ottawa St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in December 1905. I have taken this remedy on different occasions since then and have always found that it acts as represented. My kidneys were disordered and made me miserable. Knowing of several people in this vicinity who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with success, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug store and began using them. The results were very satisfactory and I am in hopes that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading of my experience."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For sale by all druggists.

Diplomacy.

Diplomacy is the practical application of strategy, but lots of people term it the double cross.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth; crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverish and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Rheumatism and the Heart

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbs the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The Way of a Cat.

A husband and wife of Presque Isle started out to visit some friends who live about three miles from that town On reaching their destination they were greatly surprised to find their pet house cat hidden under the seat among the horse blankets. While greetings were being passed the cat disappeared. After a short visit and a hurried search the visitors started for home. More astonishment than before was their share to find pussy awaiting them, as demure as though nothing had happened. — Portland Press.

Was Chief of Alpine Hospices.

Chanoine (Canon) Camille Carron, aged 59, chief of the St. Augustine Order, to which belongs the Grand St. Bernard and Simplon hospices, has died at Martigny, where he recently descended on account of bad health. Canon Carron was in command of the two hospices for the last twenty-five years and during this time saved the lives of hundreds of travelers on the two passes by his wise precautions and entertained free of cost thousands of guests.—London Chronicle.

THE MILLS OF MINNEAPOLIS.

In Thirty Years They Have Made It the World's Chief Flour City.

Budapest was at one time known in the world as the Flour City, but along in 1878 a young town on the headwaters of the Mississippi then famous for its prairie dogs and buffaloes had a lawyer for a citizen who made use of the natural waterfall in the Mississippi to operate a flour mill.

This small beginning grew to such vast proportions, says the Bakers Weekly, that it soon became necessary to build a more modern system, and the Budapest system was adopted.

Such other millers as Pillsbury, Crosby, Christian and Dunwoody had by this time come to this young city, and in a few years it became the flour city of the world. This city was Minneapolis. To day 120,000,000 bushels of wheat are ground in one year into flour in Minneapolis.

In the age of Pericles the swiftest flour mill in Athens produced two barrels of flour in one day. There is one mill in Minneapolis which fills 17,600 of 18,000 barrels in one day. What the Greeks did in one day Minneapolis does in ten seconds.

The Coming Countries.

Southern America and Africa are the coming countries. A half century ago or more the great geographer, Arnold Guyot, predicted that within two or three generations the reaction of the east upon the west would produce an equilibrium, and that then the reaction of the north upon the south would begin in earnest, and the great streams of population and traffic would flow at right angles to those which they have followed during historical times. With the increase of population and a control of mankind over the forces of nature, of which Prof. Guyot could have had no conception, the increase of exchanges between north and south seems likely to begin sooner than he could have anticipated.

SECRET OF JAPANESE METAL

Composition of Oriental Alloys Just Becoming Known.

The Japanese are celebrated not only for their skill in making decorative articles, but also for the beauty of the materials used. It is said that the secret of the composition of some of their alloys of brass and copper has only lately been revealed. The finest Japanese brass, called "sinchu," consists of ten parts of copper and five of zinc. Another very beautiful alloy, named "shadko," to which splendid hues are imparted by treatment with acids, is formed by mixing gold and copper, the proportion of gold varying from 1 to 10 per cent. of the entire mass.

Dislike New Greenbacks.

According to the Washington Post, quoting a cashier, bank officials do not prefer fresh, new bills to old ones. "Everybody doesn't care for new greenbacks," said a cashier, "It is a common idea that bank cashiers do not care to give up crisp paper money. As a matter of fact, nine cashiers out of every ten try to get rid of new money as quickly as possible after receiving it. There is grave danger to the average paying teller in handling unused money. New bank notes stick together. Frequently the ink not thoroughly dry."

Bacteria in Coal.

Not long ago a French scientist, M. Regnault, announced the discovery of bacteria in coal. A long continued research confirmed the evidence that bacteria were probably coeval with the first appearance of organic life on the earth. These bacteria attacked vegetable tissues, as well as the bones and teeth of animals, but as a rule they belonged to species of bacterial organisms quite distinct from those of to-day.

New York's Diamond Cross.

New York City has the largest diamond cross in the world, though it is not recognized as such. Its main line runs along Maiden lane, with its foot resting on Broadway and its arms extending north and south along Nassau street. Here there are 480 men in the diamond business, and there are more of the gems there than in the same space in any other city.

German in Polish Schools.

The German authorities are finding the Polish school children in the eastern provinces to be more than their match. Those children who resist the efforts of the teachers to compel them to speak German during religious instructions are hailed as heroes, and other children are fired to emulate their example.

California's Forest Land.

The State of California, which has within its borders over 20,000,000 acres of forest, is taking steps permanently to preserve practically the whole amount. California's forests are looked upon not only as a great wood supply; they are far more valuable as a medium of water conservation.

Japanese and Australians.

Japan is not able to make a commercial treaty with Australia, though both countries want one, because the alien immigration laws of Australia prevent the people of each country having equal access to the other country, a point on which Japan naturally insists.

Converts in China.

The year 1907 completes a century of Protestant missions in China. Morrison, the first missionary, labored for years without one convert. After thirty-six years there were only twelve missionaries and six converts. Now 3,270 missionaries from seventy-eight societies are working there, and are enrolled as Christians.

The Meaning of "Caliber."

All who have to do with firearms know that the word "caliber" refers to the diameter of the bore of a shooting piece. Thus a pistol of 22-caliber, means one in which the bullet is twenty-two one hundredths of an inch in diameter, while .45-caliber means one with a diameter of forty-five one hundredths. There is, however, a more extended use of the word, which is understood by comparatively few people outside of army and navy circles and gunmakers. "A .50-caliber 6-inch gun," says a naval man, "means one that is fifty times six inches, or twenty-five feet long, the length of the bore. In the same way a 10.45 pistol means one the barrel of which is ten times the diameter, or four and a half inches long. This nomenclature is found convenient because the shooting qualities of a piece depend in some measure on the ratio of its length to its diameter."

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

MRS. COFFEY.

This is what MRS. GENETTI E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135.

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good.

"I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

NEW INDUSTRY IN THE WEST.

Wyoming to Have First Asbestos Mills West of the Alleghanies.

Casper, Wyo., is in the midst of an asbestos boom. Accustomed for years to the sheep and wool industry, upon which the chief wealth of the community has rested, the town is now enthusiastically concerning itself with a different kind of wool—that peculiar sort of mineral fiber which nature has deposited at rare intervals in the seams of rocks called serpentine. Some of the wealthiest citizens of the town have caught on to the enthusiasm and are putting their money into the development of a resource which, in the mineral world, most nearly resembles the product of the sheep clip. What the wool of the sheep does for the human body, the wool of the serpentine rocks does for the steam pipe and the heat conduit of furnaces—it keeps the caloric from escaping. Asbestos, as its Greek name indicates, is indestructible except at very high heat, such as is never reached outside of a laboratory.

The market for asbestos is said to be limitless—at least, far beyond the limits of the present supply.

Autos for the Very Young.

"It seems to me," said the man who likes automobiles, to a New York Sun reporter, "that the next generation ought to be automobile mad. The toys that children have all are such as would accustom them right from the start to machines. Every one knows the minature automobiles that children have, which run with treadles they kick with their feet, but the other day I saw one that goes even further back toward babyhood.

"I saw a child being wheeled about in a sort of go-cart baby carriage, a child that couldn't have been over 3 years old. Extending back from the front of the carriage was a sort of steering post with a wheel attached, to which the child—it was a girl, too—clung in the most natural way.

"The wheel had nothing to do with the management of the carriage. It seems to me that getting children used to the automobile habit so early ought to develop car fiends later on."

Throwing the Stones.

Many unthinking chatterers have always said that Dr. Samuel Johnson's life meant everything that is meant by gross, almost swinish, laziness and unkemptness. This same crowd has always thoughtlessly cackled about Poe's drinking and shiftless habits, calling him a "never-do-well." Indeed, these chatterers have said pretty much the same things about and have had a like scornfulness for other great men. And had they been as well as malicious, they had said that old man Darwin was a sit-around like an old sick rooster. But, as a matter of fact, this is all merely a higher variation of the ordinary country crossroads soapbox gossip.

"Go Thou and Do Likewise."

It was confoundedly hot, the coolest place was at the river's edge; in addition she might be there. I sauntered casually through the garden, and at the little gate at the foot leading to the verge of grass that rose from the water looked ahead. I was right.

My pace did not increase. I was doubtful of my reception; besides, it is always a good plan to show indifference.

She was sitting with her back to me leaning against a tree trunk and reading. I crept up softly till my shadow fell on her book; then she looked up.

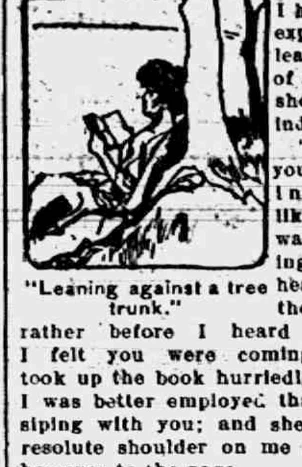
"Oh, it's you!" she said coldly.

"No doubt about it. You don't seem very pleased."

"I never like to be disturbed when I'm reading."

"An interesting book, then?" I queried.

"Very," she replied, with, I thought, unnecessary emphasis.



"Leaning against a tree trunk."

"Then why read it upside down?" I hazarded. I expected at least a show of shame, but she replied indignantly:

"Of course you were spying—just like you. I wasn't reading when I heard you at the gate or rather before I heard you, for I felt you were coming, but just took up the book hurriedly, to show I was better employed than in gossiping with you; and she turned a resolute shoulder on me and glued her eyes to the page.

"Ah, that is very interesting now," I pursued. "You guessed I was coming before you heard me. There must be some subtle influence over your thoughts that makes you conscious of my approach before your senses can perceive it. . . Ah, very interesting indeed?" I continued interrogatively.

"Oh, you are a nuisance."

"Something seems to have disturbed you, young woman."

"I object to being called young woman," she replied with as near a sniff as her pretty nose could command.

"Well, old lady, then."

"I am not an old lady."

"All right, my dear."

"Oh, you are abominable, I'm not your dear."

She was wrong, though I did not contradict her but asked:

"Then how am I to address you?"

"By my name, of course."

"Very well, Veronica," I said, seizing the opportunity.

With a little shrug of her shoulders she accepted it, and we dropped a discussion of which we had forgotten the subject.

"Well, if you will stay here, where your not wanted," she continued, "you might at least be quiet. If I hadn't chosen this place first, I'd have left you long ago, but the sun is too strong everywhere else."

"I'll be as silent as the grave, then," I remarked.

It was, as I have said, confoundedly hot, and the bees, or it might have been the wasps, made such a pleasant humming in my ears that I confess to closing my eyes. I swear I was not asleep, and it seemed I had only closed them for a blink when she called out:

"Wake up."

"I am not asleep," I replied with dignity.

"Weren't you? Did you hear that launch go puffing past just a moment ago?"

"Of course."

She threw up her chin and laughed heartily.

"Something seems to be amusing you," I said.

"Yes, rather," she owned—"there wasn't any launch at all," and she continued her laughter, which was undoubtedly vastly pretty, but still, disconcerting.

"Well, and if I was, which I do not admit," I remarked in an injured tone; "I thought you wanted quiet to read, and now when you get it you are indignant at me for giving it. Oh, the unreasonableness of woman!"

"Yes, I did, you know, or at least pretended to, just to keep you in your place," she said smiling at me in a most delicious fashion, "but now I want to talk," and she closed her book with a bang.

This new friendliness was more dangerous than her anger, I felt; yet it was a pleasant change and one which I rejoiced at.

"It's positively disgusting," she said abruptly.

"Eh?" I queried, surprised at her vehemence.

"I call it positively disgusting," she repeated.

"What?"

"Oh, that sort of thing," she scornfully but vaguely replied, sweeping her hand around the horizon and resting on an unsuspecting couple, too intent on their personal affairs to perceive us. "I went into the billiard room for a quiet rest and found Millicent there with your brother. . . Half an hour afterwards they were in the arbor at the foot of the garden. . . . Ten minutes ago I found in the drawing room——"

"Ethel and her husband," I completed.

"Oh, I call that sort of thing positively indecent. Its all very well when they are engaged, but when they are married, well——"

"They ought to drop, I suggested.

"Yes," she said dreamily, leaning forward, her chin in her hand and gazing past her pretty toes into the water. "But they seem to like it."

It was dangerous, and I knew it, but I have always admired the recklessness of the moth.

"It seems very infectious," I suggested casually.

"Do you think so?"

"I do . . . As you say, it's a disgraceful state of things," I pursued cheerfully. "One can't go round the garden without meeting them. I have got a permanent sore throat from coughing before turning door handles; my tread is becoming elephantine; it's disgusting having to wait meals for them."

"Yes, it is disgraceful; but what can we do?"

"Decidedly something must be done, and that quickly. . . . Ah! I have an idea," I continued, "but it involves some sacrifice on our part."

"Oh, any sacrifice would be worth the trouble," she asserted.

"Well, then, there is only one remedy."

"What is that?"

"We must sacrifice ourselves on the altar of duty; be martyrs for our common benefit"——

She called out "Wake up."

"Oh, do be quick; you talk like a parson," she rudely interrupted.

"Because of my subject. . . . Well, then, as the psalmist says, or perhaps, it was someone else—at any rate as the Scriptures have it—Go thou and do likewise!"

"What do you mean?" she cried, her face flushing suddenly.

Her cheek was very near mine, her waist was conveniently close; there were only two things to be done—I did them.

"Oh!" she gasped, "I didn't mean that."

"But I did." I laughed and repeated it. "Dear, I love you."

She said nothing but did not try to move and for a time kept silent.

"What an actor you are," she said laughing.

"I am not acting," I declared stoutly.

"Oh, I don't mean now!" she replied. "It's a terrible sacrifice, isn't it?"

"Yes, but I rather like it. Can't blame Millicent and Jack, can you?"

"No," she whispered.

To admire, to love, to regret, is to live, said a great writer. Do not let the regret be brought on by a cough or cold, which if treated when it first appeared would have easily been controlled. Allen's Cough Balsam brings welcomed relief in such cases. Contains no harmful ingredients. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles at all dealers.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

Test of an Egg.

Some folks who were going on a picnic got one raw egg mixed up with the cold boiled ones and did not know how to detect it without breaking them all.

A visitor was equal to the emergency. According to St. Nicholas, he took an egg between his fingers and his thumb, he twirled it on the table and it spun like a top.

"That egg," said he, "has been boiled." Another was tried with the same result, and then he found one that he could not spin.

"That," said he, "is the raw egg." And so the puzzle was solved

Practising Conscientiously.

At the appointed time Edwin Jones had called at his best girl's home. But somehow Miss Wrinkle was not there to greet him.

He seated himself in the drawing room and anxiously awaited her arrival.

"Hello!" exclaimed Edwin. "Is your sister busy?"

"She seems so," replied the youngster, "but I don't know just what she's doing. She's standing in front of the mirror, blushing just awful and whispering to it; 'Oh, Mr. Jones, this is so sudden!'"—Answers.

Missouri River Humor.

A lawyer deserves the most credit when he studies to please.

Where Leeches Thrive.

Land Leeches are plentiful in Ceylon. These bloodsuckers hang on the bushes and lurk in the grass. The only way to get them off one's body is to squeeze a few drops of lemon on them. They then fall to the ground.

How the Earth Grows.

The meteors which land on the earth are estimated to add 1,000 tons to its weight every three years.

A Widow's Discovery.

The Look on the Bright Side Society got down its ledger this afternoon and enrolled among the members the name of a newly made widow. "I missed John so much when I sat down to meals," she said, "that I began eating off the pantry shelf, and find in this way I do not have to clean my dining room more than once a week, and it makes my work So Much Lighter."

Analysis of Reason.

Reason is always a kind of brute force; those who appeal to the head rather than the heart, however pallid and polite, are necessarily men of violence. We speak of "touching" a man's heart, but we can do nothing to his head but hit it.—G. K. Chesterton.

A Modern Exotic.

GENERAL NEWS.

PITTSBURGH, PA. — Bulletin No. 1055 from the comptroller of the currency under date of July 7 contains the usual list of "approvals of reserve agents." In the list it appears that on June 7, the First-Second National bank of Pittsburgh, Pa., had been approved as a reserve agent for the First National bank of Houston, Pa. Exactly ten days later, and on the exact date, July 7, the bulletin was dated, the First-Second National bank was closed by authority of the same government department that had certified it as a safe place for the Houston bank to keep its legal reserve.

NEW YORK—Two young women were before Magistrate Reynolds in Brooklyn charged with fighting in Fort Greene park. Grace Maguire was asleep on a bench in the park with her clothes very much disarranged. Matilda Christie was going through the park and saw Grace asleep on the bench. She tapped her on the soles of her shoes with an umbrella and told her to arrange her clothing. Grace jumped up and, Matilda alleges, she assaulted her and threw her over a wire fence, and she was not able to get back. In court Grace accused Matilda of stealing her pocketbook, which Matilda denied.

FORT WAYNE, IND. — This city has perhaps a deeper interest in the Perry celebration held at Erie a week ago, owing to the fact that this city boasts of one of the cannon which actually figured in the great battle ship victory on the Great Lakes. The cannon is now doing duty at a hitching post in front of the residence of Mrs. Clark Fairbanks on East Berry street, although, owing to the great increase in the number of automobiles, it has been long since the cannon has been used for that purpose. Pictures of the cannon have been taken and were displayed at the celebration at Erie.

TULSA, OKLA.—Chas. Page, said to be worth $5,000,000, has adopted 300 poor children and hopes to swell the number of 1,000. He has provided that at his death the bulk of his estate will go toward helping poor children and maintaining a home which he has established at San Springs, a suburb of Tulsa. Page has financed a street car line, which runs from the village to the home and each day the poor children who do not live at the home are gathered up and taken out there, where they are taught in one of the best schools of the state.

ATLANTA, GA.—Mrs. Mary Crawford, formerly Mrs. Mary Bishop of [illegible]mington, Pa., charged with poisoning her aged husband Joshua B. Crawford to secure his estate of $[illegible]0,000, was released from jail on $6,000 bond. Attorneys for Crawford's relatives announced that they have secured an affidavit from Fred Lump of New York which contains damaging allegations against Mrs. Crawford. In the affidavit Lump states he heard Mrs. Crawford say she would kill her aged husband.

KANSAS CITY, MO. — An association of aero clubs, representing the principal cities of central and western United States, is to be organized at a meeting to be held here in August. George M. Myers, president of the Kansas City Aero club, announced. Mr. Myers, who called the meeting said Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Akron, St. Louis, Chicago, Dallas, Topeka, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Springfield, Ill., will send delegates.

WASHINGTON — President Wilson has granted unconditional pardons to William F. Kettenbach and George H. Kester, each sentenced to five years' imprisonment for making false reports to the comptroller of the currency on the condition that Lewiston (Idaho) National bank, of which they were president and cashier respectively. They were convicted April 4, 1911, but have not served any of their sentences.

CHICAGO—Miss Elizabeth Curtiss is the beneficiary of a $75,000 estate left by her mother, Mrs. Mary F. Curtiss, widow of George H. Curtiss. The will was filed in the probate court. The Grace Episcopal church at Galena, Ill., would have received $1,000, the Hyde Park Protective association $500, and the St. Peter Episcopal church at Cheshire, Conn., $500 if Miss Curtiss had not survived her mother.

LONDON, ENG. — Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and Miss Annie Kenney who were recently temporarily released from prison because of illness induced by a food and water strike, were arrested. After escaping from the detective who had placed her under arrest Mrs. Pankhurst jumped into a cab. A wild chase ensued before the famous militant leader was rearrested.

LADY CORNWALLIS-WEST

Desertion by Her Husband Has Already Been Proved.

The divorce suit in London, Eng., It will be called later. The fact that the respondent has not complied with the court's order of last March to restore his wife's conjugal right will prove Mrs. Cornwallis-West's charge of desertion.

One of the largest celebrations ever held in Albion occurred July 11, 1847, 66 years ago last Friday. At the time the Michigan Central completed laying the last rail as far west as that city, and a big barbecue was held.

MAN KILLED ON POLE; HIS WIFE IS WITNESS

Jackson Lineman Meets Death at Post of Duty.

JACKSON — Darwood P. Gillespie, thirty years of age, a city lineman, was instantly killed on top of an electric light pole, while his wife sat in an automobile beneath, a helpless witness to the tragedy.

Gillespie had been summoned to adjust some wire trouble by the board of public works, for whom he worked, and had just reached the top of the pole when a flash of blue flames shot from his body, the shock tossing him over the wires where he hung until the arrival of the fire department.

Mrs. Gillespie had been driving with her husband in their automobile when the fatal summons came. She fainted at the sight of her husband's tragic ending.

MAIL MISUSE ALLEGED

Woman Who Figured in Catherine Winters Fake Arrested.

ADRIAN—Federal government officers arrested Mrs. Jay Vance, of Blissfield, in connection with the alleged kidnaping of eleven-year-old Catherine Winters from New Castle, Ind., last March.

Mrs. Vance was taken under a warrant from the United States district court, charging her with misuse of the mails.

Up to the present time officers have not been able to get her to admit that she knows anything of the whereabouts of the Winters child, although she was detained after she had written to Dr. A. W. Winters for $25, on receipt of which she promised to furnish him valuable information regarding the girl.

She declares she wrote the letter only to get the money.

BURGLARS GET $30,000

Bind and Gag Farmer and Loot House—Thieves Escape.

JACKSON — Securely bound and gagged, James Culley, a wealthy Rives township farmer, was robbed of $3,000 by two unknown men who entered his bedroom.

Shortly before midnight Mr. Culley was awakened by the rays of a flashlight thrown upon his face, and saw two men standing beside the bed, but before he could make an outcry, both grabbed him, one shoving a gun into his mouth, while the other tied his hands and feet. As he lay helpless, the burglars ransacked the room.

Part of the money was found under Culley's pillow and the remainder in a trunk. The men then escaped through an open window.

FATHER GETS A BEATING

Brant Farmer Claims Son Tied Him in Wagon.

SAGINAW — Harry Darling, of Brant, sixty-five years of age, has begun suit for $10,000 damages against his son, Harry K. Darling, and James McDowell.

It is alleged by Mr. Darling, Sr., that the trouble arose over a line fence which separated his farm from his son's. A fight followed, and he claims his son and McDowell gave him a beating, and then tied him in a wagon and drove away. He broke away and escaped.

Find Bay City Girl Dead.

BAY CITY — Miss Cobb, thirty-one years of age, was found dead in bed at her home. The young woman was sleeping with her mother, but the latter did not know of her daughter's death until apprised by a roomer who made the discovery.

Saginaw Farmer Finds Baby.

SAGINAW—A month old baby girl was left on the front porch of the farmhouse of John Eny, in Blumfield township. Letters in the basket said that the youngster was of good parentage and requested Mr. Eny to keep the baby for a friend.

RECONCILIATION MAY FOLLOW AN ACCIDENT

Auto Smash Reunites Broker and Beautiful Wife.

SAGINAW — An automobile accident may probably cost the life of Joseph Donnerly Forbes, New York broker and clubman, or may result in ending the estrangement between him and his beautiful wife, who is now waiting anxiously at his bedside.

Forbes, who had been at a retreat near Flint and came here June 28 to participate in a golf match, was thrown against a lamppost when an automobile driven by a man named Judd collided with a buggy. His skull was fractured and he has been unconscious ever since except for a brief interval last Friday, when he recognized his wife at his bedside.

Mrs. Forbes rushed to Saginaw the moment she heard of the desperate nature of her husband's injuries. She has sent for her maid from Cedarhurst and is keeping an almost sleepless vigil at her husband's bedside. In spite of the difficulty between Forbes and his wife, several letters from her were found in his pockets when he was taken to the hospital, and these a hospital attendant described as "very sweet indeed."

Their separation, when it occurred, did not get into the public prints.

Forbes had a seat on the New York stock exchange, was a member of country clubs and of the Racquet and Harvard clubs.

MRS. SULLIVAN IN JAIL

Her Suicide Mania May Clean Up Sullivan Death Mystery.

PORT HURON — Mrs. Johannah Sullivan, sixty-three years of age, sister of Michael Sullivan and widow of James Sullivan, who died under suspicious circumstances at their farm home in Emmett township a month ago, was brought to the county jail here and locked in a padded cell, pending the result of efforts to have her sent to an asylum.

From her daughters the authorities learned that Mrs. Sullivan had attempted suicide six times in less than a week.

The investigation of Mrs. Sullivan's case it is expected will clear up the mystery surrounding the poisoning of her husband and brother.

REACH FOR POND LILY

Brothers Tip Over and Both of Them Are Drowned.

PONTIAC — Reachng out for a pond lily in Judd's mill pond, sixteen miles from here, cost the lives of two Detroit boys, Charles Fisher, twenty-two years old and John Fisher, twenty years old, brothers, and nearly resulted in the same fate for Fred Parker, who tried to rescue them.

The boys were in a small rowboat and after going around the pond stopped about twenty yards from shore to pluck several choice lilies. Charles lost his balance in leaning from the boat and sank in fifteen feet of water. His brother, who like himself was unable to swim, leaped from the boat after him.

George D. Mason, of Corunna, one of the best known furniture manufacturers in the state, and a member of the firm of Fox & Mason, which failed a few weeks ago, is going to Detroit to live. At the age when most men thinking of retiring, Mason, though a cripple, must start anew. A few years ago he was considered wealthy. Today he hasn't a dollar. The failure of the furniture company wiped out his small fortune, and now he is going to seek a job as bookkeeper in Detroit. He has a large family.

CAPTAIN T. M. POTTS

Naval Officer Who Will Make Hard Fight for Reinstatement.

The recent retirement by the "plucking board" of Captain Templin M. Potts, who saved the battleship Louisiana from sinking a few days ago off Newport, is considered by members of the naval committee of the house a proper subject for investigation. Up to the time Secretary Daniels took office Captain Potts had been considered worthy of promotion to rear admiral, but Daniels insisted he should have more sea service. Captain Potts is going to Washington to test the power of the "plucking board." His contention will be that even if he had shore duties for a number of years it was not of his own seeking, but ordered by the secretary of the navy.

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

The summer meeting of the State Ginseng Growers' association will be held at Eaton Rapids July 30 and 31.

Congressman J. M. C. Smith introduced in congress a bill asking for a $50,000 appropriation to be used in the erection of an addition to the Kalamazoo postoffice.

Because of the dry weather there was only half a crop of peas on the prison farm at Jackson. The harvesting and canning of 100 acres of peas was completed Saturday.

Mrs. Margaret A. Bell, 72 years old of Flint, who says she was wooed and won in one day last October by John W. Bell, of the same age, of Willow Springs, Mo., has begun suit for divorce.

Cyrus H. Paup and Miss Elizabeth Mart, of Rapid City, were married in Athens. Both are Indians, the groom being a member of the Pottawatomie tribe and a graduate of the Mt. Pleasant Indian school.

Rushing into a Battle Creek moving picture theater with his clothes blazing as a result of the explosion of some gasoline in an auto he had been driving, Robert Leisaw created a small panic. He was badly burned.

Prosecuting Attorney Doty, of Pontiac, has warned proprietors of ice cream parlors, restaurants and other business places that they must not discriminate against colored trade. Members of the negro population have complained.

The business men of Olivet have asked the state railroad commission to intercede for them in their trouble with the Michigan State Telephone company. They allege the company was charging local subscribers more than those in Bellevue.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOR WEARING SLIT SKIRT

Fined $5 for Appearing on the Streets in One.

The new slit skirt was placed on trial at Newark, Ohio, for the first time so far as is known. And the slit was found guilty, and its wearer fined $5. Mrs. M. Livingston of Cleveland was the defendant. Mrs. Livingston, wearing one of the new garments, was promenading. She received much attention.

A policeman finally became one of the spectators. After deliberating a few minutes, he decided that the slit was too decided, and Mrs. Livingston was arrested.

RATE RAISE IN 13 STATES

Freight Traffic Advance of 5 Per Cent Decided Upon at Chicago Meeting.

Freight rates in thirteen states will be raised 5 per cent if the Central Freight association, which met at Chicago, is able to carry out its plans. The change will affect both class and commodity freight. In the case of the cheaper classification the actual increase will be more than 5 per cent, as in no case will the rate be increased less than one-fourth cent a hundred pounds.

Officials of the association refuse to comment on the action except to say the strike situation was nothing to do with their desire to increase revenue. The new rates cannot take effect for at least three months.

PASTOR NEAR DEATH WINS

Marion Capps Granted New Trial by Arkansas Supreme Court.

At Fort Smith, Ark., Marion Capps, a preacher in jail here under sentence to hang charged with burning his three children to death, was granted a new trial by the supreme court. The lower court twice refused the defendant a new trial.

The jury's failure to state the degree of murder of which Capps was guilty and the alleged affidavits of his fifteen-year-old daughter, Bertha, and his twelve-year-old son, Ellis, that they had testified falsely against him at his trial were stated as the grounds for granting the new trial. The testimony of the children convicted their father.

JOHNS HELD FOR DEATH

Charged with Murder of Girl Found in Harvey's Lake.

At Wilkesbarre, Pa., Herbert Johns was held without bail for the murder of Alice Crispell, whose body was found in Harvey's lake last Monday.

Alderman Frank B. Brown, who held him after a hearing, took the position that the state had made out a prima facie case against Johns and that he must answer at court for the death of the girl.

REMITTANCE MAN DIES

At New Orleans, La., Anthony Van A. Winans, said to be the heir of a New York ferry magnate, died at Charity Hospital of starvation, according to the physicians. Winans, found unconscious in a local hotel, had been without food for several days.

Hotel officials said his usual remittance had not been received from New York.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

KIDMAN—WALDRON

The marriage of Miss Margaret Waldron of Tecumseh, and George Kidman of Adrian, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and L. M. Waldron Wednesday July 16, at 6 o'clock p. m., in the presence of a large circle of relatives and friends.

The guests were met at the door by the couple, and as the hour approached they took their places before a bank of green and white, where they were met by the Rev. B. R. Weld Mrs. Weld sang "Oh Promise Me" She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Hazel Warren of Grand Rapids Rev. Weld then pronounced the words that made them husband and wife, using the ring service. Little Gwendolin Goldsmith carried the bride's roses during the ceremony.

The house was prettily decorated with flowers and ferns. A large dining tent was erected on the lawn where tables were spread for over a hundred guests. Numerous boquets of pink sweet peas and vines carried out the pink and green effect. At a given signal the flower girl led the company to the tent, where a bountiful supper was spread. A merry time ensued, for before the feast was over, a thunder storm sent the guests hurrying into the house, where the final course of ice cream and cake was served by the bevy of young girls, who acted as waiteresses. These were the Misses Evelyn Webster, Adrian, Florence Dewey, Raisin Valley, Hazel Warren, Grand Rapids, Clara and Ivah Waldron, Marie Bramble, Mildred, Boyce, Florence Bryan, Lilah VanValkenburg, Anna and Mabel Schreder.

The number of beautiful gifts bore testimony of the high esteem in which the couple are held by their friends. The guests from abroad were Mr and Mrs T. R. May of Huron, South Dakota, Miss May Farley of Jackson, Mrs. Anna Furbush and G. C. Henry of Chicago. Messrs and Mesdames S G. Kidman, E. Kidman and daughter Edna, Leon Kidman, Carl Kidman and John Kidman of West Adrian, Mrs. Wm. Arner of Ridgeway, Mr and Mrs, Ira Steele of Macon, Dr. George Lochner, Misses Flora and Kittie Bower of Adrian.

The groom has a fine farm in West Adrian where he has just completed an up-to-date residence, and where the newly wed couple will soon be at home to their many friends, Mrs. Kidman is one of Tecumseh's favorites. A graduate from our high school with the class of 1908. While all regret her departure, yet the best wishes of every one go with her to her new home.

NEW CHANGE IN LAKE SHORE TRAINS

After July 20th the morning train south will arrive at Tecumseh at 11:17 instead of 11:27, Afternoon trains north will arrive at 1:01 instead of 1:32 and 5:35 instead of 6:15.

A change in the time table will appear in Herald later.

GOOD FOR MOST ANY TOWN TO CONSIDER

A Cure for Loafers

The town of Ballard, in Washington, is experimenting with a cure for husbands who are careless in the matter of supporting their families. The cure is sentence to a municipal farm, where the prisoner is made to cut wood, build fences, dig stumps, plow the fields and perform the hundred or so other tasks which fall to the lot of the farm hand. An allowance $1.50 a day is made for his labor, but does not go to him. The family draws it from the public treasury.

The cure has so far been effective in Ballard. No doubt it would be useful to other communities. The trouble with the ordinary workhouse or jail sentence is that the man usually comes forth to freedom about as worthless as when he went in. A summer at farm labor ought to come very near to making the average loafer all over, mentally and physically. Thus a municipality would gain by ridding itself of a nuisance and a burden and the offender would gain by acquiring a stamina with which to withstand temptation and a set of muscles which would make work less terrifying.—Toledo Blade.

FOX HUNTING IN AMERICA.

Pennsylvania Leads With Sixty Packs of Hounds.

Fox hunting in America at the moment is of much greater concern and interest than it was, even as recently as thirty years ago, says "Baily's Magazine".

English hounds have been sent across the Atlantic season after season, and huntsmen and others associated with English packs are now occupying posts of trust in the several American hunts.

English title names have been given to many new packs; hounds revel in that nomenclature which has made the Belvoir and others of English packs famous the world over.

In actual fact there is more genuine hunting of the wild fox in the State of Pennsylvania than in any other two States in the Union. There are about sixty distinct packs in the State, which of course is a huge district. Some of these are very primitive institutions of the trencher fed variety for the most part, but a lot of them show good sport.

An Englishman who had hunted in all the best parts of England and Ireland once related to Mr. Trevelyan that some winters ago he had quite as good hunting within easy reach of Philadelphia as a man could get anywhere in the world.

At Aiken, S. C., where there is a winter colony of wealthy New York people, there is a well organized pack, and throughout the South there is much hunting of a sort. Foxes there are plentiful and if the country were more open and not so thickly wooded the red fox would give good sport, though the gray fox, which is more common, is a miserable ringer.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their deeds of kindness and for their words of comfort, during the sickness and death of our baby. To the pastor for his loving words, to the singers and to those who gave the beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. David Sheldon,
Mrs. Richmond.

MORE WATER

Tecumseh has been a dry town for several years but of late a different phaze of the situation has confronted the people. The wells that have been supplying water for town use have proved inadequate in supplying the demand.

Measures are being taken to drive new wells and John Moore of Tipton on Monday put down a point at the depth of 86 feet and a fine flow of 4½ inches of water was struck. It has been decided to put down several other points. The prospects seem good for a supply of water, that will relieve the situation.

AN AUTHORIZED STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC.

44 Railroads east of Chicago represnted by Conference Committee of Managers. Elisha Lee Chairman sends out an authorized statement to the public as follows:

One hundred thousand conductors and trainmen on the Eastern railroads have completed taking a vote to decide whether or not they shall strike in the event they fail to effect a settlement with the Railroads of their demand for an increase in wages of $17,000,000, or 20 per cent. per annum.

The Presidents of the Conductors and Trainmen organizations in an official circular have cautioned the the employes to give "Just as little publicity as possible to the taking of the strike vote and of the dates on which the vote is to be completed."

The trainmen's and conductors' brothered ordered that a strike ballot should be sent out on June 15th, and that the vote should be completed and in the hands of the General Chairmen by July 2st, on which date they were to reconvene in New York City.

The Managers' committee desire the the greatest possible publicity given to every feature of this controversy.

If the Railroads are forced to pay extravagant wages to men in train service, the burden must fall on the Public, for it is only from the 50,000,000 people directly dependent on these railroads for transportation facilities that the roads can secure revenue.

It is obvious, therefore why, in dealing with the trainmen and conductors, the Managers' Committee hold the Public shall have complete knowledge of every detail of the controversy.

It is the Public that has most at stake.

Alloys of Gold and Iron.

Iron and gold, when melted together, may be mixed in various proportions and hardened or crystallized. Alloys containing ten per cent. of gold are harder than pure iron, but as the proportion of gold increases above that amount, the alloy becomes softer. Silver and iron do not form alloys.—Harper's Weekly.

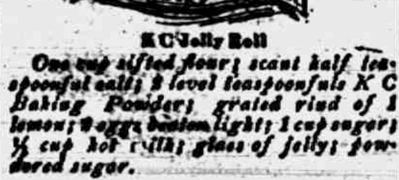
Jelly Roll Recipe

Only Two Eggs Required

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This Jelly Roll is fast becoming very popular on account of the way it keeps fresh. With proper handling it should keep fresh a whole week, providing it isn't eaten up in the meantime, for it is every bit as good as it looks. 33



K C Jelly Roll

One cup sifted flour; scant half teaspoonful salt; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; grated rind of 1 lemon; 3 eggs beaten light; 1 cup sugar; ¼ cup hot milk; glass of jelly; powdered sugar.

Beat the sugar into the eggs; add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder; and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered dripping pan; turn out on a damp cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Dredge the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll enables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the eggs and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven.

K C Jelly Roll is illustrated on page thirty-two of the new and handsomely illustrated 64-page K C Cook's Book, which may be secured free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

DR, NORTH CANED AGAIN

Russell Adkins a former Tecumseh boy, a son of Rev. Adkins of the Baptist church, is now a Medical missionary in China, and hearing of Dr. North's prediliction for canes, sent him one a few weeks ago by mail.

The cane was one month and three days in travelling over 8000 miles, being posted at Shanghai, and made the journey on a postal charge of 22 cents. The cane is highly polished red wood and is a very pretty stick, It is quite an addition to the already fine collection ot the Doctor's.

SHOWER

No, not a thunder shower this time but a regular pre-nuptial shower, when the B. Y. P. U. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brazee Thursday evening, honoring Alvin Brazee and his fiancee Miss Helen Smith.

The young lady had been invited to tea by Mrs Brazee, after which a boat ride was taken by the young people during which time the B. Y. P. U. numbering 60, gathered at the home. The surprise of the young couple can be imagined when on their return from the water, they were met by the assembled guests. The evening was pleasantly passed in games and social chat

Rev. W. B. Hartzog calling the company to order, in a few well chosen words presented a fine gift of Silverware in behalf of the company to the young people, who responded in a very pleasing manner, Light refreshments were served and the evening closed with merry goodnights and goodbyes.

Sitting helplessly in an automobile and seeing her husband killed on an electric light-pole was the experience of Mrs. Durwood B. Gillespie of Jackson. Mr. Gillespie, who was a lineman for the Commonwealth Power company, was answering a trouble call, a street light having been reported out. Mrs. Gillespie rode with her husband to the place where the trouble was. She saw him climb a pole and the next moment saw him fall over on a string of wires while fire shot from his body. It was necessary to call out the fire department to get the body down. A pulmotor was used in an effort to revive Gillespie, but it was too late. More than 2,000 volts had passed through his body.

Rural Borders on Rugs.

Rag rugs in two-toned or hit-or-miss designs are made now with contrasting borders showing country lanes, schoolhouses, churches, haystacks and other rural attractions. These are especially suitable to rooms furnished with old-fashioned furniture.

THE WRECKS AT JACKSON

The two wrecks that occurred near Jackson Sunday on the Michigan Central Road, are being thoroughly investigated, J. J Coutts and Charles Smith representing the Interstate Commerce Commission, and representatives of the State Railroad Commission being on the ground An inquest was to be held this morning on the bodies of the two firemen and the engineer who were killed.

That Lost Balance.

A young lady while out boat riding one day in a park, attempted to change seats, and fell overboard. When she was brought up gasping and struggling, the usual crowd gathered around and asked how it happened. "Oh, I just lost my balance," she began, when a little Jewish boy, who had been listening open-mouthed, said: "Youse loose your balance, lad, I will find it for youse."

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Tecumseh People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Tecumseh residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

George D. Chaplin, carpenter, N Ottawa St., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in December 1905. I have taken this remedy on different occasions since then and have always found that it acts as represented. My kidneys were disordered and made me miserable. Knowing of several people in this vicinity who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with success, I obtained a supply at Wright & Son's Drug store and began using them. The results were very satisfactory and I am in hopes that other kidney sufferers will profit by reading of my experience."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Difference Between "The Summer Girl" and "The Summer Woman."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For sale by all druggists.

Diplomacy.

Diplomacy is the practical application of strategy, but lots of people term it the double cross.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth; crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverish and bad breath are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Makes Quite a Difference.

Mason—"Do you think it's unlucky to have 13 at table?" Brown—"Not if the thirteenth is paying for the dinner."

Rheumatism and the Heart

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbs the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For sale by all druggists of Tecumseh.

While John Vermanders, a farmer on the Wolf road out of Mt. Clements was operating a binder, the knives became caught, he dismounted to see what was the trouble, and while he had his hand in among the knives the horses, becoming frightened, started to run. Part of his hand was cut off.

While Elmer Trombley was driving a sprinkling wagon at Mt. Clements, the front wheel struck a stone. Trombley was thrown from his seat by the jolt and fell between the wagon and the horses' heels. The horses became frightened and ran away, and the heavy wagon passed over Trombley's chest. Four ribs were broken and he was internally injured and his recovery is considered impossible.

John McCarty, 40 years old, of Saginaw, was arrested Monday charged with assault less than the crime of murder on Edward McKinnon, his neighbor. The trouble results from an alleged slapping which McKinnon gave McCarty's 12-year-old boy. The boy told McKinnon not to walk through his father's yard and after the slapping McCarty came home, called McKinnon to his door and went after him.

CRATER LAKE.

Two Thousand Feet Deep—A Drowned-Out Volcano.

The new Crater lake National Park, in Oregon, already bids to rival as a resort for tourists the famous Yosemite valley. People are beginning to visit in great numbers, attracted by the unique and spectacular scenic feature which it offers, and the approach to it, hitherto somewhat difficult, is being made much easier by a railroad now in process of construction.

Crater lake gets its name from the fact that it occupies the crater of an extinct volcano. Five miles in diameter and nearly circular in shape, it is the deepest body of fresh water in America. Soundings have fixed its depth at 2,000 feet. Only one lake in the world, that of Baikal, is deeper—by about 400 feet. In other respects, however, it is altogether unique. Encircled as it is by almost vertical cliffs which are reflected in the deep and brilliant blue of the water, it presents to the eye a spectacle unsurpassed.

As a great natural and scenic feature of this country, Crater lake ranks with Niagara Falls and the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. It is unique, and in its way unrivaled. There are in the United States hundreds of extinct volcano craters, but this is our only great one.

Think of it! This mighty hole in the summit of the Cascade range is nearly six miles in diameter and over two-thirds of a mile in depth. Once upon a time it was filled with boiling lava; today it contains a beautiful lake of fresh water, which is encircled by a ring of precipitous cliffs from 500 to 2,500 feet high, without break or outlet.

The extraordinary depth of the lake naturally led to a widespread popular belief to the effect that it had no bottom. It is a familiar kind of delusion. Any small body of water wherever found, whose bottom is beyond reach by the longest fishing lines, is sure to gain the repute of being bottomless. Within two miles of New Haven, Conn., is a cleft in the hills that is occupied by a large pond called Lake Saltonstall. Though considerably less than 200 feet in depth, it is declared by people who live in the neighborhood, to have no bottom. No wonder, then, that Crater lake, with an actual depth of 2,000 feet, should be imagined to possess no floor whatever.

BOYS AND TIPPETS.

Once All Boys Wore Them, Now Very Few; a Man Wants to Know Why

"Why," said Mr. Oldsby, "why, I'd like to know, don't boys wear tippets any more? When I was a boy every boy wore a knitted wollen tippet. Some of these were white, some of them were red, some of them were of mixed colors. Some were finished with fringe of the same material on the ends, more of them had on each end a tassel made of the wool; the fringe used to get ragged with wear and rough handling or one or both of the tassels on a tasselled tippet was sure soon to get torn off.

"Many of these tippets that the boys wore were knitted at home by their mothers; many of them were bought in stores; every dry goods store kept tippets, you could always see a line of them hanging up in the store; and in those days every boy wore one. They would take a turn or two of their tippet around their neck and then make one loose tie in it, not a knot, and let the ends hang down from front or back. See a lot of boys in winter going to or from school of sliding down hill or skating and you'd see around the necks of these boys as many tippets.

"But where are the tippets now, and why did the boys stop wearing them? Boys are not any hardier now than they used to be, are they? Or did they come to think that tippets looked girlish, sissified?"—New York Sun.

A Country With Only One Bank.

There are no public banking institutions in the Dominican Republic, and but one private bank with agencies in the more important towns which buys and sells drafts, makes loans, and is the repository of the Government funds. Buying and selling drafts is an important source of revenue to this bank and also to many private individuals. Money is easily placed at almost any time at 1½ per cent a month, and sometimes at 2 and 2½ per cent, with first class real estate or personal security. Long time loans of large amounts are placed at 12 per cent per annum. Municipalities, borrowing money for improvements and other purposes, pay 1 per cent. a month. There are very few depositors in the local bank. Most of the well to do people, both among the merchants and farmers, never think of depositing their money but have small private safes or secrete their hoardings in some other manner.—Moody's Magazine.

Six Carloads of Chickens.

Thirty thousand chickens passed through Western cities recently from Nebraska to San Francisco. The fowls were sidetracked at various points and were viewed by many people. The shipment was made by J. G. Gaeschlin, who owns a number of poultry houses in different parts of Nebraska. It consisted of six carloads, every car carrying approximately five thousand fowls. Each car had a keeper, who gave the birds constant attention and saw that they were properly fed and watered. The trip is usually made in eight days, but in this instance it took fifteen days on account of snow.—Chicago Examiner.

The smallest current coin in the world is used by the natives of the Malay peninsula. It is a sort of wafer made from the resinous juice of a tree and is worth about 1-2000 part of a cent.

A Powerful Remedy.

One day while running a fox over some very rough ground, Major —— was violently thrown from his seat on a very spirited horse, and rendered insensible. Until a doctor could be procured, his old colored servant was asked to care for him.

When the doctor arrived, he found the major quietly smoking on his veranda, and was curious to know what medicine had effected such miraculous results.

"Massa bus' his insides an' I give him allum an' rozum."

"What for?" asked the astonished physician.

NATURE'S ESSENCE... Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alterative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

E. WILLIAMS, Esq.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of PUBLIC APPROVAL and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes MR. EZRA WILLIAMS, of Belleville, Kans. "I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact most of the medicines did me harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had liver complaint with indigestion and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.'

"The 'Discovery' and 'Pellets' have 'put me on my feet again'—seemed to be just what I needed. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

Commissioner Helme, head of the state dairy and food department, suggests to Michigan millers that they fill up their flour sacks. Seventy-five per cent of the flour sold in sacks to Michigan consumers is under weight according to Commissioner Helme and he purposes to establish a scale of shrinkage variations, which will allow for a decrease of eight ounces in the weight of the contents of a 49-pound sack. When allowance has been made for shrinkage state inspectors will demand that every sack be labeled 49 pounds or 98 pounds shall contain that weight in flour, exclusive of the weight of the bag itself.

Two wrecks on the Michigan Central railroad Sunday, both near Jackson, resulted in three deaths, the injury of a dozen persons and the shaking up of half a hundred persons. One train was derailed when the tender left the track and two fast passenger trains met head-on in the center of a high bridge over the Grand river two miles north of the city. That more were not killed in the latter crash is considered nothing short of a miracle. The first wreck occurred half a mile west of Francisco about 6 o'clock Sunday morning, and Engineer James S. Martin, of Detroit, was killed. He was buried beneath his engine and it was with difficulty that his body was released. The second wreck occurred at 10:30 a. m. on the bridge over the Grand river, when trains 105 and 68 came together on a curve. Both engines were reduced to scrap iron.

The quartermaster-general's department is making all preparations to feed Michigan's 2,600 soldier boys at the annual ten-day encampment that will be held near Ludington. Some idea of the cost may be gained from the following amounts on which bids have been requested: 23,000 pounds of beef, 14,000 pounds of bread, 2,500 pounds of beans, 24,000 pounds of potatoes, 4,000 pounds of onions, 1,000 pounds of prunes, 450 pounds of dried apples, 450 pounds of dried peaches, 1,600 pounds of coffee, 4,500 pounds of sugar, 840 pounds of salt, 50 pounds of pepper, 50 pounds of baking powder, 550 pounds of rice, 600 pounds of lard, 800 pounds of creamery butter, 2,500 pounds of bacon, 28 gallons of vinegar, 56 gallons of pickles, 900 cans of condensed milk; also 40 tons of straw, 25 tons of hay and 45,000 pounds of oats. One hundred and fifty cords of wood will be used and 90 tons of ice will be needed.

Veronia Scheski, of Jackson, two and one-half years old, is dying from drinking poison which the parents had left on a window sill. The child had drunk a couple of swallows of it before the mother noticed it. The family lived at 638 Page street.

Separated for 33 years, Edward Wesson, of Granger, Ia., and his brother, H. S. Wesson, of Ocala, Fla., met at Flint, where they came to visit their brothers, Charles and George Wesson. Neither of the long separated brothers knew the other was coming.

The first new Michigan wheat was delivered to the Valley City Milling company of Grand Rapids, Monday afternoon by Growers Hendershott. It was cut ten days ago and was threshed Monday morning. He will have 200 bushels which shows a test of 62 pounds to the bushel.

James Cullie, an aged farmer residing near Rives Junction, was bound and gagged by two young men, who stole $3,000 in cash from his house. Descriptions of the two young men, who boarded an early car at Rives Junction, have been furnished the police and a search is being made for the suspects.

"I am going to write to the authorities at Washington and tell them to cut off my pension immediately. Every time I get my money I spend it for liquor and it does me no good. If they cut me off the pension list, I would keep sober," so said John McDermott, at Port Huron, a veteran of the Civil war when arraigned for drunkenness. The judge released him on suspended sentence.

The hearing of the final account in the estate of Charles Pratt Brown, deceased, has been adjourned till Sept. 15. Brown left an estate of $75,000 but no immediate heir. He bequeathed $50,000 for a public hospital at Marshall and $25,000 for a public hospital at Barre, Vt., which declined to accept the gift. A local association has been formed at Marshall to take the entire amount to be used in the construction of a local hospital. Mrs. Laura Easton, of Barre, Vt., a sister of the mother of Mr. Brown, will institute proceedings to set the will aside on the grounds that the association did not exist when the will was made.

Racing on the short ship circuit thus far has been so interesting that the Saginaw meeting this week is looked forward to with pleasant anticipations on the part of those who like the game on the two-lap ovals. Just how uncertain the sport is this year is shown by the fact that the 25 races decided thus far have been won by no less than 16 drivers, and but three horses have been able to win at both Jackson and Port Huron.

Robert J. Hoffman, of Sandusky, has received the appointment to West Point Military academy from the Seventh district.

Using a license which they obtained five years ago, Matthew Dunbar, 25 years old, and Miss Mildred Haken, also 25 years old, were married secretly at the home of Rev. J. H. McLean at Port Huron.

Strong Medicine

The practice of a veterinary surgeon in the thinly settled districts of northern Canada is usually wide, if not large. Craig's office was at Warwick, in northern Muskoka, and a drive of forty miles was no novelty to him. He had come to know all the backwoods roads of the township well enough to be able to find his way in the blackest night—which, in fact, he frequently had to do.

He was returning from an all-day drive, and returning late, for nightfall overtook him while he was still a long way from home. A brilliant summer moon came up, however, as the sun went down, and this was fortunate, for the road required careful driving. It had been corduroy once, but was little used, unfenced, uneven and weed-grown. On both sides the scrubby pines crowded into it—the fringe of the great wilderness that extends almost unbroken to the north pole.

He was still a couple of miles from home when the horse suddenly snorted, shied violently, and stopped short. Craig, who was very tired and half-dozing, caught a glimpse of a small black animal running about on the road ahead, which he took to be a dog.

"Steady, Peter!" he admonished. "Get up! What's the matter?"

At this encouragement Peter bolted with a suddenness that nearly threw the surgeon from his seat. Horse and buggy went right over the little dog, and there was a wildly bumping dash over fifty yards of the rough road before Peter could be got under control. When pulled up, he still seemed wildly uneasy.

Quieting the horse, Craig looked back and saw the little black body struggling in the moonlight. He was sorry, and he felt that he could not leave the animal there to suffer for hours. He resolved to go back and chloroform it, if, as he believed, it was badly crushed by the wheels.

There was a bottle of chloroform in his medicine-satchel, and he led Peter to the edge of the woods and tied him firmly to a tree. Taking the medicine-case, he startd back, carrying also an empty oat-sack to wrap round the animal while administering the drug.

But before he came very near, he perceived that it was no dog. It was a bear cub, perhaps six weeks old, and it made a crippled attempt to run at Craig's approach, disclosing that its hind leg was broken.

The surgeon caught it easily, however, and as it bit and scratched like a little fury, he shoved it into the empty sack. He had no more thoughts of chloroform; he was determined to take it home, cure it if possible, and tame it.

In the sack the little animal struggled so amazingly, emitting smothered yelps and whinings, that the surgeon had to use both hands for the sack. He slung the medicine case over his shoulders by a carrying-strap he often used, and hastened toward the buggy with his squirming burden.

The cub yelped and squalled. Craig could hear Peter thrashing about, and now he understood the horse's panic. He was more than half-way to the buggy when he heard a sudden rapid smashing in the brushwood, as if some large animal were plunging through it, and it thrilled him, too, with instant affright. He began to run. Somehow he had not thought of it before, but he might have known that so small a cub would not be found far from its mother.

But he held resolutely to the sack. He believed that the she bear would be afraid to come out into the open road, and, in fact, the crashing rush seemed to be following him just inside the cover of the cedars. Craig had almost reached the buggy when a great dark shape shot into the moonlight like an arrow.

With a single spurt, Craig reached the buggy, and hurled the sack and imprisoned cub into it. Gathering up the reins, he reached for his pocket-knife and slashed the tie-strap, and as the excited and terrified horse went off with a bolt, the surgeon flung himself into the buggy.

Before he could get control of the reins, the buggy rocketed over a pile of logs and skated on two wheels for a dozen yards at the edge of a deep ditch. Craig was lying half on the squealing cub, and before he could get his balance in the reeling vehicle, it tipped over a low stump and upset, flinging the surgeon into the dead lower spikes of a great cedar at the roadside.

In a panic he tried to hoist himself up into the tree and out of sight. He saw the bear plunge into the wreck. There was a squeal from the horse, a fury of kicking, a crash, and he burst loose and galloped up the road with a trail of broken straps.

Craig had contrived to clamber six or eight feet up in the cedar, although he was speared on the spiky branches and terribly encumbered by the medicine case, that still dangled round his body. The cub seemed to be pinned under the overturned buggy; it was squealing with fright, and its mother bounded here and there in a frenzy of anxiety, but did not know how to get at it.

In one of these rushes she came close under Craig's tree, and appeared to scent him. She sniffed sharply; her hair bristled down her back. Craig made an injudicious attempt to get higher, and at the crackling in the boughs the old virago reared up and made a couple of bounds that took her six feet up the trunk.

The surgeon scrambled upward, tearing through the branches, with the leather satchel banging against his stomach. But the bear came up with amazing agility; she seemed to wriggle through the dense branches like a squirrel, and while Craig was painfully gaining another yard, the enemy had almost come up on a level with his feet.

He was quite unarmed; he had even dropped his pocket-knife on the road. But he remembered that there were a couple of short—very short—operating knives in his case, and he jerked open the satchel to get at them.

The bear's head protruded from the dark leafage below him. In a panic he kicked at it, and the return blow ripped the bottom of his trousers leg into ribbons.

He could not feel the knife, but, hardly knowing what he did, he snatched the largest bottle in the case, and flung it downward with all his strength.

It hit and rebounded from the hairy neck. The bear's face rose to his knee with an open-mouthed scowl, and he smashed another bottle squarely across it.

The animal wavered, with a choking cough. She let go with her hind feet, clung an instant with her fore claws, and then dropped, smashing through the branches, striking the earth like a stone.

Craig stared down at her, almost letting go his own hold in his amazement. There she lay, as if stone-dead, at the bottom of the tree.

There was a pungent, choking odor in the air, but at the moment he was too excited to speculate upon it or to recognize it.

He could not believe that the animal was dead, for he knew that he had no poisons of such instantaneous effect in his case. He ventured to slide down the tree, however, keeping as far from the motionless body of his enemy as he could; and once on the ground, he flung off the medicine-case and bolted up the road almost as fast as Peter had gone.

He ran for nearly half a mile, and then slowed, out of breath, to a fast walk. The moonlit road remained empty behind him, and he came in sight of Warwick in less than an hour.

Just there he encountered a party coming to look for him, with lanterns and rifles. Peter had come up to the barn gate half an hour before, dripping wet and shivering with fright, trailing a broken harness, and with three long, bleeding scratches on his flank.

With this re-enforcement, Craig went back. They found the buggy lying where it had capsized, but the bear was gone. No trace of her could be found within fifty yards, and before going, she had contrived to drag the cub from under the buggy and to tear open the sack. Crippled as he was, she had taken him with her, to recover if he could without veterinary aid.

The rapid recovery of the animal was as puzzling as its sudden collapse, and Craig was more than ever at a loss to account for it. The medicine case lay where he had dropped it, and he searched the ground for the broken bottle.

After some minutes he found the neck with the cork in it, and it still seemed to have a clinging odor, piercing and pungent. He knew what it was, even before he found the larger fragment with the label sticking to it. Holding it up to the moonlight, he read the inscription, "Liq. Ammonia Fort."

The bottle had been almost full, and five ounces of strong liquid ammonia discharged upon the bear's eyes and nose must have been more than enough to blind and strangle her for some time.

No weapon could have been more effective, and it was a bloodless victory besides.—FRANK LILLIE POLLOCK.

Death Rate Among German Babies.

The figures of the present infant mortality alarm Germany, where the fact that there is a notable increase is evident from the statistics just published. Out of 2,000,000 persons born alive last year in the empire 351,000 died under the age of one year, a record exceeding 17 per cent. The highest mortality by kingdoms is Bavaria, 22 per cent.; the lowest, 16.8 per cent., is in Prussia. As compared with the British Isles the infant mortality in Germany is very high. In the former the general percentage is 10.8, the rate of mortality varying from 11.8 per cent. in England and Wales, where it is highest, to 9.2 per cent. in Ireland, where it is lowest.—America.
